Bruce Parker Fined $15, Costs

Bruce Parker, 341 Reid street, was found guilty on the evidence and fined $15 and costs of $7.50 on a charge of careless driving. Evidence was heard yesterday and judgment of Magistrate W. R. Philp given this morning.

The magistrate stressed that the important factor to be considered in the judgment was whether or not the accused had satisfied the responsibility which the Highway Traffic Act places on the person making a turn—that is, whether the highway is clear. Pointing out that all evidence given had indicated that driving conditions on the night of the collision had been poor, Magistrate Philp said that in such circumstances, all drivers must take extra precautions. The fact that the other driver involved in the collision, Samuel McCall, 248 Charlotte street, had admitted that he "may have been driving too fast," the judgment said that this did not relieve the responsibility from the accused.

In the opinion of Mr. Philp, Parker should have seen the McCall car before starting to make the turn.

Cheese Company Has Banner Year

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15 — (Special)—The annual meeting of Central Cheese Company was held at Stirling in the agricultural rooms.

The cheesemaker, Mr. Glen Lavender, of Marmora, was re-engaged.

The manufacture of cheese began on April 19 and during the season which closed on November 16, 46 patrons supplied 3,323,201 pounds of milk, yielding 272,491 pounds of cheese which sold for $68,274.07.

Receipts from whey cream were $3,369.41. The Dominion Milk subsidy for April $95.08. The provincial subsidy was $4,837.84 and the Dominion premium on grade $3,503.97. The total receipts were $80,268.58.

The patrons received a total of $72,128.70. The cost to the company for the manufacturing of the cheese and separating the whey was $5,928.87.

The average selling price of cheese was $25.05 per pound and the average price of milk per standard was $57.51.

Big Supply Reservoir For Fire Protection

City Council is making a fresh approach to the problem of providing water supply for fire protection to the southeast corner of the city, the Club Aragon district. Former Fire Chief Gimblett had proposed a 100,000-gallons reservoir. Some opinion outside the council regarded that capacity as excessive.

"Anything less than 100,000 gallons would not be worth while," said Ald. D. Miller, "and we could get water there at 12 feet."

50 PER CENT. BOOST

If you are in the plumbing circuit this item is of no particular interest. Otherwise, you might lament that nothing is escaping the scramble and rush to higher levels, which even the beverage room economist envisages as leading to some painful reaction. City Council received a letter the other night from a lantern monopolist, at least he seems to have all the C. Sales servicing field to himself, complaining that the old peak for his job was too low. He asked that it be jacked up from 50c to 75c. Without any hesitation the Council granted his application—a 50 per cent. increase in his income. He pays $2 a year for a permit to continue his employment which is gradually diminishing with the laying of every length of tile. —T.

Traffic Case Is Thrown Out

A charge of failing to stop at a stop sign against Joseph A. Wright, Lakefield, was dismissed after conflicting evidence was heard in court this morning from the accused and the other driver concerned.

The accident resulting in the charge occurred on Dec. 24 about 8:30 in the evening at the corner of Bolivar and Park Sts.

PC Harold Mesley was on the stand for more than half an hour describing details of measurements at the scene. With defence counsel W. J. A. Fair, he used pens and pencils on the magistrate's desk to demonstrate positions of the vehicles.

Earl Tunney, 509 Bethune street, the other driver involved, gave evidence that the accused had not stopped before turning onto Park street.

The accused, in his evidence, said that he "certainly did stop" at the sign.

Two passengers in Wright's car also stated that the accused had stopped. They were James Kay, 536 Chamberlain street, and Miss Winnifred Wright, sister of the accused.

Wage Boost

had broken up peaceful picket lines, arrested picketers and treated them "like criminals" — fingerprinting, questioning, photographing and filing reports, "just like in Nazi Germany or Fascist Italy."

"Fascism has come to Canada," he declared.

The speaker drew applause when he bellowed "get rid of the two old parties."

"They don't represent the country, they are maintained by the slush funds of the capitalists."

"Untie the other hand—and vote, vote, vote. Wake up, labor."

"Our present government is the tool of corporate interest," was one of the opening statements of C. S. Jackson, president of UE (CIO). Strikes, he said, have been called since the end of the war because of necessity, not desire, he maintained.

Mr. Jackson charged that the media of the press and radio had "played up" the "propaganda" that wages were a controlling factor in increased prices.

The present rise in prices, he said, will cut consumption — which means reduced production and its result—unemployment.

Interpreting the situation to the city, he predicted that if the Abbott plan for curtailment of American goods were carried through in its entirety, it would mean that the CGE plant at Peterborough would close down.

He said that "we must demand that the government change its attitude from pampering the capitalists to helping the working people."

In 1948, he said, all Peterborough firms will receive "serious demands from their employees" for wage increases. Organized labor was preparing, he said, to fight for higher wages and lower prices on a nation-wide scale this year. Every member-union of the CIO, he said, has set an objective in a wage campaign during 1948."

John Beggs, president of Local 293, UPWA, and president of the local Allied Labor Council, was chairman of the meeting. In his introductory remarks, Mr. Beggs said that "the working people are the losers of every war in every war—victor and vanquished."

The meeting was held under the joint sponsorship of Locals 210 and 293 UPWA, whose members are from the Canada Packers and Quaker Oats Company.

Mrs. Jessie Spencley led the audience in singing of "O Canada."

Quirt McKinney Heads Sunday School

The annual meeting of teachers and officer of George Street United Church Sunday School was held on Wednesday night in the SS auditorium at the supper hour. A vote of thanks to the ladies was proposed by Leo Copp and responded to by Mrs. James Tinney, banquet convener. Dr. James Semple conducted the worship service, and commended the teachers and officers for their loyalty to the church school, for their faithful training in the development of Christianity in the young children who are the future church officials. Dr. Semple said 102 babies had been baptized in 1947, adding greatly to the Cradle Roll Department.

The main item on the agenda was the election of officers for this year. Everett Hales presented the slate from the nominating committee as follows:

General superintendent, Quirt McKinney; junior superintendent James Barnard; intermediate superintendent, Charlton McBride; teachers' superintendent, Leo Copp; grading superintendent, E. Hales; junior church superintendent, Mrs. H. Bamforth; nursery school superintendent, Miss Myrtle McKeown; beginners' superintendent, Miss Mary Powell; primary superintendent, Miss Lareta Sedgwick; cradle roll, Mrs. Alen Clark; general secretary, Lloyd Gilmour; assistant general secretary, George Munro; treasurer, Wilbert Frise; recording secretary, Earl Wellwood; supply secretary, E. Ingall; King's Bank, Ted Kingdon and Otto Mackey; pianist, Miss Dorothy White; orchestra leader, Sherman Rowe.

The financial statement was presented by Wilbert Frise, which showed a creditable balance after sending $450 to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the United Church of Canada.

Plan To Straighten Tweed-Roslin Road

TWEED, Jan. 15 (Special) — Roscoe Robson, MPP, East Hastings, has made the announcement that operations to survey No. 37 highway from Tweed to Roslin will commence in the near future. It is the plan of the Department of Highways to straighten all turns and widen the road in certain areas, the work to commence as early as the weather will permit in the spring months.

Mr. Robson has been working closely with Hon. George Doucett and William Clarke, Divisional Engineer at Kingston for some time on this project and the decision to proceed was only recently announced.

It is proposed to eliminate all dangerous curves near Tweed and when the work is completed, it will reduce the distance to Belleville by possibly a mile and a half or more.

This will mean an additional number of men employed in road construction in this area during the summer months.

'Thanks To Syntona I Feel Better Than In Many Years'

Was Formerly Rundown, Back Ached; Stomach Out of Order. Had Many Boils, Says The Herb Medicine Gave Her Grand Results.

MRS. GLADYS MOORE

"I really haven't felt so well in years, as I do right now, and I give Syntona all the credit for my improvement in health," said Mrs. Gladys Moore, 110 Edward Street, London, Ontario in a recent statement.

"A few weeks ago I was miserable and in a very bad rundown condition. My stomach was badly out of order and my appetite was poor. What little food I did eat gave me heartburn and sour acid risings. I felt tired and so nervous I couldn't get my proper sleep at night. Sometimes I had rheumatic pains all through my joints and muscles and my back felt lame and sore. Then I began to have boils, one right on top of another — terribly sore and painful. Nobody will know how I suffered with them.

"I often read what people all around here said about Syntona, so I decided to get some. Truly, it seemed this medicine was made for me alone. In a matter of days it relieved the sour condition and distress in my stomach. Then, as I kept taking it, I could almost feel the improvement that was taking place from day to day. I was eating better, the aches and pains gradually went away; I could feel my strength and energy coming back to me. Now my nerves are relaxed. I am getting sound sleep at night and, best of all, I am entirely free from boils. I am certainly happy to recommend Syntona to all others who suffer as I did."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Relax Import Ban On Grapes

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 — (CP) — Canada's ban on the import of grapes is to be relaxed to permit the entry of between 40 and 50 carloads from the United States, to be sold at controlled prices, it was learned today.

Purchased before the Nov. 18 dollar-conservation ban became effective, the grapes will be sold at a limited profit to prevent profiteering at the higher consumer prices prevailing since imports were tied down.

It was expected an order from the finance department temporarily lifting the ban and limiting the price spread would be announced within the next day.

The mark-up—the increase permitted dealers handling the product—will be set so that the grapes will sell between 21 and 25 cents a pound, it was reported.

The grapes were purchased last November by some 200 import firms in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and the Maritimes. Since then, they have been in cold storage in the U.S.

Havelock Church Observes Epiphany

HAVELOCK, Jan. 15 — (ENS) — The annual festival of the Epiphany was observed in St. John's Anglican Church, Havelock, Sunday evening. Following evening prayer the members of the choir and the AYPA presented the "Epiphany drama."

The reverent "action sermon" interpreted the spread of Christ's Kingdom throughout the world, depicting the historic continuity of the church; the university of Christ; and the beauty and glory of light as the Christian symbol of Christ's love throughout all ages.

The words of the prophet Isaiah "Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen up thee"; and the prophecy which began to be fulfilled in the adoration of the magi set the stage for the age old theme unfolded by the costume cast in the chancel of the church.

In time the gospel was preached in Britain and in a process of missionary zeal we too received. The "ancient saint" of England entered attired in the robes of an early bishop, alb, chauble, mitre, and cross, and he in turn received his light from the apostles. The first bishop of Canada, Bishop Inglis, attired likewise in his robes of office entered and received his light from the ancient saint, and in turn passing on the light of the gospel to the people of today as he lighted the candles of the congregation, one on each side of the church. The bishops were accompanied by their cross bearer.

Singing "The Church's One Foundation," the cast formed along the communion rail and the congregation recited the Apostle's Creed. Following this the hymn "Come Holy Ghost Our Souls Inspire," was sung. The recessional hymn was "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The "Feast of Lights" was under direction of Rev. F. J. Pitts, and the music was under the direction of Mrs. D. Kirk with Mrs. L. Sanderson at the organ.

Ottawa Sets Poor Example

BRANTFORD, Jan. 15 (CP).—William Powless, secretary of the Six Nations Indian Council, said yesterday the Federal Government "has set a poor example for the Indians of Canada" in its opposition to the Six Nations' $1,289,000 claim for lands lost more than a century ago through alleged breach of trust.

After a three-day hearing in Ottawa last week, the Exchequer Court took under consideration the Indians' claim for permission to sue the Dominion.

The lands in question, part of a great tract granted by Royal Charter in 1784, were flooded or signed away during construction of the Welland and Grand River Canals. The funds were lost in the Grand River Navigation Company.

"The Government of Canada, through its Justice Department, has set a poor example for the Indians of Canada and the Six Nations Indians, especially in attempting to evade paying a just debt by bringing up technicalities of the law through the best legal talents available," Mr. Powless said in an interview.

100 Farmers Attend Rural Meetings

One hundred farmers attended the agriculutral meetings Tuesday at Keene and Norwood. The speakers were Garnet Rickard of Bowmanville discussing good farming practices, and Frank G. Paterson whose subject was "Building Soil Fertility."

In the series continuing until Friday night, Mr. Rickard and Mr. Paterson were at Ennismore Wednesday afternoon and Coldsprings last night; Thursday at Warsaw, 2 p.m., and Havelock, 8 p.m.

Indians May Reap $100,000 Harvest

REGINA, Jan. 15 (CP). — A potential $100,000 bonanza — the largest sum ever received by Indians in Saskatchewan and possibly in Canada from any single farm operation — lies beneath 1,000 acres of snow on the Muscowpetung Indian reserve, 20 miles northeast of here.

Approximately 200 Cree and Saulteaux Indians seeded the area to fall rye last autumn and next July expect ot harvest between 30,000 and 40,000 bushels—providing they escape the traditional perils of prairie farming.

J. F. B. Ostrander, inspector of Indian Affairs for Saskatchewan, says the revenue will belong to the members of the reservation's community farm and its use will be decided by Indian Affairs officials and the Reserve Council. It probably would be used to build better homes and improve living conditions on the isolated reserve.

The community farm, comprising some 1,500 acres in the middle of the 20,000 acre reserve, has been producing small acreages of grain for 10 years — in 1946 crop was sown on 70 acres and 400 acres were summer fallowed. The acreage was boosted last year on the advice of Frank Booth, the reserve's Indian agent.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 — (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board yesterday issued a charge of unfair labor practices against the Chicago Typographical Union (AFL) whose members have been on strike against six Chicago daily newspapers since Nov. 24.

Urges Sarnia Airport

SARNIA, Jan. 15 — (CP) — Erection of a "huge and modern airport with both land and water facilitie" in the Sarnia area was strongly advocated yesterday by Group Captain David A. Harding, in addressing the Optimist Club. The proposed airport should be built in the district, but not too close to the city, he said.

BOUGHT EXPLOSIVES — Samuel Nattis, 29, of Brooklyn, has disclosed that he was the actual purchaser of the 200 tons of high-powered explosives destined for Palestine. Nattis said he acted as purchasing agent for Foundry Associates, an organization reportedly set up by a Palestinian group approved by the Jewish agency in Palestine, and that the purchase was authorized by a high Washington official of the war assets administration.

FEAR CONTROLS BRING BLACK MARKET

FINDS SISTER—David Altmark, 17, who after surviving years in a Nazi concentration camp scoured Germany to find his tiny 8-year-old sister Rosa and brought her with him to Canada, arrived in Montreal among a group of 69 Jewish displaced persons. Some of the group remain in Montreal, others are destined for Winnipeg.

Canada Backs US Attack On Soviet Policy, Gromyko

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 16—(AP).—The sharpest attack yet made by a United States atomic delegate on Soviet policy and on Andrei A. Gromyko of Russia drew Canadian endorsement here today as the United Nations waited for Russia's answer. Frederick H. Osborn, United States deputy on the UN Atomic Energy Commission, criticized Gromyko in an address in Boston. He also said that he saw little hope for peace or for international control of atomic energy until the "iron curtain" is raised.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada, one of the original members of the Atomic Commission, who has sided with the United States in clashes with Russia, said the Osborn speech was a "fine, forthright statement."

The UN atomic delegates, called to meet today as the working committee of the UN Commission, read the Osborn speech and speculated on its effect on the commission's search for world atomic control.

Osborn said at Boston that Russia is driven by a "fanaticism" unmatched by anything since medieval times.

"It is the task of our generation to take all those steps, including maintenance of our own strength, the economic rehabilitation of others, and the massing of world opinion, which may eventually lead the Soviet to raise the iron curtain and take their rightful part in the community of nations. But if before that time the Soviet Union finds itself in a position to force its policies on other nations, it would be on the basis of extending the iron curtain over country after country until the whole world was dark."

He said Gromyko appeared "hurt and angry" that the Soviet plan for atomic control laid down last June was "so badly received" by the delegates. Osborn said the plan was "evidently inadequate."

LATEST VICTIM

Guards Watch Seven Prisoners

ROUYN, Que., Jan. 16—(CP).—Extra precautions are being taken by Rouyn police, on orders of Chief Emile Dussault, to guard seven men in jail awaiting trial for robbery or robbery with violence. Chief Dussault revealed that they have made several attempts to break out.

In one case, he said they set a fire in an attempt to get the night man inside the cell block and possibly take away his keys.

"I have told constables going into the cell block never to carry their guns," said the chief. "The gang always hang around the door to the block and whenever they see the constable coming they edge right over."

Included in the group are three accused of robbing a Rouyn landlord of $150 at the point of a gun and making their escape as far as Temagami, before capture. Two others are accused in connection with the theft of a car. They fled to North Bay before capture.

The last pair are held in connection with a string of break-ins in both Rouyn and Noranda. Their names were revealed only Wednesday night since police investigation is continuing. They are Robert Adrien, 27, and Arthur Chauvette, formerly of Macamic.

Police Chase 20 Men Signalling Airplane

PARIS, Jan. 16 — (Reuters). — Police in the area of Saint Amand, in central France, where flights by mysterious aircraft have been reported recently, chased away a group of 20 men who were flashing signals to a low-flying airplane, Agence France-Presse reported today.

Police said they had acted on secret information and that the 20 men drove hastily away in a truck when they were found out. The plane flew away.

Reports circulating in central France of late have said the mysterious aircraft were parachuting down containers, suspected to be loaded with arms. There was no indication as to the nationality of the planes.

Third Crash Victim Dies In Haileybury

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Jan. 16—(CP). — Third victim of a New Year's day train collision near Cobalt, Joseph Daniel Lang, 36, of North Bay, an Ontario Northland Railway brakeman, died in hospital here today.

Lang was badly burned in the crash, which claimed the lives of two other North Bay men employed by the ONR. Lang's widow and three children survive.

Battle Rages In Haifa; Many Dead

Shootings, Stabbings Make Streets Nightmare For Citizens

JERUSALEM, Jan. 16.—(AP). —The harbor city of Haifa, one of the eastern Mediterranean's greatest ports, became the main Jewish-Arab battleground at dawn today. Official reports indicated nearly a score were dead or feared dead in bitter fighting there.

(Reuters News Agency quoted a claim by Hagana, Jewish defence army, that 82 Arabs had been killed, but there was no confirmation of this figure.)

Jewish bombs blasted two Arab houses the Jews said were snipers' nests. Arabs struck back with renewed shootings and stabbings up and down the streets.

The unofficial count of violent deaths in Palestine climbed to 822 for the period since the United Nations voted Nov. 29 to partition the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab nations.

Bomb Victims

Official announcement showed the Haifa bombing victims numbered at least 10, including "seven children between the ages of one and 12, and one woman," and three other persons were buried under debris and feared dead.

Two Jews were knifed to death in hand-to-hand clashes with Arab "vengeance patrols" that roamed Haifa streets. One Polish Christian was killed in the city, police said, when unknown attackers fired on a group of Poles in a convoy.

The port, choked with peak-of-season citrus shipping, was paralyzed because workers stayed away from their jobs in fear of their lives.

Refinery operations, transportation services and other such activities were slowed down or stopped. The city was under a virtual state of siege.

Shouted Fire Warning Man Fined As Nuisance

KITCHENER, Jan. 16 (CP. — Lester Clemmer, who said his "intentions were good" when he ran down the aisle of a theatre shouting "Fire — everybody get out," was convicted to-day of given suspended sentence. committing a nuisance and was

J. C. Musclow, manager of the theatre, said a small fire in a building down the street had been extinguished when Clemmer gave the "warning."

Clemmer said he had left the theatre for a few minutes and saw fire-fighting equipment being used to battle a blaze near the theatre. His wife was in the theatre.

"It looked bad," said Clemmer. "I immediately thought of my wife and went inside. I could vision the roof caving in on the thousands of people. My intentions were good."

Order Drastic Controls To Curb Alien Visitors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP). —Attorney-General Tom Clark to-day approved drastic new controls to curb subversive activity by alien visitors to the United States.

Designed to provide closer surveillance over the activities of such visitors, the regulations are scheduled to become effective about March 15.

After that time the ordinary one-year visiting permit now in common use will be abolished, and the visiting privilege limited to three to six months.

Extensions may be obtained, but they will require a showing that a more extended stay is justified.

Among other things, the authority over extensions of stays "and the responsibility for overseeing visitors in the United States" now held by the Philadelphia headquarters of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, would be passed by the new rule to the 16 district immigration offices scatterd across the country.

All alien visitors now must post $500 bond upon entry to the country to assure among other things that they have the cash to get back home. Under the new regulations, the department said, "most visitors whose stay is extended for over a year will be required to post additional bond."

The conditions of admission include declarations that (1) the visit is for business or pleasure, (2) the trip is "reasonable and legitimate and temporary in nature," (3) the visitor will leave promptly upon expiration of visiting time, (4) the visitor "will not pursue any purpose not specifically authorized by immigration authorities," and (5) he is not subject to exclusion under any of the immigration regulations.

Unite Against War

BUCHAREST, Jan. 16 — (AP).—Bulgaria's Communist Premier, Georgi Dimitrov, said today the Balkan States are uniting to protect themselves against "a hotbed of war and conflict in Greece." Dimitrov attacked the role of the United States and Britain in Greece. "If there had been no foreign intervention," he said, "Greece today could have been a free democracy, standing on our side as an ally in our fight for democracy."

Howling Storm Causes Bad Crashes, 5 Hurt

KINGSTON, Jan. 16.—(CP).—At least five persons were injured —two seriously—in a series of accidents today on wind-and-snow-swept No. 2 highway at nearby Cataraqui.

Seriously injured are Stanley A. Molson of Ottawa, severe shock and compound fracture of both legs, and Reginald Vick of Napanee, Ont., shock and deep facial lacerations. They were struck by an automobile as they stood on the highway attempting to push their own car out of a snowdrift.

One was taken to hospital here in a police cruiser, the second in a grocery truck.

Less seriously injured — in a second mishap — were Baxter England, William Griffith and Richard G. Clarke, all of Kingston. They were admitted to hospital suffering face and head injuries.

The accidents, which involved six cars, occurred at the peak of a howling storm which farmers said was among the worst in years. Visibility was reduced to a minimum and a bad traffic snarl developed after the accidents.

Leonard Sowten of Toronto, driver of a car involved in the collision with the two seriously-injured men, said the victims "loomed up directly in front of me."

"Before I could do anything I hit them and their car."

Mr. Sowten and a passenger escaped injury.

Whitby Minister Fined $1,250

GUELPH, Jan. 16—(CP)—Rev. James C. Grier of Whitby and Oshawa, a Presbyterian minister, yesterday was assessed $1,000 in a damage action charging criminal conversation and another $250 for alleged alienation of affection.

The plaintiff, William Leveque, also was granted a divorce from his wife, Marie Ellen Leveque. Mr. Grier was named co-defendant.

Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay who heard Mr. Leveque's claims at an Ontario Supreme Court hearing, did not rule finally on the plaintiff's suit for custody of the Leveque couple's five-year-old daughter.

Too Weak To Walk Gandhi Causes Worry

NEW DELHI, Jan. 16—(AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi, bent on bringing communal harmony to India, fasted into a fourth day today, too weak to walk.

A competent medical source said Gandhi, 78, can fast an additional six days "at the utmost," before his life is seriously in danger, but that already there is a danger of complications. One of Gandhi's four attending physicians said today he is "getting weaker by the hour."

India, whose population is mainly Hindu and Sikh, announced today it would begin immediate payment of £40,000,000 (about $160,000,000) due the predominantly Moslem dominion of Pakistan under a financial agreement.

The communique said this was decided upon last night as "the government's contribution to Gandhi's efforts for peace and good will" and was intended "to remove one cause of suspicion and friction" between the two countries now at odds over tribal raids against Kashmir.

Chinese Burn British Consulate

Mob Violence Begins In Canton Area After Pair Sentenced

CANTON, Jan. 16—(Reuters). — A mob of several thousand Chinese attacked the British Consulate here today, setting the building on fire and destroying it, and slightly injured Vice-Consul J. K. Blackwell. The attack was believed to be part of anti-British demonstrations which have followed an announcement that the Chinese government had protested to Britain against prison sentences imposed in the British colony of Hong Kong on two Chinese.

They had been charged with resisting police who were evacuating Chinese from buildings condemned for public health reasons in the old city of Kowloon, on the mainland of Hong Kong Colony.

The crowd crossed two bridges from Canton City, commercial capital of south China, 90 miles from Hong Hong, to Shameen Island, in the Pearl River, and demonstrated outside the British consulate offices.

Burned To Ground

Stones were thrown and the building burned to the ground. Furniture, documents and clothing were thrown into the fire.

The crowd then burned the houses of the British consul-general, R. Hall, and a press attache, J. Murray.

(The Associated Press, which reported from Hong Kong that a British warship was en route to Canton to evacuate Britons if necessary, said Mrs. Murray had been set upon by riotous Chinese but had been rescued.)

The crowd also burned the offices of the Butterfield and Swires shipping firm, in which the British information department and Reuters News Agency were housed, and several other buildings.

Three hours later, gendarmes, police and fire brigades arrived and the Chinese left the island. Everything was later reported to be quiet but the foreign community of about 150, mostly Britain and American, remained indoors.

Soviet To Resume Talks On U.S. Debt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP). —Russian Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin said to-day the Soviet is ready to resume negotiations to settle her $11,200,000,000 wartime lend-lease account with the United States. The negotiations were broken off last July. The envoy said he hopes the discussions will be resumed in the "near future."

Only Russia among the major wartime Allies has yet to reach agreement on terms of partial repayment for the arms and supplies contributed by the United States to the common effort against Nazi Germany.

Taft, Marshall Head For Battle

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP). — State Secretary Marshall and Senator Robert Taft (Rep.-Ohio) appeared headed for a collision today over how much the European recovery plan should cost the United States.

Taft last night suggested a $1,000,000,000 slash in foreign aid spending, while Marshall was warning that any radical change would endanger the whole Marshall plan to aid Europe.

Taft, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, has said before that the administration's $6,800,000,000 figure for the first 15 months of the European recovery plan is too high.

Marshall said in a Pittsburgh speech that while Congress certainly could improve the aid program in some ways, it had been planned with "utmost care, to meet many vital considerations affecting the national interest.

"Radical alteration of the basic structure would, I fear, jeopardize the prospect that the measure will successfully accomplish the purpose for which it is designed."

"No Fixing Of Game Offences" Scott Warns Poachers Who Break Laws Out Of Luck

TORONTO, Jan. 16 — Strict warning to poachers who attempt to take illicit fur, shoot deer out of season and otherwise break the province's game and fish regulations, was handed out today by Lands and Forests Minister Harold Scott, who pointed out all game overseers have been instructed to enforce the law without fear or favor.

Mr. Scott referred to conviction of five persons, four of them police officials, who were fined $75 or 30 days in a Pembroke court for shooting deer in Algonquin Park, and to other recent convictions as indicative of the Department's intentions of prosecuting vigorously.

At Newmarket, a Vaughan township resident was fined $20 and costs when he appeared before Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake and pleaded guilty to shooting deer out of season, while a Holland Landing man was fined $10 and costs or five days when he was convicted of having muskrat skins in his possession during the closed season.

"Some people seem to have the idea that offenses of this kind can be "fixed" through political or other influence," said Mr. Scott "There is no 'fixing,' and the game overseers know it. If you break the game and fisheries regulations now, be prepared to face prosecution because we are determined to protect Ontario's fish and game resources to the utmost. The legal limits and seasons are satisfactory and generous, and there is no excuse for illegal hunting or trapping."

Messages of Congratulation Pour Into Prague For Barbara Ann Scott

By JACK SULLIVAN

PRAGUE, Jan. 16—(CP).—Cables and messages of congratulation began arriving in volume today for Canada's Barbara Ann Scott as Prague newspapers heaped praise on the 19-year-old Ottawa girl for her scintillating victory in the European figure-skating championships at the outdoor winter stadium. A cable from Viscount Alexander, Governor - General of Canada, arrived early in the afternoon, followed by one from Prime Minister Mackenzie King and another from the Ottawa Men's Press Club. Friends from Ottawa to Vancouver also sent congratulations.

Barbara Ann, relaxing after her clear-cut triumph over 18 of the world's best skaters from five countries participating in the two-day competition which ended last night, said she is "thrilled to death by it all."

The "next world event" is the Olympics, Barbara Ann's cherished objective since she first donned skates at the age of seven. With that goal in mind, she has refused to consider suggestions that she capitalize on her talent by turning professional.

The Prague competition, described by top officials of the International Skating Union as "a preliminary" to the Olympics next month at St. Moritz, proved to the ice world that Barbara Ann is probably unbeatable.

She flashed her glittering skates to the other stars, all from Europe with the exception of Roberta Scholan of the United States, in the two-day competition giving her a total of 181.66 points and almost unbelievable unanimous choice for first place by all seven judges for a place total of seven.

Eva Pawlik of Austria, who placed fourth in the compulsory figures where Barbara Ann led, jumped two positions to second spot as the result of colorful and acrobatic free skating. But Miss Pawlic, who gained a total of 177.03 points, was far behind in place points with 22.

Aya Vryanova, Czech champion, came third with 174.43 points and a place total of 26.

Tito Invites Canada To Conference

BELGRADE, Jan. 16—(AP).—Yugoslavia has proposed that she and 13 other members of the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency establish a "common stand" on the allocation of factories from western Germany.

Canada is among the powers invited by Premier Tito's government to a suggested conference Feb. 5 in Brussels to discuss the question of what it termed the "small" number of industrial plants put at the agency's disposal by the United States, Britain and France.

The IARA headquarters is in Brussels.

Invitations were also sent to Albania, Australia, Belgium, Denmark, Egypt, India, Luxembourg, Norway, New Zealand, the Netherlands, Czechoslovakia and the Union of South Africa.

The IARA began functioning in Brussels 11 months ago. The job of the delegates of 18 powers was to divide one-half of the unessential industrial facilities and ships to be removed from Germany in accordance with a fixed percentage table. Russia was allocated the other half of the equipment. Yugoslavia's 9.6 per cent. share was the largest of any of the IARA members aside from those of Britain (27.8), France (22.8) and the United States (11.8). Yugoslavia's invitation list did not include Greece (4.15), which has accused the Tito regime of aiding Communist-led Greeke guerrillas.

75,000 German Workers Strike Over Food Shortage

BERLIN, Jan. 16 — (AP). — Some 75,000 German workers were idle today in four Ruhr valley cities in strikes protesting food shortages. Authorities feared the strike movement would spread swiftly in Germany's industrial heart where hunger grips 4,000,000 workers. Many of them are living on starvation diets.

German newspapers in the western occupation zones linked the labor crisis with what they call a Communist master scheme, "Procotol M," to wreck the Marshall plan.

About 50,000 workers walked out at Duisburg, Muehlheim and Dinslaken, quietly and without demonstrations. About 25,000 already were on strike at Oberhausen.

Coal miners and most workers in essential services remained on their jobs. Shiploading at Duisburg, the huge inland port at the junction of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers, continued uninterrupted. Freight trains were halted at Duisburg, but passenger trains were running.

Strikes and possible riots were predicted last night by Hans Boeckler, head of the German federation of trade unions, after a conference of German and British officials on the food crisis, which ended without any action to relieve the shortages.

Boeckler, a moderate, said he is opposed to the strikes, but that stoppages are certain when people are hungry.

Simultaneously, Germany's sputtering political situation boiled up. Several old line German Communists revealed they had split with Moscow-directed Communists and formed an opposition party.

Moscow radio added its bit to the Ruhr's turbulent political pot by broadcasting a special program to hungry Ruhr miners seeking to prove that the way to more potatoes was through the Communist party.

Need Police Force Keep Watch

Butter, Meat Ceilings To Be Reimposed, Prices Still Be High

TORONTO, Jan. 16 (CP) — N. D. Roose, past president of the Toronto Retail Butchers' Association, predicted today that a "false famine" of meat and "the biggest black market we've ever had" will result from the federal government's reimposition on controls on meat prices.

He said he made the forecast because controls on meat were not accompanied by reimposition of controls on livestock.

"Butcher shops that now are crammed full of the best cuts of meats will soon be empty," he said. "The consumers who can't afford to buy steaks, chops and roast now soon won't be able to get them, though the prices might be within their reach."

Mr. Roose said this would result from refusal of farmers to lower their prices for livestock.

"If the government plans on making these controls effective, it had better plan on instituting the greatest police force in the world to watch every packinghouse and butcher shop in the country."

Welcomes Gesture

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), said today his union "welcomes the gesture" of reimposition of controls on meat and butter prices but that the federal government must go farther in easing the "burden" of the "long-suffering and battered consumers."

He said the government should take steps to reduce the price of meat and butter and urged that lifting of the ban on manufacture and sale of oleomargarine be considered.

Reimpose Ceilings

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (CP). — A Government drive on the rising cost of living opened today as the Prices Board prepared to establish price ceilings on meat and butter and carry on Dominion-wide investigations into recent food price hikes which may seem unreasonable and which cause the government to act.

The new program, constituting modified re-control, was announced last night by Finance Minister Abbott who also served notice that the government plans to ask parliament to extend its price control powers, scheduled to expire March 31, for another year.

Report UN Plans Palestine Army

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 16 (AP) —A United Nations delegate said today he had been informed the Security Council will act on providing an international military force in Palestine before a U.N. commission goes into the Holy Land to enforce partition.

This delegate, a member of the Palestine commission, said he had been advised that the council would act in the near future.

In Washington President Truman told a press conference yesterday that he has never considered sending American troops to Palestine. He added that sometime in the future the U.N. probably would have an international army to enforce U.N. mandates.

Jury Rules Cabbie Guilty Of Murder

CHATHAM, Jan. 16—(CP). — James W. St. Pierre, 34-year-old taxi-driver, was convicted today of murder in the shotgun slaying of his father-in-law, Joseph McIlhargey, and was sentenced to be hanged April 21.

Mr. Justice Jean Genest pronounced sentence as soon as the Ontario Supreme Court jury returned the verdict.

The jury deliberated for 90 minutes. The verdict was accompanied by a strong recommendation for mercy.

Train Smashes Batawa Bus 19 Treated In Hospital; Seven Others Slightly Hurt

Bus Pulling Out Of Shoe Factory Yard When Accident Occurred; Heavy Snow And Dusk Reduced Visibility

BATAWA, Ont., Nov. 16—(CP).—Rescued from the shattered rear of a bus struck at a level rail crossing as it was taking them home from work, 19 persons were treated in Belleville hospital last night after being taken there in ambulances and taxis. Reports were that altogether 26 persons were hurt, but several of these went home after first-aid treatment at the scene of the smash.

Although some of the less seriously hurt Bata shoe factory workers were prepared for discharge, six doctors worked far into the night on some of the more serious cases.

These included Jack McCauley, 18, with head cuts; Eric McNeill, 18, of Glace Bay, NS, with chest injuries and head lacerations; Roy Lockwood, 32, of Frankford, with injuries to head and chest, and Miss Helen Tomicek, 166, of Frankford, chest injuries and bruises.

The bus was struck as it pulled out of the company yards about 5.45 p.m. by a Canadian National Railways freight and passenger train, with visibility said reduced by heavy snow and the gathering dusk. Those in the front were not hurt as the highway vehicle almost made it to safety in crossing the tracks. The factory workers were en route to their homes in Frankford, Trenton and Belleville.

Saw Train

Another employee, Tony Stavjanik, 40, said he looked out the factory window when he heard the train whistle. "I thought the bus was getting too close," he said. "I could see the bus and the train approaching the crossing. The next thing I knew the arain hit the bus and spun it around. I couldn't see very well what happened after that."

A deep hole was gouged in the rear of the bus and it was those sitting in that end who were hurt. No casualties aboard the train were reported.

Driver of the bus was Harry Cockburn of Trenton. Engineer on the train was Fred Fairman of Trenton, and the conductor was W. Gilbert of Belleville.

The injured included:

Roy Langabeer, 24, Belleville, shoulder injuries; Eric McNeil, 18, Glace Bay, facial injuries; Jack McAuley, 18, Frankford; Ronald Laflamme, 19, Frankford, left leg and face hurt; Germaine Lalone, 17, Frankford, groin injuries; Marcel Seguin, 18, Frankford, face, leg and arm injuries; Rene Marleau, 18, Frankford, internal injuries; Ray Lockwood, 32, face and internal injuries; Ferne Stapley, 17, face, hip and leg injuries; Lois Genereaux, 18, left leg and face injuries; Robert McDonald, 28, face injuries; Charles Hamilton, 17, face, left arm and hip injured; Helen Tomicek, 16, facial injuries; Joanne Hopkins, 17, internal injuries; Lionel LaRue, 24, internal injuries; Elsie Mandzuik, 24, internal injuries; Paul Kalack, 23, facial and internal injuries; Ruth Moynes, 25, ankle hurt; Evelyn Bowen, 33, internal injuries.

Cattlemen Boo Gardiner Talk

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 16.—(CP).—Cattlemen reacted in mixed fashion today to Agriculture Minister Gardiner's statement last night that the government believed "stabilization, security and development in the future is more likely to be ours if our agriculture is tied to our own market plus the United Kingdom for the present."

Mr. Gardiner told the Western Stock Growers' Association that the embargo on cattle shipments to the United States and the British Canadian beef contracts were price-control rather than marketing measures.

In a speech interrupted twice by boos and once by applause, he said the decision not to export to the United States was made because acceptance of American price levels would undo "much of the good accomplished through efforts to avoid inflation."

The minister said the Government believed most farmers favored a policy by which they would know prices for several years in advance. The surest way to guarantee this was to "associate our production and its returns with the freest and most satisfactory market in the world, the British market."

FINDS DAUGHTER AFTER 30 YEARS—Thirty years ago Harold Hamilton, at left, fell in love at first sight in Belfast, Ireland. Today, the daughter he thought was dead, and a granddaughter he never knew existed will be coming to America—all because of a Christmas radio program and a hunch. Hamilton was with one of the first American units to go overseas in the first world war. He went to Ireland on leave to visit an uncle, fell in love with a girl who worked in the railroad station and married her. They were together only three weeks. He returned to France where he received a letter that he was to become a father. He tried to get another furlough, but a letter came from a relative that the wife and child had died and were buried together. It was not until Christmas a year ago that Hamilton, who was listening to a radio program, suddenly got the hunch that his daughter still lived—the story of the Nativity, and the words, "For a babe was born . . ." stirred him so that he made search which resulted in finding his daughter, Betty, who is shown on the right here. She will rejoin him in April, with her four-year-old baby.

Bacon Prices Are Lower; Expect New Rise

An overstock of bacon by butchers, and consumer reaction to high prices in the form of non-buying, are believed to have combined to bring a substantial dip in the prices commodity.

A week ago when prices were at a peak a pound of bacon would cost about 95 cents if it were No. 1 sliced and packed, and about 85 cents if it were bacon ends. Comparative figures today are 79 cents and 59 cents respectively.

But joyous shouts from the purse-conscious consumer at the drop are perhaps premature. Last week butchers had an extra large supply of bacon and when buyer-resistance asserted itself, it meant that the retailers had to reduce the price to almost cost level in order to keep the stock moving.

One butcher said he was now selling his bacon at cost minus sales tax prices. And that, he pointed out, was not good business, nor would it continue.

General retailer opinion seems to be that retail stocks will be reduced due to this consumer boycott and the consumer will be bidding against each other which inevitably results in a rise in prices.

In other words, as one butcher put it: "The consumer will be chasing him for a pound of bacon."

It would appear that the price is still fluctuating and will not reach an equilibrium for some while yet.

Meanwhile housewives may get their bacon to go with that bacon and eggs breakfast: but there's no saying when that cost is going to break again.

Barbara told the Canadian Press in a dressing room interview.

A crowd of nearly 12,000 persons converged on the open-air winter sports stadium to watch the closing night's event and the girls didn't let her down. Barbara Ann, dressed in colorful emerald green chiffon with sequins, and the others were "out to kill" in practically all colors of the rainbow.

The spectators shouted, stomped, yelled and even whistled when the Canadian girl finished her free skating. Photographers blocked her exit from the ice and she jumped and twirled as camera men requested shots from all angles.

Canadian Judge Melville Rogers of Ottawa said Barbara Ann had difficulty with the compulsory figures due to a strong wind and poor ice conditions prevailing during the first two days of the championship. The conditions tended to equalize the skaters and he explained that it was impossible to check the tracings of the figures which gave weaker skaters a break.

selling at prices higher than is "reasonable and just," he said mark-up controls, which govern the retailer's margin of price profit, will be applied to certain types of fertilizers selling at sharp increases in eastern Canada and "where necessary," to imported fruits and vegetables.

At the same time, price ceilings on sugar, molasses, oils, fats, certain canned fruits and vegetables, residential rents and primary iron, steel and tin, will be continued until circumstances justify their removal.

Plan Prosecution

Mr. Abbott indicated the Prices Board already had made certain investigations into recent increases of food prices in Canada. He said he had asked the board to make further investigations to determine if there are grounds for prosecutions for unreasonable price hikes.

The new butter price ceiling will be based on a price of 67 cents a pound for wholesale solids at Montreal, with the customary regional differentials and wholesale and retail mark-ups, which ... the retail price across Canada ... two weeks ago in the contract covering Canadian meat shipments to Britain in 1948 and may continue for a year.

Prices Still Up

They will mean that Canadian wholesale and retail prices for pork products will be "considerably above" those prevailing a month ago but less than many of the prices which have been reported during the last two weeks. Beef, lamb and veal prices will be fixed at levels "moderately above" the ceiling which was removed in October, when feed grains also were decontrolled.

The new order establishing the new butter price will be issued "in a day or two" but the meat price scheduled, which take longer to draft, will not become available for about two weeks. However, the re-control announcement is expected to bring meat prices "almost immediately into line" with the proposed ceilings.

Mr. Abbott disclosed that the government has initiated discussions with a view to obtaining access to additional supplies of butter should stocks and production prove insufficient to meet essential requirements until the new production season gets under way.

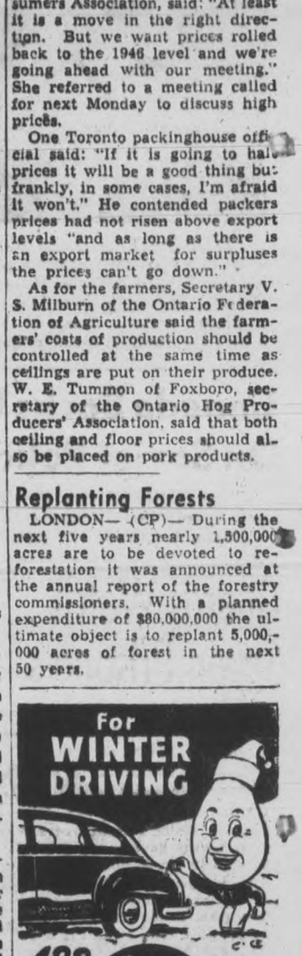
Farmers Want Production Cost Controlled

By The Canadian Press

Consumers, retailers and packers were among the first to express approval of Ottawa's action in restoring price ceilings on meats and butter, with "mark-up controls" being applied increasingly to imported fruits and vegtables.

But some livestock men and milk producers were not no pleased. They want a "floor" price if the ceiling's going to be put on again.

Actual effect of the Ottawa orders on the shopping centres is hard to determine. In the first place there is not much difference in the butter price and in the second place the new meat ceilings won't be announced for a couple of weeks. When the prices are laid down, they'll be higher than the old ceilings, naturally.



Among consumer representatives Mrs. Rae Luckock, president of the Toronto Housewives Consumers Association, said: "At least it is a move in the right direction. But we want prices rolled back to the 1946 level and we're going ahead with our meeting." She referred to a meeting called for next Monday to discuss high prices.

One Toronto packinghouse official said: "If it is going to help prices it will be a good thing but frankly, in some cases, I'm afraid it won't." He contended packers prices had not risen above export levels "and as long as there is an export market for surpluses the prices can't go down."

As for the farmers, Secretary V. S. Milburn of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said the farmers' costs of production should be controlled at the same time as ceilings are put on their produce. W. E. Tummon of Foxboro, secretary of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, said that both ceiling and floor prices should also be placed on pork products.

Eire Deluged With Oratory

By MICHAEL ROONEY

DUBLIN, Jan. 16. — (CP).— Eire is being deluged with political oratory as the various parties, with less than a month's campaigning ahead, strive to "sell" their programs before polling day, Feb. 4.

Prime Minister Eamon De Valera, 65-year-old leader of Fianna Fail, who faces a strong challenge to his 16 years' domination of Irish politics, has started on a tour of harrowing speech-making —an average of two speeches daily until the eve of polling. His political advisers are concerned that the strain may prove too much. Fianna Fail is largely a one-man party and the absence of De Valera from the platform would be a big blow to the government's prospects of re-election.

The official Opposition, Fine Gael, has already suffered a serious reverse through the death of Deputy James Hughes, its "shadow" Minister of Agriculture who was considered one of the foremost farming experts in the country. He was addressing a public meeting on Fine Gael's farm policy when he collapsed and died.

Only a week earlier he had announced plan for agriculture which, he said, Fine Gael would put into operation if returned to power. It was a two-point program: "First, to reduce taxation; second, to increase production substantially."

Oshawa Will Ask New Housing Pact

OSHAWA, Jan. 16. — City Council voted to ask Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation for a new agreement on annual payments for 125 wartime houses on city property, on the grounds the municipality is not getting a fair return.

The city now receives an annual total of $3,222 plus $75 for street lighting costs, whereas the figures showed normal city taxes an the assessment should be $7,631.66, Council members decided.

"The agreement stipulated that 50 of the houses would be removed six months after the conclusion of hostilities," commented Mayor Frank McCallum. "Canada has not yet declared them concluded or we could insist on their removal."

An invitation was accepted to attend the United Church WA meting on January 21 to hear a guest speaker, and Mrs. Varcoe was appointed to contribute a program number. The Day of Prayer service will be held Feb. 13 in the United Churer, with St. James' Anglican Church, Fenella and Centenary United Churches joining for the service.

Township Of Athol Observes 100th Year

PICTON, Jan. 16 — The Township of Athol is this month observing its 100th anniversary. In January, 1948, the township was segregated from a larger area which now comprises the Townships of North and South Marysburgh and Hallowell, then known as "Fifth Town." The reason for breaking away from Fifth Town was given in the Original Act: "Because the habitants of the area experience many difficulties from the uncommon length of such township."

Previously, the separation had been opposed by some of the township residents, including Asa Werden, who then represented the county in Parliament. He was succeeded as member by Charles Bockus of Picton, who approved the scheme. He was given the privilege of naming the township and called it after the Scottish parish where his ancestors were born—Athol.

Cobourg Butcher Cuts Meat Prices

Cobourg, Jan. 16. — (ENS).— One local butcher shop dropped its prices yesterday to what they were before the price raise. Pork loin was selling at 49c as compared with the recent 59c and ham was listed at 45c as compared with the 55c price of a short time ago. Chain stores showed price reductions. The butcher shop in question pointed out that it was definitely not a price cutting war.

"We happened to get delivery on some hogs, ordered locally some time ago and as the cost to us was at the old price, we were able to make our usual profit without marking up to present increased prices. However when the supply is sold we'll have to revert to the prevailing meat prices," the butcher explained.

Council Discusses Municipal Finances

COBOURG, Jan. 16—(ENS)— Cobourg Town Council last night held a committee meeting to discuss municipal financing. In view of the fact that the town faces considerable expenditure because of sewer and water main extension, the most economical way of financing in a field of increased costs for borrowing is being sought by the town of Cobourg. Some quarters feel it advisable to raise enough money now, before interest rates jump, to finance impending projects for a considerable time to come.

Peterborough Surrounded By Factories?

A foreigner who had never been to southern Ontario or Peterborough County might think that this area was a land of forests, lakes, and settlers who tilled the soil in summer and hunted and cut wood in winter. That is, if he depended on tourist books and old geography texts for his information. If he depended only on a statistical survey of industries in Ontario in 1945, he would think that he wouldn't be able to see the trees for the factories.

* * *

Peterborough is really in the heart of a thriving manufacturing area, as well as being itself a large industrial centre. Within Peterborough's orbit, and excluding the city itself, there are 18 villages and towns which have three or more factories. These factories—189 of them—produced in 1945 (according to figures just released) more than twenty million dollars worth of goods.

* * *

The big four were Lindsay, with 29 factories producing 5¼ million dollars' worth, Port Hope with 20 factories turning out goods worth 4½ millions, Cobourg with 24 establishments producing goods valued at 4 million dollars, and Campbellford with 14 establishments and a gross output of 2½ million dollars. Next in the list were Omemee—4 factories manufacturing goods to the value of $763,006, and Havelock — 8 establishments with gross output worth $550,350. Lowest output for this district (of places with three or more factories) was from Hastings—$66,361 with three factories.

* * *

The following places are listed according to the gross value of the goods they produced; values are shown in thousands of dollars: Bobcaygeon (385 thousand dollars); Fenelon Falls (378); Tweed (368); Stirling (362); Port Perry (324); Bancroft (292); Lakefield (269); Norwood (182); Millbrook (171); Madoc (167); Marmora (143); Hastings (66).

* * *

The district surrounding Peterborough is a hunters' paradise? Well, there are a lot of factory workers in that heaven, too—3,761 people were employed in 1945 by the 189 factories in the district.

A Spell On Spelling

No matter how hard an ordinary person tries, he trips on the correct spelling of certain words. One person may have to consult a dictionary once a week for the spelling of "brief"; another's pet aberration may be a simple word like "absence". There is a bit of witchcraft surrounding such words, and it is a real wizard who can whizz through the thousand most common words in the language with never a mistake in orthography.

The Brantford Expositor calls attention to a sur[illegible] fifty of the thousand most [illegible] words were given to selected groups of pupils. The juniors had an accuracy of only 90 per cent., the seniors of 93 per cent.

It is hard to develop accuracy in even the principle common words, wether one procedes to learn words like "athaletic" and "Febuary" and by daily cessions of parroting or by the "eye" method — which many teachers sincereley believe the most practicle—or by the well-ment referance to dictionaries. Some are able to aprecciate a proper spelling by assosiation of syllables with sound, but the abcense of some sounds fools them into diciding on the wrong spelling. In the course of our daily business we deal with a large vollume of words; fortunately we have a dependable seceretary who is clever with difficult words like "foriegn", and our spelling recieves cordialy and revises it quite acceptably—probibly—without making a sene.

Incidentally, in the paragraph above we have used (we hope with fitting spelling) 22 of the most commonly misspelled words of the fifty given the New York students. We hasten to say that good spelling is not a mark of intelligence; it is an aptitude or a skill expected of literate people. As good manners are socially necessary, so is good spelling. Lapses from either are regrettable but not iniquitous. It is a hallucination to believe that a mistake in spelling casts one into outer darkness; as often as not the erring speller is blameless and the culprit is a goblin in the typewriter.

Shakespeare And The Spiritualists

For about 180 years there have been a few persons who have argued that William Shakespeare did not write the plays which are attributed to him. Such plays, these people insist, could not have been the work of a man who had only a moderate amount of formal schooling and who was not acclaimed as a mighty genius by his contemporaries. As for the question of who wrote the plays, various ingenious scholars have said that they were written by Sir Francis Bacon, the Earl of Rutland, Lord Derby, or Edward de Vere, Earl of Oxford. The fact that none of these learned and noble gentlemen knew anything about the theatre, and that Shakespeare (who was an actor) obviously did so, cuts no ice with the anti-Shakespeareans.

The latest man to involve himself in this discussion is an English drama critic named Percy Allen, who asserts that he has asked Shakespeare himself to settle the problem. Mr. Allen has established contact with Shakespeare's spirit through a spiritualistic medium, and has put the question to him, plump and plain, "Did you write the plays which are attributed to you?" Shakespeare has replied, "It wasn't I, it was the seventeenth Earl of Oxford". At least, that is what Mr. Allen says he heard, and as spiritualists are exceedingly touchy when any doubt is thrown upon their strict veracity, we leave it at that.

Nevertheless, there are three possible explanations from which our readers may choose that which is most congenial to themselves. They are:

(a) That Mr. Allen is right, and that Shakespeare's ghost spoke the truth.

(b) That Mr. Allen suffered from an hallucination of a rather common type.

(c) That he really heard Shakespeare, and that the incorrigible old joker played a trick on him.

Of the possible explanations we like (c) best.

Just Garbage

We apologize for introducing into these rarefied columns and to our refined readers the subject of garbage. Perhaps we should use the English term and refer to it as material ordinarily reposing in dustbins. Whatever it is called, it does not smell more sweet or look more beautiful, especially when spread out over sidewalks and streets by dogs.

We do not blame the dogs, who in these times of high meat prices are scavenging in their pretty ways more zealously than ever. We admire the intelligence of the lovable creatures when they cleverly lift off the tops of garbage pails. But there is no need to admire the skill of dogs who ransack open cartons and paper bags full of wet garbage and distribute the offal to the four winds and corners. There is a need to condemn the householders who put out their garbage in such a slovenly way. For two or three hours, or even all night, such garbage is open to flies and rodents as well as dogs. It is unhealthy, it is unsightly, it is sickening. After dogs have passed along the street lined with open cartons and paper bags, the area is unfit for passers-by with weak [illegible] refuse to collect it and notify the police. And the police and the city health officials should take action against the offending householders.

"Operation Rathole" In China

By LELAND STOWE

IS the U.S. government going to pour several billions of American taxpayers' money into "Operation Rathole" in China

Former Ambassador Bullitt, Governor Dewey, Congressman Judd and others urge that the U.S. begin by giving the Nanking Nationalist regime about $1,300,000,000 to save China from her Communists. In the past six years America has provided Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists with nearly $3,000,000,000. Much of this fortune in cash and supplies has been stolen or squandered. Americans trained and equipped two crack armies for Chiang. In a disastrous Manchurian campaign against the Reds they have now been decimated beyond recognition by military incompetence and corruption.

CHIANG and his Nationalists launched their reckless Manchurian gamble against strong counter-advice from high U.S. military experts. Today they have only a toehold left north of the Wall. China's Communists are virtually certain to win all Manchuria. In addition, four other Red Armies are on the offensive in the heart of China proper, plus guerrilla forces in the deep south. Everywhere Nationalist armies are pinned down, ill-equipped, suffering new lows in morale. An estimated 1,500,000 Communist troops are striking with great mobility and much confidence. The cost of the civil war is bankrupting Nanking, starving the people and demolishing any chance of China's economic recovery for many years—possibly for at least a generation.

✧ ✧ ✧

DESPITE this appalling situation, Americans are being told that they can buy the defeat of China's Communists, now far stronger than ever before, with dollars. They are even assured that merely another $1,300,000,000 will do the job. But first-class Japanese Armies failed utterly to eliminate the Chinese Reds—in an eight-year effort costing many times this amount—in some of the regions where the same Communists today are extremely powerful. Can the Nationalists' discredited, graft-ridden Army bureaucracy—with its spiritless, under-fed "forced soldiers"—hope to succeed where the pick of Jap veteran armies proved completely inadequate?

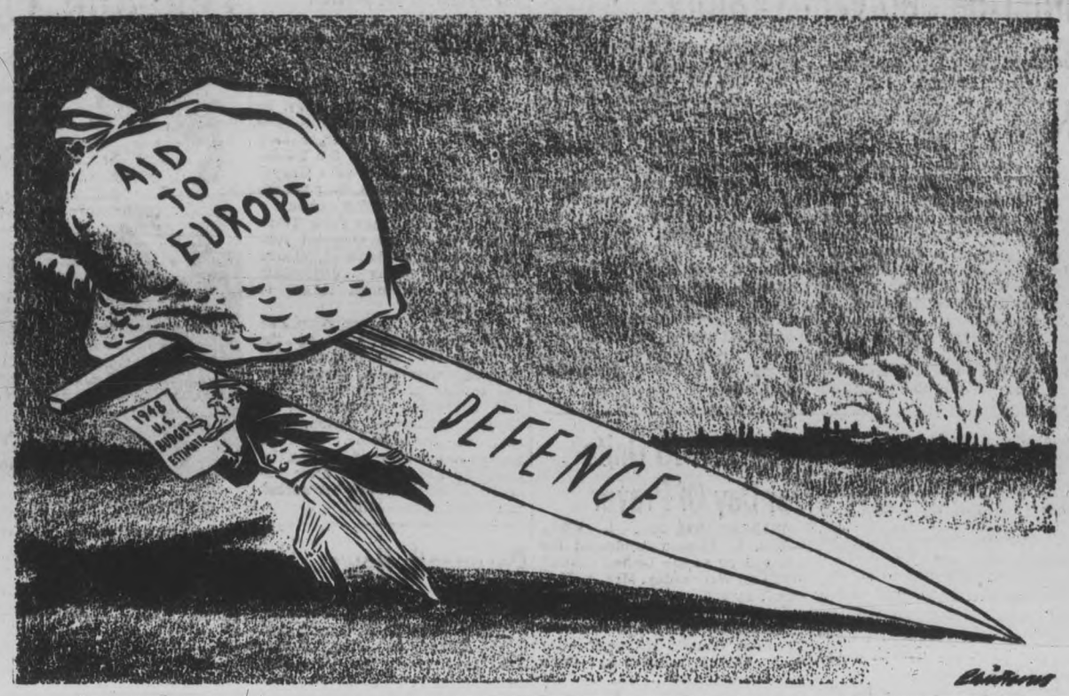
LAST September proud Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek actually told his Nationalist (Kuomintang) chiefs that his twenty-year leadership had been a "failure". He saw "only chaos all around me." No chief of state in this century has ever made a more humiliating confession. Yet the truth is this. For twenty years Chiang has struggled relentlessly to suppress China's Communists—and today they are the only great, coordinated and dynamic force in all China. It has been demonstrated, again and again, that military supplies and cash alone cannot possibly eradicate the Chinese Reds.



China's 400,000,000 people clamour for an end of landlord exploitation, high-robbery interest rates and feudalistic oppression. In twenty years Chiang's Kuomintang has done nothing to remove these brutal abuses. But China's Reds were smart. They stole Sun Yatsen's idealistic revolution. They championed land reform for the peasants—80 per cent and more of all Chinese. The Communists became monopolists of cruelly-needed social reforms. That accounts for their enormous strength among the peasants today. To the overwhelming majority of Chinese the Kuomintang record is despotism without a trace of social enlightenment.

LAST August, in Nanking, General Wedemeyer bluntly cited "the large number (of Nationalists) whose conduct is notoriously marked by greed, incompetence or both." To regain the people's confidence he said Nanking "will have to put into effect immediately drastic and far-reaching political and economic reforms. Promises will no longer suffice." Since that time Chiang's government has adopted no sweeping reforms whatever; only a dash of obvious "eyewash." Publication of the report written by Wedemeyer at that time has been suppressed by the State Department.

"Operation rathole" is an ugly phrase. I hate to resort to it. But under present conditions and policies in Nanking more aid to Nationalist China can only be an "Operation Rathole." It will not check or eradicate the Chinese Communists. It will merely give Chiang's Nationalist regime another excuse for avoiding fundamental reforms. It will simply increase the already fat fortunes of Chinese millionaires—fortunes neatly ladled out of "America's pot" and hidden neatly away in foreign lands. How many hundreds of millions of dollars could China's rich[illegible]

BIG JOB, BIG MAN

Letters To The Editor

A PARK ON THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS

Sir: Yes! That board fence around Exhibition ground on No. 7 Highway is an eyesore and looks bad coming into Peterborough. A park with flowers, shrubs and trees would welcome visitors and be a joy to its inhabitants. The spirit of Mr. Morrow would surely approve, and the soul of Walter Stocker made happy.

It's original purpose of a farmer exhibition could be served on the outskirts of Peterborough. With large enough grounds it could be combined with an annual ploughing match. To see new machinery perform would be an added attraction for men, while the ladies would have plenty of other attractions. That last international ploughing match at Peterborough has left an unforgettable impression.

And let the new grounds be a link that joins city and country by having representatives from Horticultural and Gladiolus Societies, also Artists Clubs on its board, by enlisting the interest and help of lawyers, doctors, preachers, teachers and the altruists, and make Peterborough an Educational Exhibition that serves, pleases and stimulates all. But leave out the gambling, the phoney, and double prices. No one wants to bring the family and see a week's wages disappear in a day.

Let us understand each other for while we need the city, your hope of survival is in the country. These are the reflections of a

COUNTRY ECHINOP.

SERVICE CLUBS COULD FINANCE SECOND RINK

Sir: Let's have a rink for next winter.

We have heard and read a great deal about our Memorial Centre and a Secondary Rink, but as yet we are at a standstill so far as actual accomplishment of either building is concerned. We read of rinks being built all over our province, the latest being a rink at Sunderland with a seating capacity of 1,400, at a cost of $20,000, with some help being voluntary, (pictures and information of this rink being published in the Toronto Telegram, Jan. 10th, and on the same page, an announcement of the opening rink at Hespeler next week). Surely Peterborough need not be put to shame any longer by towns of the size of these.

What do we need to have a rink ready for next winter?

1. A committee vitally interested in the project, which could be easily organized from our service clubs of the city.

2. A site—which could be located at the west end of the Townsend, George and Rink property which would not interfere with the Memorial Centre, being located to face out on George St., if built on this location.

3. The finances—up to $50,000, could be raised by the service clubs supported by the public, if assurance were given of immediate action—which could be assisted by an amount from the city in view of the fact that the city's share of funds voted to the Memorial Centre may not be required for three or five years from now. Should it be found that sufficient funds were still not forthcoming, enough voluntary help on Saturdays and holidays could be relied upon to have this building erected in true community spirit, and within the limit of finances raised.

I believe this is a definite challenge to the public spirited members of service clubs to take on this project, offering the leadership which is all that is required to have a rink for next winter, a rink with better and greater facilities than now afforded by the rinks of Omemee, Lakefield or Lindsay, which are now being used by our Peterborough hockey players, and at the same time provide the youth of our city with a place of winter recreation, which is so sorely needed.

An enthusiast for a rink for the 1948-49 season.

H. T. REHILL.

TAKE ACTION, HOUSEWIVES!

Sir: There are a few things we housewives of Peterborough would like to know.

Why is it that a south-end grocer who buys his meat from a butcher up town, can sell his pork for 45c a lb., who no doubt is making a satisfactory profit, yet the man he buys from asks 50c a lb.? Two other large butcher shops are asking 52c and another 53c for the same grade of meat, a difference of from 5c to 8c a lb. Why the greater profit?

It is up to the housewives of Peterborough to see that these prices come down.

It can be done, and is being done in Toronto, Hamilton and no doubt other cities as well. Leave it on their shelves long enough, and they will come to their senses.

Cabbages and celery can be bought in Hamilton for 25c, celery 3 heads for 25c.

There are plenty of fresh vegetables, enough for all at reasonable prices. Let it spoil on their hands if they can't sell at reasonable prices.

Just as canned tomatoes were at 27c and 28c. Now some are advertising them for 21c. Why? Because people are not buying them at such a high price.

Not so many years ago that many of us cannot remember, we did not have all the fresh fruits and vegetables we have today. We lived and were just as healthy and happy, perhaps more so than we are when we have everything.

True, there are some who can afford these high prices, but not the working man who is struggling to make ends meet, yet if he wants those things he must pay the same high price as those who can afford to do so.

It is the selfishness and greed today that is destroying the world of all its principles our men and boys fought and gave their lives for.

Come on housewives, one and all, put your shoulder to the wheel. Buy only the necessities and see how soon prices will come tumbling down.

A HOUSEWIFE.

A Bible Message

Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha....Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick....

Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.... Jesus said, Take ye away the stone....

Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go. (John 11: 1, 3, 17, 39, 41-44.)

Mr. C. W. E. Kerr, of Richmond, Surrey, England, enters a protest in The Scotsman against the way his name is pronounced south of the border. "Living in the South", he says, "I have found it almost imposible to have the Southerner pronounce my name as they do the word 'care'. This I have always held as the correct pronunciation and is that in use everywhere in Scotland. In the South if you tell anyone your name is Kerr as 'care', they look blank, and ask you to spell it. Upon being told, they invariably say, 'Oh—Cur', or 'Oh, yes—Karr'. So one puts up with it to avoid continuous explanations. I should be interested to learn if there exists any opinion in favour of the Anglicized pronunciation. I don't like it and have never heard a Scot use it. But living in London, I suffer."

The correspondent is not altogether right in his contention. The Marquess of Lothian's family name is Ker, and invariably pronounced Carr.—Charlottetown Guardian.

MICAWBER'S FAMILY CONFERENCE (Copyright in All Countries)

Minister Lauds Plan To Build NewWaterworks

NORWOOD, Jan. 16—(ENS)—Addressing the 1948 Norwood council at its inaugural meeting Monday, Rev. Arthur Homer made pointed reference to the Hydro project for the village.

"As you begin the most important thing tthis village has ever undertaken, I pray God's blessing upon you as pipe after pipe and hydrant after hydrant is laid along our streets. This is the sort of thing the humane societies of Canada ought to include in their roster of deeds worthy of reward. You will be criticized by smore small, and to me, incompetent folk, but it will be their boy or girl that will be saved from death by fire."

He concluded by saying: "If they had ever seen a human being burned to death and listened to the screams of the dying, they like the rest would be afraid to live in a town so far behind the rest of tthe world."

The new council—Reeve, W. E. Pakenham, and Councillors Wm. Garden, T. P. Rork, R. A. Webb, J. G. Nixon—were all present and signed their declaration of office.

Mr. Homer told council members that they had been given an honored trust, and told them that a gigantic task has been laid upon their shoulders.

He said the council had been entrusted with a social mission by God. And he asked them to face the issues that would arise during the coming year fearlessly, according to their consciences.

"You have been elected by the people of this village, they have placed in you their confidence, but while you are servants ever remember you are not slaves. We boast of our democracy but too often people forget that a councillor is a free agent. If you feel that some plan proposed is wrong, it is your duty under God to oppose it....if you feel some plan to be in the best interests of the village, your business is to press it.

The following committees were appointed by Reeve Pakenham: Village Property, Rod Webb and entire council; Police and Fire, Wm. Gordon and the entire council; Sidewalks and Sewers, John Nixon and entire council; Roads and Bridges, T. P. Rork and entire council; Finance, W. E. Pakenham. The appointments were confirmed.

Several business measures were then voted on. Moved by Councillors Rork and Webb that Mr. R. A. Dean be granted a three-month leave of absence and during that period Phyllis Baker be appointed as deputy clerk-treas.

Blaw No. 708 to authorize the Reeve and Treas. to borrow monies to cover current expenditures, was passed. Amount to be borrowed was set at $13,000.

Moved by Councillors Nixon and Rork that the Reeve, Treas. and Deputy Treas. be authorized to sign all cheques and necessary documents.—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Webb and Garden, that a nomination be held to fill the Board of Education vacancies.

INSECTS' CONVERSATION

Council Boosts Rink Insurance

OMEMEE, Jan. 16—(ENS)—The newly eletced Omemee council held their inaugural meeting Jan. 12 in Coronation Hall. They took the declaration of office. The new slate is: Reeve, H. Deyell; councillors, C. G. Shaw, H. Jones, G. Stephenson and W. Mitchell. After inspecting the property they adjourned until 8 p.m.

The evening session was opened with prayer and a brief address by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt. Reeve Deyell welcomed the new councillors. The treasurer's report was heard and adopted.

On motion of Stephenson and Mitchell it was decided to join the Ontario Good Roads Associatioon. A motion by W. Mitchell and H. Jones to donate $25 to the Salvation Army, carried.

R. Widdis and L. Curtis as a delegation from Omemee High and public schools, requested that more time be given the students using the rink. H. McQuade suggested that something should be done about the provincial snowplow throwing snow on the village sidewalks.

Wm. Fisher asked the council to pay extra help on the rink on hockey nights. On motion of H. Jones and C. Shaw it was decided to take no action on the latter request. Moved by H. Jones, seconded by W. Mitchell, that the rink be kept closed on Sundays —Carried.

H. Jones and G. Stephenson were appointed as a roads committee and C. Shaw and W. Mitchell as a property committee. The resignation of Chief R. L. Naylor was considered and on motion of H. Jones and C. Shaw he was re-engaged as part-time policeman and fire chief on a salary of $65 a month.

Rates for snow removal in the village was set at 60c an hour for shovellers and $2 for trucks.

The following bylaws were passed: Appointing Dr. G. N. Earle as M.O.H.; appointing T. McQuade and J. Gladding as a board of health, and legalizing the borrowing of certain moneys.

It was decided to increase the insurance on Coronation Hall to $12,000 and on the arena to $10,000.

The following accounts were approved: Street lights, $82.17; Coronation Hall, $5.47; fire hall, $1.50; John Magee, trucking, $4.00; R. Clifford, snow removal, $15.00; R. 8500 Miners On Strike In Western Provinces

CALGARY, Jan. 16—(CP)—Miners idle today in Alberta and British Columbia coal mines remained over the 8,500 mark but no further walkouts were announced as the unauthorized strike entered its third day.

Begun at the Crow's Nest Pass in Alberta, the strike spread rapidly to various other Alberta mines and then to British Columbia. It followed by hours a breakdown here in wage negotiations between operators and representatives of District 18, United Mine Workers of America.

District 18 embraces virtually all unionized workings in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Life And Education Of A Prince....

By H.R.H. DUKE OF WINDSOR

CHAPTER FIVE

My father had another fixed idea about my education. It was that I should not think that as a Prince I was in any way better than, or different from, other people. To be sure, by "other people" he meant the children of the well-born. His worst fear was that in an atmosphere dominated by governesses, tutors and nurses we would turn out to be prigs and snobs; hence he liked to keep us in the country away from the sophisticated air of the Court.

Under the principle of British politics that the monarch should reign but not govern, we as a family were condemned, in the midst of an intensely political environment, to be not merely neutral but, if possible, apolitical.

Hansell abided by this rule and in the course of his mild excursions into current affairs never once hinted to his royal charges that the British Tories might be wiser, nobler, and more patriotic than the Liberals.

Hansell's restraint was all the more remarkable because in the general election of 1906 the structure of British politics was torn apart by the Liberal landslide.

The events leading up to the overthrow of Arthur J. Balfour's Tory Government, by the Liberals under Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, had produced turmoil in our household. In my father's view some of the leading Liberals, David Lloyd George and even Winston Churchill, were dangerous, almost subversive characters. Excited by all the talk, Bertie and I bombarded Hansell with questions; and he, obliged to supply adequate explanation to an obvious controversy, if only to sustain our curiosity about current events, finally hit upon a fascinating device for giving us some idea of what the debate was all about.

At his suggestion, Bertie and I cut out silhouettes of the two rival leaders, Balfour and Campbell - Bannerman, from newspaper cartoons, according to how they fared in the voting in the different constituencies we moved the figures up a picture of a ladder on the schoolroom door.

In the execitement of the race, despite Hansell's studied neutrality, I found myself pulling for Campbell-Bannerman —no doubt because he led from the start—while Bertie, for lack of another candidate, championed Balfour.

Politics Vanished

The Liberals won an overwhelming victory, and with the removal of the figures from the nursery door, politics vanished from our field of interest. I ceased to be a little Liberal, and Bertie a little Tory.

Reaching across the years for traces of the influences that moulded my outlook, I was surprised the other day to realize that despite my having been under Hansell's care and tuition on and off for 12 years, I could not remember anything strikingly remarkable that he ever said.

My impression now is that he was without strong views about anything, and consequently never fired my imagination.

No doubt in light of the restraints laid upon the British monarchy this was for the best. To have put a in the direct line of succession under the tutelage of a bold and opinionated teacher might well have led to the one conflict with which the British constitutional system cannot cope.

My sister, Mary, was our constant companion during the greater part of our leisure hours. Although she was younger than both of us she usually had a last word in the planning of games, and bicycle excursions into the countryside. She rode better than either of us; her long curls concealed a fearlessness which made us respect her.

Sister Dominated Pair

While Mary dominated both of us, I am sure it will in no way detract from the prestige of my kingly brother when I say that when we were young I could always manage him. That is, after all, the established prerogative of older brothers. Moreover, through long observation and experimentation, we knew exactly how to make each other angry. Mary was superior to both of us. Backed by her formidable "mademoiselle" she wielded a sweet tyranny over our affairs. If she couldn't get her own way, the threat, "I'll tell Mama," was enough to bring the two of us around.

Mine, then, was a sheltered boyhood; a country, rather than a city upbringing. And since the greater part of the first 12 years of my life was spent at Sandringham, a fuller description of that large property may well serve as a background for this story. Moreover, it was there, much more than in busy London, that my brothers, my sister, and I were most completely under the enchantment of our grandparents.

There were older and lovelier showplaces in England than Sandringham, but for my grandfather it summed up his idea of the good life of his time, and in another sense it exemplified a uniquely English way of life centred around the great estates; an elegant, undoubtedly paternalistic and self-contained existence, which a quarter of a century of progressive taxation has virtually destroyed.

Here Edward VII. relaxed and became the country squire. And the pride he took in his property was in evidence when on Sunday afternoons he would himself conduct his house party on a tour of the kennels, the dairy, gardens, hothouses, and stables, the long inspection culminating at the stud farm with a parade of the famous stallions and the mares, and with Queen Alexandra, basket in hand, dispensing carrots.

These promenades were often an ordeal for his guests, many of whom had no great interest in the turf or animal husbandry.

And since they were necessarily conducted at a slow pace and entailed much standing around in the winter cold, they were sure invitations to grippe. Indeed, it was strongly suspected that severe attacks of pneumonia which subsequently whisked off several distinguished guests were contracted while they had to listen to Grandpapa's description of how Persimmon won the Derby.

In the misty gallery of childhood memories the portrait of my grandfather seems bathed in perpetual sunlight. He was in his sixties, in the twilight of his life, when his personality began to mean something to me. And I can say in all truth that I have yet to find the man who could match his vitality, his sheer joie de vivre.

CWL To Reorganize Study Clubs

MARMORA, Jan. 16—(ENS)—Catholic Women's League met Tuesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Black, in the chair.

Mrs. R. E. Maloney reported that she and Mrs. L. P. Hughes had made ten visits to the sick and shut-ins and Mrs. W. Forestell and Mrs. F. Reynolds volunteered for this duty for the coming month.

A report was read from Mrs. Rose Johnston, advising of clothing, magazines and other articles forwarded to the western missions. The president exhibited a fancy quilt and advised the members that a similar one would be made, and tickets would be sold on it for a draw in aid of the new carpet fund.

The president advised that the groups of study clubs would be re-organized before Lent.

Rev. Father Farrell then addressed the members, speaking on outstanding events in the past year.

A discussion was held on ways and means to raise money and it was decided to hold a party in the school January 20.

The meeting then adjourned and a few games of bingo were played, after which a delicious lunch was served by the ladies of Group 8.

Ask Conference To Halt Prices

By The Canadian Press

Re-imposition of a price ceiling on grapes, further talk of return of the butter price ceiling and a Consumers' Association call for a conference to halt rising living costs are among latest developments on the Canadian food price front.

The butter ceiling reports circulated in Ottawa where it was suggested the price might be pegged at 60 or 65 cents a pound.

The grape announcement resulted from a Government decision to allow between 40 and 50 carloads of grapes to enter Canada from the United States. Effective today, wholesalers will be allowed a 15-per-cent. mark-up. Retailers who buy from wholesalers in Canada may make a profit of 30 per cent and direct importing retailers are allowed a 35-per-cent. profit.

The living costs conference suggestion came from the Canadian Association of Consumers, which grew out of the wartime consumer branches sponsored by the Prices Board. It urged the meeting to plan joint action by agriculture, labor, consumers, trade, industry and Government to stop the price upsurge.

BURNING UP THE WATER—Little flakes of snow are all right for some folks as a track for skiing, but in Florida, where snow appears only on refrigerators that need defrosting, they do it on water. It takes top speed and nice balance to do it as champions Nance Stilley and Glenn Kirkpatrick are doing it here. The fine spray makes it appear that they are really burning up the water.

Say AHA Team Appears Good

BOSTON, Jan. 16 — (AP). — The American Hockey Association's team now en route to the Olympic competition at St. Moritz, Switzerland, appears to be one of the strongest amateur squads ever assembled in the United States.

Whether the team will compete —whether for that matter, any American team will compete in the winter games—now occupies all the attention of American and Swiss officials. The AHA team is recognized by the Swiss organizing committee, but has been spurned by the American Olympic committee.

Coach Johnny Garrison, a member of the 1936 United States Olympic team and veteran of several European tours before and since, is set for his goalies, both of his defensive tandems and two of his three forward lines.

With an eye on New England's wealth of amateur talent, the AHA slected Boston as its training site and Garrison's call for candidates was answered by a promising group that included several recent Dartmouth stars.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Thursday was visitors' day at our big open bonspiel. So completely did they dominate the play that W. Walsey of Gravenhurst won the primary event with the veteran Percy Skitch of Lindsay coming through in the consolation. The games, as usual were witnessed by a large crowd and maybe the most interesting part of the whole day's play were the games put up by J. Ridpath and J. Payne, both of Lakefield and, as we are told, both are over 80 years of age. They were heartily congratulated by all. Today we see the finals and that will wind-up a week of wonderful curling.

On Thursday afternoon many members of the executive of the Nashua Paper Co. paid our club a visit and were entertained at a game of curling by members of the club. They were greatly impressed with the plant and promised that they would make it an annual affair.

Saturday's program—2:00 p.m.—men's bonspiel; 7:30 p.m.—mixed rink bonspiel.

China's coal reserves are estimated at about 243,670,000,000 tons.

CANADIENS SHOW COMBINATION — Tony Leswick, of New York Rangers, found plenty of opposition as he tried to shoot the puck into the net during the ice battle between the Rangers and Montreal at New York on Sunday. Although the Canadiens' goalie, Bill Durnan, seems to have the net well protected, his teammate, Hal Laycoe, comes in to help block Leswick's scoring try. Rangers won, 3-1.

Girls' and men's basketball on tap locally this week-end for hoop fans. At eight tonight in the YWCA, Nurses tangle with St. Paul's in a femmes' fixture, followed at nine by Normals vs. CGE. While Nurses meet Kawarthas on Monday. The male scraps up at the Collegiate gym tomorrow eve, the main melee being between a Toronto senior team, West End "Y", and our Outboard Marines, who were Ontario intermediate "A" champs last season. Prelim features a mixed game, meaning guys vs. girls—Neill's of the YW against the YM junior boys. PCVS junior "A" boys are off to Cobourg tonight. So there you are, fans.

We kicked yesterday on a few puck rules, and we'll squawk today on too much whistle-blowing in basketball. This item from Chicago covers it: "The case against basketball referees, a matter pending with varying degrees of warmth ever since the game was invented, has reached crescendo proportions. Even winning coaches are hollering. Western conference commissioner K. L. Wilson remarked that the big nine is introducing a bit of new blood to its officiating ranks. Simultaneously in Lexington, Ky., Coach Dolph Rupp of the perennially successful Kentucky Wildcats could be heard to murmur: 'Whistles, whistles, all you hear is whistles!' It might, Rupp added, be a good idea to give the game back to the girls."

Jumping Ski Coach

Bob Currie, jumping coach of the Peterborough Ski Club, says lessons in jumping will be given anyone interested at 1.30 each Saturday at the Nassau jump from now till Feb. 7. That's when the big Ontario zone championships are held in a two-day meet here, jumping and cross-country Feb. 7 with slalom and downhill the next day. A big event and it'll draw top outside competition from all over the province. The Nassau jump is one of the few Class "A" jumps in Ontario now. Currie has three pairs of jumping skis available and he'll provide accommodation if candidates will phone him at 3205. The jump is reported in excellent condition.

Mrs. Frank Lundy of 4 Brewer St. has organized the Trojanettes, and has 16 or 17 girls ranging in age from 12 to 15 playing hockey on two teams, Black Hawks and Canadiens. They start a series tomorrow eve at 7.45 at Turner Park, playing three 10-minute periods. Girls lined up so far are: Linda Jordan, Edna Nice, Dotty Starr, Dorothy Dunk, Shirley Peryer, Esther Robinson, Shirley Succee, Rita Naylor, Elsie Davis, Betty Richmond, Joyce Succee, Joan Dunk, Phyllis Peryer, Marie Robinson, Betty Carl and Marjorie Wood. These young lasses ought to have a lot of fun, and they may play softball next summer.

Kingston Vs. Petes

Big hockey game tonight, of course, is the OHA senior "B" fixture at Omemee between Kingston Saints and the Petes. Latter are out to (a) keep pace with the loop-leading Legionnaires and (b) keep intact their two-season undefeated record on Omemee ice. They lost in Kingston but 'twas lack of condition the last 10 minutes of play and right now they should be ready to maul the Saints—as Legion did the other e'en—in a hot go. Lot of rivalry betwixt the Kingston and Petes' crews and sure to be some swell fast and rugged hockey dished up on a fast sheet of ice. And those fancy Petes' pattern plays should click nicely — and they're really worth watching. Ought to be a big Friday night crowd on deck for it.

Industrial Puck Loop commenced operations last p.m. on Quaker ice with two tilts, the CPC-Marines' joust being postponed. Quakers defeated De Laval 8-2 with the Willshaw boys supplying the spark, while Colts and Millbrook battled it out to a 7-all draw. McDowell, D. Edmunds, Close and J. Basciano each accounted for two tallies in this scrap. Schedule will be drawn up for publication in a few more days. The loop will put up a trophy for the winners and a general banquet afterward.

[illegible] precedent to follow when he ruled at the [illegible] cup match in Peterborough last week that when two sides (Lindsay and Fenelon Falls) ended the 16 ends a tie, there should be a flip of a coin to determine which side should start the extra end. Fenelon won the toss and consequently had the last stone on both sheets of ice. On the other hand, when rinks are tied the rule has always been to proceed with the extra end and the rink that won the last regular end plays the first stone, the same as in all rink games. It so happened that on the extra ends Peterborough won the game with the last stone. In many a match or bonspiel event the best skips very often give the second last end to their opponents so that they in turn will have the last stone. There you have it, Mr. Downey."

Gerow Ready To Play Against Peterborough

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 16—Officials of Belleville's Army, Navy, Airforce "Vets", local OHA senior "B" representatives, announced today that their speedy left winger Walt Gerow will be back in the lineup tonight when the Vets meet Peterbroough "Legion" in the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Gerow has been out of action since Christmas, when he was injured in an exhibition game with the Queen's intercollegiate squad.

Art Plumey will be in goal for the Vets, replacing Herbie Hayes, who sustained a broken nose in the game with Peterborough Hockey Club Tuesday night.

Leafs Soundly Beaten 8-4 By Fighting Canadiens

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Those well-built, glum-faced gents stepping off the Montreal train in Toronto this morning were a frustrated band of hockey players who, when they're at work, wear the uniform of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

When they left Toronto they'd been all set to return as the new leaders of the National Hockey League.

Alas! They returned after a walloping 8-4 defeat by the lowly Montreal Canadiens.

That word "lowly" refers to the position of the Canadiens in the NHL standing. Canadiens are fifth, although the victory put them within a point of the fourth place Boston Bruins. The Leafs are second by a point to the Detroit Red Wings.

The Canadiens are never "lowly" when it comes to a fight with their arch-opponents. For most of the first period in fact it was as much a fight as a hockey game, and the Canadiens did not get the worst of it.

Many Brawls

First Roger Leger and Bill Ezinicki indulged in a wrestling bout that got them both penalties for roughing. Then Butch Bouchard and the same Wild Bill Ezinicki traded punches, with big Butch throwing lefts and rights and Ezinicki retaliating valiantly before they were thrown in the cooler with major and minor penalties. Ken Reardon and Gus Mortson provided a second-ring spectacle with their own brawl 50 feet up the ice. Reardon was chased for this one.

That first period ended with Leafs on top by 3-2, and it was the last time they had the lead. Canadiens were ahead 4-3 after the second. Glen Harmon scored twice for Montreal, and their other goals were scored by Bouchard, Ken Mosdell, Tod Campeau, Elmer Lach, Roger Leger and Maurice Richard. Canadiens had Billy Reay on the "punch line" with Richard and Lach in place of the injured Toe Blake.

Toronto's goal-getters were rookie Syd Smith, Howie Meeker, Max Bentley and big Harry Watson.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Syl Apps and Max Bentley, Toronto's crack snipers, picked up one and two points respectively last night to move closer to leader Buddy O'Connor in the NHL scoring race, while Elmer Lach of Montreal surged back into the big seven with a three-point effort. Apps now has 35 points, two less than O'Connor, and Max Bentley has 34. Lach moved into fifth spot with 31 points, two less than Detroit's Jim McFadden.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts
O'Connor, New York	16	21	37
Apps, Toronto	15	20	35
M. Bentley, Toronto	17	17	34
McFadden, Detroit	16	17	33
Lach, Montreal	15	16	31

Guelph Tramples Young Rangers In 10-2 Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Guelph Biltmores in their desperate bid for a play-off berth trampled Ed Wildey's last-place Toronto Young Rangers 10-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A fixture at Galt last night.

Bill Sherry's eighth-place Guelph squad are now five points behind Stafford Smythe's Toronto Marlboros in sixth and last play-off spot. Guelph has garnered nine victories and one tie in their 26 starts this season. The hapless Rangers have two victories in their 25 tries.

The senior loop saw no action last night but the fourth-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen announced that playing coach Flash Hollett's contract was ended last night by the club executive.

Hollett, former star in National Hockey League, has been ill recently and is not expected to don skates for the balance of the season. He saw action in about 15 league games and his scoring tally was 16 points—five goals and 13 assists.

Heller Coach

It was agreed that Wilf Heller, former professional hockey player and brother of Ott Heller, former New York Rangers star, be appointed coach.

Heller played with Kitchener in the old Canadian-American League, and with Windsor, Syracuse and London in the International League. He also coached the Kitchener juniors four years ago.

The club is applying to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to bring in a replacement for Hollett.

Lanky Lorne Ferguson, Biltmore's speedy left winger, led the Guelph attack at Galt with five goals. The other tallies were scored by Frank Bathgate, Yacker Flynn, Bun Martin, Tatter McClellan and Ron Plumb. Young Rangers' two goals were netted by Reg Spragge.

SPONSOR SR. A LACROSSE

The Crescent Athletic Club will sponsor the Owen Sound entry in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A league next summer. The team, formerly known as the Georgians, will be called the Crescent ACs.

Ramblers Win 7-1

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 16—(CP)—Two-goal performances by Ott Heller and Chick Webster and a fine goaltending display by Chuck Rayner gave New Haven Ramblers a 7-1 victory over Indianapolis Capitals in the only American Hockey League game last night. Jack Lancien, Jean Paul Denis and Jean Paul Lamirande completed the Rambler scoring while Nels Podolsky averted a shutout for the losers.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Governors of the National Hockey League decided seven years ago today to impose automatic fines of $25 each on players taking part in fights they did not originate. The rule was intended to discourage free-for-all brawls similar to those which had broken out in New York, Chicago and Montreal during the 1940-41 season.

Delays Training For Olympic Sprint Race

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP). — Mel Patton, Southern California's Olympic sprint hope, does not plan to start training until March 1 this year and won't race until Mid-April. He suffered a leg injury after a long season last year.....Johnny Niggeling, former big league knuckleball pitcher, recently purchased a movie theatre at Jasper, Minn. Sharp Needle.

After Rhode Island's basketball team St. Johns recently, Coach Keaney told local scribes how his team had been playing badly until he mystified the boys by quoting inspirational poetry between the halves....At the next meeting Frank McGuire of St. John's, gleeful over an upset against City College affirmed that he had adopted the Keaney system...."I walked into the dressing room and started to recite a poem," McGuire explained. The boys said: 'We've got to win this one for the coach. He's going nuts.'"

AHL Patter,

When Mike Karakas played a couple of games recently in the nets for Providence Reds of the American Hockey League, he inaugurated his 18th season as a professional hockey player. There is only one other player in the American League at present with a longer record for professional participation than "Iron Mike." He is Ott Heller, starring in his 19th season in the play for pay ranks, the last two as a member of New Haven Ramblers ...It is always helpful to have some element to offset the pain of any kind of injury. Most players in the AHL have a unique insurance policy, that pays them $5 a stitch for any sewing up job that may be required after a hectic game on the ice. After some of the hard hitting games played this season, the doctors' needles have been working overtime.

Quebec Skiers Eye Another Sister Duo

MONTREAL, Jan. 16 (CP). — Another pair of racing twins are slowly rising to the position of champion skiers, in a pattern similar in some respects to that of the Wurtele twins. They are Judy and Ann Kirby, 13-year-old daughters of "Chick" Kirby, Montreal soccer player and golfer.

Judy won the interscholastic combined honors last year. Unlike Rhona and Rhonda Wurtele who usually finish seconds apart, Judy, with a 20-pound weight advantage finishes several places ahead of her sister. She placed third in a recent downhill race at St. Sauveur in the heart of the Laurentian skiing zone. Ann placed 11th.

Judy like competitive racing but Ann is not too keen on it.

Much of their training took place on the wind-swept slopes of St. Jovite where they had the opportunity of skiing with the Canadian Junior Champion, Lucille Wheeler. The girls are not one-sided sport enthusiasts. They take an active part in swimming, riding and basketball.

The day that he decides to quit pounding leather and begin pounding ivory, the clever, colored Canadian lightweight, Li'l Arthur King, faces a happy future. King, although he has never taken a lesson in his life, is a very proficient pianist and has had offers to take up music seriously. One leading music-lover offered to pay the dusky boxer's tuition fees if he'd give up the ring for serious piano study.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Joe Louis' dismal winning effort against Jersey Joe Walcott was the biggest disappointment of 1947 to the sports editors of the United States who contributed answers to the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

Those who had come to expect the Brown Bomber to make short work of all opposition were let down by his dull effort against the 33-year-old challenger who twice knocked him down.

Choice of Louis was not unanimous. In fact it probably would have been a toss-up between Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals for "most disappointing performance" if the heavyweight fight had not resulted in such a commotion.

George Panter, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, yesterday said he had called a meeting of the OHA general executive for next Monday night. Among the matters to be discussed is St. Catharines Tee-Pees' protest of a game won by Guelph Biltmores in the junior A series Jan. 10.

Fred L. Mandel, Jr., announced at yesterday's National Football League meeting that he had sold his Detroit club to the Detroit Football Company for an unannounced sum but that he will retain a financial interest for three years. The purchasing company is a seven-man syndicate headed by Lyle Fife, electrical supply company owner, who has been named president of the club.

Two suits asking more than $250,000 in damages will be filed, probably today, on behalf of two Los Angeles Negro professional golfers who were barred from the Richmond open golf tournament by the Professional Golfers Association, lawyer John Rowell announced in Los Angeles yesterday. Plaintiffs in the action are Bill Spiller and Red Rhodes who were barred from competing in the $10,000 tournament by a PGA ruling which recognizes only Caucasians in tournaments.

Enter 135 Rinks In Quebec 'Spiel

QUEBEC, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Ancient Quebec today hung out the welcome mat for the first of a record total of 125 outside rinks entered to play in the 35th international bonspiel of the province starting Monday.

While visiting rinks from outside Quebec province will have their sights trained on winning the Lieutenant-Governor's trophy and the international championship, 10 provincial rinks will battle it out for the provincial title.

A new Quebec champion is certain to be declared—at the same time winning the right to advance to the national playdowns at Calgary.

Practically every centre in the Maritimes is represented among the entries for the international championship and 10 other major trophies. Also in the fight—in the gentlemanly way of curling, of course—for these prizes are several entries from the United States and centres in Ontario, including Toronto, Oshawa and Petawawa.

Prairie Teams Ones To Beat

EDMONTON, Jan. 16 — (CP). —Alberta and Saskatchewan hockey fans are as convinced as ever that their teams, both junior and senior, are the ones to beat in the Dominion this year.

Particular pride is taken in the two-province Western Canada Senior Hockey League, with only nint points separating the leading Calgary Stampeders from the bottom-place Lethbridge Maple Leafs.

In the junior leagues the competition is not spread so generally among all the teams, two clubs in each of the three circuits being rated as tops, the others scrambling for positions, but not showing too well in the statistics.

In the senior loop, Calgary — which last year reached the Allan Cup final—is maintaining a slight lead over the second-place Regina Capitals. A close third, three points behind the Stamps ond only one behind Regina, are Edmonton Flyers.

The rise of Saskatoon Quakers, currently two points behind Flyers with a total of 26, characterized league play during the last two weeks. Quakers won seven straight and then dropped three straight, but came back Thursday with a victory.

STOVEPIPE WELLS, Calif. — Water flowed at 40 gallons a minute today from a new-found well in the parched wastes of Death Valley where gold-seekers died of thirst in the days of the forty-niners. The well was uncovered by drillers who sank a 200-foot shaft.

Irish Actors Success In First Play At Grand Theatre

By FRED KERNER.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 16 (CP)—A finely polished performance of George Bernard Shaw's lengthy and at times wordily unwieldy dissertation on love, life, religion, Ireland and British politics — "John Bull's Other Island"—was given by the Gate Theatre Players of Dublin last night in their North American premiere at the Grand Theatre here.

Presented with the understanding that only an Irish company could be expected to give the satiric philosophy of Shaw, the play was a masterpiece of direc... and smoothly restrained acting.

The acting of the co-creators of the Gate Theatre-Hilton Edwards and Michael MacLiammoir —added to that of Edward Golden, were the highlights of the production. Edwards, who doubles as director of the company, was delightfully blundering as the dyed-in-the-wool British Liberal who feels his life worth living since he discovered it was his "lot to save the Irish."

Sharing the acting honors, Mr. MacLiammoir, the talented playwright, artist, and actor, drew a compassionate picture of the Irishman "foolish in his wiseness." Balanced against the near burlesque broadness of the company of the play, MacLiammoir's performance is warm, understanding heartfelt.

Forcefully presenting the serious side of Shaw's philosophy, Mr. Golden as the disrobed priest stands in sharp relief to the "in English earnest" Tom Broadbent, the part so cleverly conceived by Mr. Edwards.

Designer Draws Ambitious Plan For New Berlin

By KEITH GARNER

BERLIN, Jan. 16— (Reuters) Berliners by the hundreds are visiting a half-ruined building in their city's Russian sector to inspect plans for rebuilding Berlin as a fitting capital for the Fourth Reich.

A new Reichstag, a new foreign office and a new diplomatic quarter are all provided for in the plans, produced by one of the city's foremost architects at the request of Berlin's city administration.

In 100 years' time, the planners hope, Berlin will rise again as a city of concrete arcades and great through roads, equipped with airports for baby planes but still recognizable as the capital that disappeared after years of bombing and 10 days' shelling and seige by Red Army troops.

The plans provide for great new super-highways to connect the capital with key provincial centres and new networks of railroads radiating from a vast, new central terminus.

Chief of the planners is Dr. Karl Bonatz, grey-haired architect who is in charge of the Berlin city assembly's planning and building department.

Maps and models of his new Berlin have been drawing big crowds since they were placed on show in Berlin's bomb-damaged Stadthaus, deep in the maze of ruined streets that once formed the main business area.

His plan regarded by town planning experts as probably the most practical so far produced, contains these main points.

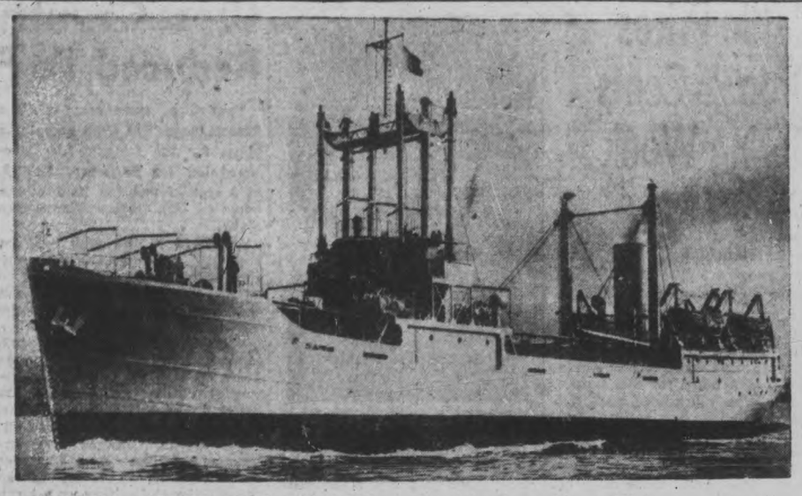
1. Retention of the historic character of the centre of Berlin. The principal streets would be rebuilt but "modernized and rationalized" where necessary.

Circular Road

2. The construction of new through thoroughfares to relieve traffic congestion and the provision of a new circular road around the inner city with outlets to a network of new super-highways.

3. Extension of the subway and surface electric railways to reduce to a minimum the number of street cars and busses on the streets.

4. Utilization where possible of the 21,000,000 cubic feet of rubble that will have to be cleared away before any real start can be made.



Dr. Bonatz says that he believes the greatest fault with all previous plans for rebuilding Berlin was that their originators proposed scrapping the entire city layout and starting from scratch on entirely new lines.

" I want Berlin to re-emerge as one of the world's great modern capitals," he said, "but at the same time I want the next one or two generations to live in a city that is at least recognizable as the city we knew in 1939."

The Bonatz plan also provides for the retention of famed Unter Den Linden, now a pot-holed roadway running through ruined shops, museums and hotels in the Russian sector.

West of the Unter Den Linden, the Tiergarten now a dreary waste sown with cabbage, would be replanted with trees and lined with mulberry bushes.

One important feature of the plan is the removal from its present site in the Tiergarten of the Reichstag building, badly damaged by fire in the early days of the Hitler regime and reduced to a hulk by subsequent bombing.

COASTAL VESSEL OFF ON SEAL HUNT — "North Voyageur" sailed from Quebec recently, on the first lap of her voyage that will take her on an adventurous sealing expedition. She is now bound for St. Johns, Newfoundland, with cargo and after unloading will proceed to Halifax to be outfitted for the seal hunt. With a gross tonnage of 1,014 tons, the North Voyageur is already equipped for winter work. The seals are caught on fields of ice floes off the east coast of Newfoundland. The sealing vessels usually sail for the hunt on a specified date and are guided to the ice floes most plentifully supplied with seals by airplanes.

Pension Plans Under Review

OTTAWA, Jan. 16.— (CP).—Contributory old age pension and health insurance have been under constant review by the health department since the Dominion-Provincial conference ended in failure in 1946, but so far the plans have not been submitted to cabinet for approval, it was learned yesterday.

One health department source said he did not think the plans had yet been put in the form of bills which could be submitted to Parliament. Health Minister Martin declined to say whether the plans will be submitted to Parliament this year and added he could not comment on reports that comprehensive plans were ready.

The Department source said he was certain that both a national health insurance program and a contributory old age pension system will be introduced eventually in Canada, but he did not know how soon.

Another source said the government still considers the social security measures outlined at the ill-fated Dominion - Provincial conference as part of its platform.

Alberta Babies Popular In California

EDMONTON, Jan. 16 — (CP)— California had taken the greatest number of Alberta babies sent to the United States for adoption, with Utah second and Montana and Wisconsin following, said a clipping from the Chicago Sun dated March 27, 1945, and read to the royal commission appointed by the Alberta government to investigate welfare conditions in the province.

The clipping, submitted by Dr. Charlotte Whitton at the close of her cross-examination yesterday, was read and entered by her counsel, George Steer.

Dr. Whitton produced it to illustrate her observation that there had been wide interest in the export of Canadian babies to the United States before she conducted her study of Alberta's welfare organization for the provincial chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

The Chicago newspaper report said childless American couples had found an oasis in Alberta and that civilian contractors and their families pouring into the province to work on the Alaska highway had quickly learned there were babies for adoption. A San Francisco woman had been first to discover this. She adopted one child and later four more. Word spread by grapevine.

Chief Justice W. R. Howson, commission chairman, said that when the commission considered legal argument later on it would want to know the significance of the exhibit.

Four Housing Bills Before Legislature

QUEBEC, Jan. 16—(CP)—The Quebec Government's concern over the problem of housing was indicated by distribution of two housing bills as the Provincial Legislature went into session yesterday and notice on the order paper of two more.

Premier Duplessis told the Legislative Assembly at its brief opening day meeting he hoped for a brisk session and indications were that the assembly would soon take up the proposed housing laws.

The bills issued to members soon after Quebec's lieutenant-governor, Sir Eugene Fiset, read the throne speech which put the fourth session of the 22nd Legislature in motion call for a $100,000 inquiry into the whole problem of housing and establishment of a provincial housing loan system.

HOBBIES FOR HEALTH

Building Costs Up 91 Per Cent

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (CP) — Climbing costs of labor and materials have sent building costs in Canada to levels from 76 to 91 per cent. above what they were in 1939, but despite the Dominion's many-sided building program, the pressure for accommodation still is growing.

That was what Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Government's housing financing agency, reported yesterday in a review of major housing trends for the first 10 months of 1947. It said increased cost of house-building in Canada would be reflected in the price of new dwellings to the extent that labor efficiency and contractor's profits remain unchanged.

The corporation injected the climbing birth rate and continued high rate of family formation in Canada as factors in the housing pressure. It said the average family formation rate of 65,000 a year in wartime was being maintained and there was a sharp increase in births which added to the pressure of population on the nation's supply of housing.

A calf run of some 2,700 head sold at $21-$2 for choice vealers. Plain lights went downward to $11 and grassers brought $10-$11.50.

A small run of $2,700 hogs went to packers at $28.50 for Grade A and $28.10 for B1. Sows brought $21.50 dressed. Smaller buyers were largely out of the market as pork and bacon sales declined in retail trade.

Dorland Remanded

TORONTO, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Albert Dorland, who surrendered to Toronto police a week ago to face a narcotics charge, was remanded another week for trial yesterday in Magistrate's Court. Magistrate F. C. Cullen consented to renew bail in the amount of $20,000 as Dorland, his counsel, G. A. Martin, and his bondsmen appeared.

23 Estonians Come To Canada

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 — (AP). — The last lap in a long journey was begun last night by 23 young Estonians, who wanted to live in the United States but couldn't.

They were heading by train for Kitchener, "disappointed" but "not resentful."

For the last four months, they've been confined on Ellis Island where the group was sent by immigration authorities after they landed last Sept. 18 at Savannah, Ga. Their sea trip from Europe in a 45-foot sailboat had taken 75 days.

They had come here, as one of them said last night, because "our homeland is no longer for us, but for Russia."

When deportation proceedings against them began, because immigration laws prohibit their settling in the United States, the National Lutheran Council intervened. Working through the Canadian Lutheran world relief, the council obtained permission from the Canadian government for the group to immigrate to that country.

Waves, But No Wind

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 — (AP) — Forty-foot waves on a windless sea caused the liner America to arrive 14 hours late yesterday from England and Eire. The liner's mystified master, Commodore Harry Manning, said "it was a big dead sea without whitecaps some 700 miles in circumference centred about 300 miles east of New York. "In all my 35 years of sea I have never encountered such a strange manifestation of the ocean," Manning said.

HEADS LABOR COUNCIL— Mrs. M. Mayne, elected president of Oshawa Trades and Labor Council at the council's annual meeting. She is believed to be the only woman council president in Canada.

Cross Country Ski Run Reduced To Five-mile Hike

Executive members of the Peterborough Ski Club completed plans for the Ontario Ski Meet scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 7, at a special meeting held at the home of Hal. Barker Wednesday night.

Members of the club will be admitted free to the ski jump, and arrangements are being made to have spectators who park on the east bank of the river, make some contribution to the expenses.

Vic Griffiths reported complete cooperation in the matter of adequate snowplowing, and the Provincial Police will be asked to assist in handling traffic. Bus service is being arranged for. Andy Rutter will be the announcer, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce are being offered the privilege of setting up a large tent to sell coffee and hot dogs, and this will also serve as a shelter.

Several skiers wish to compete in the cross country run, and also in the ski-jumping, and because both events are held the same day, the cross country event is being reduced to five miles. Hot milk will be prvided competitors in the Kiwanis building at Jackson Park, supplied free by the Ski Club, and scouts are cooperating with the officials in allowing use of the building.

The cross country event starts at ten in the morning, over a course lying in Smith and Monaghan townships, and the jumping events start at two in the afternoon. Don Dennison is laying out the course, assisted by Otto Laderach, Bob Currie and Hal Barker.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

PLENTY COLD

Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., reports that it was 36 below zero Thursday morning at Burleigh. At another spot on Stony lake, Crowe's Landing, the thermometer is said to have dropped to 35 below.

FINDS ODD SPOON

Vincent Crebar at Downer's Corners recently found a souvenir spoon stamped with a replica of blockhouse and palisade of Fort Dearborn, 1830. He was levelling the ground at his "chicken palace". The date does not suggest that it is an antique.

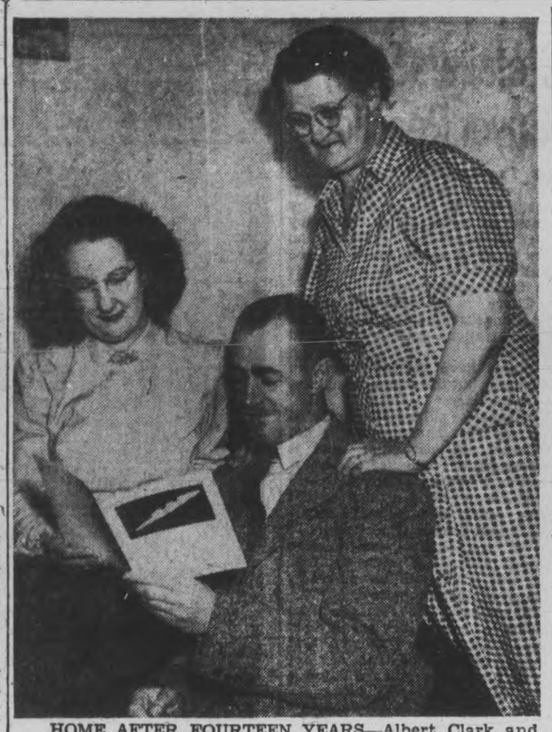
DIDN'T JOIN MOUNTIES

An item in Thursday's Examiner read, City Officer Joins Mounties. This was incorrect, in that the officer, Constable Bill Aggas, is not joining the Mounties, but is going to Mounted Police School at Ottawa for six weeks training course in fingerprinting. He will return to the Peterborough police force on completion of the course.

WON'T BOOST HAIRCUTS

Ottawa barbers will keep the price of haircuts at 50 cents, equal to the new minimum provincial charge, and will not raise it unless they are forced to by the price spiral. That is the substance of a news item in the Ottawa Citizen, of interest to other spots in Ontario where the fee, which used to be 40c a noggin, hopped over the 50c, scorning it, and landed at the 60c level with not a word of dissent from the clipper chorus.

TWO FIRE ALARMS



Overheated pipes on one occasion, and overheated chimney and pipes on the other caused two fire alarms Wednesday. Midmorning overheated pipes at the home of L. Dunford, 302 Braidwood Ave., brought firemen to that address. Early in the evening overheated chimney and pipes at the residence of Mrs. S. Abbott, 642 George St. were checked by the fire department. No damage resulted in either case.

DP WOMEN EN ROUTE

In a shipload of displaced persons clearing from European ports, there are 16 women destined for Peterborough. They would normally have arrived in the city Monday but due to rough weather they are not expected until the middle of next week. It is planned to meet them with cars at Port Hope and take them to the YWCA where they will be supper guests before going to the NES office in the evening to meet their new employers.

CAR CLIPS SLEIGH

A Colonial Coach station wagon received damages estimated at $25 when it collided with a city owned horse-drawn sleigh about nine o'clock Wednesday morning. The sleigh, driven by Pat O'Keefe, 182½ Hunter street, had nearly completed a U-turn at the intersection of Hunter street and Driscoll Terrace when the station wagon, driven by Claude Bertrand, 178 Auburn street, hit the side of the sleigh. Driving conditions were icy. There was no damage to the sleigh. PC S. Keliele investigated.

HOME AFTER FOURTEEN YEARS—Albert Clark and his war bride, Muriel, show his mother, Mrs. Agnes M. Clark, 56 Victoria Ave., a menu from the liner Queen Elizabeth that carried Albert to Canada. It was the young couple's first occasion to enjoy abundant meals for many years. Albert, only 17 months out of uniform during his 14-year stint in the British armed forces, saw service in four major theatres of war. His wife was a member of the railroad police in London during "the whole show."

Veteran Absent 14 Years Visits City With War Bride

"The meat on my plate today is more than we have for a whole week in England," was the comment of Mrs. Albert Clark, who arrived in Peterborough Friday with her husband, a native of the city who has been abroad in service with the Scots Guards for the past 14 years.

Mr. Clark, son of Mrs. Agnes M. Clark, 56 Victoria Street, who has travelled the equivalent of a round-the-world trip by sea, alone during his service overseas, has returned to the city to take up residence here. His log of travels includes four trans-Atlantic crossings.

Since 1934, he has been a member of the permanent force of the British Imperial Army in the Scots Guards and has served in England, Egypt, Africa, France and Italy.

Until 1938, when he was in service in England and later transferred to Egypt, he spent a month's vacation in Peterborough. Securing his discharge from the permanent force in 1938, he was out of uniform for 17 months—the longest non-service period he has had in the 14 years.

At the outbreak of war in 1939 he re-joined his former outfit for service. As a member of a ski battalion, he trained under the famed French Chasseurs, ski experts, at Mont Blanc and Chamonix. The unit was ready to embark for the Finnish front when the Russo-Finnish conflict ended. The order was recalled.

From there, he saw action in North Africa and Italy. Since his discharge, he has been a member of the railroad police in Lancashire.

His wife, the former Muriel Pert of Lancashire, he married in 1939. During the war years, she also served with the railroad police in London through some of the heaviest raids of the war. She recalls that at one attack, a heavy rocket-bomb landed less than two blocks from the nursery where she was stationed at the time. Her own home was demolished during the war.

This is the first visit of Mrs. Clark to Canada. Her first impressions of Peterborough, she says, are very nice. The array of food in Canada, she remarked, was perhaps the most amazing factor to people fresh from England. Pointing to a large basket of eggs on the dining-room table in her mother-in-law's home, she picked up two of the eggs.

"This is what you get in a month over there," she said—"if you're lucky."

The couple made the trans-Atlantic trip on the Queen Elizabeth, leaving England the third of this month. They arrived in New York on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark, who are staying with his mother at present, plan to take up residence in the city.

NAMED PRESIDENT

Bob Everett was elected this week president of the Peterborough cribbage and bridge club; vice-presidents are George Gimblett and Des Plewman; sec.-treas.; Al. McDougall; directors Percy Martyn, John Dishart, Morris Cowan, John Lee. They are holding an open cribbage tournament Tuesday night, for men and women, also, who are interested in this game.

Fewer Taxi-Cabs Operating Report Reveals

Judge S. L. Smoke clipped his string of 13 years as chairman of the Police Commission by "beating his associates to the draw" as they say in the westerns, and naming Mayor Ovens for the post at the Commission's first meeting of the year Thursday afternoon.

His Honor had passed out intimations before the meeting got under way, hinting that someone else should take a turn, and that someone else was either Mayor Ovens or Police Magistrate W. R. Philp. As soon as Harry Hamley, assistant city clerk, arrived in the Mayor's office to take the minutes, Judge Smoke said: "It is with great pleasure that I propose His Worship Mayor Ovens as chairman for this year."

Magistrate Philp seconded the motion, and Mayor Ovens had another new job.

"I don't know whether to thank you or not," he said.

"There should at least be a speech of acceptance," His Honor suggested, and in the same good humor "I think I'll be financial critic this year."

So, the Police Commission began its new year under pleasant auspices.

Mr. Hamley presented a sheaf of applications for taxi owner and driver's licenses. They were all aproved by Chief Constable John Thompson and were granted without question.

In 1947, Mr. Hamley said, there were 25 owners of taxis, 123 drivers and 66 cars in use.

Applications this year indicate a considerable decline. There are 22 owners of whom 20 are 'old' and two new; 71 drivers, 45 old and 26 new, and 63 cars. Three fewer cars, three fewer owners were shown by this report, and the number of drivers, according to the list of applications, is 52 less than last year.

The Commission spent an hour reviewing the text for a new book of police department instructions, orders, and other information which will be published in boklet form as a manual for officers and men, and especially for rookie constables. Judge Smoke had read it thoroughly, suggested various amendations for the purpose of avoiding repetition and or more precise grouping of rules and advice for convenient reference.

John A. Bradshaw was present representing the Police Association. The first draft was referred back to him and City Solicitor Huycke for revision and changes conforming with the Commission's suggestions and wishes.

Honest Caretaker Recovers Wallet

Caretakers of city rinks are to be congratulated for efforts and honesty, especially Leo O'Rourke custodian of the McDonnel Street rink. Last Friday night he found a wallet containing personal cards and papers and over three dollars in cash. It belonged to Don Willison, 266 McDonnel Street, who had lost it at the rink after coming out of a theatre.

Leo telephoned the house on Saturday and again on Monday and followed up by delivering Don's wallet to his mother at the family residence. He would take no reward and was happy to be of service. Don is a Grade 10 Industrial Arts student at PCVS, and works after hours to earn pocket money.

50 Women Taking Home Nursing Course St. John Ambulance Unit Has Heavy Program

Fifty women and girls of the city started this week on a twelve week course in home nursing, sponsored by the St. John's Ambulance Association here. In charge of instruction on the project is Miss Florence Vickers, Reg. N., Lady Divisional Superintendent of the brigade here.

The brigade has just completed a course for more than 20 women of the city in mothercraft, a course of instruction covering four months.

Following the home nursing course, the brigade will undertake to administer a short course in first aid, expected to last about six weeks.

The present home nursing work which is still open for new members, it is reported, meet every Monday and Wednesday night in the Salvation Army Hall. The number of applicants at the start made it advisable to split the course into two groups.

Examinations are held at the conclusion of each course of instruction, with certificates of proficiency granted those who attain a set standard.

Other officers of the division are: Miss Ivy Watkins, senior ambulance officer; Mrs. Betty Warran, assistant ambulance officer; Miss Mary Trotter, lance-corporal; Mrs. Ray Dixon, secretary.

For the coming summer, the brigdae will continue to assist at all large company and group picnics of the city, providing first aid and child care where called on.

Examiner Photographer Wins News Photo Contest

An action photo that caught Gavin Shearer of Indian River diving into the icy black water on Dec. 1 while local residents muffled in winter clothing looked on, won first prize prize for C. G. B. (Nick) Nickels, Examiner staff photographer, against a field of some 90 competitors in the December News Picture Contest sponsored by the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association.

Nickels first started snapping pictures while employed as mine accountant in the Patricia district of northwestern Ontario in 1934, and it has been his hobby ever since.

In 1936 he held a one-man show of northern photos for a week at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. Displayed as amateur photography, they portrayed life in the northwest as he saw it.

Later he completed a three-month photo assignment in northwestern Ontario for a Toronto photography firm interested in industrial themes. Mines, the fur trade, and transportation were covered and pictures appeared in issues of Financial Post and the Northern Miner as well as Saturday Night.

Against some 15,000 entrants in Sports Afield Annual photo competition, he took fourth place in the spring of 1937. The prize-winning shot was entered in the outdoor sports section.

For the next nine years he worked in commercial air transport (bush line) and his travels took in the territory from Eastern Arctic to Labrador, with a multitude of stops in between.

While employed with Canadian Pacific Airlines Nick took some publicity shots that are still used by them in national advertising.

He still contributes pictures to various Canadian and American publications from photo material gathered during years in the north "The north country" is Nick's spiritual homeland: he liked both the country and the people. The spirit of camaraderie he found there among bush pilots, lonely trappers, and pioneering inhabitants—all of them rugged individualists—he believes unsurpassed in the Dominion.

In April, 1947, he joined the staff of the Examiner as reporter-photographer: his first venture in press photography.

The picture of Shearer as he was about to hit the chilling water in order to win a local wager was picked on as a 'natural' to submit in the contest. Nick is already casting his expert eye about for another prize-winning theme.

Blame Icy Roads For Three Mishaps

Police reports of three accidents in the city Wednesday, involving a car and a truck in each case, made mention of the icy driving conditions at the time of the mishaps.

Slight damage was received by a tow-truck driven by Lorne McCartney, 223 Gorge St. and fender, frame and front end damage was caused to the car of Douglas Dunkwalter, 705 George St., when the two vehicles were in collision on Georg St. PC C. J. McGillen investigated.

Damage estimated at $50 to the car, with no damage to the truck, resulted from another car-truck accident at the corner of Parkhill Ave. and Donegal St. at 8:30 Thursday morning. The car was that of P. A. McNeely, 250 Barnardo St. The three-ton truck was driven by J. C. Ferguson, 399 Parkhill Rd. Report of PC S. Keliele mentioned icy roads.

The third accident, involving a truck driven by George Plumpton, 133 Aylmer St. and a car of the Goodwin Machine and Tool Co., parked on Brock St. resulted in about $15 damage to the car. PC E. Beatty investigated.

EXPENSIVE BEASTIES

The housefly is estimated to cause $65,000,000 damage annually and the clothes moth, $23,000,000.

Cost of Building Hospital Jumps $400,000 Estimated Cost $1,755,000

Construction costs of the new Peterborough Civic Hospital building may be an additional $400,000 over the figures estimated at the first of 1947, according to revised estimates of the architects received by the Board of Governors Thursday night. The new figure, which, it is stressed, was necessarily subject to much flexibility, is $1,755,000, compared to an estimated $1,338,000 in January last year.

An increase of 221,284 cubic feet for additions now planned has caused the revision, as well as the fact that the approximate cost per cubic foot is now estimated to be $1.25, up ten cents over the last year's figure.

Present plans calls for a total cubic footage of 1,180,000. Major items which have been added are: additional basement for the north wing of 80,000 cubic feet; pent house (additional) 17,000; west wing (additional) 43,225; east wing (additional) 14,896; north wing (additional) 13,167; increases to increases in room heights 26,396.

The governors also received in the report of the building committee—which was adopted—further details in interior construction projected for the hospital.

The general statement of types of finishes for the rooms indicated that terrazzo would be used as flooring in all service rooms, operating rooms and kitchen; linoleum in all other rooms except the basement, which would have asphalt tile.

Terrazzo, linoleum and asphalt tile will be used for bases.

Walls and ceilings will be hardwall plaster throughout, except for acoustic ceilings in corridors, service rooms, nurses' stations and as required.

Tentative figures, outlining operation of the present Civic Hospital during 1947, showed that, as present accounts can be figured, there will be a deficit of $14,750. It was pointed out that there would probably be a considerable change in this figure, as many factors have yet to be considered.

MOVING SALE

The India-Burma oil pipelines, built by the U. S. government at a cost of more than $31,000,000 during the war, sold for scrap for about $1,000,000.

Charlie Jones Awarded Medal

Charles Jones of Buckhorn has been awarded the Humane Society's silver medal in recognition of the personal sacrifice he was willing to make for the rescue of a dog at Green's Lake, as reported in the Examiner of Nov. 17 last.

In noting the courage and sympathy of Mr. Jones, the Society was not condoning the hunting of deer with dogs, a member affirmed to the Examiner. The Ontario Humane Society has a provincial award committee headed by Lt.-Col. E. V. McKague of Toronto. The most coveted is this silver medal with which Mr. Jones is being honored.

Weather Contrasts

In the last 30 hours Peterborough district has gone through a great variety of winter weather, from 20 below Tuesday midnight to 28 above today at 9:30 a.m. With the sudden rise in temperature came the snow. Three and one-half inches of it fell from 7:30 p.m. Thursday until 9:30 a.m. this morning. Most of it came down in the last hour when visibility was reduced, in Air Force parlance, to zero-zero, even the pigeons were walking. The heavy snow shower stopped within minutes revealing about eight-tenths of sky that was CAVU (ceiling and visibility unlimited).

Homemaker Service Approved For City

Agency Takes Over Home When Mother Is Sick

A new social agency was born Thursday night in Peterborough when more than 30 interested citizens under the chairmanship of James Dutton, Sr., voted to create a Visiting and Homemaker Service at a meeting held in the city council chambers.

Aim of the organization was defined by Miss Nesta Hinton, Nutritional Division and Homemaker Service, Toronto Red Cross Branch, as "An organization of competent women who will go into the home each day to care for the family while the mother is ill."

Stepping into the breach on such an occassion the Homemaker would find meals for the children, see they were sent off to school, do light laundry and general cleaning, and ensure that the breadwinner did not have to leave work in order to care for the temporarily uncared for children.

In a speech acquainting those present with the running of a Visiting and Homemaker Service, Miss Hinton briefly sketched the history of this organization from its beginning in Toronto in 1925. She estimated there were some 25 member-groups across Canada with 17 in Ontario.

By visits of Homemakers it was stated that young mothers often learned certain food recipes for their children, became familiar with improved kitchen techniques and became acquainted with latest household methods by example.

Women— preferably between ages of 25-45— of good health, happy disposition, and practical nature, would be the most acceptable applicants. No formal training would be required.

Homemakers would do no practical nursing. They would attend to simple bedside care under direction. One of their declared aims is to complement the work of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and the Children's Aid.

Service is not free but based on the ability-to-pay scale which might be nothing at all, a dollar or so, or $4.50 to $5.00 a day which is the highest fee charged.

The Supervisor was described as the key woman who understands the wealthy or poor home. On her devolves the greatest responsibility— hiring or firing the Homemakers, making financial, case, and staff decisions.

Emergency Cases Only.

It was emphasized by Miss Hinton that only emergency cases were eligible for help. Such cases of family disruption as T. B., Cancer, Desertion, or Death could not be helped except for a short while.

She pointed out that the organization did not handle social or health problems. It did not, she said, serve as a substitute for the Children's Aid and the V. O. N. but complemented them.

Application for membership in the Red Cross and Community Fund was passed unanimously by those present.

Nominatng committee consisting of Mr. Fred Overend, chairman; Mr. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. H. Eastwood, and Mrs. John Vernon, appointed by James Dutton retired to name a slate of officers.

Executive slate will be: Chairman, James Dutton; secretary, John E. Sullivan, treas; Wilson Gemmel; committee members, Miss Mary Ross, Sup. V. O. N.; Miss R. Young, Sup. Children's Aid Society; Miss G. Clarke, Sup. Public Health Nurses; Miss Mary Greer, Chief C. G. E. Nurse; Mrs. J. Hornal and Mrs. M. Roche.

Among those present who strongly advocated the new organization for Peterborough were: Miss Young, Miss Clark, Mrs. Eastwood, Mrs. Rae, Mrs. McGuire, police matron; Dr. Semple, George Street United Church; Rev. P. P. Butler, St. Peter's Cathedral; Mrs. Addyman, Local Council of Women, Miss Leta Brownscobe, Gen. Sec'y Young Womens' Christian Assoc.

Five Changes In County Council Four New Reeves, One Deputy

Five changes in the membership of Peterborough county council were personal results of the year-end elections that will be reflected at the opening of the first sessions of 1948 Tues., Jan. 20.

William E. Griffith replaces Carl Purdy as reeve of Belmont-Methuen; W. W. Dawson and Harry McIntyre succeed P. J. Mather and Harry Reid respectively as reeve and deputy reeve of Otonabee; Ernest J. Leeson follows F. Pollock as reeve of Havelock, and W. E. Pakenham will take the Norwood seat vacated by Rork Ferguson.

The other members who were re-elected are: Reeves Peter Pearson, Galway-Cavendish; Norman Wilson, Burleigh-Anstruther; Albert Hall, Chandos; Charles Flynn, Harvey township; James Gifford, Ennismore; Gilbert McIlmoyl, Smith; Melville H. Johnston, North Monaghan; Jeremiah Mahoney, Douro; William Darling, Dummer; James Humphries, Asphodel; Wm. C. Grant, Lakefield; and Deputy Reeve Ross Harrison of Smith.

Of the new men, Reeve Griffith comes back to the council from the eastern townships after an extended absence, and should feel at home again in chamber where he once presided as Warden. Nor will the county council be strange to Reeve Leeson of Havelock, who was for some time representative of the CPR village. Will W. Dawson has long been active in community affairs of Otonabee, and since his arrival a few years ago in its municipal administration he has moved on up to the chairmanship of the township council. He is successor to such representatives as Peter J. Mather, William A. Anderson, Morley E. Smithson and others back to the days of Col. Tom Johnston, who invested the chair of the Reeve of Otonabee with ability and distinction that became a virtual tradition in the county's inner circle.

Deputy-Reeve Harry McIntyre is a young newcomer, as associate of Reeve Dawson, of whom the late Morley Smithson had a high opinion. He made a cautious but significant prediction to The Examiner shortly after Mr. McIntyre was first elected to his township council. Mr. Smithson said: "Keep an eye on Harry McIntyre. He is one of the most promising young men I have seen taking up municipal work. I feel certain he will go places if he stays with it."

Mr. Pakenham will occupy the Norwood seat amply and genially filled by the veteran Rork Ferguson whose long popularity in the county and city was attested by his election to represent three municipalities, Dummer, Asphodel and Norwood. That is a record of service and preference rarely equalled by county councillors in this province. As a young Dummer farmer he set out on the path of municipal administration and finally reached the House of Commons as the member of parliament for Hastings-Peterborough.

The Examiner has compiled the personnel of local councils in Peterborough county. They are as follows:

Cabbage Supply Good

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Despite stratospheric prices, cabbage stocks in Canada are "still adequate," Finance Minister Abbott said last night. "At the moment, no one need worry," he said at a press conference, declaring supplies of the vegetable—now scarce at the retail level—would be "flushed out" eventually.

Dinosaur Suffered From Bone Disease

TORONTO, Jan. 16 (CP).—Suspicion that their prize Gorgosaurus Libratus was victim of a malignant growth prompted officials of the Royal Ontario Museum here to call in a few specialists and pop part of the 10,000,000-year-old dinosaur into hospital for X-rays.

But radiologists who diagnosed ailments of this 12 by 20 foot flesh-eating monster concluded that he didn't have cancer but osteomyelitis, inflammation of his deformed and fossilized fibula.

It all started when Dr. J. Llewellyn Little of the National Cancer Institute dropped into the museum to establish possibility that cancer could be traced to pre-historic times. Museum palaeontologist Dr. L. S. Russel obliged with the lower leg of the petrified dinosaur skeleton, ironically dubbed "Gorgie" by museum guards after Gorgon, the Greek maid who transformed observers into stone.

Good Samaritan Punches Parking Meter But Alas The Wallop Has Reverse Effect

"The next time I get a blankety-blank parking ticket I'm going to see somebody," said a George street business man this morning, probably put in bad humor by the cold wave.

It appears the man went into a barber shop for a shave and deposited two cents in the meter—for 24 minutes parking time. A friend thought he'd be a Good Samaritan, so he walked over to the meter, hit it a belt with his fist, but the meter went into reverse, and the flag flew up.

Sticking his head into the barber shop, the friend shouted, "Better put some money in that meter or you'll be pinched."

Muttering imprecations against the weather, the police and the City Council, the business man scooted out and deposited two more cents—no luck, the meter indicator didn't budge. Then he shoved two more coppers into the mechanical bandit—and it registered 24 minutes. Probably it figured the first two cents was to compensate for the pain and suffering imposed by the wallop it had received.

But that wasn't enough, the businessman had deposited four cents and got two cents worth of parking, so he hauled off and bounced his fist off the meter. The indicator didn't budge. So he went and had his shave, but by this time another customer had taken his place. When he came out half an hour later, there was a parking ticket on the car.

Then he really hit the ceiling—and headed for the city hall. But the city clerk was absent, so he paid the dollar. He just had to give somebody the gears, so he entered the police station.

"I'm sorry, sir, but the ticket hasn't come in yet," said the sergeant. "Besides if the meter isn't working you could have phoned us."

"Why should I spend another nickel to phone you. Those x?x;;--meters are mechanical devices and subject to error, maybe the oil froze—if there is any oil in the doggone thing. I'm gonna see the mayor or the judge." Then he went up to the coffee club, but none of them were lawyers, so they couldn't help him—and despite the weather, he's still sizzling.

RETAILER PRESIDENT — A. J. Dugal, CBE, of Montreal, who was elected president of the Canadian Retail Federation at the annual meeting held in Toronto.

Retailers Study Buyer Reaction

By The Canadian Press

The cost of living, apart from food, will be vitally affected by decisions now being made by manufacturers and retailers on the types of goods which will be put on store shelves and floors in the coming months.

There is considerable retail opinion that there will be more concentration on lower-priced products.

Shirts have been cited as an example, but the argument applies to most lines.

A superior shirt may be offered for say $8. The question is not whether the particular shirt is worth $8, but whether customers will buy at that price.

There is some evidence that they won't, and thus the argument that products must be made in a lower-price range. The lower price range might itself go up, but would still be far below many of today's price-tags.

Shirts have disadvantages as an example because they are in short supply and it is predicted that they will continue that way for some time. Nevertheless they are subject to buyer-resistance.

Materials available have, of course, considerable bearing on the price-range of goods produced; where high-price materials are in best supply, this is reflected in the cost of the finished article.

Falls Down Register Just Misses Furnace

SARNIA, Jan. 16 (CP).—Police and firemen rescued 18-months-old Dianye Fleck Thursday when she fell down a regsiter opening and became trapped in a cold-air pipe of a furnace in her parents' house.

Assistant Fire Chief George Esson said the child apparently lifted the register cover.

"If the pipe had been a little wider near the bottom, the youngster might have fallen right into the furnace," he said. "We had to take the cool-air pipe apart to get her out."

Great Power Project Begins

WINGHAM, Jan. 16.—(CP). — Premier Drew of Ontario opening the Progressive Conservative campaign in the Huron riding by-election, said last night in a broadcast address that the greatest power development in the history of the province now is under way in Ontario.

After commending Thomas Pryde of Exeter to Huron voters who will elect a successor Feb. 16 to the late Dr. R. Hobbs Taylor of Dashwood, a Progressive Conservative, he said that his government already has undertaken construction of plants which will produce 1,100,000 new horsepower.

"Furthermore, we have greatly increased our supply of power as a result of new arrangements made with producers of power outside of Ontario. In this way, quite apart from the new construction, we have increased our supply of power to a greater extent than it has ever been increased within a corresponding period.

THE EARL OF DUDLEY, one of Britain's foremost industrialists, who is now in Ottawa to discuss the serious steel supply situation with the Canadian Government.

Widow's Fund Reaches $20,000

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—The widow and five children of Ralph Margeson, 32-year-old taxi driver slain by gunmen last Nov. 11, now have a trust fund of almost $20,000, and it is being added to almost daily.

Leo Hurst, one of the five trustees, said the fund, established by the Business Men's Association of Mount Dennis, brings Mrs. Margeson about $90 a month, in addition to the $66 paid to her by the Ontario Mother's Allowance Commission.

H. A. Bentley, chairman of the commission, said Mrs. Margeson, who is expecting another child, has received the $66 since Dec. 1, and will receive that sum monthly until her sixth child is 16.

Public donations to the widow started to pour in to the Business Men's Association a few days after the murder. The largest sum, $1,500, was used to pay off the mortgage on the Margeson home.

Dodges Customs Abbott Approves

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Import controls being what they are these days, the man in the smoker was justifiably proud as he patted his travelling case on the train from New York the other day.

"Know what the customs fellows just missed in there?" he asked. "Three heads of lettuce!"

One of the hearers told about it Thursday night. He happened to be Finance Minister Abbott, the man who signed the Nov. 18 order saying lettuce can't be imported into Canada.

P.S.—Mr. Abbott compounded the misdemeanor. Maybe the stranger was just bringing in a gift, he explained.

Suggest Ontario Give Pre-Marital Advice

TORONTO, Jan. 16 — (CP).— Pre-marital advice for Ontario couples might be supplied by the province in the form of a booklet "Problems to Be Considered on Contemplation of Marriage," the Ontario Municipal Association suggested yesterday in a brief presented to the Provincial Cabinet. The association urged that the booklets be made available by the Registrar-General for distribution by marriage licence issuers.

One of the causes for the recent increases in the number of divorce cases and of welfare problems stemming from domestic discord was the lack of knowledge of problems of married life, the brief said.

Will Leaves $50,000 To Brantford Citadel

BRANTFORD, Jan. 16—(CP) —The late George Wesley Poss of Brantford, who died recently at Hornell, NY, bequeathed $50,000 to the Brantford Citadel of the Salvation Army, it was learned today.

Canadian Ambassador Torn Between Rain, Protocol

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—(CP).—"Protocol in the Afternoon" could be the title for the scene staged at the Army Transport Command airport Monday night when Canada's Defence Minister Claxton came down out of stormy skies for a four-day visit to Washington.

The Minister's plane was due from New York at five o'clock and the pentagon people decided it would be a nice gesture to send a guard of honor out to the airport.

Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong was there with his minister, Tommy Stone, and the army, air and navy attaches and military mission higher officers.

At five o'clock the smart guard was lined up ready to be inspected.

The rains came at five o'clock but not the minister. The minutes ticked off, rain ran off diplomatic noses and the welcomers danced, shivered and mumbled.

After this had gone on for half an hour Hume Wrong began to fidget more than his dose of Washington sinusitis and wet clothes warranted.

The reason was that he was wrestling with protocol.

Should the ambassador take the initiative and suggest that the guard be dismissed, or would that be a breach of courtesy?

Solves Problem

About 5:35, after half a dozen false alarms and still no sign of the minister, the Army Guard officer hesitatingly asked Hume if it would be all right to dismiss the guard.

"Certainly, by all means, an excellent idea, just what I have been wanting to suggest," cried the relieved ambassador. "And thank you so much for coming."

The guards scurried into their fleet of buses and all felt happier. Then, 40 minutes late, Mr. Claxton's shiny Dakota wheeled up through the darkness.

"By jove, I'm sorry to be late," were the minister's first words as protocol took over and the ambassador, blinking raindrops from his eye-lids, presented the long line of soggy diplomats and service brass.

It seemed that the plane had been bucking a 70-mile head wind and the trip from New York had taken just under two hours, double the estimated time for the distance.

Mrs. R. J. Marshall Tells LCW What the CAC Plans To Do

Price-spiralling problems of the present day can be answered through membership in the Canadian Association of Consumers if plans of Mrs. R. J. Marshall, president and national chairman of the organization, and her associates succeed. Speaking Thursday at the annual meeting of Peterborough Local Council of Women in the YWCA, the president of National Council of Women labelled her address "You Want to Know."

The CAC is a permanent national organization, born at Ottawa, September 30, 1947, at a meeting attended by 56 presidents of national organizations, and membership is rolling up fast, embracing women all across Canada. It came into being with four purposes: First, that women might unite across the country, for "in unity there is strength." Women can be all-powerful if united, and have more influence behind the scenes than if sitting in the front seat of the government.

Its second purpose is to have the women of Canada well-informed. They should know why prices are high and study the reasons back of the changes. This will be accomplished through a monthly bulletin, sent to each member, prepared by trained economists who are constantly making surveys at Ottawa. A field secretary is also at work in the provinces. To provide a channel for bringing this information to the public is the third purpose.

Final purpose is embodied in a long-range program which has been with six main points for first emphasis: 1, Prices, (crucial issue of the moment) especially on such essentials as bread, milk, meat and butter and an immediate protest was registered in this connection; 2. Standards. Under this heading it will be pointed out to consumers that a shoe, for instance, which costs twice as much but wears four times as long as another is a bargain. Through the Dept. of Standards an investigation has been started which, it is hoped, will result in the standardization of sizes in ready-to-wear clothing; 3. Housing, the cause of most misery in Canada today; 4 Planned spending and saving. No woman can make up a budget for another woman, but well-planned suggestions for a good standard of living will be given; 5. The Home Market. The consumer will be shown what constitutes good marketing and the reasons and its relationship to good money management; 6. Foreign Trade— a two-way street, sometimes a multi-lateral arrangement. One third of our national dollar-income comes from foreign trade. The CAC will find how far we are dependent on this fact and if we are realizing the full benefit from it.

"A study of the world picture shows the spiral—rise in prices, wage increases, further rise in prices, further wage increases, which can only go on to end in depression," Mrs. Marshall said.

Salaries can be raised much moreeasily than they can be lowered. When costs become too great for the employer, we have a lay-off and consequently many homes without income. This affects the entire country. A nation is no stronger than the buying power of its homes. Acceptance of the Marshall plan would probably ease this situation" Mrs. Marshall said. "Production is high now because of reconstruction work in Europe. We must half inflation at home and make full contribution to world reconstruction."

She explained there are two main efforts which the women of Canada want their government to deal with and check. Profiteering with the resultant unreasonable and exorbitant price changes, and the inflationary-deflation cycle to which we are headed. To halt the inflationary trend they recommend: 1. Selective price controls on essential foods; 2. Lifting embargo on essential fruits and vegetables; 3. Re-imposition of subsidy on farm products.

"Statisticians are puzzling over the problem of an adequate standard of living. Women know this means, good housing, enough food to feed their families, sufficient clothing, and a little fun and recreation." "No man lives unto himself alone" said Mrs. Marshall. "Through CAC membership, uniting a million women in a well-informed unity we will see the standard of living raised, bringing a new impulse of joy to everyday living."

Women of Canada have a proud record of keeping prices level during war-time. Now, in the CAC, the biggest thing they have ever dreamed of, they aim to be self-supporting while proving their idea is worthwhile with far-reaching results. "The CAC seeks to maintain, not only adequate standards of living, but quality in standards of living" Mrs. Marshall concluded.

Introduction of the speaker was made by Mrs. C. M. Scott who spoke of Mrs. Marshall's keen interest in uplift and social welfare work in public life and in the church where she is president of the National Board of the Baptist Church. She was also first woman president of the General Alumnae at McMaster University. Interest in her address was heightened by a charming personality and clear moderate tones which spoke calm assured statements. Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss expressed thanks on behalf of the Council.

who presented the report. Scrutineers were Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, Mrs. J. Londerville and Mrs. E E. Williamson.

Mrs. R. J. Marshall as president of National Council of Women conducted the election of officers. She congratulated Mrs. Addyman on re-election and said "The Council is the strongest group of women in the city, and the presidency is almost a full-time job. Full support of all officers, conveners and committees is needed to lighten the work. Local Councils have no specific program laid out. They work on broad democratic lines in keeping with the particular needs of the city."

Devotional service was taken by Rev. Dr. J. Semple who spoke of the two worlds which man has to deal with. "In the visible world we struggle much of the time to earn a livelihood, with threats of higher costs of living and that dread monster — Unemployment, and we continue to be engaged in an effort to establish peace and justice among nations. There can be no satisfaction or happiness apart from our capacity to come to terms with this world" he said. The other world to which he referred is invisible to human eyes but consists of qualities — love, friendship, kindness, courage, self-forgetfulness, self-sacrifice, honor, integrity and loyalty "None of these ever come within the range of our material instruments of measurements. They belong to the invisible, unseen, spiritual world," Dr. Semple concluded.

Civic greetings were brought to the meeting by Mayor W. G. Ovens.

Head table guests at the noon luncheon as introduced by Mrs. Wm. Addyman included Mrs. W. G. Ovens and Mayor Ovens, Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, MP, Mrs. G. K. Fraser, convener of health education, and Mrs. H. Tremaine, vice-president, each wearing a corsage of carnations presented on completion of a five year term of office which renders them ineligible for re-election in that post. Mrs. W. H. Morton, immediate past president, and convener of housing, Mrs. B. J. McNeeley, and Mrs. J. Low, vice presidents, Mrs. H. R. Scott, convener of lands and forests, Mrs. R. J. Marshall, guest speaker, chairman of the CAC and president of National Council, Mrs. E. Wand, past president, Mrs. W. C. Steinkraus, recording secretary, Mrs. J. M. Fanning, treasurer, Mrs. J. Wood, first vice president.

Mrs. W. H. Saunders was in charge of preparing the luncheon, assisted by Mrs. J. Henderson, Mrs. M. Drysdale and Mrs. G. Rutherford. Guests were received by the vice presidents. Registration for the day totalled 84, with representation from 41 of the 53 affiliated societies.

Complete reports covering a two-day meeting of Provincial Council at Toronto in November were given by the delegates Mrs. K. Simpson and Mrs. J. Henderson. Correspondence read by Mrs. E. B. McWilliams, secretary, included a letter of thanks from Miss Anne Boyle, winner of the LCW scholarship presented at the Collegiate Commencement exercises.

Annual reports from conveners were heard during the day. Mrs. Addyman reported a total of $3,866 from the sale of TB Christmas seals. She also asked that her resignation as convener of this project be accepted. Reporting on the health committee, Mrs. G. K. Fraser said the health of Peterborough is in fair shape, but is excellent in comparison with other cities. The ill health is caused by serious overcrowding due to inadequate housing, she said. Miss Leta H. Brownscombe, migrations convener, reported one displaced person residing in Peterborough at present, and 16 more expected to arrive Wednesday.

Mrs. W. G. Hall clarified a letter from Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary in connection with donations which may be given for furnishings in the new hospital. The Auxiliary has an accumulation of $9,000 invested in bonds which represents profits from various money-making activities in recent years, and it will be used as the Auxiliary sees fit in connection with hospital work.

Convener of the courtesy committee, Mrs. G. Rutherford, expressed appreciation to all who have assisted with the work of Local Council during the past year. A special vote of thanks was given Mrs. W. H. Saunders who took charge of purchasing and preparing food for the annual meeting luncheon.

Mrs. W. Addyman Re-elected At All-Day Meeting LCW

Mrs. Wm. Addyman was returned as president of Peterborough Local Council of Women at the annual meeting in the YWCA. Election took place for president only, other nominations being incomplete. Mrs. Addyman, who has served for one year, was opposed by Mrs. J. Wood, formerly first vice-president.

Nomination of Mrs. C. Olaveson as vice-president was ratified, and Mrs. B. J. McNeeley will continue to serve in that capacity. Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss and Mrs. George Wallace are continuing in the posts of recording secretary and assistant, and Mrs. J. M. Fanning remains in charge of finance. Mrs. K. Simpson is achivist.

Conveneriships for 1948 are as follows: Arts and letters, Mrs. A. E. Barrie; cinema and printed matter, Mrs. W. Flowers; child and family welfare, Mrs. J. H. Eastwood; citizenship, Mrs E B McWilliams; economics and taxation, Mrs. F. Lundy; education, Mrs. A. Mann; finance, Mrs. J M. Fanning; housing and town planning, Mrs. W. H. Morton; laws, Mrs. W. Philp; mental hygiene, Mrs. H. Tremaine; migration, Miss L. Brownscombe; moral standards, Miss M. Ferguson; public health, Mrs. G. Langhorne; rural recreation, Mrs. Everett Birdsall; trades and professions, Mrs. Lyda Telford; United Nations, Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser; national resources, Mrs. H R Scott; telephone, Mrs. W. H Saunders; pianist, Mrs. F. M Somerville; assistant pianist, Mrs A. E. Barrie; radio convener, Miss R. Panter; publicity, Miss M. Lancaster.

Three vice-presidents and a corresponding secretary and assistant will be elected at February meeting of the Council.

Members of the nominating committee were Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. H. R. Scott, later replaced by Mrs. W. Flowers due to absence from the city, and Mrs. E. B. McWilliams, chairman,

Have Missed Much Without A Little Theatre

Mrs. Robertson Davies gave members of the Local Council of Women, attending the annual meeting Thursday in the YWCA, a forthright explanation of the Little Theatre movement in Peterborough. "We hope the movement will become a civic affair enabling us to enter plays in the Drama Festival another year," she said. "Without this important part of national cultural life, Peterborough citizens have missed a great deal."

Mrs. Davies spoke of the Nativity play presented by St. George's Guild players in December. The story and pictures are presently being distributed across the Dominion and it is thought other organizations may take up the idea. "Very little money was spent on costumes," she said, with most materials coming from neighboring attics. "Chief necessity is a plan of designs so that each character's costume will fit in with the others. The principal, often seen, of using one color in each costume to denote a certain trade or nationality was followed."

The Little Theatre began with the Teachers' Council who sought to remedy the lack of this type of entertainment in Peterborough. Three one-act plays with parts taken by their members, will be seen on the Collegiate Auditorium stage Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson Davies are the directors and all tradesmen such as painters, carpenters, electricians, designers, necessary to a well-rounded theatre group are helping in the production.

Great care should be taken in selecting plays for amateurs she pointed out. They must have some "meat" in them, and be essentially good plays, but sustained by thoughts and words, rather than actions. A good plan is to start with a prologue to get the attention of the audience focussed entirely on the stage and make them conscious only of what is going on there. Mrs. Davies gave a brief outline of each of the three plays chosen by the Little Theatre for its first public appearance.

Mrs. Jacob Low introduced the speaker of the afternoon, and she was thanked by Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy.

Princess Elizabeth Named First Lady in Style World

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 16 (CP). — When Princess Elizabeth returns to public life towards the end of January, she will be the first lady of the land of fashion.

Fashion experts are looking to her to bring prestige—and dollars—to Britain's dress export trade. The government hopes she will bring better dressing, and therefore better morale, to women at home.

She has what the dress world calls the "perfect figure" and "apart from her good figure," a West End designer said, "she has excellent dress sense and the real interest she takes in her clothes makes her a born leader of fashion."

While the bride of a few weeks is the same person as the bride-to-be of a few weeks ago, the Princess is more qualified to lead the world of fashion as a young married woman; for no spinster has ever been a leader of fashion.

Millions see pictures of Elizabeth every week, yet only the privileged few see half of her dresses. Almost invariably her day frocks are covered by a coat in public and some of her prettiest dresses are the simple dinner gowns she wears only at Palace receptions or in the homes of friends.

Fewer know the system on which she plans her wardrobe—and the little tricks by which she contrives to look different by ringing the changes wtih a comparatively small number of garments.

Careful Selection

Her wardrobe is carefully planned. She never buys anything — not even a coupon-free hat — just because it takes her eye.

In principle the Princess adheres to the Queen's pre-war method of giving two main orders: one for clothes for the spring and summer and another for autumn and winter wear.

Elizabeth periodically takes stock of her existing clothes, decides which still have the most wear in them and decides what she needs most — a dinner dress, perhaps, or a tweed suit, or a two-piece costume for day wear.

Her lady-in-waiting then writes to [illegible]nan Hartnell, the Princess' dressmaker, explaining what is wanted and asking him to prepare designs and patterns of material.

Later, Hartnell goes to the Palace with sketches and samples of fabric available. Elizabeth chooses the styles that appeal to her and selects the fabric and the color. Sometimes she asks for an idea of her own to be incorporated in the chosen style.

"She is fairly conventional in her ideas," a friend said, "but no one could call her lavish. She has very definite ideas about what she wants to wear."

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

STRICT MOTHERS
Teen-Age Daughters May Bolt If Restrained Unreasonably

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think of a 17-year-old girl going out on dates occasionally with a nice fellow? I am already out of school, work eight hours a day, hand in my pay cheque to my mother every week and don't get a cent of allowance. And when I ask her if I can go out once a week, she goes into a fit and says that when I am 19 she will let me go out once a month.

Dorothy Dix

It is getting boresome sitting at home seven nights a week and I feel that after working all week I am, at least, entitled to one evening's pleasure, especially when it is nothing more than going to the movies. My mother won't even let me have a girl friend. She says I have enough sisters to keep me company. Mother and Dad go out every week for their fling, and I only ask to go out once a week and am willing to come home at any hour they say.

A TROUBLED LASS.

ANSWER: When you hear of mothers who are so selfish and tyrannical and so far behind the times as this one, you do not wonder that there are so many girl delinquents. You marvel that there are not more of them. For certainly there is no way in the world in which a mother can drive her daughter away from her and away from home quicker than by denying her all the pleasures that belong to her time of life and that other girls of her age are enjoying.

Girl Can Be Trusted

Surely no girl who has finished schooling and who is out in the world earning her living, is such a baby or such a fool that she doesn't know enough to conduct herself properly with a decent boy, or to be trusted with the money she earns. Any girl who is self-supporting is adult enough to be entitled to many of the privileges of the grownups and to a large degree of personal liberty.

Of course, every mother should keep a wary eye on her daughters who are teen-agers, but she should act in the capacity of a guide and not a slave-driver. She should know what boys they go with and where they go, but she certainly should not treat them as if they were moron children. And no mother who tries to help her girls have a happy youth will ever have a daughter who lies and cheats and goes wrong because her mother forces her into doing it by her restrictions. You have to drive a girl with a light rein if you don't want her to bolt.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a boy friend whose company I would enjoy very much if he were not so conceited and did not talk all the time about himself. How can I bring his attention to it without hurting his feelings?

ROSE.

ANSWER: It can't be done, because an egotist's vulnerable spot is his vanity, and when you destroy that there is nothing left of him. He is all in. He won't take your criticism kindly and try to profit by it. He will hate you to his dying day, or else he will pity you for being so dumb you are not capable of appreciating what a marvel he is.

Certainly there are no people who are so tiresome and boring as those whose one topic of conversation is themselves. But if you can stand their blowing their own trumpets, you do a noble deed, for you make them perfectly happy.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My father died this year and my mother has gone completely to pieces. She never smiles any more and is very bitter about losing my father. She has high blood pressure and talks of it all the time and says she does not want to live. Everything we children do is wrong and she thinks we should stay at home and have no company. When visitors come, she just sits with a stern face, saying nothing when they try to talk to her.

When she comes to my house I can't turn on the radio while she is there and she doesn't want me to even clean the house. What can I do about her.

ANSWER: Probably nothing, unless some reputable psychiatrist could help her. But I doubt if even they could do her any good, for she has lost the desire to live and will not fight for her life and sanity.

Her attitude puts you children in a very difficult position, for added to the grief you feel at the loss of your father is added the still greater grief of seeing your mother in such a state, but don't let it make you morbid also. Accept her conduct as the vagary of a sick mind and do not let it get you down. Make your home as cheerful as it was before this affliction. You owe that to your husband and children.

JASMINE-SWEET EVENINGS—Plenty of friendly guile went into the making of this shorter skirted evening frock, a model meant to flatter from the moment long shadows fall over the palm-tree countries until the moon is practically exhausted. It is one of the formal enough costumes aptly called "patio frocks," meaning that its strapless mode can go to gala afternoon parties, yet linger on to evening affairs looking formally decollete. This model is made of black polka dotted white crepe, with lace trimming which edges the skirt, bodice and matching stole wrap. The skirt length is about ten inches from the floor.

1948 Cooking Resolution For Canadian Housewives

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 (CP).—As 1948 takes over for another year, home economists have drawn up a set of cooking resolutions for Canadian housewives.

1. Resolve to save food by not washing it. This means using all food to the best advantage, cooking it well so there won't be any left on the plate.

2. Resolve to learn the facts about graded foods, read labels, and buy by grade.

3. Resolve to use every crumb of bread.

4. Resolve to follow recipes and measure accurately.

5. Resolve to save all drippings from meat and poultry, and use in cooking.

And to begin keeping the resolutions, here is an excellent recipe for using all that leftover chicken fat.

Butterscotch Slices

Ingredients: One-third cup chicken fat; one-half cup brown sugar; one egg; one-quarter teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups pastry flour or 1 1/3 cups all-purpose flour; 1½ teaspoons baking powder; one-half teaspoon salt.

Method: Cream fat and sugar, then add vanilla and egg. Beat well. Mix in flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Shape in roll about two inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper. Chill thoroughly. Cut in one-eighth inch slices. Place cookies on lightly breased baking-sheet and bake at 375 degrees Fahrenheit for 10 minutes. Makes four dozen cookies.

The rules for health say "serve a salad every day," and this means at least one green or raw vegetable in the day's meals. Raw carrots, beets, turnips, and parsnips all are included among good salad vegetables.

Both colorful and appetizing are cabbage, beets and apples, as winter-time salad making. When apples are used the skin should be left on as it brings a bright red or green touch to the salad.

Ingredients: Two cups finey shredded cabbage; one cup diced celery; one cup diced, unpeeled, red apples; one-half cup finely shredded, raw beets; one teaspoon horseradish; one-third cup French dressing; salt and pepper.

Toss all ingredients lightly together, and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves or outer cabbage leaves. Garnish with parsley and celery curls. Serves six.

Cancel $4,000 Grant To Workers' Group

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(CP).— A grant of $4,000 to the Workers' Educational Association has been cut off by the province because the Ontario Adult Education Board did not recommend its renewal.

Explaining the Board's stand, Dr. W. J. Dunlop, chairman, said last night the Board had not recommended continuance of the grant because it had no evidence the W.E.A. had the support of organized labor as the medium to provide special education for union members.

However, the Association's general secretary, Drummond Wren, claimed the W.E.A. was supported by groups representing 100,000 workers in Ontario, or 84 per cent of the labor movement.

Share Responsibility

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Canadian industry was told by Fisheries Minister Gregg last night that it must share the government's responsibility in fighting inflation. The minister, speaking over the CBC National free time series, said it was the government's job to provide the "climate" under which labor and management could chart their own course.

Money's Little Use

SHANGHAI, Jan. 16—(AP).— Mayor K. C. Wu's salary will be raised this month to $9,095,000 (Chinese currency) a month. At the current black market rates, that's a little over $50 in United States funds.

Congratulate Skater

Seaway Plan Too Expensive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP). —President Truman yesterday told a questioner at his press conference that he might write a letter to Congress asking for approval of the St. Lawrence power and seaway agreement with Canada.

He said he did not propose sending any formal message on the subject but might write a letter. In any event, he said, it seemed likely the Bill approving the agreement would be dealt with.

Proponents of the project plan want to have the measure dealt with in Congress without any further references to committees which have already studied it on numerous occasions and which reported it favorably to the 1st Congress.

However, many observers here believe that with the enormous appropriations being considered for European aid the St. Lawrence project stands little chance of approval.

Road Expenditure Of $20,000 Planned

OMEMEE, Jan. 16 — (ENS). — Reeve Vincent Fee and Councillors W. R. Faulkner, George Magee, Thomas Morrissey and J. Milton Thurston took their declarations of office prior to the inaugural meeting on Monday of the Emily township council. Reeve Fee welcomed the councillors and all promised the utmost cooperation during the coming year.

Bylaws appointing officers, authorizing the reeve and treasurer to borrow money until the taxes are paid and appropriating $22,000 to be spent on roads were given their several readings.

Pat Perdue sought to purchase one of the horse-drawn snowplows and the road superintendent was asked to make a list of the horse-drawn plows for the next meeting of the council.

The clerk was instructed to seek permission from the district engineer to increase wages of truck drivers from 60 to 5 cents an hour, of snowplow operators from 50 to 55 cents and of road superintendent from 65 to 70 cents. Council adjourned to meet February 2.

DESTROY "WAILING WALL" — Jerusalem's "wailing wall," sole remaining relic of the temple destroyed in 70 A.D.—symbol of the glory that was once Judea's, has been threatened with destruction by the Arabs. The wall, to which Jews come from all over the world to pray and bemoan the dispersal, is shown here. Arabs warned that if Jews carry through plans to blast through Jerusalem's walls to relieve 1,500 isolated compatriots, they, the Arabs, will blast down this wall and scatter it to the four winds.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ALL IN ONE FREAK DEAL

FOR A SET of freak developments on a freak deal, just contemplate these: 1. At not one of nine tables did anybody reach the only makeable grand slam of 7-Diamonds. 2. At one table, the holder of an 11-card spade suit headed by the A-K-Q-10 never bid it even once. 3. In another case, the holder of a hand worth a game-demand opening two-bid heard all three of the others make bids of three or more before the auction reached him. You would think only dubs could cause such variations. If so, you're wrong. They were the world's greatest players.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1. Pass	1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 NT
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	7 ♥
Dbl
2. 3 ♣	3 ♦	4 ♠	6 ♦
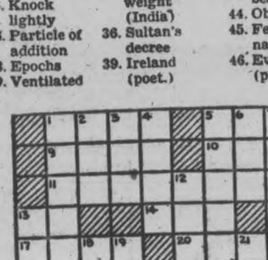
Pass	Pass	7 ♠	Dbl



South at Table 1 was Morrie Elia, who outranked all the other masters for one entire season. Hearing the 1-Diamond bid, he was sure that would be kept open, so planned a series of maneuvers in order to lure a double later. When East bid 3-Hearts, he knew that would stay open, so made his second pass. The 5-Diamonds response to the Blackwood was likewise certain not to be passed, so he made his third pass. Then, when North doubled the 7-Hearts, he assuredly could not monkey with that. As it was, his pass earned the only North-South plus score, his great spade suit never having been bid.

At Table 2, the oddest view was presented to Ed Marcus, Boston's greatest player, who heard those three high bids before he could speak on his sound two-bid holding. As it developed, the 7-Spade doubled contract there got beaten two tricks since the winner of the diamond lead returned his lone trump and thus compelled loss of a second diamond.

All sorts of things happened at the other seven tables in the game, which was a session of the national individual masters championship. This was the most freakish deal that ever bobbed up in all the long history of that blue-ribbon event.

Tomorrow's Problems

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Among West's three four-carders, why is the spade suit the best to lead, hands the most best and diamonds the worst?

ered tea table at the first meeting of the new year. Mrs. A. W. Nelson, president of Council, lit the candles and congratualted the association on completing two years of parent education work.

Mrs. J. Coit, president, was in charge. Mrs. C. Barnes read the Home and School Creed and Mr. Eric McKinstry was pianist.

Next Grove regular meeting will be February 11, and the executive meeting January 28 at 8 o'clock at the school.

Mrs. V. R. Henry, publications convener for Home and School Council, showed a large assortment of literature that is available to members of the Home and School.

Mrs. S. Whitfield, program convener, introduced the guest speaker and guest soloist, Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon, and Mrs. Gordon of Trinity United Church.

Dr. Gordon took has his topic "The Cross." Using the blackboard to illustrate his talk, he sketched 14 different types of crosses. He explained their origin and the symbols they stood for, such as Christianity, Faith and Healing. Some variations of the Cross are purely for decorative purposes. He said that "the Cross had emerged from a thing of shame to become a respected symbol to mark the best that the world has to offer."

Mrs. Gordon rendered two solos "Afton Waters" and "100 Men", both Scottish numbers.

Mrs. Walter Wood moved a vote of thanks to those taking part in the program. Lunch was served by Mrs. W. Sheppard, social convener, and her committee.

Resourceful Firemen

SASKATOON— (CP)— Saskatoon firemen saved the city an estimated $5,000 by converting the chassis of a new truck into a 500-gallon-per-minute pumper, booster and hose wagon.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

ATTACKED BY DOG

Lawrence Courneya, service man for the Peterborough Utilities, was making a routine call at an Ashburnham home when he was attacked by the house dog. In the tussle, Lawrence came out worst with an inch gash in the leg. He was treated by a doctor.

THREE CHIMNEY FIRES

Since 1:11 p.m. Wednesday the Fire Department attended three chimney fires, the first at J. Ferren's residence, 72 Victoria Ave. The next at 11:32 p.m. was at the Churchill Garage, 210 Hunter St. W., and this morning at 8:11 they went to 6 Princess St., to quench a chimney fire at the residence of Mrs. J. Dunson.

NATURE INTERFERES

Every bulb in Peterborough appeared to be consuming electric power at 9 a.m. this morning. Daylight was so blurred by snow and clouds that motorists turned on their headlights. Probably only Ross Dobbin, Utilities manager, did any worrying for the hydro, as lights blazed with no more concern than if the power were as abundant as air. However, the run on kilowat hours eased up around 10 o'clock when the skies cleared and the sun shone through.

BAD CURVE SURVEYED

A group of road engineers have been noticed working with survey instruments at the hairpin turn on Highway 28 at the Filtration Plant and also on the more gradual curve to the north of it. It is the hope of the driving public that this move is the forerunner of work that will straighten out this dangerous piece of highway that has been the scene of many traffic accidents over the past several years.

TO LIMIT VISITORS

Visitors to the obstetrics section of the Civic Hospital will be limited to two for each patient, the husband and parents, it was decided at the Board of Directors meeting last night, on recommendation of the Medical Staff. It was stated that the reason for the restriction was to reduce the danger of infection carried into the hospital by visitors.

APPOINT SERVICE CHIEFS

Chiefs of service for the various services of the Civic Hospital were elected by the staffs concerned this week as follows: President of the Medical Staff, Dr. A. G. Howson; Surgical Service, Dr. R. K. Magee; Medical Service, Dr. L. W. Thompson; Obstetrics Service, Dr. G. R. Scott; Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Service, Dr. A. R. Stevenson.

HIS FIRST BROADCAST

"A special radio broadcast was arranged by Major Jack Peterson, who is opening the city's radio station soon," is a quotation from the St. Thomas Times-Journal of the report of a Chamber of Commerce dinner Tuesday in that city. Major Peterson was formerly of the Examiner's news and camera staff and was an officer with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders overseas. He was twice injured in France and Holland. The speaker at the St. Thomas dinner was C. Bruce Hill, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Otonabee Seeks New Assessor

KEENE, Jan. 16 — The Otonabee Township Council held its inaugural meeting on Monday at Keene Town Hall. The members took oath of office and after a brief address by Rev. George Murray, immediately went into business matters of the township.

Mac Short, road superintendent, presented his estimate for road work for the coming year and after carefully going over these the Council decided to give them further study until next Council meeting.

A deputation headed by Mr. Grey attended the meeting and requested work on the hill at Hiawatha be completed. Reeve Dawson assured the deputation that everything possible consistent with the over-all needs of the township would be done.

A resolution was passed to advertise for the position of township assessor to fill the vacancy through resignation of Mr. Weir.

Harry McIntyre, Deputy Reeve, was appointed to the Board of Health. A resolution to forward 1946 tax arrears to County Office for collection was also passed.

It was decided to appoint Reeve W. W. Dawson to the Urban Planning and Development Board subject to confirmation by the Minister of Planning and Development.

It was decided that Alan Eason be appointed as member of Keene Athletic Commission.

Reeve Dawson addressed the Council members and pledged full co-operation with members of Council, and was assured in turn that he would get their utmost support.

Indians To Get Revised Bill Of Rights

By R. K. CARNEGIE

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (CP). — A new bill of rights for Canada's Indians and Eskimos, the complete rewrite of an act which has stood practically unchanged almost since Confederation, is expected to be one of the important measures coming out of the present session of parliament which reassembles Jan. 26.

For two sessions a joint committee of the Senate and the Commons has been taking evidence. Now it plans to get down to the final big task of rewriting the Indian Act which governs the Dominion's 130,000 Indians as wards of the nation. And before them to draw from for ideas, the committee members will have millions of words of testimony put on the record by scores of Indians themselves and by Indian experts and departmental officials.

Canadians have come to realize that the Indian, once thought of as the "vanishing Redman," has become an important part of the economy of the nation, contributing to its wealth instead of being a drain on the nation's taxpayers.

Salmon Fishermen

It is estimated that 40 per cent of the salmon pack on the Pacific is caught by Indians. They have started in farming in an important way both on the prairies and in the oldler provinces.

The Indians and half-breeds produce $500,000 in furs outside the preserves but the biggest wealth producer will be from the beaver preserves which will come into production in the next few years. They have been developed in the vast stretches south and east of James Bay and southern Ungava.

The Indians are entitled to $3,750,000 annually in family allowances and it is provided them mostly in kind—dried milk, tomato juices and other foods to produce vitamin C in which investigators have found the Red men to be deficient.

Youth Advised To Go To Work

"You are too young to be in here on a second charge of this nature," Magistrate W. R. Philp told 19-year-old Frederick E. Blaby, 554 Romaine St., who pleaded guilty in police court to being drunk in public. In reply to a question from the magistrate, Blaby said he was "not working" at present, but was just "filling in time" before a planned trip to Toronto next week.

"Go to work," the magistrate advised the youth in fining him $50 and costs of $2.50 or one month.

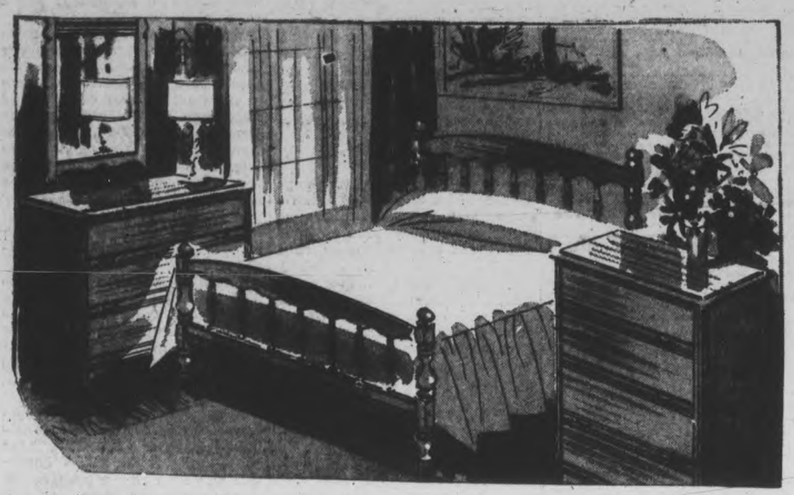
Harold Dunk, 125 Lock St., was remanded for sentence until Jan. 22 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing two fog lamps under the value of $25.

Clark Purdy, Toronto, was remanded for sentence a second time, at the request of the Crown. He pleaded guilty previously to charges of breaking, entering and theft.

John Cahill, no fixed address, was fined $10 and costs or 15 days when he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy.

Ray Innis, RR 3, Peterborough, was fined $10 and costs of $2.50 or 10 days when he pleaded guilty to being drunk in public.

Oil Shortage Cuts Gas Output



The Utilities Commission will probably have to adopt some process of gas-making other than they have been using at the Simcoe St. plant, Ross L. Dobbin, manager, remarked to the Examiner today. He was in Toronto Wed. enquiring into the possibility of getting enough fuel oil for local gas requirements.

Reduction of allotted supply reached the point a month ago at which the company with whom the Commission has been doing business announced that they had no more oil for Peterborough's gas works. And that is just one phase of the Commission's gas problem, of which the public will perhaps hear more in the near future unless some oil relief is forthcoming.

Set Butter Ceiling At 73 Cents

Announce New Price Effective Monday, Provinces Vary

OTTAWA, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Maximum retail butter prices will range from 70 to 74 cents a pound under the new price ceiling order announced today by the Prices Board.

Effective Monday, top grade creamery butter in prints will retail at 74 cents a pound in the Maritimes, 71 cents in Manitoba and Alberta, 72 cents in British Columbia, 73 cents in Ontario and Quebec and 70 cents in Saskatchewan.

Officials said trade mark-ups are the same as those in effect when butter previously was under control.

Maximum prices of whey and dairy butter will be at approximately the same levels as creamery butter.

ALLISTON, Ont., Jan. 17. — (CP).—Damage which firemen estimated may run as high as $75,000 was caused by a fire which yesterday destroyed a business block in the business section of this community near Camp Borden.

The blaze, said to have started from a welding spark in a garage, swept through the garage and a showroom which contained several new automobiles. Only one of the cars were saved.

Lawrence Graham, operating a welding assembly, said he thought a spark from the torch ignited an oily rag. He ran to get a fire extinguisher but by the time he got back the flames had spread so fast "I could do nothing."

While fire fighters attempted to subdue the blaze, accumulated gases from combustible materials in the garage exploded, blowing the front out of the building and cracking store windows across the street.

Occupant of the flat above the tire shop, Mrs. Joseph Good and her 16-months-old daughter, Elaine, narrowly escaped being trapped as flames rushed into the second storey.

Jewelry Store Robbed Arrest Man Fleeing

PORT HOPE, Jan. 17. (ENS)—A smash and grab robbery of Churchley's Jewellery Store window occurred at 2 o'clock this morning and police arrested John Donaldson of Toronto, age 23, whom they spotted leaving the scene. Donaldson, who is employed on a construction job in Port Hope, was cornered after a quarter mile chase by Sgt. B. Warren and Constable R. Smith.

A number of watches were taken from the window and as there was none found on the man, police believe he threw them away while in flight. Noise of the widow glass shattering when it was broken by a large stone, aroused sleeping resident nearby who telephoned the police. Until he checks his stock Mr. Churchley does not know the extent of his loss.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—The United States Army "funeral ship" Joseph V. Connolly, abandoned at sea last Monday, is still afire and afloat, officials reported last night, adding that an attempt will be made to salvage the vessel.

The veteran Liberty ship, en route to Antwerp with caskets for the removal of war dead, was abandoned by its 45 crew members and one passenger when flames swept the vessel 900 miles east of New York. All hands were saved.

10,000 Chinese In Shanghai Mob Consulate

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17.—(AP).—A mob estimated at 10,000 milling Chinese menaced the British consulate here today as an aftermath to the burning of the British consulate yesterday ot Canton. It finally was dispersed by club-swinging police without causing damage.

The mob failed to penetrate the fenced and heavily-guarded consulate compound, although once an attempt was made to inch a big truck against the gate. Four Chinese climbed over the gate and demanded that the British flag be hauled down, but were flatly refused.

Speakers stridently but unsuccessfully urged the mob to rush the gate.

Buildings were plastered with posters condemning Britain, the Americans and the Chinese government. Some said: "British get out of Kowloon"—"Americans get out, too"—"Chinese government worst we ever had."

The incident began as a demonstration by some 3,000 students protesting against British eviction for health reasons of Chinese squatters from Kowloon, on the mainland of the Crown colony of Hong Kong. A similar demonstration in Canton yesterday snowballed into a riot, during which the British consulate and other buildings were burned and some Britons injured.

The Shanghai students sang lustily during the demonstration. Some of the improvised words were: "Down the corrupt government" and "the more the Americans loan the more we Chinese suffer."

'Sinking Ship' Makes Port 53 On Freighter Now Safe

MIAMI, Jan. 17—(AP).—The United States coast guard reported the 125-foot motorship Six Shillings, which radioed it was in a "sinking condition" 43 miles southeast of Carysfort light off Miami last night, arrived here early today under its own power. A coast guard cutter escorted the vessel to Miami. The vessel is of British Honduras registry.

First reports last night that the vessel was sinking sent an oil tanker and the coast guard speeding to the rescue. The message was that the boat couldn't "stay afloat until morning." When sighted, however, the craft was travelling at high speed toward port.

A potentially greater tragedy was averted when the coast guard cutter Mendota radioed last night that it had reached the freighter Adrian Victory, beset by a heavy sea with 53 aboard, en route from Tampa to Bremen, Germany. The Mendota said it came upon the freighter 300 miles east of Jacksonville and was escorting it safely to Charleston, some 36 hours away. It added that a water-edge list of the freighter's starboard weather deck had all but been righted.

Other rescue craft took in tow the crippled 30-foot cruiser Jo Ann, missing since Tuesday, and the nearly sunken hulk of the 90-foot British freighter Wisagua. The latter's seven-man crew was rescued but no word came of the condition of the two men aboard the cruiser.

Begin Demolition

CORNWALL, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Owners of buildings gutted by a $1,000,000 fire last Dec. 24 were ordered today by city officials to start demolition as soon as possible, so that downtown Pitt street can be re-opened for traffic. The street has been partially blocked since the blaze.

Officials said a report from the Ontario fire marshal's office on the results of an investigation into the cause of the fire is expected next week.

UN Group Finishes Work On Jerusalem Constitution

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Informed quarters said today a committee of United Nations experts will finish work next week on a draft statute which will serve as a constitution for Jerusalem under the Palestine partition plan.

The General Assembly's scheme for carving up the Holy Land provides that Jerusalem will be ruled as an international territory under direct supervision of the Trusteeship council.

The six-member committee of experts, created by the trusteeship council, has been working secretly since early December. A member of the group said he is sure the draft statute will be completed by Jan. 23.

A rough draft already has been completed, it was learned, but final approval is being held up until the committee hears the views of the various interested groups. Representatives of the Jewish Agency for Palestine was heard yesterday.

The Assembly's resolution of last Nov. 29 gave the Trusteeship Council until April 29 to adopt a statute for Jerusalem, but it appeared certain action would be taken long before that date. There was expected to be little difficulty in the Council, since six of its 12 members have had a part in drafting the statute.

The Council was expected to proceed to selection of a governor for Jerusalem as soon as it disposed of the draft statute. It then will be the governor's responsibility to set up his administration and security forces so that he can take over when Britain withdraws her troops, probably about Aug. 1.

Secret Arrests Being Probed

BUDAPEST, Jan. 17 (AP). — Two American colonels, diplomatically accredited to Hungary, prepared formal reports today on their secret arrest and removal from the country by Soviet military authorities.

The case was brought to the attention of Hungarian Foreign Minister Erik Molnar yesterday by the United States minister, Selden Chapin.

Further steps, it was learned, may be taken after the state department in Washington has studied the reports prepared by Lt.-Col. Bernard Thielen and Lt.-Col. Peter J. Kopcsak.

They were taken into custody and held 13 hours after Soviet tommy-gunners stopped their khaki-colored United States army sedan in the western Hungarian town, Papa, Jan. 14. Both were in military uniform and carried documents certifying their diplomatic status.

Denied permission to communicate with the American legation in Budapest, they were driven across the Hungarian-Austrian frontier after nightfall by armed Soviet guards. The officers were released Jan. 15.

Dominions Approve Changing King's Title

LONDON, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Commonwealth Relations office spokesman said three dominions, including Canada, have approved a change in the King's titles to drop the words "Emperor of India" and South Africa is expected to take similar action in January.

The Indian Independence Act, passed by the United Kingdom Parliament last summer, gave assent to the omission of the title which lost its meaning when the independent dominions of India and Pakistan were were created.

But under the Statute of Westminster any alterations in the royal titles and styles required formal agreement from all dominions.

Canada, Australia and New Zealand have passed acts respecting royal styles and titles and thus have given their consent.

After dominions approval, the King will make a proclamation divesting himself of the title.

US Rail Strike Looms

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17 (AP). — Another United States wide railroad strike was threatened today by three operating brotherhoods, who said they would walk out Feb. 6 unless given a 30-per-cent pay increase and 44 changes in working rules.

Arabs Trap Atacking Jewish Band

Report 49 Jews Die In Overnight Battle, Hit By Machine Guns

JERUSALEM, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Arab sources said today that as many as 49 Jews were killed in fighting with Arabs overnight in the Judean hills between Bethlehem and Hebron.

A reliable source of the Arab higher executive said "identity cards of 49 Jews killed last night near Hebron" had been brought to the executive's Jerusalem office.

He said the Jews, a party of men and women headed for Kefar Etsyon settlement "as reinforcements," were mowed down by machine gun fire from all sides.

Police, piecing together sparse reports from the area, gave this version: Jews attacked the Arab village of Surif in the hills southwest of Bethlehem, wounding six Arabs. Returning to their base of operations, they were ambushed by Arabs and about half were wiped out.

Jewish sources said the attackers had inflicted heavy Arab casualties and "all our men returned to the base."

Hagana, Jewish militia, has made no comment since the fight began yesterday.

Dr. Hussein Khalidi, secretary of the Arab executive, denied that identity cards of any Jews had been brought to his office, but said "our reports from Hebron are that more than 40 Jews and six Arabs were killed and eight Arabs wounded."

Force Decimated

An Arab doctor who arrived from the battle scene this morning said the attacking force of about 100 Jews "were decimated" in the attack and only six Arabs wounded.

Sheik Mohamed Jabari, mayor of Hebron, told reporters that "47 Jews were killed by Arabs" during the night's fighting in the Judean hills south of Bethlehem.

Jabari said apparently the Arabs attacked a Jewish funeral convoy burying the dead from the Kefar Etsyon battle two days earlier and "all were slain."

There was no official confirmation of Jabari's statement.

The authoritatively reported deaths brought the unofficial toll to 831 violent deaths in Palestine since the United Nations voted Nov. 29 to partition the Holy Land.

Mystery Planes Smuggling Gold

CANBERRA, Jan. 17 (AP)—Interior Minister Victor Johnson told reporters today he suspected that unidentified planes reported to be using deserted air strips in the northern territory of Australia were smuggling gold to the Orient.

Johnson said the black market price of gold in the Orient ran as high as £30 Australian ($96.60) an ounce, compared with £10 15 shillings in Australia.

Sydney newspapers reported today that police in Darwin were investigating rumors of secret aircraft landings from Malaya or the Netherlands East Indies at an abondoned Royal Australian Air Force landing strip at Batchelor, 50 miles south of Darwin.

The dispatches said it was suspected that aircraft might be operating from a small airport near Singapore and on the return trip might be running arms and ammunition for the Indonesian forces.

Streamliner Derailed No Serious Injuries

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17 (AP). —A. J. Lovell, terminal trainmaster for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, reported today that the L and N's Streamliner, the Hummingbird, had been derailed two miles south of Gulfport, Miss., about 7.30 a.m.

First reports listed only the engine, diner and one car of the seven-car train still on the tracks. The other cars are upright in a ditch beside the right of way.

No serious injuries have been reported so far.

"LET GANDHI DIE"—Worried by doctors' reports that Mohandas K. Gandhi's fast for peace has left him too weak to walk, the Indian government decided to carry out immediately a $160,000,000 financial agreement with Pakistan as a "good-will" measure. The move was described as the government's contribution to Gandhi's effort for peace and goodwill. Meanwhile, Gandhi became aware that some militant malcontents had shouted in the streets and outside his house, "Let Gandhi die." Doctors disclosed that the patriot was losing weight and was too feeble to conduct his usual evening prayer.

Indians Call Day Of Prayer For Mahatma

NEW DELHI, Jan. 17—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, his strength failing rapidly, went into the fifth day of his fast for peace today while India's capital took the day off to pray for his survival.

Associates, alarmed at his condition, indicated they are encouraged to hope the Indian patriot and Hindu spiritual leader will end his ordeal soon, before it is too late. They did not elaborate.

Gandhi himself conceded last night that doctors were concerned both with his immediate condition and with the possibility that even temporary abstinence from food might weaken him so that he never would recover.

Business and industry were suspended in New Delhi for the day to permit the people to pray for Gandhi's life and an early termination of his fast. The post office stamped every letter, "Communal harmony will save Gandhiji" "Ji" is a term of endearment.

Last night, Gandhi, missing his prayer meeting for the second straight night, sent his followers a message saying he feels "This warning of medical friends should, if the country has any use for me, hurry the people to close their ranks." He seek harmony among Hindus, Sikhs and Moslems.

Thousands of Sikhs, Hindus and Moslems joined today in mass demonstrations designed to convince Gandhi religious hatreds were quenched and the purpose of his fast fulfilled.

ATHENS, Jan. 17 — (Reuters). — The 2,056-ton Norwegian ship Svein Jarl struck a mine and sank in the Bay of Patras last night and nine of the crew are missing, her captain said today. The captain was picked up after being thrown into the sea, while he was asleep, by the force of the explosion. Some of the crew swam ashore and others were picked up by fishing boats.

Decide To Ask Legislature To Transfer To City Properties Under Trust

Council Favors Allowing It To Run Course
Mayor, Dodds Indicate Opposition
Utilities Definitely Opposed To Change

City Council is striking out of its private bill to the Legislature a clause "praying" that the City Trust Commission be dissolved. In adopting that recommendation, the committee of the whole council Friday night decided to ask the Legislature to transfer to the corporation of the city the municipal properties that are now vested in the Trust.

Because the City Trust Commission manages and has control of the sinking funds of both the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission, those two bodies were invited by the council this week, on a suggestion of Ald. T. D. Miller, to send representatives to the Friday night meeting to discuss the proposal to terminate by Act of the Legislature the authority and life of the City Trust.

Mr. G. S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, announced its position, declared at a meeting Friday afternoon, that "we will definitely oppose any effort to disband the City Trust".

Board of Education was represented by Mr. D. V. Canning and Mr. K. S. Wightman, Public School Inspector. They had no directions from the Board because it had not discussed this question. The next sitting of the Board will not be until its regular meeting in February.

Moves Deletion

Ald. Adam Sands moved the deletion of the clause in the proposed private bill proposing repeal of the legislation by which the City Trust was established. Ald. Grant Miller seconded it, and those supporting it were Aldermen Swanston, Raine, Armstrong and Doug Miller.

Aldermen Dodds and Anglesey did not vote for it, and Mayor Ovens stated that he was opposed to retention of the City Trust. Aldermen Waddell and Herbert Young were not present.

Mayor Ovens said he had convinced himself that the need for which the City Trust was set up in 1861 had disappeared at least 10 years ago.

Mr. Matthews told the committee that the Utilities Commission had outstanding debentures of $403,000 in its water works department for which the City Trust had collected to the present a sinking fund of $310,595. The surplus account of the Trust was increased last year by $24,000. There was also provision for a grant of $300,000 from the Trust

Indonesians Sign A Truce To End Warfare

BATAVIA, Jan. 17 — (AP). — The Netherlands and the Indonesian Republic today signed a truce aboard the United States navy transport Renville, anchored off Batavia, to bring an end to the warfare which broke out last summer in the Netherlands East Indies.

Endorsement of the truce climaxed 11 weeks of negotiations by a "good offices" committee sent by the United Nations Security Council to try to bring peace to Java, Sumatra and Madoera.

Terms of the truce were not made public immediately. However a reliable source said last night it provides that:

Both the Netherlands and the Indonesian republics are to issue an immediate cease-fire, standfast order to their troops, fully effective 48 hours after the signing.

A demilitarized zone is to be established between forward positions of the two forces. It is to be based on the "Van Mook" line.

(The "Van Mook" line was proclaimed last Aug. 29 by Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting Dutch governor-general of the Indies to divide Dutch and Republican territory.

(It gives the Netherlands most of East and West Java, North Central Java, the east plantation coast and the southern oil fields of Sumatra and West Sumatra around Padang. It gives the republic some of South Central Java and Sumatra's mountainous back country.

Each side is to release all prisoners taken from the other.

859 Immigrants Reach Halifax

HALIFAX, Jan. 17 (CP)—The flow of European displaced persons through this port to a new life in Canada continued today with the arrival of 859 immigrants aboard the United States army transport General Stuart Heintzleman.

Among the passengers were 300 domestics, bound mostly to jobs in Montreal and Martime centres. There also were 416 garment workers.

Others included 100 miners slated for employment in the hard-rock mines of Timmins and Noranda, Malartic and Val d'Or, Que.

Bound for St. Catharines to work in a foundry was Victor Klaeder, native of Korostova in the Ukraine, who is a surgeon by profession but said he planned to fulfil his contract as a foundry worker before continuing his medical career.

Nurse Freezes Legs, Face Carrying Boy To Hospital

WINNIPEG, Jan. 17. (CP)—A mid-week storm had spent its fury in Manitoba today, with snow removal crews busily engaged in clearing blocked highways, but a two-year-old boy in a hospital bed here was painful evidence that the storm had been the most serious of the winter.

The youngster, son of Bruce Bradford who lives near Gladstone, Man., was en route to hospital as a diphtheria suspect this week when the automobile in which he was being conveyed became snowbound.

Rescue parties from Gladstone fought snow-bound winds to reach the stranded vehicle. Their truck slid off the road. A second attempt with a car failed when the vehicle bogged down in a drift.

The journey to Gladstone, in all accounting for nearly 20 hours, was finally made on foot, with nurse Katherine Donald carrying the child in her arms.

From Gladstone the boy was taken the remaining 75 miles to Winnipeg by train. His condition here was described as "fairly good." The nurse suffered from exposure and froze her legs and face during the winter walk.

No other casualties were reported throughout the province during the week, but transportation was returning to normal only today after several bus runs had been cancelled since Wednesday and train schedules were delayed.

Kidnapped Politician Under Heavy Guard

ATHENS, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Dispatches in Athens newspapers said today that Greek national forces trying to rescue Lukas Koutsopetalos, kidnapped Liberal members of parliament, had captured 80 insurgents and liberated more than 200 peasants in the Mount Parnassos area.

Koutsopetalos, seized by guerrillas four days ago, is reported held under heavy guard.

The dispatches also said 500 guerrillas had raided the village of Perivleptos, six miles north of Ioannina, looting and burning it.

Rouyn Fire Destroys Town Hall

Remove 14 Prisoners From Cell Block, Blame Short-Circuit

ROUYN, Que., Jan. 17. (CP)—Four walls were all that was left today of the Rouyn town hall, a $150,000 brick and stucco building, after a fire, believed to have started from a short-circuit in the electric wiring, raced through the two-storey structure yesterday.

Fourteen prisoners, held in cells on the ground floor which served as the town jail, were removed under guard and taken to the twin town of Noranda. Later 11 of the inmates were taken to the Amos, Que., jail, 100 miles from here.

Police Chief Emile Dussault said the blaze definitely was not set by prisoners, although at least seven of them had attempted to escape during the last week and on one occasion had tried to start a fire to distract a night guard.

A strong wind and heavy smoke hampered firemen as they battled the blaze in 25-below-zero temperature. Hose lines froze and footing became treacherous on the icy roadway in front of the town hall.

Sabin Thibault, chief of the Rouyn volunteer fire department, reported the blaze under control at 7:30 p.m., four hours after it started. But by this time only the bare walls were standing.

Mayor Paul Cuddihy of Rouyn said the town offices would be set up in the fire hall. Most of the town records were believed to have been saved. Town manager Donat Desilets reported the tax rolls and electoral lists for the civic elections coming in February were safely tucked away in the fireproof vault.

Food Prices Should Not Be Lower Col. Dewart Tells Kiwanians

"I do not believe that there will be lower prices for food stuffs for some years to come," Col. J. A. Dewart told the Kiwanis Club Friday.

"And I do not think there should be," declared the speaker. He spoke of the "alarming" number of farm workers leaving agriculture for industrial work.

"The recent price increases make this the first time that farming profits have been close to parity with those of other business enterprises," the speaker said.

Pointing to the drop in farm production, and the large part which Canada must play in the Marshall Plan, he said that stability of agricultural profits was the only way to raise production.

Col. Dewart also questioned whether the Marshall Plan could be successfully carried out unless price control and rationing were returned in the United States and Canada. If such steps were necessary and taken by the Government, he advocated that they be accepted "cheerfully" as a major factor in the battle against Communism.

"The stakes are so gigantic," he said, "that the whole future of the human race depends on the outcome of the struggle."

Outlining the present situation in Europe, the speaker declared that Russia — now the second most powerful nation in the world — has seen the opportunity of its dream to dominate the world. Using its control of eastern Germany and the border countries, he said that Russia has seen that current famine and world-wide hunger — "fertile ground for Communism" — as a means of gaining ground.

The Marshall Plan is the answer of the Anglo-Saxon nations to this threat, he declared in emphasising the importance of the Plan.

The need of the world is for evening increasing production of food stuffs. Mentioning the Malthus population theory, he pointed out that advances of medical science have greatly cut down the usual levellers of the world's population — famine, pestilence, disease — and that world population was increasing steadily.

One of the reasons listed by the speaker for the present desperate world food situation was the breaking up of the large European estates by the Communists into peasant farms. The estates, he maintained, had been managed on lines of efficient production and that the new method of communal farming had reduced efficiency.

The speaker was introduced by Gordon Miller. Thanks of the club were expressed by William Richardson and Ted Pridham, president of the club, who was chairman of the meeting.

Name Trucking Head Liberal Candidate

HENSALL, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Farquhar Oliver, Liberal leader of the opposition in the Ontario Legislature, charged yesterday in a Huron provincial by-election campaign address that Premier Drew called "a snap election at a time when road conditions would be at their worst and winter had its icy grip on the countryside.

He spoke at a Huron Liberal meeting which chose Benson W. Tuckey, owner of an Exeter trucking company and member of Huron County Council for eight years, as Liberal candidate in the Feb. 16 by-election.

Earlier this week the Huron Progressive Conservative Association chose Thomas Pryde, Exeter manufacturer, as its candidate in the by-election in which Huron voters will elect a successor to Dr. R. Hobbs Taylor of Dashwood, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature who died last month.

Controls Stabilize Shares On Exchange

By The Canadian Press

Re-imposition of price controls on butter, meats and specified fertilizers dominated financial news, this week.

With the price issue coloring meat business activity the first two weeks of the year, these controls —added to the action last week by the Bank of Canada in withdrawing bids for government bonds thereby making money more expensive and serving as a curb on inflation—were considered in some circles as stabilizing influences.

Food and meat-packing company shares, listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange, did not reflect anxiety over the controls, although grains in Winnipeg were uncertain as traders considered the possible extension of controls.

Yesterday's market reports showed general weakness. Toronto golds and base metals were soft although industrials held about unchanged. Montreal was dull and prices easy. Butter and eggs in Toronto softened with the former down a cent and the latter off slightly.

Judge Lashes Ex-Clergyman

GUELPH, Jan. 17—(CP)—A former clergyman cited as co-respondent in a divorce action yesterday was described by Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay of the Ontario Supreme Court as having "degraded his position and disgraced the cloth."

Mr. Justice Mackay ordered Rev. James C. Grier of Whitby and Oshawa to pay damages totalling $1,250 for alienation of affection and criminal conversation in a suit brought by William Leveque of Guelph.

The name of Mr. Grier, former moderator of the Toronto-Kingstn Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, is not now on the Presbyterial roll of ministers.

The damage suit was tried jointly with a divorce action and a suit for custody of a five-year-old daughter of the Leveques.

Mr. Justice Mackay granted Leveque, a Second World War veteran, a divorce from Marie Ellen Leveque and gave the mother custody of the child pending final judgment on the custody April 15.

Evidence was that Leveque and his wife separated within four months of Leveque's return from overseas. Leveque said she stayed at a hotel with Grier after the separation.

Eleven women and six children arrived in Hong Kong by plane today. Hong Kong Airways cancelled all scheduled flights to and from Canton to use the planes to bring out the evacuees. British authorites plan to evacuate 100 persons.

Dr. T. V. Soong, governor of Kwangtung province, of which Canton is the capital, said in a statement that the Chinese government would "take prompt military action against outrages to person and property."

Ottawa Reports Surplus Of 646 Million

OTTAWA, Jan. 17. (CP)—The surplus in the Canadian Treasury was $646,230,921 for the first nine months of the current fiscal year, just $377,350,109 above what it was at the same period of the previous financial year and jump of $73,314,802 over the surplus reported a month ago.

In the monthly statement of receipts and disbursements, the comptroller of the treasury reported today that from April 1 to Dec. 31, 1947, unrevised revenues amounted to $2,059,902,578 and expenditures to $1,413,671,657. In the same nine-month period in the previous financial year, total revenues were $2,061,869,666 and expenditures $1,792,958,854.

With the surplus already almost twice as much as the $352,000,000 the federal treasury reported for the entire 1946-47 fiscal year, there have been renewed demands on the government for heavy cuts in the next budget which is due at the end of the financial year, March 31. Observers here believe that such cuts, particularly in income tax, will be made by Finance Minister Abbott to take advantage of the surplus position but government spokesmen have been silent.

It is pointed out, however, that the government's surplus may be scaled down in the remaining three months of the fiscal year even if extraordinary circumstances do not occur to cause unexpected outlays.

The usual trend is that revenues fall off during the latter part of the year when tax cuts made in the previous budget make themselves felt. At the same time, expenditures usually increase.

"This snapshot of my grandparents was taken on board the royal yacht "Victoria and Albert" at Cowes . . . I like best to recall my grandfather as presiding over a well-laden table or smoking a fine Havana cigar of Churchillian dimensions or making grand gestures to beautiful women."

By H.R.H. DUKE OF WINDSOR

CHAPTER 6

And while I remember him, of course, as the focal figure of many solemn ceremonies, I like best to recall him as presiding over a well-laden table, or smoking a fine Havana cigar of Churchillian dimensions, or making gallant gestures to beautiful women.

He and my grandmother always came to Sandringham for the week of November 9, which was his birthday.

Several days in advance the Big House would awaken as a giant from his slumbers and bustle with activity.

First, a small army of servants would be sent ahead. Then on the appointed day the house would spring to life with a bonfire blaze of lights; and the crunch of gravel and the clatter of horses' hoofs would herald the arrival of my grandfather with 20 or 30 guests, every gentleman with his valet, every lady with her personal maid. For a week Sandringham would bubble with festivity. Thousands of pheasants would be shot during the day, and after dinner there would be cards and music and political discussions. If Bertie and I were up with our homework (Mary's was always in hand) we were allowed after tea to run up the hill to spend an hour in that gay company.

Not that we weren't happy at home, but a visit to our grandparents was a passport to a different world, and excitement would fill me as the gaily lighted house rose up in the dusk.

Inside, the huge hall known as "The Saloon" would be filled with handsome, attractive people and humming with conversation; and on one side Gottlieb's famous orchestra, imported from London, would be playing soft music and Strauss waltzes to soothe the tired sportsmen and dispel the shock of a bad bridge hand.

Outside World

Here I caught my first tantalizing glimpse of the world outside the somewhat narrow circle of the Royal Family and its courtiers. Our own crowded cottage did not permit entertainment on such scale; and our occasional guests were weighted in favor of clerics or my father's seafaring friends.

At grandfather's house, on the other hand, the company would include such personages as Count Albert Mensdorff and the Marquis de Souveral, two ambassadors of the old school from Vienna and Lisbon; Lord Salisbury and Lord Rosebury, both Prime Ministers of opposing parties, the last the only man to win the Derby from No. 10 Downing St.; Sir Ernest Cassel and Lord Farquhar, financiers who made and handled immense fortunes; Lord Ripon and Lord Beresford, as quick and accurate with an epigram as with a gun—all men after my grandfather's heart.

These personages would make a great show over us, which was flattering and exciting, and sometimes one of them, with a mock air of conspiracy, would press upon us a golden sovereign or half a sovereign — a welcome contribution to our meagre pocket money. And, far from being expected to sit rigidly on a chair, in self-conscious attitudes of unimportance, as was the rule at home, we were encouraged to let loose our exuberant spirits, to romp with the guests, and to pedal our toy motors at high speed, honking all over the house.

There is no question but that my grandparents spoiled us. And if King Edward favored me it was perhaps because he discerned, even at my tender age, the making of a temperament akin to his own. Perhaps, remembering also his own repressed boyhood, he decided that a grandfather's role was to champion a small boy's natural interests. On my eighth birthday he gave me my most prized possession; a bicycle. It was, in any case, characteristic of him, on learning that my father had refused to let me have a knife as being too dangerous, that he presented me with a great big one, brushing off my father's protest with "Nonsense, George, I have never heard of a boy without a knife."

No Parental Approval

My parents did not entirely approve of these boisterous interludes at the Big House, particularly as we almost always got home late for the hard and fast seven o'clock bedtime.

But in my grandfather's philosophy a few minutes more of fun made no difference, and though we knew a mild reproof would be in store for us on our return, the good time we had had made up for it.

But as suddenly as it had begun the fun would stop. In a dozen coaches and "fourgons" piled high with baggage, the King and Queen and their friends would clatter down the drive to the station bound for London.

Silence would descend over the woods and coverts; the Big House would relapse into darkness, to remain so for another few weeks. Then, shortly before my grandmother's birthday, December 1, there would be the same imposing charge up the drive, with a different party of guests. There would be another week of shooting and gaiety, after which they would all whirl back to London again for another round of public engagements and the wind-up of the autumn season.

A few days before Christmas my grandparents would be back once more for the great family party of the year.

Christmas at Sandringham was Dickens in a Cartier setting. Since a serious purpose was injected into all our pleasures, Hansell would begin by explaining to us the religious meaning of the Nativity, and perhaps read to us from Dickens' well known Christmas story, and Mama would summon us around the piano to learn Christmas carols. And to remind us of the duties inherent in privilege my parents would take us on Christmas Eve to the coach house to watch the distribution of meat to the employees and tenants of the estate.

This was an extraordinary scene; on the white table cloths huge, bloody joints of beef, tagged with the name of the recipients; and the King and Queen sitting near the door to exchange greetings with the tenants as they filed past, the men touching their caps, the women making a quick bob.

Back at the Big House after tea a loud beating of gongs would herald Santa Claus's arrival. We would follow him in procession into the ballroom. The great doors would swing back, revealing a fir tree from the woods, tall enough to touch the ceiling, ablaze with candles and festooned with decorations, and surrounded by snowy tables heaped with presents. We children always had to wait to the last, which imposed an agonizing suspense. When at last Grandpapa signalled to us, it didn't take long for the room to become a sea of wrapping paper and to resound with our yells of delight and the din of mechanical toys. Then, making our way down the hill, we would meet the village choir, carrying lanterns, heading fo rthe Big House to sing Christmas carols for the King.

23 Estonians In Kitchener

KITCHENER, Jan. 17.—(CP). —Their long and hazardous journey from Europe over, 23 Estonian immigrants awoke early today in their new home here.

Behind them but still vivid in their memories were an Atlantic crossing in an open sailboat during which one member of their company was lost and three months' detention at New York's Ellis Island.

But when they reached here last night a warm welcome awaited them from Lutheran church officials and local well-wishers and they went to bed in a house provided for them after negotiation on an international level.

Joy shone on all their faces as they were welcomed here last night on behalf of the Canadian Lutheran World Relief committee by representatives who included Rev. A. W. Lotz, president of the Lutheran Ministerial Association of Kitchener and Waterloo. After a round of embraces and hand-shaking, they sat down to a turkey dinner.

But still to be disposed of was the protest the Canadian Legion sent to Federal authorities.

GETS GREEK MEDAL — Lieut. Dave Greyeyes, the first Canadian officer of Indian blood to be commissioned from the ranks in the last war, has been awarded the Greek Military Cross, Class III, in recognition of his gallantry overseas. Lieut. Greyeyes left his grain farm near Leask, Sas., in 1940, to join the Saskatchewan Light Infantry, and went overseas as a private. The award is included in a list of Canadian service and ex-service personnel announced by the Greek government in recognition of Canadian support of the III Greek Mountain Brigade during the Italian campaign.

THAT'S when a man is really down. A fellow risks everything else before he parts with his shirt. That goes last. He values it too much. The expression "lose your shirt" is used for good reasons. A good cotton shirt is something to cherish. The same amount of money could buy nothing of similar quality. That applies also to cotton bed sheets, handkerchiefs, gowns and scores of other items of daily use that are made of cotton. Cotton with its freshness, its washability, its resistance to sun and heat and its durability gives top value for your money. You can bet your shirt on that!

The Return Of Price Controls

Business seems to have been unable to use its "free enterprise" opportunities properly or efficiently. Prices have become dangerously high—assaulting the family income and creating a situation out of which might have come a disastrous economic depression. The government has been forced to intervene by reimposing price ceilings on butter and meat, for the outcry, particularly from large cities, could not be disregarded.

* * *

The necessity for the reimposition of ceilings is regrettable because an economy which needs constantly to be tinkered with is neither stable nor healthy. However, the people who have a special interest in promoting a business free-for-all need not be unduly alarmed. Bread and milk are sold under virtual governmental price control; adding butter and meat to the list is not heinous. Further, the ceilings will not be low, and they take into account high costs of production. The farmers will be satisfied, because they profited little from the price rises of the last two weeks, and in fact might have suffered because of a drop in demand for their product retailing at high uncontrolled prices.

The Bavarians Can Laugh

The post-war problems of Bavaria, now in the American Zone of Occupation, are similar in degree and kind to those of other German provinces outside the Russian zone. They are primarily food, fuel and shelter. The Bavarians are not, however, desolate in spirit because of them, nor are they sitting with folded hands, waiting for American gods to succour them.

Several cartoons from the Frankenpost, a provincial paper in north-east Bavaria, have come to our eyes. One, headed "Changing Times", shows a bank robber in 1937 and 1947. Next to the bank is a coal shop. In '37 the thief was jimmying the door of the bank, in '47 the coal dealer's door. Each household is allotted six hundredweight of coal. That is, of course, quite inadequate for Bavarian winters—it would not even be enough to cook meals in summer. So the citizens resort to burning peat, cutting wood in the mountains, and collecting dry wood in the forests. They make do—and are able to enjoy droll cartoons about the situation.

Increasing coal production has been a major aim of the occupation authorities and the civilian officials, because on it largely depends the revival of the German economy. The success of the campaign (production in the Ruhr is now up to 60% of 1938's) has been brought about partly because coal miners have been given the highest food ration. Heavy manual work cannot be done on the meagre ration given ordinary civilians. The staple food is now potatoes. The official ration for a week would not give a Canadian one good serving. So Bavarians scrounge, barter and grub for them.

It is curious that the greater the ration the higher the blackmarket price, because farmers then have to deliver more of their crop to the authorities. The potato in Germany is changing the structure of society. The middle-class urban people have sold their possessions (what they had left after the destruction in wartime) for food, and the farmers with potatoes to sell have houses stuffed with silver plate and the relative wealth of plutocrats. A cartoon shows a gentleman returning gleefully to his city flat with a sack of potatoes. His foraging has cost him something, for all that he is wearing is a pair of spectacles and a black derby hat.

The housing shortage is very great, because of the destruction and the increase in population (from 6 million to 9¼ million in Bavaria). The increase has been caused by refugees—a million from Slovakia, half a million from Silesia (formerly German, now Polish-Russian), fifty thousand from Hungary, four hundred thousand D.P.'s The situation is distressing. T.B. is increasing, and moral standards are slipping. A prominent doctor's wife (the doctor was a surgeon-general in the Wehrmacht) has been hounding the pastor of a village parish for months. Twice a week she calls on him to find out if someone has died in the parish, so that she may get the deceased person's room. A cemetery keeper has been punished because he let people sleep in the room set apart as a repository for coffins.

Life in Bavaria is not merry and carefree; nevertheless there is life there and people can still enjoy their scenery and joke about their troubles.

Has Charity A Place In Modern Life?

In the November 29 issue of The New Statesman Professor Harold Laski published an interesting article called "The Cuckoo Cry"; it was a discussion of public charity, and it has recurred to us from time to time during the past six weeks. So much of what Professor Laski said was right, and needed to be said; and yet—somehow we cannot escape a feeling that the celebrated Left Wing economist has missed a very important point about charity and its place in life.

The title of his article is from a phrase coined by the Victorian reformer William Rathbone Greg in 1845—"the cuckoo cry—always charity and never justice". Laski's objection to private charities is that they are often badly and wastefully administered, that they breed snobbery, and that they exact gratitude from the objects of their benevolence. Here is the conclusion of his article:

> I am against what Mr. Greg so rightly called the "cuckoo cry". Wherever there is a group in our society whose fate is unhappy through no fault of their own I am for justice and against charity. Whether they are orphans or aged persons, the blind or the maimed, the veteran soldier or sailor, whoever they are, they have a claim to justice into which the notion of patronage need not enter. I do not believe that their removal from the sphere of voluntary charity would take the "human touch" out of their experience. I believe that the public authority can run a children's home, or provide accommodation or assistance for the aged or infirm, with an insight far more imaginative, and an efficiency far greater, than anything that private charity can achieve. I think that, in an immense degree, it is socially preferable to deal with the overwhelming mass of these problems without the intervention of gracious ladies, or benevolent busybodies, or stockbrokers to whom a hospital is a hobby, or snobs who see in charity a ladder to acquaintance for which they have long been yearning. I hope we shall get rid, before long, of all the professionals who raise money on so much per cent. commission, and the staffs, untrained or half-trained, who are asked to sacrifice the rate for the job to that sense of a mission which has been, for over seventy years, about as slimy a form of blackleging as there is in this country. It would be fine to see all those, from the young children to the oldest people, no longer driven to remember their duty to be thankful for small mercies, and thought ungrateful if they did not count their blessings. Public provision gives grievance the effective change of expression. It enables standards to be set. It prevents the fear that investigation may reveal inadequacy or scandal. Charity means, if I may adopt another phrase of W. R. Greg, the half-open purse for the service of the scavenger virtue, pity. I am for the public fund from public taxes which does not deprive so many of its beneficiaries of half their dignity as human beings.

Can any honest person read this without agreeing in his heart? Which of us has not seen charity used as a means of personal aggrandizement, or as a method of paying blood money for sins against society; which of us has not seen five dollars' worth of self-satisfaction bought with a fifty-cent contribution to a charity? And who has not seen a recipient of charity stripped of self-respect by his supposed benefactor? What Laski says is true.

But it is not the whole truth. The charitable instinct is one of the characteristics which raises us above animals. Wolves do not care for the unfortunate members of the pack. To kill all charity—to make all charity indecent because charity is sometimes indecently used—is surely a very violent cure for a social evil? In his attack on "the cuckoo cry" Laski often mentions Dickens, because Dickens hated false charity with a deadly hatred and scarified it in his novels. But although Dickens hated the falsely charitable people whom Laski hates, he was not very fond of the Laskis of his time either. Consider, for instance, this brief passage from Hard Times:

> It was a fundamental principle of the Gradgrind philosophy that everything was to be paid for. Nobody was ever on any account to give anybody anything, or render anybody help without purchase. Gratitude was to be abolished, and the virtues springing from it were not to be. Every inch of the existence of mankind, from birth to death, was to be a bargain across a counter. And if we didn't get to Heaven that way, it was not a politico-economical place, and we had no business there.

If Professor Laski, or the Socialist state which he advocates, can destroy false charity, and ostentatious charity, and the servile acceptance of charity, more power to it. But we should be very sorry to think that in the process it was going to destroy the sense of gratitude which none of us can escape. We are all in the debt of parents, masters and friends, and even if we have never taken a penny from another we have all known the charity of kindness and forbearance from others. The cuckoo cry is "always charity and never justice"; but charity and justice are not incompatible.

Diary Of January Reflections

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: A little girl offered to read to me out of a book of Bible stories this afternoon, and announced the title of the one she had chosen as "Ruth the Frightful Daughter-in-Law"; I was somewhat drowsy, and this sounded so normal—so in accord with everyday experience—that it did not occur to me until she was well launched on the tale of Ruth and Naomi that she had misread the word "faithful"....Made a fire this evening of cannel coal which has been in my cellar since 1943. It was rotten coal then, and would hardly burn, but tonight it blazed away merrily. Of course, everybody knows that coal matures very slowly, and I do not grudge the five years which this stuff passed in a dark corner of my abode, ripening and richening. There's no fuel like an old fuel, as my Aunt Berengaria says.

MONDAY: Passed the evening in the company of some people who have bought a lovely old house, and are having great fun fixing it up. Of course the furnace is not in very good condition and shoots most of its heat up the chimney, and none of the sashes fit, and there are cracks in the foundation, but it is a dear old place all the same. Admittedly they have to burn their own garbage in the furnace (which makes a smell) and they have to bury their tin cans privily at dead of night, and the water supply is capricious, but it has lovely high ceilings (some of which need replastering). Yet, in spite of their woes, I see what they are after. They are in rebellion against the modern vogue for houses which our ancestors would not have accepted as almshouses, and which are undoubtedly the nastiest human habitations ever to be built since man emerged from the Mud Hut Period of architecture. An old house is a nuisance, but it is obviously intended for men and women to live in. Much modern housing would be better called kenneling.

TUESDAY: When the history of western civilization as evinced in Eastern Ontario is written, a long footnote will have to be devoted to the curious place which the garbage pail holds in our folk-habits. A traveller from Mars, dropping suddenly upon this part of the Earth, might assume that we loved these vessels, and were proud of them. Every garbage-day the pails line the streets like sentinels—mute evidence of the amount of food we eat and the quantity of rubbish which we throw away: every night, after the collection, they lie scattered in the snow, and at dusk they look like the bodies of soldiers, fallen in battle and frozen in death. Indeed, Napoleon's retreat from Moscow must have looked rather like one of these Ontario streets....Two boys wanted to shovel my walk tonight. "I generally pay fifty cents", said I. "Well, as there's two of us that'd make it a buck" said one lad, ingenuously. Favoured him with a much-needed lesson in economics.

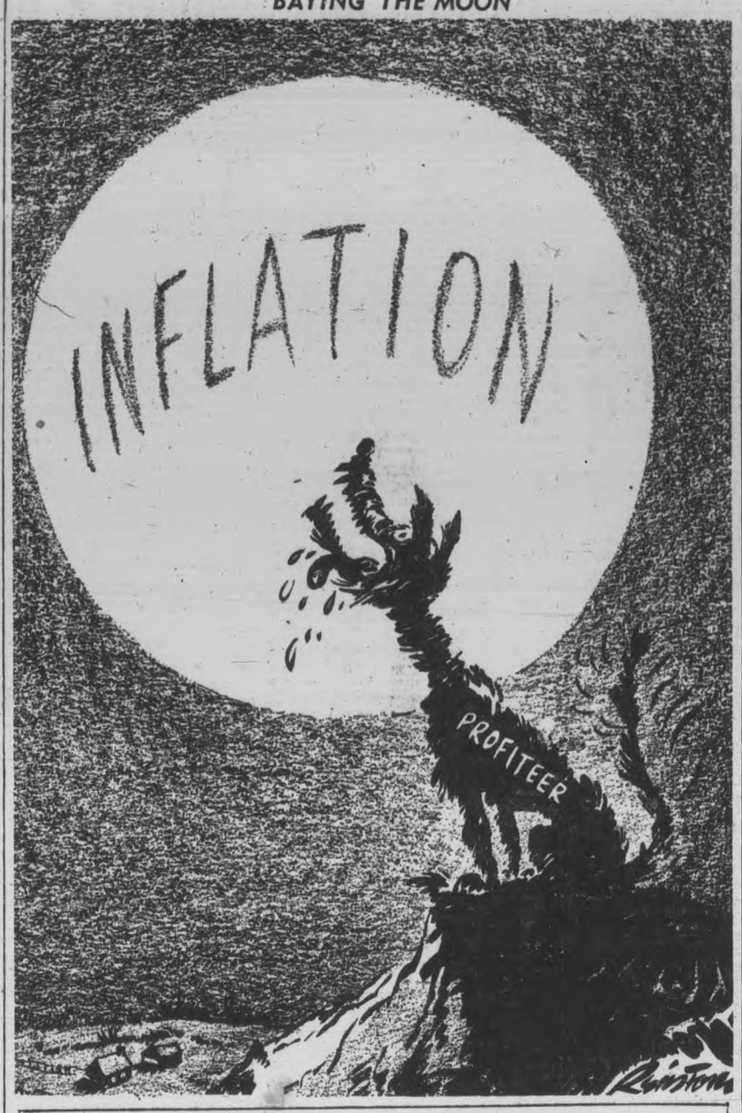
✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: The azalea which entered my house at Christmas is now unmistakeably dead. I watered it—nearly drowned it, in fact—kept it out of draughts, did not allow anyone to brush, pinch or pick at it. I coddled the thing as though it had been a baby, but it pined from the moment it crossed the threshold. The truth is, I have a brown thumb. Every green thing I touch, withers. When, in performances of "Faust", I see the Devil touch the bouquet and wither it, I know exactly how he feels....A distant relative of mine sent me a genealogy of part of my family today. Passed the evening reckoning the ages at which my ancestors died; save for a few who pegged out miserably in infancy the average is 87 years and a few months. Now this seems to me to be thoroughly praiseworthy. These primeval Marchbanks, without the aid of vitamins, central heat, balanced diets or any medical care save bleeding, purging and mustard plasters, managed to survive to an average age of 87, and usually died by falling off roofs, being gored by bulls, or otherwise violently. They ate till they were full, drank till they were drunk, nated fresh air, and thought tomatoes were poisonous, yet they lived valiantly, God rest them.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: Saw a fine picture in the New York Times today of the late Harry Baur in the role of Volpone in Ben Jonson's comedy. I forgot how long it is since the news of Baur's death was announced, but I think it was in 1944. This great French actor was invited by the Germans to become a collaborationist; he could have done so, like Sacha Guitry, or he could have shilly-shallied, like Maurice Chevalier, but he gave the tempters a good loud "No" and joined the underground; when they caught him they shot him. And yet how richly Baur lived in the memories of those who saw him in some of his great roles, either on the screen or the stage! The courage and bigness of spirit which made him scorn collaboration showed in his acting; he seemed to blow lesser men right off the stage by the breath of his nostrils! Is it better, I wonder, to be remembered as a great man, or to live as one who successfully rounded an awkward corner?

✧ ✧ ✧



FRIDAY: Heavy snowfall, and all day long I watched the efforts of my friends and neighbours to cope with it. Certain business establishments feel that they are disgraced if a speck of snow lies on their street frontages, and janitors toil painfully with shovels, scrapers, razor blades and kettles of hot water, trying to get the sidewalk cleaner than it ever is in summer. The disposal of snow is a great problem. Municipal authorities frown upon people who shove their snow out into the streets, but where else can it be put? It cannot be burned or eaten; it can, of course, be carried inside by the shovelful, and flushed down the toilet, but this is a lengthy and inconvenient business. The only thing is to shove it into the road, keeping an eye peeled for the cops....Watched a man with a scraper on the front of a jeep clearing a parking lot. A jolly doggy romped merrily in front of him as he worked, and every time he rushed at a pile of snow the doggy narrowly escaped being piled up with it, deep in a drift. Perhaps I was mistaken, but I thought I saw a glint in the jeep-driver's eye, as though he would like to put that doggy in cold storage for the rest of the winter. I, too, was attracted by this notion.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: A scientist whom I know was telling me this evening that ants and spiders sing quite loudly for their size, that flies scream and that weevils make noises like riveters as they bore into wheat grains, yet none of these cries is audible to us, being far above the sound level of our ears. As he explained, the notion struck me that possibly our prayers and entreaties are not audible to God's ear. Perhaps as I walk in my garden the ants and spiders send up the most terrific outcries to me for rain, or peace; maybe they think that I am being hard upon them when I do not answer their prayers, when the plain fact is that I do not hear them. Obviously they should lower their voices; and perhaps, if we want to catch the ear of the Ancient of Days, we should moderate the eager shrillness with which we address Him....Saw "Black Narcissus" tonight — a movie after my own heart.

Letters To The Editor

THE CHARLOTTE ST. BUS SERVICE

Sir: Would like to make a few remarks in criticism of the Charlotte street west bus service.

In the first place, it seems to be much appreciated, judging by the way the bus is crowded most of the time (in fact, packed like sardines very often). But one could almost call it the "Catch-as-catch-can" Service, as one has to have a good memory to know just when the bus can be got. For instance, one Tuesday I went up town early in the morning with the intention of getting back early, so figured to catch the 9.45 bus back home, but when I went to get on the bus at the corner of George and Charlotte St., the driver asked me where I wanted to go to, as the bus was going back to the barn, and the next run out to Charlotte St. West left at 11 a.m. I told him that I got it last week at that time and he answered and said that that must have been on a Wednesday. So on Wednesday I went to visit some friends and tried to get a bus back via the same route about 2.15 p.m., and was told then that there would not be another bus until 3.45 or 4.15, as they did not run out there Wednesday afternoon.

Something should be done about giving a steady service, on that route. Or does the franchise, given to the bus company by the city, allow them to pick out just the certain sections of the city which will crowd the buses to the utmost limit and at certain hours? If so, they will soon be taking the buses off the George St. run at certain hours. I have been told that the company has sold two of the buses to the Ferguson Bus Line. That is really too bad if true, or Charlotte St. West run might have got a 20-minute service instead of the "Now-and-Then" service it gets now, and even get a bus occasionally on Sundays and holidays, which it does not get now.

It looks as though the powers-that-be were afraid that the new run would pay, so arranged the service to discourage the would-be patrons as much as possible, but it seems to be prospering in spite of the "Now-and-Then" time table.

Yours truly,

WESTERNER.

REFORM LIES IN THE WARD SYSTEM

Sir: Peterborough will have to issue debentures for some millions of dollars required for buildings that are being talked about, and the only place to get the money is from the property owners, business tax, poll tax and licenses. We don't know what the new Civic Hospital is going to cost. I think unnecessary expense could be saved if the work was closed down for the winter, and started again when building conditions are better in the spring. The council doesn't know what the sewage disposal plant is going to cost. They are just groping around in the dark.

Nobody seems to know anything about the Memorial Community Centre, what it will cost, where it will be built. All you hear is a lot of squabbling. The new city hall is another extra large expenditure, but we don't know what it will cost. Then there is a new market which will have to be looked after if we are going to retain a public market after the present location is disposed of. There are several other projects in the air.

Can the property owners bear the cost of these things and be able to own their homes? Some parts of the city get extra services, and other parts have to help pay for them. I maintain that services should be paid for by frontage tax on the property getting the direct benefit of them. I think the property owners should have the vote on the civic pension scheme. What right has the council to establish a pension fund? It is a money expenditure and a bylaw has to be passed. Again, what right has an employee to a pension who either quits or is fired? When we consider the same officials have had for years good salaries, we see them at the end of the trail pensioned off and just about name their own amount.

Property owners, it is your money that is being spent. It is time you looked the problem in the face, and think what will be the outcome of it all. What about more interest being taken in our elections. On the whole there is less interest taken as the years go by. What is the cause?

In the first place the democratic way of voting is taken away from the people of Peterborough. What other city has adopted the system of having to vote for four men on the ballot, whether you want them all or not? And then we have the vote of the whole city which is not a fair way of electing a council.

Let us get away from this undemocratic way and go back to the ward system. Elect two aldermen for each ward and extend the council to twelve members. That portion of Monaghan taken into the city is a new ward. Let them have representation on the council.

Citizens, it is up to you to safeguard your million dollar business.

FRED T. TUGGEY.

A Bible Message

Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death.

Then said the Jews unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death. Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

Jesus answered, If I honour myself, my honour is nothing: it is my Father that honoureth me; of whom ye say, that he is your God....Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day: and he saw it, and was glad.

Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am. (John 8: 51-54, 56-58.)

With PETE McGILLEN

ONTARIO SKI CHAMPIONSHIPS are scheduled for February 7 and 8. The jumping and cross-country run will be held at Peterborough Feb. 7, and the slalom and downhill events at Collingwood on the 8th. The jump at Nassau is in first class shape. It has been given a complete overhauling, has been strengthened and the landing apron is smooth as a billiard table. Ski officials here have decided the cross-country event will be over a five-mile course rather than the 9 to 11 mile jaunt, because several of the cross-country competitors wish to compete in the jumping as well. A long race would tire them to the point where they wouldn't tackle the jumping. Present snow conditions are perfect and unless a chinook whips in from the warm Ottawa area, the meet should be perfect success. Bill Shadgett, Peterborough's ace jumper is still languishing in Toronto General Hospital.... How about a few more letters to this fellow.

AT HAL BARKER'S HOME this week, a discussion arose over who could tell the most unusual story dealing with a loon, and two odd ones were told. I was staying at Noremac Lodge on Grace lake near Wilberforce a few years ago, when a party of Americans left the lodge to fish lake trout. They had the usual copper wire gear. When they returned in the evening, one told of hooking a monster trout that had snapped more than 100 feet of his copper line. The following day, this same party went fishing to a small lake about a quarter of a mile from Straggle lake, where they had lost the line. On top of the water they spotted a dead loon, and on examining it they found, the loon had the American's trout bait in its mouth and the 100 feet of copper wire still dangling from the spoon. How that loon got from the other lake is a mystery. Apparently the loon had dove for food, and snapped at the shiny trout bait as it whizzed by.

THE OTHER STORY concerns a turtle, one more black mark for these underwater marauders. Mr. and Mrs. Barker were standing with some friends near their summer home on Stony lake, when suddenly a loon about 200 years distant started a terrible clatter. This loon had been around so long, it had been adopted as a pet, and given a name. The bird was seen to beat its wings as if trying to rise from the water, then it fell back and almost disappeared, all the time screeching and threshing the water. Then by a supreme effort the loon became airborne, and the watchers were amazed to see a huge turtle hanging to one of the Loon's legs. The powerful bird was able to reach a height of about six feet, then it shook the turtle free, and the hard shell hit the water with a smash. The loon kept right on going, and who can blame it. The slaughter of birds and fish by turtles is phenomenal, and the sportsmen who takes the trouble to reduce the turtle population rates an orchid..

LAST SATURDAY, I was walking along the canal, hoping to get a shot at a cottontail or jackrabbit, but I found the snow too deep, so I started back. At Carlisle's Bay, scene of many a pleasant boyhood adventure, I discovered "Pooka" Puggwuzzie. He was hanging to the tops of two withered bullrush stalks, swinging back and forth and whistling Tschaikowsky's Andante Cantabile. This fellow is called "Pooka" after the Irish fairies which closely resemble animals. He has a wolfish look. "So you think a fur buyer can't tell the difference between a beaver pelt taken in December and one in February, hey", said the little rascal, reading my thoughts. "No, I don't believe he can, and if he can and was honest, there wouldn't be any poaching, because the trappers would be afraid to submit pelts for sale that had been taken out of season", I replied. Ha, hahahaha, he chirped in a high pitched voice. "Go ask an old trapper, tenderfoot", he retorted and with a final flip on the bullrushes he was gone.

I CALLED TOM CURVIN when I reached home and asked that question. Tom has been guide, hunter, trapper and fur buyer for 35 years. "Sure, a fur buyer can tell a December pelt from a February one, and just remember it's an offence to purchase an unprime fur", he said. I asked him what he thought of the beaver season opening in this district Feb. 15. His reply was explosive. "There shouldn't be any beaver season, and if there is going to be one, the season should open in March at the same time as the muskrats are being trapped". He added large, prime beaver pelts might go as high as $55 this year, which is a lot of money. People have been killed for less, so what will happen to the beavers. I've never trapped beaver, but I did run a muskrat line for three springs, and this puzzles me. How can a trapper legally take a beaver if the pond is frozen over. He can't set the trap within ten feet of the house, it is strictly illegal to break into the house, and the beaver stores his winter supply of food so does little moving around in the dead of winter.

THE ENGLISH ARE FUNNY. But then maybe I feel that way toward them because I am used to the American style of merchandising. This week I saw a Mercury Capacity casting reel made in England. It's a beautiful job, but the plainest piece of workmanship I ever saw. No frills, no dressing up, just a super reel. It was a capacity of 250 yards. It is made of coanalium, a hard silicon alloy impervious to corrosion by sea water and fresh water acids and alkali. All parts are machined to a latitude of .002 inches and all possible wearing parts are numbered and changeable. Two high duty seven-ball caged journal bearings ensure smooth running and the line drum itself is designed for lightness and strength. A ring in the centre of the reel serves as a brake. Can you imagine a ball-bearing casting reel. It runs free as a zephyr, and once a fisherman gets used to this reel, he can toss a four ounce plug, 100 yards with ease. Jack Broadhurst, local insurance, had the reel sent to him from England.

IT TOOK A 20-BELOW cold wave to make the bear at the Filtration plant miss a meal. This bear, a five-year-old male is fed twice a day, so no matter how much snow falls, he is out waiting for the keeper to bring on the food. Two nights ago, when the mercury hit the toboggan and nose-dived to 20 below, Bruno curled up in his man-made den and hasn't been seen since. A bear gorges himself on food during the autumn when in the wild state, then snoozes most of the winter, presumably because food is not readily available. It is believed he subsists on the fat stored in his body. Caged animals, however, rarely sleep for long periods, and it is also known that where a food supply is available, wild bears will venture forth to secure it, even when the snow is quite deep. In other words, this belief that Bruin sleeps all winter is open to dispute.

PROSPECTS ARE EXCELLENT for a bumper tourist year. C. O. Phillips, manager and owner of Cedar Villa lodge at Rosedale on Balsam lake reports he is 80 per cent booked already. His experience has been that rooms with bath go like hot cakes, and the rooms that have running water only are the most difficult to rent. Nine out of ten enquiries being received at this resort are from Americans. Phillips is making a strong bid for convention business and says owners of large resorts in Ontario are missing a lot of pre-season and post-season business by not angling for conventions from the United States. Certainly this type of business is highly desirable this year because of the shortage of American dollars, and a spacious resort has many advantages over a hotel for a convention group.

IMPORTANT DATES for fishermen, hunters, camp operators and others interested in the tourist business and fish and wildlife resources are: Jan. 20, Toronto, annual dinner of the Tourist Resorts Association of Ontario. Jan. 26, 27, 28, Sault Ste. Marie, annual convention of the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association. Feb. 2 and 3, Niagara Falls, annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. March 13 to 20, Canadian National Sportsman's Show, Coliseum, Toronto.

FORTY YEARS AGO—Look at those posts, and that pile of snow, and the street cars. That is the way the intersection of George and Charlotte Streets looked back in January of 1908, just 40 years ago. Time has brought changes and progress and the southwest corner which at that time was occupied by the Moore Monumental Works is now the CDS corner.

Snow Piled So High 40 Years Ago People Couldn't See Across George Street

Rapidly expanding cities such as Peterborough are mainly concerned with the present and future—they seldom glance back into the past. Yet there are many citizens who recall the by-gone years when life flowed at a more leisurely pace with a kind of nostalgia.

There was less of the hustle and bustle that inevitably complements an industrialized community; and the smaller city allowed people to know one another. Nobody thought it a waste of time to stop and chat with a neighbor; it was part of the grace of living.

For this kind of nostalgia there is no remedy like the photograph album. And the accompanying picture taken from a postcard of that period shows the intersection of George and Charlotte streets—40 years ago.

The view is south looking down towards Charlotte, but the change in buildings, overhead wiring, and transportation leave little similarity with the same aspect today. Only the vexing problem of snow removal in the city seems to have remained constant.

And contrary to general opinion it would appear that 40 years ago snow tied up transportation worse than it does today. Charlie Banks, Rubidge St. (who can boast of the first electric sign in Peterborough—shown on the present site of the CNR ticket office east side of George) recalls that a snowstorm similar to the one which struck here recently, would bog down transportation for a week or more.

Train Snowbound

"Billy" McCallum's restaurant, whose sign can be seen on a post now occupied by a parking meter, used to get an emergency telephone call from Havelock several times a winter requesting him to make several hundred sandwiches and a couple of urns of coffee as emergency rations for stranded passengers on the snowbound Montreal to Toronto train.

The Peterborough Street Railway Co. used to puts its plough to work on clearing the tracks of snow and would pile it up in huge banks on either side of the street. These would grow to such a height at times, say the oldtimers, that it was impossible to see a person walking down the opposite side of the street.

When the tops of these two long walls of snow were levelled off sleighs could travel over them high above pedestrian traffic, like on the dykes of Holland. Powerful modern engines and specialized apparatus have combined to make snow removal easier, so that it is seldom even after the greatest storm that trains are delayed for more than a few hours, or even highly vulnerable motor traffic bogged down after a couple of days.

On the east side of George St. at Charlotte, where Anthony's Fruit Market now stands, was the Bank of Nova Scotia—barely visible in the photo. To the north was C. R. Banks' Sporting Goods and Bicycle Shop on the present site of the CNR. Charlie bought an electric sign from a Toronto man, re-arranged the light bulbs to spell out the letters of his name, and then hung it up where local people could marvel at the innovation.

First Chinese Cafe

Where Buehler Bros. are now situated there used to be a picture post card store, north of that was the first Chinese restaurant in the city—the Thomas and Hamilton Restaurant. An arcade later taken down when the building commenced on that site, was next.

One of the best known spots in town was W. J. "Billy" McCallum's Restaurant which is plainly shown. Both Billy and the restaurant were popular according to Charlie Banks.

Last in sight on the east side of the street is the premises occupied by the Bell Telephone Co.

Where the modern C.D.S. building now stands, was a large building, the store on the street level being managed by John Hills. Next to it was Moore's monumental Works where the headstones for many a former resident were carved.

Across Charlotte running north was Demetrie's Candy Store, and next to it the Sutherland Grocery store, well known for its maple sugar. Jointly occupying the ground floor were the McDonough Cigar Store and the Snelgrove Barber Shop which catered to those men who liked to buy a smoke, have a shave, and exchange a round or two of gossip.

On the location now owned by the Bank of Nova Scotia was the old City Hotel—the end of the sign being just visible in the photo.

The stores have changed, the street railway tracks have been torn up to make way for buses and the intersection is now heavy with motor traffic not dreamed of in 1908 when the photo was taken. Even the large number of lamp posts have disappeared. Of them one wag said: "A drunken man couldn't topple into the road in those days; there were too many lamp posts to wrap himself around."

But progress, like time and tide, waits for no man and the years cannot be rolled back even for the nostalgic. Peterborough is a different city to the one shown 40 years ago on the postcard. Then it was a friendly town; now it is an industrial city. The task is to combine the best features of the two in building for the future.

First Church In Bethany Presbyterian Faith

By MRS. ROSS CARR

Although to this generation it is almost forgotten, the Presbyetrian Church in Bethany was at one time the centre of activities. It was the first church built in the community. Before that, religious services were held each week, in what was then Josiah Wilsons barn, and now owned by Mr. T. J. Jackson. Those joint services were in charge of Methodist and Presbyterian ministers who came in turn to conduct worship. Feeling the need of a real "House of God," the Presbyterians, who at that time were the largest denomination, built a church, in 1872, on the property where Miss Hannah Staples now resides. The Rev. Ewing, resident minister at Omemee, came down the railway track on a hand car to conduct the first Sunday service when the church was officially opened. This church became part of the Springville circuit, the Minister residing there and coming to Bethany for service every Sunday afternoon.

In 1925 the church was closed, due to lack of members and funds to carry on. That is the sad part of a small village, people grow older and unable to remain active and the younger generation have to go further away to obtain employment. With the closing of the church some families went to worship in the United Church (previously Methodist) and others joined the Anglican Church. The building was bought by Mr. Walter Rowland, a local contractor, who remodelled it into the present home of Miss Hannah Staples.

The first minister to come here from Springville was the Rev. William Bennett, who resigned in 1894. He was succeeded by the Rev. A. J. McMullen, 1894-1901; Rev. George Yule, 1902-1905; Dr. D. B. Marsh, 1906-1913, who was quite famous in the world of astronomy. There were also several student ministers . . . the Rev. A. Thompson, and Rev. James Skene are two of those who are well remembered. The charge was then rearranged, and Bethany became associated with Janetville and Ballyduff, the minister for a time residing in Bethany, but later at Janetville. The last minister was the Rev. Victor Walker, now living at Stirling, who came here as a student and was ordained into the ministry while in residence at Bethany. He married a Bethany girl, the former Olive Rowan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Rowan.

Mrs. Richard Johnston, now 85 years of age, who lives on Glengarry Rd., recalls much of the early history of the community. For some time, Mrs. Johnston was the local music teacher and organist in the Anglican church, for that is where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy worshipped. Following her marraige to Richard Johnston, which was performed by the Presbyterian minister the Rev. Mr. Bennett in 1884, she went to the assistance of the Presbyterian congregation afetr they instialed their organ, for they had no one to play it. She recalls how some of the members were much opposed to this "new fangled instrument" (previously tunes had been raised with the aid of a tuning fork). In fact, one man left the church because he thought it was sacrilegious to play an instrument of noise in God's House. The building of this first church was accomplished mostly by "bees" at which everyone in the community helped, regardless of their religion.

Following Mrs. Johnston as organist were Mrs. Jos. Ingram, Hannah Byers (Mrs. David Cairns), Letitia McGill, Mary Alice McGill (Mrs. H. H. Ryley) and Clara Reynolds (Mrs. Clara Armstrong) who remained faithful to the position for twenty years or until the church was closed.

Some of the prominent families connected with the church were the Ryleys, McGills, Coulters, Byers, Logans, Bradleys, Reynolds, McKinnons, Vances, Hutchinsons, Fallis, O'Brians, Rowans, McCartneys, Jemisons, etc. There may be others which have been unintentionally omitted.

Many other interesting facts could be related about the history of the Presbyterian Church and its congregation. They spared not of their time nor energy in working for the church of their choice and have handed down to this generation a heritage of good that cannot be denied.

Hawks and Owls Warrant Protection From Mankind

By J. L. MCKEEVER
Kawartha Conservation Association

One of the most difficult things to do is to live down a bad name, and it seemingly matters little whether the bad name has been justly or unjustly applied. The hawks and owls in general are in this unfortunate position. Because they have been seen to prey on poultry, a prejudice has grown up against them over many generations until nearly everyone believes that a hawk or an owl should be killed on sight. This is almost entirely unjust and wrong as prolonged and careful scientific study has proved; but prejudice dies hard, even in the face of facts which discredit it.

Every farmer knows all too well how seriously small rodents, particularly field mice, can damage his crops both in the field and in the barn, but unfortunately few farmers know that the hawks and owls which they so mistakenly kill, are among nature's most potent checks on the undue increase of these destructive and prolific little animals. Until man took it upon himself to change things supposedly to serve his own ends, the whole scheme of nature was in the balance; that is, each species of animal life was preyed upon and its numbers kept in check by some other forms of life, while it in its turn depended upon still another for its own food. Tus it can readily be appreciated how the indiscriminate killing of such birds as hawks, would remove the natural check on field mice and so cause them to increase to such numbers as to become a menace to agriculture.

A natural question to ask is how one can be sure that hawks and owls are not the menace to the farmer they are supposed to be. The answer is that for many years such bodies as the U.S. Department of Agriculture and some of our own Government departments at Ottawa have been making an intensive study of their food. In the case of the hawks this is done by observation of their feeding habits as well as by actual analysis of the stomach contents of the large number of birds. The owls however, have a peculiar habit which is of considerable aid to those studying them. They devour much of their small prey whole or nearly so, and as digestion progresses, they regurgitate such things as bones and fur in small, neatly rolled pellets. Such pellets may be found in considerable numbers under a roosting tree, and a scientific analysis of them will indicate what the bird has been feeding upon.

Such studies have shown clearly that far from being a menace, most of the hawks and owls should be counted among the farmer's best friends and should be protected by him in his own interests and by law against those who would shoot them merely out of a mistaken idea of sport. This is not to say that no hawk or owl preys on song birds or domestic poultry. Most of them do to some extent while the occasional individual will choose the soft life of securing the bulk of his food from a particular farm-yard. In such a case the farmer would have to shoot the bird to protect his poultry. However, taking each species of Hawk or Owl as a whole, and assessing the good and the bad in their food habits, they pay their way and merit protection.

At the present time no owl is protected by law in Ontario and no hawk is protected other than the osprey or fish hawk. The two eagles, the golden and the bald, are also protected although several senseless killings of the latter species were reported in the Examiner last year. Many of the States to the south of us have belatedly recognized the services of the hawks and owls to mankind and are now affording them whole or partial protection. Let us hope that Ontario may soon follow suit.

HOLIDAY ECHOES

I'm not the man I used to be . . . a few short weeks ago . . . when tinsel on a Christmas tree . . . set all the world aglow. My heart was singing carols then . . . and beauty filled the day . . . I sang of peace . . . good will to men . . . for life was bright and gay. It seemed that all my petty cares . . . had journeyed to the skies . . . and smiling friends on thoroughfares . . . made laughter with their eyes. It's only weeks since Christmas joy . . . inspired my daily toil . . . and life was like a shiny toy . . . without a trace of soil. My Christmas zeal no longer burned . . . when trees were taken down . . . and one by one my cares returned . . . in winter's somber gown. Inner Workings of Watch Held In Place By Pins

By W. J. COTTRELL

Mrs. Mary Morrison of Marmora is owner of a number of antique articles whose history, design and nature carry with them a fascinating picture of Scotland in the 19th century and earlier.

A silver watch, made by John Bruce, 26 Wapping, Liverpool, shows unusual design and structure. The inner workings of the timepiece are held in place by pins, not with the present method of screws.

Another marker in the watch indicates that the instrument was obtained from: "James Halliday, Watchmaker, Jeweller and Optician, Dalbeattie."

Original purchaser of the watch was John McKnight, a sailor, who was great-grandfather of Mrs. Morrison. It has reached her by bequest, having passed from McKnight to his son and from the son to a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Smith, who moved from Scotland to Fenelon Falls, Ont., in 1875. Mrs. Smith left the heirloom to her daughter, Mrs. Morrison, about 40 years ago.

World Traveller

The great-grandfather was evidently a traveller, for among the items which have been passed down from him is a pair of beautifully covered seashells which he had obtained at the Canary Islands.

The McKnight christening robe, hand embroidered with painstaking care and striking effect, is also owned now by Mrs. Morrison. It has been in the family line for more than 150 years.

A large white china teapot, a keepsake of Mrs. Morrison's first husband, the late Donald McColl, bears a tea-rose pattern and is adorned with gilt edging. It is believed to be more than a century old, having been used by Mr. McColl's grandmother.

Old Violin

A violin, constructed of South American cedar, is another treasured possession. A feature of the instrument, which has now been removed was a string of rattlesnake's rattles wound around the sounding post to bolster the volume of sound. Only clue to the identity of the maker of the violin in the single word "Korf" which is engraved on the back.

An unusual pastime followed by Mrs. Morrison is that of collecting pebbles from all places she visits. The basis of the collection is a group of stones assembled on a cross-country trip from Belleville to Vancouver some years ago, on which Mrs. Morrison began the process of collecting a sample rock from each stop of interest. One of her most prized ones is a stoned from the Duke of Windsor's ranch in Alberta. All the collection items are labelled as to their original location.

Petes Blank Kingston Saints 7-0 To Maintain Undefeated Record

The Petes swept to a decisive 7-0 OHA senior "B" victory over Kingston Saints before a fair-sized crowd at Omemee last night to continue their three-year undefeated record on "home" ice. It was a fast sheet and a fast, clean contest, with the victors having a good margin on play over the short-handed Saints.

While they started off in rather ragged fashion, the Creighton crew soon settled away and turned in a neat effort the rest of the route. They led 2-0 the first frame and 6-0 going into the third. Aside from a few high-sticking penalties, it was quite clean with plenty of speed all the way. Kingston were shy several regulars, as they had been against Legion last game.

Led Scorers.

Freddy Garvey led the scorers with two goals and two assists, turning in a tidy performance throughout the game. Blewett, Tompkins and Kingdon were each in on three markers in neat going, while Jerry Creighton figured in on two. Harding was solid in goal to gain is shutout, and the whole team clicked in smart style. Goalie Udall—despite the count—Bill Mortimer, and Goodfellow were the pick of the Kingston gang, which never stopped trying.

It was fast and even for a space on good ice and then Jerry Creighton got in close to score with a hot shot, aided by Blewett and Garvey. Jopling got one, but the whistle had gone, and then Burton and Stevenson were gated for high-sticking. Kingdon was robbed and Casterton came close for the other side in the hot and fairly even travelling. Garvey made it 2-0 late in the heat on a pass from Jopling at close range.

Smart Play

Tompkins tallied early in the second from Kingdon on a smart bit of play, and Casterton tested Harding. Blewett added one from Garvey and J. Creighton on nice combination. Jack Mortimer was thefted but Kingdon got one more from Tompkins after Udall had flattened out on the ice after saving one thrust. Horton and Sweetman roughed it a bit and were chased. Jopling tore in like a streak, but missed out and Bill Mortimer gave Harding a quick stab. Tompkins then scored a lovely one on a return pass from Kingdon in close, and Kerluk went away for tripping near the finish.

It was fast and clean in the third, with the Petes having a slight edge on play at the start and finishing on even terms, but pressed for a space half way through as the Saints poured in hard. Garvey nearly got one on a breakaway and then Burton and Sweetman were penalized for high-sticking. Horton followed for slashing, and Bun Kingdon drew a delayed penalty for hooking as Kingston threatened to rob Ray of a shutout. Garvey scored the only goal of the chukker on a nice passout from Blewett, Freddy flipping it home at close range. It was hot and pretty even at the end.

IN ON FOUR—Freddy Garvey, shown here in a Legion uniform—he played for them last year—led the Petes' scorers last night in Omemee with four points in their 7-0 shutout of Kingston.

The teams:

Kingston — Goal, Udall; defence, Mortimer and T. Goodfellow; centre, Stevenson; wings, Ohlke and Belwa; alternates, Jarrell, Casterton, Cameron, Kerluk, Sweetman and Laird.

G. Sloan's Rink Captures Packers Trophy

By HERB MARTIN

The first all week men's open bonspiel ever sponsored by our club, came to a successful conclusion late Friday afternoon, when George Sloan and his Gravenhurst rink came home in first place and took with it the sterling silver Canada Packer's Trophy. Dr. R Clark's local rink was the runner-up.

Percy Skitch, the veteran Lindsay curler piloted his rink to win the consolation event and to take back to Lindsay with them the sterling silver W. G. Morrow Trophy. M. Hart from Oshawa was the runner-up.

The club is to be congratulated on the success of the bonspiel just closed, and a great deal of the credit goes to chairman Thos. Doughty and his committee.

During the final games on Friday the upstairs gallery and downstairs "No. 8" was crowded to capacity. They came to see high class curling and they were not disappointed. All rinks, both winners and losers, gave all they had.

The mixed bonspiel is down for this evening as usual at 7.30 o'clock.

Juniors Get Win Over Cobourg

The PCVS Junior "A" team started the defense of its COSSA junior basketball title in Cobourg last evening by decisively beating the home team 56-18.

Once again the small Cobourg Collegiate floor played a large part in causing a great deal of rough play, most of which was allowed to go by loose officiating.

PCVS quickly went to the front and led 15 to 4 at the quarter. This was increased to 23-8 at the half, with all seven Peterborough players figuring in the scoring.

The third quarter was particularly one-sided and ended 40-10 for the visitors. Neil Thompson looped in three quick ones, while Griffin and Northcott found the mark twice.

A fairly even last quarter, with Jamieson finding the mark for the home team brought a 56-18 final score. The teams:

PCVS— Griffin 10, Thompson 13, Lee 8, Grafstein 4, Sergeant 6, Dinsdale 5, Northcott 10. Total 56.

Cobourg — Jamieson 12, Medhurst, Campbell 4, Martin, Corvin, Norton, Charles, Brown 2, Dillon, Lawless. Total 18.

Referee—S. Guy, Cobourg.

Lindsay Trounces Oshawa Bees 8-5

LINDSAY, Jan. 17.—Coming to life after two defeats, this week, Lindsay trounced the Oshawa Bees, 8-5, in a fast OHA junior "B" game here Friday night.

The Coombs-Parker combination accounted for five of the home team goals, with Kelley, L Hennessey and Nicholls each spearing one. Weldup performed the hat trick for Oshawa, with Hooper and Morrison each notching one.

Action was rugged with 17 penalties being handed out. Oshawa opened the scoring in the first period, but Lindsay soon evened it up and went ahead, never to lose command of the play.

Close Resemblance

G. W. Lang of Kitchener, president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, said in Toronto yesterday the United States Golf Association's recent scheme for assigning par rating to golf courses and handicaps to amateurs, closely resembles a system introduced in Ontario and Quebec in 1938 by the RCGA.

The main difference, he said, is that the Canadian system's lowest handicap is scratch, while the lowest U.S. association handicap is plus three.

PRODUCES OIL

Commercially, the importance of the Middle East lies chiefly in its oil reserves.

JOE'S VERSION OF AN UMPIRE — Joe DiMaggio, veteran Yankee star, and one of baseball's highest-salaried players, visited an umpire school at West Palm Beach, Fla., and gave the lads his version of how it should be done to the obvious amusement of the veteran umpire instructors from both major and minor leagues. Joe is shown calling Bill McGowan out sliding home.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Both male cage crews of Outboard Marines are in action tonight but on different fronts. The "B" intermediates journey to Lindsay for a Lakeshore League fixture, while the "A" outfit tackles Toronto West End "Y" seniors in an exhibition at the Collegiate. Should be a keen contest, too. As a prelim to it, Neill's lasses play the YM junior boys in an exhibition hoop tilt. Nurses and Kawarthas have a YWCA game Monday at eight p.m. By the way of the Cobourg weekly paper we note the Lakeshore League schedule is out now. No further COSSA contests featuring PCVS packs till next weekend. Results of last night's basketball games should be in elsewhere, though goodness knows where all this puck and cage dope will be squeezed in.

As mentioned the other day, the Peterborough Lacrosse Club has an ambitious program outlined for sponsoring minor lacrosse this year. They'll help organize four teams each in bantam, midget and juvenile, with an OLA affiliation, and will finance the setup with an early bingo and later percentages of all senior "B" games. On top of this, they will bring in a senior "A" player to coach the minors all summer as a full-time job. And they'll let the minor setup run itself—with its own executive—though maintaining a direct contact with it and supervising the games at Miller Bowl. That's what we call helping the kids in sports.

Mazuma For Stitches

Haven't checked with any of the insurance agents here but no doubt they, too, could work out a policy whereby athletes in such rugged games as lacrosse and hockey could obtain some balm for cuts. Like certain NHL and AHL puckists get five bucks a stitch for cuts suffered in games or practices. Policy might be too expensive for amateurs, but it seems to be a worthwhile risk for the play-for-pay chaps. Wonder how the local grid insurance worked out last season, by the way.

Strikes us that the most constructive letter re a covered rink here yet received by The Examiner was in yesterday's edition. Harold Rehill wrote it and urged immediate action by service clubs and all those interested in starting a secondary rink for Peterborough for the 1948-49 season. He felt a sum up to $50,000 could be raised by service clubs, council aid and in the other ways, and that some voluntary work could be done. He mentioned a good site, the west part of the Townsend-George-Rink streets property and he suggested a committee be formed at once primarily of service clubs' members. With the Memorial Centre several years at least away, we heartily endorse the suggestion—particularly as a secondary rink will always be required here, one with natural ice.

Let's Really Start It

May we suggest that the same Harold Rehill—a service club member himself—take it upon himself to call a meeting for this purpose? Running his own supply firm here, he is a responsible party, and someone must start the ball a-rollin'. Each service club should have two delegates on hand, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Recreation Commission, city council should be represented, three local OHA clubs and the PMHA, and other interested organizations. And the public generally. Have them get together and discuss all angles thoroughly and see what could be started by Feb. 1. With enough push Peterborough could have a good natural-ice rink operating next December. How about it, Harold?

Petes took Kingston 7-0 in Omemee last e'en, but the Saints' skipper told us that neither the Petes nor Legion should brag too much about it—the Saints being shy several regulars against both local clubs. However, the Creighton crew looked pretty fair in this tilt and certainly showed condition right to the finish. Garvey is clicking now and led the scorers, while such smart veterans as Kingdon, Tompkins and Blewett were prominent again. And Jerry Creighton going both ways, he and Floyd Parsons being nice backcheckers. Harding earned his shutout with good goaltending, and the whole crowd went well. A nice clean and speedy struggle.

Vets Upset Legionnaires

Belleville Vets took an 11-8 win on home ice over the local Legionnaires last p.m., which puts the Petes in top spot by half a game, and pulls the Vets up closely, too. Kingston are on the spot now in this hot group scramble. The Quinte clash was a wide-open one, with Walt Gerow signalling his return to the puck wars by scoring three goals. Rochetta, Bob Greenlaw and Crowley shone on the Legion attack and 'twas no disgrace for the team to lose at all. The boys of Bella Villa have looked strong several times this season and, with Gerow back, are nobody's setup—they were always tough on their own ice. Some 2,000 fans saw a speedy scrap. Yeah, this senior "B" kettle is gradually coming to a boil, huh?

Legions Loses To Vets In Open Fray

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 17.—Nineteen goals bulged the twine in Memorial Arena here last night, when the Belleville Veterans in a wide open Senior "B" game defeated the Peterborough Legion by an 11-8 score, before 2,000 fans.

The game was the fastest dished up here this season, one which saw the Veterans inspired by the return of Walt Gerow to the lineup go on a scoring spree that was nearly matched by the fast skating heavy checking Legionnaires.

The rangy left winger of the Veterans, playing his first game since he was injured four weeks ago, flashed all his old time speed and cunning and fired home three goals to celebrate his return to the hockey wars. His linemates Leo Goyer and Timmy Williams fitted into the former picture and accounted for six of the Veterans goals, garnering 11 scoring points between them.

The teams battled all even during the first period with Gerow taking Williams' pass to draw first blood. Tim Williams took a pass out in front of his own net from Greenlaw and accidentally deflected the rubber in to tie the count. Doug Day got that one back midway through the period but Godfrey evened the count at two all on Greenlaw's neat passout from behind the nets.

Crowley, Greenlaw and Rochetta, the Petes' crack first line, swept down the ice in a neat passing play to put the visitors one up a minute after the second period started. Then the Vets struck savagely.

Big Vern Goyer, one of the stars of the game, rushed down centre ice flanked by Reeves and Day. He took Day's pass close in and gave Nicholls no chance. Fifteen seconds later Williams fired home Gerow's pass to dunk the biscuit and ten seconds after that Leo Goyer took Williams pass to give the Veterans a three-goal lead.

Coughlin fired home the rubber for Petes at the 16 minute mark but Don Barrett got that one back a minute later. Tempers flared a bit in this period with Referee Bill Steen handing out six penalties with the teams sharing the honors.

Nine times the red lights flashed on as the squads went all out on a goal with Williams and Gerow helping the count 7-4 after four minutes of play in this heat but the Petes Greenlaw, with Crowley got that one back. Gerow notched his second goal with Williams and eGrow helping, but E. Nicholls scoring in with H. Greenlaw returned the compliment.

Huck Reeves scored single-handed to again give the Vets a three-goal lead, and Gerow got his hat trick when he took Williams' pass to make the count 10-6. The Petes flew back to the attack and in organized forays swept up and down the ice. Rochetta scored one of the best goals of the night when he raced through the Vets' squad to score singlehanded and Godfrey poked home the biscuit at the 14-minute mark to narrow the margin to 10-8.

With five minutes to go, Leo Goyer sailed down centre ice to take York's pass and bang home the rubber for the final count.

The Petes put on the pressure and hemmed the Vets in behind their own blue line put Plumley was invincible and held off the attackers until the whistle blew.

Gerow, the Goyers and Williams stood out for the winners with Doug Day, MacDonald and Don Barrett good. Williamson, Stewart and York went well behind the blue line.

R. Nicholls in goal and the Legion first line of Rochetta, R. Greenlaw, and Crowley starred for the Petes with Godfrey, Mortimer and E. Nicholls in a fine supporting cast.

The teams:

Peterborough—Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey, Magee; centre, Rochetta; wings, R. Greenlaw, Crowley; subs, Parnell, Coughlin, D. Vitarelli, E. Nicholls, H. Greenlaw, Burns, Mortimer.

CHEAP AT $42,000—The third phase in the liquidation of Louis B. Mayer's racing empire was concluded recently with the auction sale of 39 of the movie magnate's two-year-old colts and fillies. One of the thoroughbreds is in the ring here before three thousand potential bidders. Highest price of the evening was paid for "Imperial Rock," which was knocked down for $71,000. Shown here is "Leading Rally," which brought $42,000.

Impromptu Kissing, Scene Hit of Barbara Ann's Show

By JACK SULLIVAN

PRAGUE, Jan. 17—(CP).—Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa put on a virtual command performance last night for 12,000 Czech admirers, dazzling them with her exhibition figure skating in outdoor winter stadium. But it was an impromptu kissing scene between the Canadian Queen of the Ice and the aspirant to the men's throne, Richard Button of Englewood, NJ, that stole the show.

It all began when the 19-year-old world, European and North American champion put on a stirring exhibition to the strains of "Ave Marie," before an audience which maintained respectful silence broken only by the music and Miss Scott's scraping blades.

At the end the crowd broke out in wild cheering and chanted "We Want Barba" (Czech for Barbara). The Canadian miss obliged with two encores and after posing for photographers stepped off the ice to watch the performance of Button, a close friend since they skated in the world championships at Stockholm last winter.

The New Jersey youngster, who, too, had won the hearts of the Czech skating world with his victory over world champion Hans Gerschwiler last Tuesday in the European championships, put on a fine exhibition and when he came off the ice Miss Scott said "that was nice."

Returns Compliment

Button returned the compliment with a kiss on the Canadian girl's forehead. Milling photographers immediately asked for a "redo" and the pair obliged. The cameramen, not satisfied with the kiss, told Button to do it the "right way."

The climax came when he put his arm around Barbara Ann's waist, kissed her on the lips. The crowd frantically cried "more! more!" and the principals obliged again.

The Ottawa lass had a twinkle in her eye as she skated off, but Button—he was crimson.

John Katan Gets Demand To Meet Masked Marvel

JOHN KATAN

John Katan, one of the more rugged wrestlers in the sport, anywhere, has been signed to meet the Masked Marvel here next Wednesday night in the Brock Arena. Katan is a burly toughie and is positive he can beat and un-mask the mystery-man. Hitherto the Mask has been meeting strictly scientific wrestlers but the request has been made to have him wrestle one of the rougher matmen. Katan himself demanded this bout and in granting his request Manager Jim Laidlaw was set the stage for a titanic clash. Most of the mat fans figure if anybody can whip the hooded terror it will be Katan.

For his semi-final Laidlaw has matched Earl McCready with the other British Empire challenger Ken Kenneth. In the third bout Don McIntyre will meet an outstanding opponent.

Winnipeg Rink Wins 4 Cars

NIPAWIN, Sask., Jan. 17 (CP) —The world's richest bonspiel—Nipawin's $23,000 classic—ended early to-day with the rink skipped by Winnipeg's Grant Watson winner of the grand prize of four 1948 automobiles.

Officials of the Nipawin Curling Club, sponsors of the nine-day 'spiel, immediately started planning for the third annual event next year, with draw secretary Archie Sinclair predicting that the 1949 prize list would be more valuable than ever.

In winning this year's final, Watson took the measure of another Winnipegger, Crawford Hicks, triumphing narrowly 10-9 yesterday afternoon in the first of the best-of-three series, then overwhelming the opposition 17-2 in the second game.

Playing with Watson were Bill Duncan of Flin Flon, Man., Dr. G. Dyker of Prince Albert, Sask., and J. Guy of Kenora, Ont. Wrist watches were presented to the losers, with orders for spring delivery of their automobiles given to the winning rink.

Bruins Hold Key To NHL Issues Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins, as near to full strength as they've been for several weeks, hold the key to the burning issues of the moment in the National Hockey League—namely, the separate battles being waged for first and fourth places.

The Bruins play in two of the week-end's five scheduled games and it's practically a case of how the Bruins go, so go the battles.

For instance, Dit Clapper's gang make their first week-end appearance in Toronto against the Maple Leafs. With the Leafs trailing the league-leading Detroit Red Wings by a one-point margin, the outcome of this clash will decide the loop leadership for the moment.

The second Saturday night game matches Montreal Canadiens, hot after their 8-4 victory over Leafs Thursday night, against the last place Chicago Black Hawks at Montreal. The Canadiens are just one point out of fourth place, the last-playoff spot, behind Boston.

It's a full card Sunday night, with all six teams seeing action. Both playing their second game in two nights, the Canadiens and Bruins meet at Boston with ownership of that last playoff spot a come-on for a battle royal.

The other two Sunday night tilts match the Leafs at New York against the third-place Rangers and the Hawks at Detroit against the Wings.

LEAVES FOR OLYMPICS

A dark-eyed champion who may prove to be the dark horse of Canadian figure skatisg and a threat to Barbara Ann Scott will leave Toronto today for a try at Olympic figure skating glory. She is Marilyn Ruth Take, 19-year-old Canadian amateur champion, who was twice a runner-up to Barbara Ann in the Canadian Championships.

Scripture—Isaiah 40:28-31; Matthew 6:9; John 14:8-14; Acts 17:22-31

By Alfred J. Buescher

Near the city of Samaria is Jacob's well, and Jesus, passing through the town, sat by the well, being tired, and a woman of Samaria came to draw water therefrom. Jesus said to her, "Give Me to drink".

The woman asked Jesus why He would ask a favour of her, a Samaritan, as the Jews have no dealings with same? Jesus answered that if she knew who was asking her, she would ask Him for living water.

"God is a Spirit," said Jesus, "and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and in truth." "When the Messiah is come, He will tell us all things," said the woman. Jesus said, "I that speak unto thee am He."

To his Roman friends Paul wrote that he was persuaded that neither "Height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God."

MEMORY VERSE—John 4:24.

Unworldiness and Humility Two Great Marks of Saint

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Matthew The Publican. St. Matthew 10; 2.

A Jewish gentleman, brught up in the strictest sect of Pharisees, is glancing at this manuscript. He is a little interested in the Messiah and wishes to know what kind of a man He is. He knows that the Messiah would have gathered around Him a small band of men—closest friends—to send forth with His message. He comes to this list of men and his eye falls on these words:— "Matthew the publican". Can you see him laying down the Manuscript with scorn in his face and muttering:—"This man has chosen a publican to be one of His chief friends; a Jew can fall no lower than to be a tax gatherer for the Roman Government'. You can understand how respectable Jews classed the publican with the sinner.

But the Lord Jesus is no ordinary Teacher; He knows what is in man. He looked below the surface and saw in St. Matthew qualities which would enable him to take his place among the Apostles. Day after day the tax gatherer from his office window would look into the Face of the fairest of men. He was fascinated. One day the Teacher looked into his face and said;—"Follow Me". He arose and followed Him. Being in comfortable circumstances he makes a feast for his old friends and invites the Master and His disciples, who are not at all pleased in being invited also. They are respectable Jews and would not dine at the table of the richest publican. The Pharisees read their mind like a book. "Why eatest your Master with publicans and sinners"? They have no answer. But the Master comes to their defence. "They that are whole have no need for the physician but they that are sick. I came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance".

Matthew arose and followed Jesus. Then followed months of closeest association with greatest of Teachers whose personality gripped the mind of the publican. Slowly and gradually the mind of this Jew is being filled with the wonder of His Master. "His Name shall be called wonderful" is the ancient prophecy. He is a Man but more than a man; He is the Anointed of God, the Son of God. Unconsciously St. Matthew is giving Him the value of God.

Unworldliness. This is the chief mark of a saint. St. Matthew had been a keen business man and would have become rich as a publican. Now money has no more fascination for him. He has not sold his soul to money. It is good for us to remember that he alone gives us the parable of the pearl of great price. He is willing to pay the price.

Humility. Another mark of a saint. Humility does not mean servility. It means that a man has realised the gulf between himself and God. He has a vision of God's holiness and sees his own sins in all their blackness. "Woe is me for I am a man of unclean lips for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts" When you walk humbly before God you will not be afraid to face the wrath of man or to speak your mind when necessary.

St. Mark and St. Luke give lists of the Apostles but St. Matthew alone writes "Matthew the publican" It is the proof of his humility. He desires that all men should see what great things the Lord has done for him to call a publican into the band of "THE TWELVE."

The Lord Jesus gives Levi, the son of Alpheseus, the new name of Matthew, which means "The Gift of God." In due time he is moved to write the Gospel of the Kingdom of Heaven, which has brought peace and happiness to multitudes.

WHAT DOTH THE LORD REQUIRE OF THEE: O MAN: BUT TO DO JUSTLY, TO LOVE MERCY AND TO WALK HUMBLY WITH THY GOD.

Our Relationship to God

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 18 is John 4:5-26; Romans 8:12-17, 31-39, the Memory Verse being John 4:24, "God is a Spirit, and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and in truth.")

AGAIN THE story of Jesus and the Samaritan woman is given us to study. It is a beautiful lesson and while we have had it in a recent lesson, we may get more out of it, from a little different angle, than we did before.

Jesus and His apostles were journeying and they came near the city of Sychar, in Samaria. The apostles left the Master to go into the city to obtain food, and Jesus, being weary, sat himself down by a well that is said to be one of the many that Jacob dug. The well now is called Bir-Jakoub, and it is about two miles from Shechem, and seven minutes' walk from the traditional grave of Joseph.

Now there was enmity between Jews and Samaritans, the Jews being forbidden eat bread or drink wine with Samaritans, although trade between the two was not forbidden.

As Jesus sat resting, a Samaritan woman came to the well to draw water, and Jesus asked her for a drink of water. The woman was surprised at this Jew asking a favor of her, and said: "How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria?"

Jesus' answer must have surprised her still more, as He said: "If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me drink; thou wouldest have asked of Him, and He would have given thee living water."

Whence Comes Living Water?

But, said the woman, how could He draw water when He had nothing in which to draw it, and the well was deep? Whence would He draw this living water? Jesus answered that he who drank from this earthly well would thirst again, but whosoever partook of this living water would never thirst again, "but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

The woman asked Him to give her this water, so that she would have no need to come to the well to draw. At this Jesus surprised her for the third time. He said, "Call thy husband, and come thither." At this she was embarrassed and said she had no husband. "Thou hast well said," said Jesus. "Thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband."

Quickly the woman evaded the subject, saying that she saw that Jesus was a prophet because, presumably, He knew about her sinful life. She turned the talk to religion, saying, "Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship."

Saying no more about her sins, Jesus answered at once; "Woman, believe Me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father. . . . But the hour cometh, and now is when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship Him.

"God is a Spirit; and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

The woman knew about the coming of the Messiah. She said, "When He is come, He will tell us all things." Jesus answered her quietly, "I that speak unto thee am He."

Did she believe Him? Yes, and she brought others with her to hear and believe.

Are we partaking of this Living Water and constantly refreshing our souls and gaining strength from it as well as washing our souls clean in it?

In his epistle to the Romans Paul warns them that if they live after the flesh, "ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit, do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live."

In those times of persecution Paul wrote words of encouragement to his fellow Christians. "If God be for us, who can be against us?" he asked.

"Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution," etc.?

"I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord!"

Decline Invitations

VOL. XCVI, No. 14 — SATURDAY, JANUARY 17, 1948

MAIN ST. TOPICS

AVERAGE 400 SKATERS

The three rinks at the Ashburnham Bowl in East City have proved a popular means of recreation. Average nightly attendance is said to be 400.

FRACTURES LEG.

Carl Young, Apsley, fell from a load of hay this week and broke a leg in two places. He was taken to the Red Cross Hospital and was attended by Dr. J. Fetterly.

LIBERAL LEADER TO SPEAK

Farquhar Oliver, head of the Ontario Liberal party and leader of the Opposition in the provincial legislature, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Rotary Club at noon Monday.

BIBLE SOCIETY RAISED $1,200

Toronto district headquarters of the Upper Canada Bible Society received a total of $1,200 in donations from the city's churches during 1947, reported G. H. Roper, secretary-treasurer of the local branch.

CAR FIRE REPORTED

A car fire at Parkhill and Armour roads, Friday night, was believed to have been caused by leaking alcohol that somehow became ignited. Firemen were called but when they arrived the fire in the vehicle owned by Stanley Green, 21 Park St. had been extinguished. No damage to the car.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR VISITS LIONS

District Governor Gordon Belyea will make his official visit to the Peterborough Lions at the regular dinner meeting held Monday at the Kawartha Club. The executive, and any members that choose to come, of the newly-formed Millbrook branch will be guests for the evening.

RECORDS BECOME WORN

Skaters like the idea of circling the rink to the accompaniment of Strauss Waltzes. However at the Ashburnham Bowl there are only about 10 records and they are consequently in almost constant use. Some of them are beginning to sound a bit scratchy now. Perhaps some citizen overstocked with suitable records could donate some.

Tariff Concessions

NEW DEHLI, India—(CP)—As a result of negotiations at the second session of the United Nations conference at Geneva, India is offering concessions to a number of countries, including Canada, on milk, milk products, canned food, chemicals, dyes, certain machinery, radios and a wide range of other goods.

CONDUCTOR COUNAHAN RETIRES — Herbert J. Counahan, CPR conductor with 44 years' service, brought in eastbound mixed train 606 Friday night from Bobcaygeon for the last time. He was one hour and 15 minutes late due to the fact that his "drag" pushed plough No. 400642 all the way to battle bad drifts between 'Caygeon and Lindsay. When Mr. Counahan arrived in Havelock he was finished with railroading. His engineer, J. D. Logan, congratulates him on his last run as he makes his final entry in the train register at the Peterborough depot.

44 Years As Railroader Cond. H. Counahan Retires

Dusk was gathering at the CPR station Friday evening. The telegraph operator tickled his key in reply to messages coming in through his chattering "box." Where was Train 606 eastbound? It was due at 4.35 p.m., a mixed "drag" from Bobcaygeon to Havelock. The station agent turned on the semaphore lights and called the line dispatcher. Any word on 606? Yes, it left on time but was pushing snowplough 400462, might be late, heavy drifting on the right-of-way between 'Caygeon and Lindsay, but Herb would bring it through.

It was Conductor Herbert J. Counahan's last run. He had been seven years on it and 37 more in the service of the CPR. Snowstorms were old stuff to him and his crew. They might be justifiably late but he would finish his last trip with a mixed feeling of pride and regret, regret at retiring from a 45-year "trick" of railroading.

As the hands of the station clock ticked slowly on (it was three seconds slow) the minute hand crawled around to 5:50. There was a far-off soughing of a train whistle and the faint clacking of the cold wheels crossing the last switch intersection. Here it was, bearing down on the dark station in clouds of steam. The train was obscured by the huge scarlet and black plough, its immense cleavage blade half-covered with snow.

Conductor Counahan swung down from one of the coaches swinging a lantern. He stood for a moment in the traditional post of railroaders with his gold watch in his hand, one hour and fifteen minutes late. Most retiring conductors would bring in their last run "on time", yes, on a clear right-of-way.

Accompanied by his engineer J. D. Logan, he entered the station agent's office and signed the train register that had held his signatures for the past seven years.

Worked Many Lines

In his 45-year career he had worked on many company lines, Toronto to Trenton, Toronto to Havelock and Port McNichol to Havelock. By virtue of his work, Mr. Counahan lived in Havelock but maintained his home throughout the years at 275 Gilmour Ave., in Toronto. Each Sunday for years, he rode from Havelock to Toronto to be with his family for a few hours and back again the same night. There will be no more of this. He will retire from the CPR on pension at the end of January but his work was finished Friday night. He had two weeks of 1947 vacation coming to him which would leave him on the regular payroll until the month end. As a sort of double occasion, he celebrated his 65th birthday on the day before his retirement.

His future plans? To stay at home with his wife and four children, listen to the radio and watch sports of various kinds and a trip to the coast, maybe, a place her or his wife had never been. At any rate he would take his well-earned rest at a quiet pace, far from soot, cinders and schedules.

Canneries Busy

PICTON, Jan. 17.—Prince Edward County canneries over forty in number, packed 29,280,000 tins of canned vegetables last year which amounted to $2,564,960. Despite the early September frosts and late planting, the season was a successful one with prices higher than previous years. 32 factories canned tomatoes and tomato juice exclusively, with others producing tomato puree, canned peas, pumpkin and corn.

Gas Consumers May Pay More By February 1

Local gas rates may have to be increased next month, and it seemed unlikely at the meeting of the Utilities Commission Friday that the charge to the city council for water supply and pressure for fire protection could be kept at $20,000 this year.

"We should have had $33,000 from the council in 1947," R. L. Dobbin, general manager of Utilities said. "We had a lot of extra expense. New mains have been laid and we have set up a lot of new hydrants."

Opinion of the Commission was to the effect that "if we jack up the fire protection charge to the council, we will not need to change the general water rates."

And, the gas charges to consumers will probably advance in February. Cost of materials and labor are pressing upon the economy of the gas department, and, worse than that, the latest information on the prospect of oil supply, for the making of gas, was that surplus storage would carry until about the middle of February. Meanwhile hope of tapping any other dealer sources appeared slim.

One of the comments in the discussion was Mr. Matthews' remark: "We may have to increase the gas rates Feb. 1." Nothing has been decided yet in that respect, but the "gas situation" has developed into a major worry. Members of the Commission are going to Brockville next Tuesday or Wednesday to examine prophane gas plant that is showing a profit. Its surplus income is only incidental. The Commission is interested in the process of production.

In the background is the shadow of necessity of constructing a new gas plant as suggested in the special report the Commission received several months ago on its local equipment and operation. Estimated cost is around $45,000, with reserve Victory Bonds in that amount.

Given 2 Months For Theft Of Cash

COBOURG, Jan. 17—(ENS)—Appearing for sentence yesterday on charges of breaking and entering with theft, Dean McKenzie and Melville George were given two months in jail by Magistrate R. B. Baxter. They were arrested by police here who were investigating the theft of a cash register from a local hotel. The cash register was found hidden in some straw north of here two weeks ago. The accused made complete restitution in the amount of $350.

Dismiss Charges

TORONTO, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Charges against Anthony Kuzyk, 30 and Michael Gonas, 19, of threatening Harry Claremont on civic election day and were dismissed yesterday by Magistrate F. C. Cullen. "They told me they would get me," said Claremont, unsuccessful board of control candidate of the revolutionary workers party.

BEGINS TWENTY-FIRST YEAR—Chairman of the Utilities Commission, Gordon S. Matthews was appointed Friday at its first meeting of the year by his two associate Commissioners, George A. Macdonald and Fred Hills.

House Number Changing Slow

Delivery servicemen, with calls to make in the section of the city south of Charlotte where the new numbering has gone into effect, are having a hard time of it these days. The difficulty arises from the human factor in the move affecting so many people.

For example, one lady interviewed said that her house number was 89—and right next door was 15.

The problem is getting the information about new numbers to the residents as soon as possible. And in getting them to put up new numbers as soon as notice is received. The majority it is reported, have complied, but delivery men state there are some still out of tune with the other numbers on the streets.

In most cases, it was pointed out, the matter of changing the number is simple. Many have only to add a "1" in front of their former number, for in such cases, the number has been raised by 1,000.

The problem is a complicated one for the city departments affected, although it doesn't involve much worry for the residents. The engineering department, which has under consideration plans for revising the numbering system of the whole city, must prepare the revisions with care, checking lots measurements, prospective building.

In the assessor's office, the new listings entail extensive paper work in changing addresses for billing purposes.

The service most concerned with the immediate effects—the post office—is meeting the old-and-new-or-both-or-neither question of numbering by keeping a careful record of old and new numbers. Besides this precaution, it was pointed out, most of the letter carriers are familiar enough with the residents of their route so that the bewildering situation —for a stranger trying to find one house—does not exist for them.

G. S. Matthews Heads Utilities For 21st Time

Mr. Gordon S. Matthews was appointed chairman of the Utilities Commission, beginning his 21st yearly term, at its first meeting of 1948 Friday afternoon. He was nominated by Mr. George A. Macdonald and Fred Hills, his two associate Commissioners. Mr. Matthews expressed his appreciation of the continuation of this honor, and said: "Every decision of this Commission has been unanimous. I hope we can continue that way."

The electric power peak for December dropped from 23,800 horse power in 1946 to 23,500 h.p. last month, as reported by Ross L. Dobbin, manager. "This shows that restrictions imposed recently, together with the co-operation of the electrical consumers generally, have been successful in keeping down the use of electricity in the city," Mr. Dobbin observed.

The report of operations in December mentioned progress on the electric power lines in the Arndon housing subdivision. One consumer was connected just prior to Christmas. A new line to serve houses on Beverley St. was constructed. Eighty 3-wire services were constructed and six 2-wire during the month. Seventeen oper air skating rinks were lighted. In the rural district 2½ miles of line were completed. Sixteen new consumers were added. Thirty-three new consumer-owned flat rate water heaters were connected.

"In the waterworks department December pumpage was 117,739,000 gallons as compared with 107,519,000 gallons last year. The increase was more than 300,000 gallons a day.

No. 1 and No. 2 sets of pumps have operated all month and appear to be greatly improved since repairs were made to them. The broken crankshaft for No. 3 was repaired. Laying of mains in the Arndon subdivision was extended by 660 feet of 6-inch main, with 34 water services installed. A leak at the joint on the 10-inch main, George Street, between Hunter and Simcoe Streets, was temporarily repaired. Permanent repairs will be made in the spring.

In the gas department production continues to increase by 31% over 1946. Early in the month we received notice from the firm that has been supplying us with oil for the last ten years that it could not give us any more oil. Since then we have been exploring all possible sources, but without success. The supplier did let us have another car of oil, but we have only enough in storage to run until the middle of February.

We hope to have something definite to announce in the near future regarding this situation."

Jim Hawthorne Sings For Kiwanis

Jim Hawthorne, son of Mrs. Jessie Hawthorne, 163 Antrim Street, was soloist at the meeting of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club Friday noon. Soon to take a prominent role in a Broadway production starring Bea Lillie, the young tenor is now "on the way up" in entertainment circles in New York. He received his early musical training in Peterborough in St. Paul's choir.

From recent show hits, he sang "Almost Like Being in Love," "Granada" and as an encore, "The World Is Mine Tonight."

MASTER 1948 UNHAPPY—Little Michael Roger Welch, 140 Park St., does not seem to be entering into the spirit of the occasion when he was photographed with his parents and some of the 20 gifts from merchants that he won for being born at 1.45 a.m. on January 1 at St. Joseph's Hospital. Being 10½ pounds at birth and much larger now, he requires plenty to eat. He gave the impression that he was very hungry and not interested in his pretty presents.

Council To Grant Five-year Bus Franchise Extension

Granting of a five-year extension of the city's transportation franchise to Peterborough Bus Lines was recommended by the committee of the whole council Friday night for inclusion in the city's private bill to the Legislature.

Ald. Adam Sands briefly outlined the improvements of the service and proposed capital investment of $150,000 by the company, following an informative visit this week by Mr. Frank Mitchell, president.

"They have taken an option on the new building of Edwards Motor Sales, Hunter St. East, and they intend to enlarge their King St. barns for the accommodation of their buses," Ald. Sands said.

The company will have to borrow money, it was said, but they could not expect to get it on the basis of a franchise which has only five more years of effect. The present franchise expires Dec. 31, 1953. The extension would be until Dec. 31, 1958.

People Angry

Ald. Doug Miller said the people who use the buses were "up in arms" about the practice of overcrowding and the delays in the service during rush hours. "I understand there were more than 100 people left standing at the CGE Thursday evening, and that it was nearly an hour before the next bus came along for them. You hear some people complaining that women fill the late afternoon buses. Some buses are taken off the regular routes after 4 p.m. and if women want to get home from shopping they would have to leave the centre of the city around 3:30 to 4 o'clock."

A letter from the company proposed to put into service five or six new buses, which Mayor Ovens said were now on order, provide a ten-minute service, retain the fare rate of four tickets for 25 cents, no change in fares for children and students, but an increase of two cents, from 8 to 10, in the drop fares. Children and students get eight tickets for 25 cents.

Mayor Ovens said that with the increasing number of buses which had to be housed for cleaning and maintenance, the company had to invest in new plant accommodation.

Ald. Grant Miller: "Are these six buses just to be replacements?"

Mayor Oven: "No, Mr. Mitchell means additional buses."

Ald. Armstrong: "If he needed 15 buses I suppose he would put them in service. Mr. Mitchell is as interested as we are in giving service. And with capital expenditure of $150,000 he would have to have a satisfactory franchise to get the money."

Bone Of Contention

Ald. Doug Miller said the bus service was "a bone of contention" among a large number of Peterborough's people. "When you say a 10-minute service, is that from starting time until finishing time? Or, is all the time except rush hours? I think that should be definitely understood."

Mayor Ovens said the company had originally guaranteed only a 20-minute service but had increased it to ten minutes during most of the day.

"They have four or five buses which are taken off that ten-minute service at certain times. They are not off the 20-minute service. The change is made to take care of passengers from and to the factories, but it does disrupt the 10-minute service. The new buses will correct that."

Ald. D. Miller: "We ought to know whether it is a 10-minute service all the time, all over the city."

Mayor Ovens: "Mr. Mitchell guarantees the buses in three months. He will take up the option on the Edwards building if he gets the franchise extension, and he will enlarge the building on King St.."

Ald. Raine: "The company gave the 10-minute service on their own initiative. Five years ago they agreed only on a 20-minute service."

Mayor Ovens recalled that a request was made to the company to operate a new Western Ave. line, and it was added to the system when new buses were available.

It was understood in committee that a new agreement would be entered into on the basis of the franchise extension. Meanwhile, the insertion of a franchise clause in the city's private bill was authorized, and City Solicitor Huycke was asked to

Juveniles At St. Andrew's Score In 3-act Operetta

Members of St. Andrew's Junior and Intermediate choirs with several seniors managing and directing the production, presented on Friday night the three-act operetta, "The Toymaker," in the church hall. It will be staged again Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Those taking part on the stage, with one exception, were between the ages of 8 and 12. The Intermediate choir, age 12 to 17, accompanied during ensembles.

The story of this romantic operetta was of a young toymaker who lived with his nagging old mother. Laboring day and night he found that during his sleep his beloved tops sprang to life in the workshop. By a chance glance as the princess rode by the toymaker's window, both found themselves secretly in love. One day the Emperor proclaimed that his daughter's hand in marriage would go to a toymaker that could please his capricious little son.

Filled with indignation the princess vowed that she would smash every toy in the land; but when she arrived at the toymaker's shop the toys captured her and imprisoned her in a cupboard at the back of the shop. Later released by the toymaker who heard her plea for help, she recognized him and they declared their love for each other.

The princess then promised she would help him to win the contest by reclothing his toys from her own dress material. Several days later the Emperor and the Prince arrived to inspect the toys; but the Prince was indifferent to all but a ragged, one-armed soldier. Thus the Emperor gave his daughter's hand in marriage to the toymaker who owned the soldier.

Altogether the operetta has 19 musical pieces in the three acts.

Costumes Pretty

While doubtless in line with a limited budget the costumes were not only adequate but imaginative. Scenery was simple but effective, and the players showed the results of the skilful direction of Mrs. John McColl.

The cast included: The Best Doll, Margaret Young; Wooden Soldier, Bobby Hunter; Clown, Douglas Ham; Rag Doll, Marie Hughey; Toymaker, George Putnam; Toymaker's Mother, Rolene James; Herald, John Hewitt; Emperor, Terry Northrop; Prince, Peter Robinson.

Toys were: Peter Savage, Harold Holman, Joan Mowry, Lorraine Bacon, Allan McNab, Anne Merrett, Teddy Woods, Katherine Lewis, Vernon Chiles, Murray Mann, Sheila Nicholls.

Courtiers: Brendon Lincoln, Mary Lou James, John Mann, Patsy Tudhope, Helen Rusk.

Four-leaf Clovers: Sharon Hutchison, Patricia Hewitt, Bonnie Moffatt.

Off-stage intermediate choir, accompanying were: Lois Bearne, Jean Black, Sylvia Brethour, Jean Crawford, Marion Crawford, Shirley Frost, Barbara Harrison, Lois Holman, Clarabelle James, Lucille Laceby, Joyce Langton, Janet Merrett, Margaret Munro, Edythe Nicholls, Barbara Walker, Dorothy Watson, Shirley Wishart.

Mrs. C. Lang, Women's Association, thanked those responsible for the administrative details. In particular three guiding spirits in the organization were Mrs. John McColl, director; Walter Morrow, pianist; and Miss Mary Lackie, prompter.

Miss Helen Strano Crowned Sodality Snowball Queen

Knights of Columbus banquet hall was a gay pattern of dancers Friday night at the annual "Snowball" held by the Sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral. The girls wore enchanting evening gowns with beautiful fresh flowers and their escorts displayed carnations on their lapels. Music was by the Sevenaires.

The ballroom, newly decorated, was transformed into a starry ballroom using blue, red, silver and black as the color scheme, by Miss Mary Jane Fitzgerald and her social committee of Junior Sodality. Streamers, balloons and silver snowmen gave a most effective air of splendor adding to the highlight of the gay party when the "Snow Queen" was crowned on a velvet-draped throne at the end of the hall. The Queen was Miss Helen Strano, selected for the honor by a vote of all the sodalists. While a spot light played on the throne Miss Mary Sullivan placed the crown on the head of the queen, while Miss Elinor Sheehy presented her with a bouquet of red roses. Following the "coronation" the newly crowned queen thanked the Sodalists for bestowing on her such a great honor, welcomed everyone to the party and then joined the dancers for delightful refreshments.

Have Compromise In New Styles

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—(AP)—More than 100 fashion editors representing the press of the United States and Canada wound up a week of fashion previews today convinced that American designers have solved the conundrum of the "New Look," and ready to tell the folks back home that the new Spring styles won't hurt anything but their pocketbooks.

They like the compromise worked out to adapt the post-war silhouette to the American taste. Approved the new just-below-the-calf skirt length, applauded the smooth-shouldered suits and ful-skirted evening gowns shown through the collections.

A highlight of the final day's showings was the Herbert Sondheime collection, designed for pure flattery and alternating pencil-slim skirts with opulent circular ones.

For the tailored type Sondheim showed an effective navy and white costume consisting of a long torso jacket of white wool with slim navy skirt, and six slash pckets, bound in navy, on the jacket.

Also notable was Kiviette's showing, which spotlighted portrait evening gowns. Top billing of the show was accorded a siren

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Immaculate Conception Church by Rev. J. A. Greenan, uniting Joan Mary Veasey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald John Veasey of London, England, and Edward Joseph Clancy, son of Mrs. E. O'Reilly, Armour Rd., Peterborough.

Miss Eleanor Grady was the bride's attendant wearing an all-black ensemble and a corsage of red roses. Mr. Clare Grady was groomsman.

A wedding breakfast was served afterward at the groom's home and later Mr. and Mrs. Clancy left on a wedding trip to Toronto. The bride wore a black pin-stripe suit with matching accessories and a topcoat in cherry colour. They will make their home in Peterborough.

Horticultural Club Sets Record

OMEMEE, Jan. 17.—(ENS). — The annual meeting of the Omemee and district Horticultural Society was held on Thursday. The report of H. Hill, secretary-treasurer, stated an all-time high of 82 members had been reached in 1947. Printed programs of prearranged meetings and sponsoring the district flower show had been largely responsible, he reported. He called attention to the increased interest in youth activities and to the Easter window flower show, a new venture with possibilities of further development.

The financial statement showed total receipts of $364.90. There is a balance on hand of $30.63.

The president, J. Bent, spoke on the broadening of the society's interests in 1947 into other branches of horticulture.

Mr. Bent talked on gladioli and distributed home grown bulbs.

The officers for 1948 are: President, J. Bent; 1st vice-president, Mrs. M. Hill; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. H. Deyell; secretary-treasurer, H. Hill; directors for one year, Rev. Zufelt, Miss G. Fee, Mrs. C. G. Shaw, Mrs. H. Bent and H. Burke (appointed last year for two year; directors for two years, Wesley Wilson, Mrs. S. Mayer, Mrs. R. Price, E. Corneil and L. M. Curtis.

W. Wilson and H. Burke were appointed as delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Horticultural Society, with Miss G. Fee and Mrs. H. Bent as alternates.

Premiums for 1948 were discussed and the decision was roses.

ROUNDED LINES FOR SPRING—The rounded outline curves into Spring as can be seen from even a cursory glance at the beautiful suits being readied for the coming season. This one is made of beige twill in two tones, the darker shade for the collar and pocket trim. The darker tone is used, too, for the graceful eight-gored skirt, a nice contrast to the rounded yet slim jacket.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

OLD AND MODERN GIRL
Old-Fashioned And Today's Girls—Each Had Good Points.

✧ ✧ ✧

A correspondent asks: "How does the modern girl differ from the girl of the past?"

Dorothy Dix

Well, the modern girl differs from the girl of the past as a jeep does from a limousine, as holding on to Mama's hand differs from telling Mom where she gets off.

Underneath of course, there is still the same female person but that is about all of her resemblance to the maiden of yesteryear. The modern girl no more thinks or acts like the girl of the past, or has the same ideals and aspirations than she dresses like her.

Take health, for instance. The old-fashioned girl thought it elegant and refined to be frail and delicate. In our great-grandmother's time semi-invalidism was a cult, and perfect ladies swooned at the sight of a mouse and died if their lovers proved unfaithful. The modern girl considers it a disgrace to be sickly, and if any of them has an ache or a pain they never mention it. If their sweethearts jilt them, in about two or three days they have found themselves new ones.

The girl of the past was abysmally ignorant of the world. She was brought up in a sh-sh-sh atmosphere in which every vital fact concerning life was carefully suppressed. She never even had a frank conversation with her own mother, or was warned, except in a general way, of the temptations and dangers she was bound to encounter.

Modern Girl Cynical

The modern girl is cynical and wise beyond her years, and when she make a detour off of the straight and narrow path it isn't through ignorance. And she is brutally frank. She discusses topics with any casual male acquaintance that her grandmother wouldn't have whispered to her husband, or her physician in the secrecy of her boudoir.

The old-fashioned girl was helpless. She was taught no trade or profession and had no way by which she could earn a dollar. She knew nothing about business, nothing about how to take care of herself. Mother and Father treated her as a child until she got married and her husband held her in tutelage, the balance of her life.

Practically every modern girl is self-supporting and knows her way about just as well as a boy does. She is free and independent. She takes care of herself among the men with whom she works all day, and she sees no reason why she should be chaperoned in the evenings.

The old-fashioned girl looked at marriage from a different standpaint from the modern girl. She regarded it as a until-death-do-us part contract, and if the marriage turned out badly she suffered and was strong.

The modern girl marries with one eye on the divorce court, and if the venture turns out a failure; if she finds that she was mistaken in her feelings, or her husband doesn't make good, she chucks it. She corrects her error of judgment instead of sticking to it.

Such are the differences between the old-fashioned girl and the modern girl. Each had her good points and each fitted the age that produced them.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 18

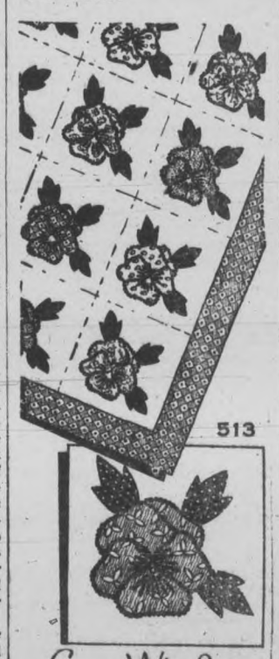
Sunday's horoscope holds much encouragement for the conventional vocations and avocations of the day, with all religous, philanthropieal, cultural and educational matters greatly strengthened for growth and distability. It is a time for forging ahead on all serious projects and activities, albeit with loopholes for duplicity or subtle undercurernts menacing good work and high aspirations.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of excellent openings for highly-productive plants and ambitious projects, in which very well-organized and solid techniques are bound to win the hearty support and sustained co-operation of those in high places. While working out stable foundations for future security and dependability it migh be as well to keep alert to pitfalls, snares and treachery from hidden and sinister sources. Guard credit, plans and personal interests against peculiar involvements.

A child born on this day, while hard-working, ambitious and well qualified for a solid and enduring career, may be susceptible to snares and arrows of treachery.

For Monday, January 19



Monday's astrological forecast is for exceedingly lively and thrilling conditions, with affairs, both business and private, moving on to high goals of accomplishment; yet there is sign of overdoing such speedy moves, in which reckless acts, words of of emotionalism might prove detrimental to valued prospects. Possibly this overacting might be the source of thrills and adventure of a romantic nature, although happiness also involves career.

Birthday Forecast

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an exciting and vivid period, in which business, career, and purely private interests, move to thrilling and romantic adventure. Very unusual factors seem to enter into all relations, with dramatic climax and unexpected experiences. Nevertheless under this fervent pressure there is danger from overdoing or being carried into excess by overweening emotionalism or quest of romance or thrills, in which superiors might be alienated.

A child born on this day should be original, creative and possess unique talents, assuring a notable career, but probably forfeiting support from higher-ups by its yen for romance or thrilling adventure.

PETRILLO WINS COURT BATTLE—James C. Petrillo, chief of the AF of L Musicians' union, won his second battle against the Lea act when Federal Judge Walter La Buy found him not guilty of violating the law which Congress passed in 1946 to curb his powers. Petrillo had been charged with trying to force Chicago radio station WAAF to hire more musicicians than it needed in violation of the law. Here, Petrillo, right, is congratulated by his attorney, Daniel D. Carmell, as union officials cheer the victory.

CITY CARPETBALL

Only one game of the President's Cup elimination play has been completed in which the Posities met the Bee Keepers and lost two straight in two closely fought contests. In the first encounter two extra ends had to be played to decide the winner, both scores finishing 10-6 and 7-6.

In the schedule games played Big Bens trimmed the Posties two straight by the scores 17-4 and 16-4, the Paper Dolls and the Old Sweats divided points with scores 9-8 and 11-12. The fight between the Wanderers and Fighting Parsons finished in like manner, the Parsons taking the first 14-7 but losing the second 11-9. It appears that the Wanderers were in a happy mood for two other games they played as they shared the points with their opponents first with the Thistles 13-8 and 5-11, then with the Old Sweats 6-11 and 16-8. King Billie's squad would not ease up in the civil war with the Bee Keepers and trimmed them the second time of the season two straight 16-8 and 12-8.

We have been requested to appeal to the fellow who put the fire hall calipers in his pocket by mistake to ask him to return same. We understand they are the property of a member of the staff. Please cooperate.

Flying Dutchmen Wallop Mercurys 6-4

By The Canadian Press

It may sound like a weather report in these cold-conscious days, but the Mercurys are really dropping, up around Owen Sound way.

The Mercurys are Tommy Burlington's crew in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A. loop. They were red hot for a couple of weeks when they went around beating every club from the league-leading Hamilton Tigers down.

It was a fourth-place team that scuttled the Mercurys last night — Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen. The Dutchmen, playing under their new coach Wilf Heller, walloped the Owen Sounders 6-4 at Waterloo and dropped them into fifth place.

Coming on top of a 4-0 blanking by Tigers Wednesday, it was Owen Sound's second defeat this week.

Break Tie

In the junior circuit Hap Emms' Barrie Flyers broke their third place tie with Galt Rockets by blanketing Stafford Smythe's Toronto Marlboros 9-0 at Barrie and leaving them in seventh spot.

The Tigers strengthened their lead in the senior race by trouncing the third-place Stratford Indians 7-1 at Stratford for their 19th victory in 27 starts.

Joe Primeau's Toronto Marlboros spotted the sixth-place Hamilton Patricias two goals and then handed Doug Runions' undermanned squad a 5-3 defeat in a senior tussle at Hamilton. It left Toronto in second position.

At Waterloo, Johnny Blute pulled his fourth hat trick of the season to lead the Dutchmen scorers with his three goals. His teammates, Art Herchenratter, Don Bauer and Doug Verity tallied one counter each.

Say Boxing 'Rookie' May Draw $100,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — (AP) — Lavern Roach, the boxing "rookie of the year" in 1947, is established today as a Madison Square Garden headliner who may draw a $100,000 in a proposed bout with Marcel Cerdan.

Although the 21-year-old marine veteran from Texas never had appeared as a pro in the Garden before last night, most of the 11,924 fans who saw him beat Tony Janiro in a good 10-rounder went away singing his praises.

Roach has established himself as a good draw in any future local appearance. The fact that Janiro, the baby-faced lad from Youngstown, Ohio, was somewhat less than sensational at 153¼ pounds, didn't appear to be taken into consideration. Janiro fought a poor fight in comparison with previous Garden efforts.

Hydro Crew Victors

He has been her trainer for years and has coached her in Canadian, North American and world championships. He is shown here at Prague where Barbara Ann won the European title.

Westwood Won 3-1

NORWOOD, Jan. 17 (ENS). — Westwood pulled a third straight win out of the Rural League schedule on Thursday night before a fair sized crowd. The opponents were last year's cup holders, Keene.

The teams seemed evenly matched in the first stanza, with Ted McCarthy banging one home for Keene, and Wright getting the assist in the last two minutes of play. Not to be outdone, Westwood tied it up 80 seconds later. T. Woods from Thompson. Woods scored in the seconds for Westwood, Thompson setting it up for him, and in the third, Thompson scored on a lone rush. There were only three penalties in the game, all for kneeing.

Hastings Winners

NORWOOD, Jan. 17 (ENS).— Hasting administered a sound beating to Madoc here on Friday night by a score of 14-4. Despite a brilliant showing in the first period, the losing goaler, Carswell, seemed to lose control of the game in the second and was replaced too late to repair the damage.

Lakefield Beats Norwood By 10-6 Score

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 17.—(ENS).—Lakefield Hockey Club defeated Norwood 10-6 here last night in a whirlwind TVL game. A packed house harked back to old Trent Valley League days as play was fast and enlivened by penalties and one fight. Norwood started slowly but were hot in the third period, though their drive came too late to overcome a 6-1 margin built up in two periods by Lakefield.

Chittick, with three goals, led scorers for the Staves-Jewell outfit, with Montgomery and Chappel close behind with two each. Webb topped Norwood with three. The win gives Lakefield three victories, a tie and three losses.

Montgomery opened the scoring, with Stewart following. Monty got another, and Henry dented the hemp. Webb rifled one home for Norwood and it ended 4-1, with Montgomery and Peterson drawing penalties. A battle threatened in the second when Brown apparently hit the home goalie in the face with his stick as the pace pepped up with Montgomery climbing him and drawing a penalty. Chappell bored in for two more to make it 6-1. Fawcett drew two penalties and Peterson and Payne one each. Norwood drove hard in the third with Puffer scoring. Chittick got it back but Scott counted one from Brown, the latter then tallying and Webb scored from Rogers. Webb got the final one, aided by Puffer for Norwood, but Lakefield came back wtih a dash as Jewell scored and then Chittick with two quickies. Montgomery had two penalties. Teams:

Norwood — Goal, Aldred; defence, Hamilton, Peterson; centre, Webb; wings, Puffer, Rogers; alternates, Brown, Scott, Payne, Fenell, Martin, Spring.

Warsaw Winners

NORWOOD, Jan. 17.—(ENS).—The game between Warsaw and Havelock proved more interesting than was first anticipated, ending 6-0 for Warsaw.

Joe Watts of Warsaw, opened the scoring late in the first, with L. Lonsberry assisting. With about 10 seconds to go, Stan Lonsberry put in a nice one from E. Payne to beat Hill, whose defence was wide open.

The Lonsberry brothers starred in the second, Stan getting two, Leonard one. E. Payne got the lone tally in the last period, S. Lonsberry getting in on this one. B. Judge and Nobes started to mix it and were given the gate. Lineup:

Don't Whisper This Around Government Hasn't Nickel Cash

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Jan. 17—(CP).—Don't whisper this around, but the Federal Government hasn't got a nickel in cash to its name. Now, that may sound funny coming from the national capital, where some people think $1,000 bills just flutter out of the doors of the Bank of Canada, but when it comes to cash, that cold, hard stuff with strangely comforting feeling, the Government is the guy left standing behind the door.

True, there may be a few thousand dollars all told lying around the various government departments in the form of petty cash, but the Big Money just doesn't exist in solid form.

That doesn't mean, of course, that the government is going to go out tomorrow, default on those hard-earned Victory bonds and carry the country into the poorhouse. Not at all. It goes right on paying and paying and paying—but always on paper.

The reason is that the government, it seems, operates on credit, just like everybody else in these days of high prices.

Explains System

Without delving too deeply into the intricacies of high finance, the system goes something like this: the taxpayer pays his taxes. The Government deposits that money with the Bank of Canada, its banking agent. The bank puts the money back in circulation, make a bookkeeping notation of so much money received and, there, the Government has a credit to its account.

When the Government is on the paying end of the exchange, it issues a cheque which the recipient presents at his bank and for which he receives cash. Then the paying bank and the Bank of Canada make a couple more bookkeeping entries and that's that.

The Government gets its right to issue these cheques from Parliament, through the time-honored procedure known as the voting of supply.

The estimates themselves are prepared by the Treasury Board on th basis of information prepared by the various departments as to how much they will need for operating expenses.

Doesn't Answer Problem

OTTAWA, Jan. 17 — (CP). — The government's new price controls "by no means answer the problems" of consumers, A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said in a statement yesterday. Mr. Mosher said labor welcomed the controls as far as they went, but the ceiling levels were not low enough, in effect; they gave "legal sanction to what is generally regarded as organized greed."

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Syrup. It's Fine

This well-known medicine, mixed in your own kitchen, costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy anyone can do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of splendid cough syrup—and it gives you four times as much cough syrup for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love its taste.

And for quick, satisfying relief, you'll say it's really splendid. It has a threefold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear air passages. You'll be delighted by its swift, pleasing results.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a well-known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you.

Pinex Is Quick Acting. Easily Mixed. Saves Money.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

THREE IN A ROW SAFE

YOU CAN'T present a trick to one of the declarer's honors by leading from a solid sequence of three of your own in the suit. You only build one or more for yourself. But if your sequence is of only two cards, there is grave danger that its lead will sacrifice a trick. A slightly less risk of the same kind exists when you hold two touching honors plus another just one card removed from being the lowest of the string; in that case, its lead may cost you a trick if the intermediate honor is at your left.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

You won't often find a hand that illustrates three stages of a principle as does West's on this rubber deal. It is clear that his spade suit can be led without developing an honor into a trick winner for the declarer, but to the contrary builds one of his own. His hearts can not be led without cost of a trick since the 10 is at his left. The A would win the Q and then declarer would hold a tenace over West's remaining honor. If his diamonds got led, it is clear to see that the two-trick value of his K-Q to the left of the A would instantly shrink to one.

West properly led his spade Q. The A won so that the club J could be led pronto from the dummy. East covered with the K and the A won. The Q was laid down, West's discard showing that no more than three club tricks could be expected. To these could be added a total of only two in spades, two in hearts and one in diamonds, only eight all told unless another could be developed some way. It could.

South scored his spade K, then led the 9 to West. The latter also took in his fourth spade, but then had to lead into the red suits. He selected the diamond 3, hoping East had the J, but South did, and so made his game, as that was the ninth trick to be established for him.

Your Week-End Question

Suppose your partner makes an opening suit bid of one, the intervening opponent doubles and you then redouble? What kind of hand have you indicated to your partner, and what other meaning, if any, is attached to your redouble?

6—In Memoriam

ROODE—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Roy Arthur Roode, accidentally killed January 16, 1946.
Not now, but in the coming years,
It may be in the better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears,
And there, sometime, we'll understand.
God knows the way, he holds the key,
He guides us with unerring hand,
Sometime with tearless eyes we'll see,
Yes, there, up there, we'll understand.
—Too dearly loved and sadly missed to ever be forgotten by mom, dad, brothers Bill, Don and Bob.

DAVIDSON—In loving memory of Mrs. James Davidson, who died two years ago today.
We do not forget you, nor do we intend
We think of you often and will to the end
Gone and forgotten by some you may be
But dear to our memory you ever will be.
—Always remembered by sons Vincent, Stan and families.

DAVIDSON—In loving memory of Mrs. James Davidson, who died two years ago today.
Beautiful memories are all that are left
Of one we loved and shall never forget
A loving smile and a happy face
A broken link we can never replace
All through the years be they many or few
Will be years of remembrance always for you, mother.
—Sadly missed by her husband and daughter.

KINNEY—In loving memory of our dear mother, Helen Kinney, who departed this life January 17, 1942.
Some day we will understand.
—Lovingly remembered by Betty and Alex.

ELLIOTT—In loving memory of Margaret Elliott, who passed away two years ago.
God knows how much I miss her,
Never shall her memory fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where she is laid.
—Ever to be remembered by a loving husband Percy.

ELLIOTT—In loving memory of Margaret Elliott, who passed away two years ago.
When days are dark and friends are few,
Dear mother how we think of you.
Friends are friends if they are true,
We lost our best friend when we lost you.
—Lovingly remembered by Merle, Dorothy, Ruth and Fred.

ROODE—In loving memory of Arthur Roode, who passed away January 18, 1946.
Just when your life was brightest,
Just when your years were best,
You were called away from this world of sorrow,
To a home of eternal rest.
—Ever remembered by Dot and Bill.

BOOTH—In loving memory of Henry Edward Booth, who passed January 17, 1942.
Six years ago today, our father was called
To his eternal rest
Gone where the angels sing so sweet
And taken where God knew best
We miss him here so very much,
His presence o't seems nigh
But we all hope in Heaven to meet
Where no one says good-bye.
—Sadly missed by his daughter, Mrs. M. Kelly.

MORE ABOUT—

Decide To Ask

surplus to the Peterborough Civic Hospital. The attitude of the Utilities Commission was that the City Trust had given a long and sound service to the community, that its financial responsibilities would be greatly reduced by maturity of debentures within the next three or four years, and that it should continue its work until that time, 1951 or 1952.

Debentures secured by the sinking fund plan will be approximately only $150,000 by December 21, 1951. At the end of last December the sinking fund surplus in the hands of the City Trust amounted to $461,312. It is from this source that the $300,000 gift to the Civic Hospital will be drawn.

Council's preliminary draft of clauses relating to the City Trust proposed first that it be dissolved, and secondly, as an alternative, that its control of municipal properties be transferred to the corporation of the city, and thereby to the council. Such properties include the entire ground in the market-city hall block with certain of the buildings on George and Simcoe streets.

"Looking the facts in the face," said Ald. Sands, "and with definite opposition from the Utilities Commission, I do not think we would get far with the abolishing of the City Trust when we go before the private bills committee of the Legislature. The Utilities Commission is not interested in the property clause. I'm in favor of leaving the Trust as it is."

Mayor Ovens recalled that the council had directed preparation of the private bill. A motion of censure had been recorded by the council against the chairman of the Trust but it was rescinded at the end of the year. "I maintain that from the facts I would be lax if I did not support the expressed wishes of the council in asking for the private bill."

Ald. Dodds said he hadn't changed his attitude. The council was a responsible body, "and I can't see why the tail should be wagging the dog any longer." A large amount of the detail of taking care of city debentures was being done by the Bank of Montreal, "and they are just as safe as with the City Trust."

Protected Before

Ten or eleven years ago, said Ald. Swanston, the Legislature blocked a raid on the surplus of the City Trust. "I don't think we stand any better chance now if there is opposition to the dissolving of the Trust."

Ald. Swanston said the surplus fund of the Trust was gradually taking care of itself since 1939, and it should be left that way until the end of 1951. Then the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission would have what was coming to them and all would be satisfied.

"Any council would be ill advised to touch the surplus fund," Mayor Ovens interjected.

Mr. Matthews said it would be turned over to the city council if the Trust disappeared.

"Certainly not," Mayor Ovens replied. "Members of the council would be personally liable if it was touched."

Mr. Canning said he could not speak for the Board of Education. "So far I haven't heard any reason why the Trust should be abolished."

Ald. Grant Miller estimated that if the City Trust cost approximately $4,000 a year, the total until 1952 would amount to $16,000.

Mr. Matthews: "The city council does not pay the Trust. That money comes out of the Trust earnings."

Mayor Ovens: "Out of earnings from sinking funds and property. That is indirectly against the taxpayers."

Mr. Matthews said the council was paying the Bank of Montreal $750 a year for its service in regard to debentures. If the investing by the Trust was transferred to the Bank, there would be a further charge for that. The council would also have to arrange for the management and repairs of its properties, further work at present performed by the Trust.

"The proposed sale of the market property this year is one of the most important real estate transactions in the city's history," Ald. Gordon Armstrong said. "I feel that the council should have control of that property, because its sale is going to affect Peterborough for a great many years to come. It should be the responsibility of the council rather than of the Trust. In regard to the abolishing of the Trust, I feel there is no urgency about that. I think we'll be just as far ahead if they carry on until 1951 or 1952."

Mr. Canning said he did not think anyone would oppose the property clause of the private bill.

Mayor Ovens mentioned that opposition was already registered against the North Monaghan annexation clause of the bill. He said he would have been lax in his duty as Mayor if he did not support the bill as it was drawn. It the Legislature turned it down then responsibility would rest with that body. "If we are to be worried about opposition we might as well forget about the bill."

May Have Softened

Ald. Swanston: "I'd like to feel that we have at least a 75-25 chance, but I don't think we would if we ask for abolition of the Trust. If we get back control of the city's property, I'd like to see the City Trust continue until 1951."

"If the council gets tenders for the purchase of the market property," said Mr. Matthews, "I feel sure you would get the City Trust to turn it over to you."

Ald. Dodds: "They told us to go to the devil last year when we asked them about the George St. store leases."

Mr. Matthews: "They may have softened like some of you have."

City Solicitor Huycke read the special Act of the Legislature to the effect that by three-quarter vote of the council requesting it the City Trust "may" sell any part of the property invested in them. "But, they are not obliged to sell," he added.

Mr. Matthews: "Under a mutual agreement with the council I think they would."

Should Have Final Say

Ald. Armstrong: "The only way is for one or the other to have final say, and it should be the council."

After the representatives of the two kindred bodies left, Mayor Ovens stated to Ald. D. Miller that there was no animosity toward the City Trust. It was a matter of the business of taking care of the city's debentures which were now being issued in serial form through the City Treasurer and were not financed by the sinking fund plan.

Ald. Raine: "I didn't hesitate to tell the City Trust last year what I thought about the property leases. Since then, that feeling has died away, and it has become strictly a business proposition. There is no hard feeling . . ."

Ald. Dodds: "You mean not on our part."

Ald. Raine: "The Utilities Commission is not opposing our request for control of the property the city owns.

Ald. Dodds: "I haven't changed my opinion one bit."

Ald. Anglesey: "I suppose the City Trust will oppose our bill."

Mayor Ovens: "There will be opposition from certain North Monaghan interests against annexation, from the City Trust, and from the Utilities on at least one point."

Ald. Sands: "If we go with a definite objective, instead of an alternative, we have a chance to get it."

Ald. D. Miller: "Mr. Matthews says the Utilities won't oppose it, but their lawyers might not be instructed not to oppose it."

Mayor Ovens: "Solicitors will be there for all three."

City Clerk Outram remarked that one $500,000 reinvestment by the Trust might realize $8,000.

Mayor Ovens said Trusts could deal only in certain securities. The Bank of Montreal had the list and had been doing that for a time.

After the division of the committee on the Sands-G. Miller motion, Ald. Swanston said: "I'd like to see you make it unanimous."

Mayor Ovens: "Not as far as I'm concerned."

Ald. Swanston: "You'd rather see us lose it all than get half?"

Mayor Ovens: "Yes."

Ald. Raine: "I admire your stand and I like to be with you, but I feel it would jeopardize our chance to get the property back."

Ald. Grant Miller: "If the Legislature rejected the abolition clause, I think it would weaken our whole bill."

Ald. Sands: "I think Ald. Swanston's remark was well taken, that we be unanimous."

Mayor Ovens: "I am sincere in what I say, and knowing what I do."

Ald. Swanston: "It would be good propaganda if we were all of one mind."

City Solicitor Huycke: "I'll make a redraft of the petition and leave out that first clause."

Littlechild Acquitted In Knife Death

GODERICH, Jan. 17 (CP). — Frederick Littlechild, 42-year-old Goderich resident relaxed in his home here today after being freed on a charge of murder in the knife-slaying last Sept. 15 of Charles Bell—a case which Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder described as a "sorded story."

Littlechild was acquitted late yesterday of the charge by an Ontario Supreme Court jury which deliberated 70 minutes before bringing in its verdict.

"You are indeed lucky that the jury did not at least find you guilty of manslaughter," Judge Schroeder told Littlechild. "Let this be a lesson to you."

"The jury have taken a very lenient view of this case. The sordid story unfolded reveals the depths of degradation to which liquor has brought you."

As Littlechild stepped out of the dock, he seemed stunned. He was met by his wife, Olive, smiling radiantly.

In his charge to the jury, Justice Schroeder had deplored the effect of liquor had had on the case. "We find liquor in the background of so many of these most unfortunate cases," he said.

In reporting passage of the resolution at Ottawa Jan. 13 The Canadian Press said that a "delegate, said the government now was refusing Canadian visas to Palestine." In a subsequent Ottawa dispatch The Canadian Press reported the demand for such visas was at its normal level, and added: "Passport officials denied the Canadian government was declining to grant visas for Palestine. This charge was made recently at the conference here of the Zionist organization of Canada."

Annual Meeting of Peterborough Federation of Agriculture Rural Event of Coming Week.

Lorne Reynolds, president of Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, is hoping for a large attendance at its annual meeting Wednesday, January 21, at 8 p.m. in the YMCA.

This is the feature event in local farm affairs next week. Alex McKinney of Brampton has accepted the local Federations invitation as guest speaker. He has been an occasional visitor to Peterborough, is fairly well known here, and can be depended upon for an interesting, practical talk. Junior farmers visited his farm near Brampton last summer.

Mr. McKinney is a member of the executive of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, to which Mr. Reynolds and W. A. Davidson were elected last week. After the business of the meeting refreshments will be served by the women of the Federation, and the whole program should attract at least two or three hundred farmers, their wives and juniors.

Mr. Reynolds said he would settle for 250, but the number could be 350 if Peterborough farmers who are members of the Federation through their commodity group affiliations, will simply decide they are going to be there.

SHORTHORN MEETING

Peterborough Shorthorn Breeders are holding their annual meeting Saturday, January 24, in the office of Frank C. Paterson. Notices have been posted to the members.

LIVESTOCK AND PASTURE

"Livestock farming has an essential place in the maintenance of soil fertility, because the best producer of organic matter on the farm is pasture sod," said Prof. R. G. Knox at the recent short course in OAC. "Pastures and livestock are the essential factors in the progress of Canada. The livestock industry in Ontario accounts for 75 cents of every dollar of gross income from all phases of agriculture.

Over a period of years it has been demonstrated that the farm animal is the most profitable agency through which grain and fodder crops can be merchandised. With milk, butter, eggs and cheese in such increasing demand, the farm animal is, therefore, a most important link in the chain of production and distribution."

In the judging competition Wallace Brealey of Indian River was fourth. Mr. Mann is secretary-treasurer of the club.

FORUM SUBJECT

Farm Radio Forum subject for Monday, Jan. 19 is : "Do We Need a National Marketing Act?"

THE FORUM MAP

The black pin-dotted map marking locations of Farm Radio Forums throughout the province indicated no improvement in the affiliation of Peterborough groups. This reflection of forum activity darkens most of the counties of western Ontario in contrast with conspicuous blank spaces throughout the east from York virtually to the Ottawa River. Two localities of most activity are Durham county with something like 15 forums and Prince Edward. Peterborough has only three pin holes, and Northumberland Victoria are evidently not seriously interested in forum communication. Any district missionary work in that respect may have to emanate from Durham.

The few black pins within the Peterborough boundaries do not signify lack of interest in farm affairs. This county has a notable economic achievement to its credit, but co-operative activities exist in many other sections of Ontario, and again the bulk of them are in the western counties. And it is in that area also that radio forums are most numerous and enterprising.

V. S. Milburn, Ontario Federation secretary, said at the 1947 convention that Federation branches are strongest where Farm Forums show the liveliest record. He regarded them as the strong right arm of the Federation. That probably extends far enough comment on the present Farm Radio Forum map.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—(CP). —A recommendation that the Health and Welfare Department conduct a survey of the demand for social workers in Canada highlighted the closing sessions last night of a two-day national conference of personnel in social work.

The 150 delegates also passed a recommendation urging that Canada's school [illegible] work should be assured "a last $100,000" support from the Health and Welfare Department 'on a continuing basis" for administration and student bursaries.

Provincial governments and community chests were asked to take their share of responsibility in the training of personnel to staff needy private and public welfare agencies.

Speakers during the convention agreed that low salary was one of the prime reasons for the present critical shortage of social workers in Canada.

MacBride Party Set For Eire Vote

By MICHAEL ROONEY

DUBLIN, Jan. 17 (CP).—The new Republican party of dapper, 44-year-old lawyer Sean MacBride has swung into action in the Eire general election campaign and Prime Minister Eamon de Valera and his Fianna Fail face the most serious challenge since they came into power 15 years ago.

Astute politician though he is, with all the reputation and prestige gained by Eire's successful policy of neutrality during the war, De Valera suffers from having been too long in power. Discontent with his administration, sharpened by the rising cost of living and heavy emigration to Britain, has been increasing. Government spokesmen themselves admit that they have lost ground.

In two recent by-elections, MacBride succeeded in welding the opposition into a powerful weapon which defeated the government and turned himself and one of his aides into a two-man party in the Dail. Nettled by the defeat, De Valera said the issue would have to be finally settled and declared for a general election. His announcement that polling is due Feb. 4 has touched off an intense political campaign with MacBride's Clann na Poblachta holding centre-stage.

MacBride will put into the fild a full slate of candidates. Reports from many parts of the country indicate the Clann is attracting impressive support. It seems to be well supplied with funds and has welcomed to its ranks some important members of Fanna Fail, who have publicly expressed their disconent with the present regime.

25 Dead In US Cold Wave Fuel Shortage Increases

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—(AP). — The worst cold wave of the season which caused at least 25 deaths and cut sharply into fuel oil supplies had moderated considerably in midwestern United States today but it still held a firm grip on eastern and southeastern states. The Chicago weather bureau said sub-zero readings were somewhat general in New England and that the mercury again skidded to well below freezing as far south as southern florida. The coldest spot on the early weather map was 26 below zero at Phillipsburg, in western Pennsylvania.

At Memphis, Tenn., where 12 inches of snow fell Saturday, the temperature stood at only three degrees above zero early today.

Restrict Fuels

As President Truman's order restricting use of heating and motor fuels went into effect, 12 central and southeastern states reported 25 deaths attributed to the bitter cold.

President Truman's order directed that federal buildings using oil for fuel be limited to 68-degree heating, and that government cars be limited to 40 miles an hour to conserve gasoline. Many areas curtailed us of oil and gas for industrial purposes in a move to stretch dwindling supplies for heating purposes.

At Chicago where the mercury dipped to five below yesterday, a comparatively mild 19 above was the coldest today.

A belt of light snow was falling from Michigan to Missouri and freezing rain, snow or sleet was reported in northern Texas but the weather was fair generally throughout other sections of the country.

Greeks Report Decisive Victory

ATHENS, Jan. 19 — (AP). — Press dispatches said today Greek forces killed 300 guerrillas in a decisive victory over a force of 1,500 to 2,000 which attacked Platonos, in south central Greece Friday.

In other reported actions, 107 guerrillas were killed and 45 captured.

Survivors fled in disorder when a relieving force from Agrinion joined defenders of Platonos and counter-attacked, the dispatches said. Pursuing forces were pounding the rebels with artillery and mortars five miles from the town last night.

One report said total casualties were 1,000 and that 100 had been captured. Officials did not comment.

The guerrilla force was the same which attacked Arakhova Wednesday. It was reported to have lost 250 killed in the first foray.

The ministry of public order reported further on fighting three days ago along the Nestos river northeast of Drama. The ministry said 400 rebels came from Bulgaria and were engaged for 30 hours in a battle in which 50 rebels lost their lives and others were wounded.

Two Youths On Trial For Killing James Bell

WELLAND, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Edwin Farrington, 19, of Glendale, R.I., and Norman Kindy, 16, of Niagara Falls, Ont., will go on trial here next Monday for the murder last Sept. 24 of 57-year-old James Bell.

Bell, who cared for Kindy after the youth's mother died and who gave Farrington food and shelter, was shot to death in his home in Stamford township near Niagara Falls.

Farrington was removed several weeks ago to the Ontario hospital at Penetanguishene, for mental examination. He was brought back to Welland county jail here during the week-end.

Never Took Promotion

BRISTOL, England, Jan. 19 — (CP)—Ex-Royal Marine Thomas Mallam Harrison, described as "the marine who would never accept promotion," shared his lifesavings amounting to £9,000 ($36,000) among his best friends. May Order Allies From Berlin

Officials Hopeful Outright Break Avoided With Soviet

BERLIN, Jan. 19 (AP)—Russia is expected to sound off sharply against the new British-American bizonal occupation set-up in western Germany when the Allied control council meets tomorrow, but officials of the two western powers predict that an outright break with the Soviet Union will be averted.

These officials and Germans themselves wonder, however, whether Marshal Vassily Skolovsky, the Russian occupation commander, will demand that the United States, Britain and France pull out of Berlin, on the ground that the new bizonal set-up nullifies four-power agreements for control of Germany.

The council has not met since the London conference of foreign ministers broke up. Subsequently the United States and Britain established their new joint governmental set up in western Germany, giving Germans more power in the government of the economically merged zones.

Bitterly Attacked

The establishment of Bizonia has been attacked bitterly by the Russian press, which suggested that the western allies would be asked to withdraw their forces from Berlin.

Sokolovsky is reported just back from an extended visit to Moscow and there has been considerable speculation as to whether he received new policy orders.

However, none of the western powers' officials here except the Russians to make any open move to force them from Berlin. All three powers have announced their determination to stay.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander, is expected to make two major points when the control council convenes. He has announced he will make a final effort to obtain Russian agreement on German currency reform, with the recommendation that it be printed and issued under joint control in Berlin.

If the Russians still insist that half the money in such a reform be printed in their zone, western Germany will go ahead with a reform of its own.

Report Ontario Roads In Good Condition

TORONTO, Jan. 19—(CP). — The Highways Department reported today that roads are generally in good mid-winter driving condition with most southern Ontario main through highways bare of snow.

Other highways in southern Ontario and all northern roads were packed with snow but well-plowed and sanded. A light snowfall or perhaps two inches forecast for this afternoon was expected to make roads "a little slippy but not dangerous."

Consider Formal Laying Of Commons' Corner Stone

LONDON, Jan. 19 (Reuters). — The ministry of works is considering the question of the formal laying of an inscribed foundation stone for the new House of Commons to be built on the site of the chamber wrecked by German bombs in 1941.

Underground constructional stonework now is going on for the new chamber, which will be almost a replica of the Victorian Gothic original. The interior will be of more modern design.

A suite of offices above the chamber and two new floors of offices and conference rooms will be novel features. Ventilation and heating apparatus will be improved.

Air will be cooled in summer from refrigerating machines sunk under the courtyard. It can also be warmed, humified and adjusted to suit the number of members of parliament attending at any given time.

Stone from English quarries will be used in the construction, English oak for the paneling and Canadian oak for the table. The Dominions are also giving other pieces of furniture.

The old House of Commons, designed by two leaders of the English Gothic revival, Pugin and Sir Charles Barry, was erected 100 years ago. Since its destruction by fire on May 10, 1941, the Commons have sat in the House of Lords, while the peers meet in the King's robing room.

Taking Interest In Politics Thwarts Isms

"The people of Canada must become more politically minded if they would thwart the isms and ideologies of other powers that would wish to practice subversive activities in this country" This was the opinion of Farquhar Oliver, the Liberal leader and Leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature when he addressed Rotary at their luncheon today at the Empress Hotel.

"I understand that the question of politics is a forbidden subject in Rotary at your meetings", said the speaker, "but asking me as a politician to address you and not speak about politics is like taking the scaffold from under a workman. However, I shall give you a talk on matters that are of paramount importance in Canada today".

"Looking on the world we recognize today we see a situation that makes us both perplexed and bewildered. We had hoped for a world peace but the war that we have just experienced has not given us that peace. There is no harmony among the people of the world today. Jealousies are arising on every hand, and even in this country we can see trouble not far over the horizon.

War Not Limited

"In Canada we have no desire for war. We have all the land that we require, and we could easily live in harmony with our neighbors if we are allowed to. We must however realize that from our very position geographically we are bound to be embroiled in trouble. Today we cannot fight a war locally. Aviation and the inventions of the world today have shown us that war is not limited to a narrow area as it once was. Matters other than wars can and will have their repercussions in this country of ours.

What happens in another country can and will interest us and we must keep in close touch with world events. If we want a peaceful condition in this country of ours we must be friendly with our neighbors. Years ago a war could be carried on for a long time, but to-day with the atom bomb and later inventions we know that a nation could be wiped out in a matter of a few hours.

"We know," said the speaker, "that there are many people of other countries who do not enjoy a democratic form of government, where the people may have the satisfaction of voting for

Industries Close To Conserve Gas

WINDSOR, Jan. 19 (CP)—Industries dependent on natural gas in western Ontario, taking supplies from the Union Gas Company of Chatham, were asked by the company to shut down operations today to protect residential consumers in face of a shortage caused by the recent cold weather.

Largest industry in the Windsor district, Ford of Canada, originally planned to bring all its workers in and then send home those not needed. However, at midmorning the plants were operating with the full shift. Many departments of Ford operate without gas and the company has a store of gas which can be used in other sections and keep the plant operating.

Windsor plants of the Chrysler Corporation were closed as was the plant of Auto Specialities Ltd. Other companies here were affected along with some plants in Chatham, Wallaceburg, Sarnia and London.

File Appeal In Ottawa Against Move

Transfer Immigrants To Montreal While Waiting Ruling

TORONTO, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Seven European Jews held here for illegal entry into Canada were transferred Saturday to Montreal to await deportation, it was learned today. The seven have appealed.

The group, arrested here about two weeks ago by RCMP officers, includes six men and a woman. Six were arrested in the Cosmopolitan "Ward" in downtown Toronto. The seventh surrendered a few days later.

All told of having paid large sums of money to a man known only as "George," who arranged their transportation by air to Canada. They said that he supplied them with bogus passports.

Andrew Adamson, head of the local immigration branch of the Federal Mines Department, said today the seven persons were taken to Montreal because of "better accommodation." They were held here in the Don Jail.

The seven are Mordecai Szulc, Maniek Kuper, Arthur Magad, Alter Abramovitch, Israel Cholewa and his wife, Genia, and David Fajtlowicz.

Paid $1,500

Rabbi David Monson, who interviewed the group in jail here, quoted them as saying they paid $1,500 each to "George" for his services in obtaining passports and transportation. He made contact with them in Frankfurt, Germany, they said.

The transfer to Montreal apparently was the result of a ruling by immigration officials in Ottawa. Local authorities said last week the case of the seven European Jews had been referred to Ottawa.

Rabbi Monson said last week the seven told him they would rather commit suicide than be returned to Germany.

File Appeal

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Seven illegal immigrants from Europe, held in connection with investigations of illegal immigrant smuggling operations, have appealed a deportation order, C. E. S. Smith, commissioner of immigration, said today.

Pending outcome of the appeal, which will be dealt with "in due course" by Resources Minister Glen whose department has charge of immigration, the seven persons have been transferred from Toronto to Montreal.

The official said it was considered that it would not be proper to keep the aliens in Toronto's Don jail and that they would remain in the immigration station at Montreal pending decision on the appeal.

Britain Urges Food Speeded To Germany

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (AP). — Britain has directed a new and urgent appeal to the United States to speed food to Germany to combat current shortages and cut down on discontent seriously threatening to cripple production.

The foreign office acknowledged today that Foreign Secretary Bevin cabled State Secretary Marshall of the United States early last week outlining the situation, but declined officially to disclose the specific contents of the message.

From responsible government sources, however, it was learned that the British government is gravely concerned over the possibility the food shortages will be seized upon as a major argument in promoting strikes and will be used as propaganda against Anglo - American administration in western Germany.

Hint Excommunication

ROME, Jan. 19—(AP)—The Roman Catholic church's most severe sanction, excommunication, may finally be turned against the Communist party in Italy. Sources close to the Vatican secretariat of state say this possibility "is not to be excluded," and assert there is no doubt excommunication will be used if "Communism becomes a threat to the church here."

Britain Has Three Outstanding Markets Very Anxious To Boost Canadian Trade

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (Reuters). — Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, told a press conference today that the three markets which Britain regards as of outstanding importance are Canada, the United States and the Argentine.

These were markets in which Britain will have difficulty in paying by direct exports for the imports she must have, Wilson said. The government hoped that exporters would display the utmost vigor in pushing sales in these countries.

Wilson said that within the sterling area itself there is one market of particular importance in view of its position as an important gold producer — South Africa,

Regarding negotiations with Canada, Wilson said:

"We have fixed up an interim arrangement until April which has enabled our contracts for foodstuffs to remain in force while we hope our exports to Canada will increase. For the time being we have had to agree to meet a large proportion of our deficit in United States dollars, besides drawing on the Canadian credit.

"Canada is most anxious that we should supply her with more goods.

"We must do all we can to take advantage of opportunities open to us, particularly in textiles and engineering products.

Baruch Backs Marshall Plan As Peace-Waging Campaign Asks Anti-Inflation Drive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP).—Bernard M. Baruch, adviser to presidents in two world wars, backed the Marshall Plan for aid to Europe today, but said it should be only part of a broad "peace-waging" campaign embracing also a vigorous anti-inflation drive in the United States. The New York financier told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee there should be a "rollback" of farm prices, agreement by labor to hold off wage raise demands, no tax cuts for individuals for two years, and a return to taxes on "excess profits" of corporations.

But the big thing is to increase production here and in the rest of the world, he said. To this end, he recommended that the United States offer to buy all raw materials the world can produce and cannot sell in normal markets.

He presented altogether an 11-point "peace-waging" program including a plan for European powers to form a union, pledged to resist aggression, and in return get an American guarantee of aid if they do.

Not Too Costly

In response to a question he said he did not believe the cost of his plan to buy excess world raw materials would be great, but that if it was he was willing to undertake it.

"We're trying to say to the people of the world," Baruch continued, "Get out and produce and we'll buy what you can't sell."

Baruch suggested:

"That the United States, and such others as will join us, mutually guarantee the nations entering this union against aggression. By guarantee I mean a firm promise to go to war in joint defence if any of them are attacked.

"Stabilize all European currencies and establish realistic rates of exchange.

"The British and others to retail their empire preferences for three years.

"A general staff for peace to develop an over-all, global strategy for America's peacemaking."

Earlier a suggestion by Senator Robert Taft (Rep., O.) that Congress create a Marshall Plan post provided a twist to the argument over who should run the multi-billion European recovery program.

At the same time, but without referring to Taft's proposal, Senator Clyde Reed (Kas.) called upon his Republican colleagues to avoid a foreign aid controversy that might "break the party in two."

UN Commission Asks Britain For Answers

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 19 (AP) —The United Nations expects to learn the British attitude on a series of Palestine problems this week and then will start laying definite plans for splitting up the Holy Land, informed quarters said to-day.

The five-country Palestine partition commission met to-day to complete a draft of questions to the British Government covering immigration, security and administration aspects of the situation. Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate has promised to reply as speedily as possible although it was assumed he would have to consult his government for some of the information.

The question of when the UN Commission will enter the Holy Land has been laid aside pending complete information from Britain on her withdrawal plans. It appears that the commission will remain here at least another six weeks and then move to London for conferences with top British officials, including Foreign Secretary Bevin, before actually setting foot in Palestine.

Troop Problem.

A decision on the biggest problem of all—supplying troops to enforce the General Assembly's November 29 decision to split the Holy Land into independent Jewish and Arab countries—will have to be made by the Security Council. So far the 11-country council has given no indication when it plans to take action, but one member of the Commission said recently he had information that the Council would move shortly.

Other UN developments:

The Controls Committee of the UN Atomic Energy Commission scheduled its first 1948 meeting to-day to resume consideration of the organizational structure of an international agency for control of atomic energy.

The Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press opens to-day to make final plans for a world-wide conference on the subject this spring.

Retail Food Officials Ask Vegetable Ban Lifted

TORONTO, Jan. 19 — (CP). — The national foods officers of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada asked today that the federal government remove the import ban on fresh fruits and vegetables, exempt essential foods from sales tax and reduce personal income taxes.

The association said in a prepaced statement distributed after an "emergency" meeting that "we welcome in principle the reimposition of price ceilings on such basic foods as butter and meats."

But it added that the recent government action "does not mean that prices will revert to the lower level of a month ago."

"In view of higher production costs for farmers it would be unreasonable to look for much of a rollback of prices, since that could only retard production which in turn would bring pressure on prices.

"Certainly farmers are entitled to the same price level for that part of their production which is consumed in Canada as they are assured under the new United Kingdom contract."

The retailers' statement said: "We are asking the Prices Board to provide meat retailers with price charts such as were formerly in use so that the housewife may see the ceiling price for each cut of meat on every retail meat counter in Canada."

Say Cabinet Shuffle Is Expected

Believe Ian Mackenzie May Go To Senate; Other Changes Likely

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Forthcoming meeting of the Advisory Council of the National Liberal Federation engendered speculation yesterday in parliamentary corridors that Prime Minister Mackenzie King might announce a minor cabinet shuffle when—or before—he addresses the body Tuesday night.

It is known that Veteran's Affairs Minister Mackenzie would like to leave active politics and might be rewarded for long service with an appointment to the Senate.

It had been thought that Mr. King might be reluctant to open another seat as there now are two vacancies created by the death of W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal member for Ontario, and resignation of Hon. Grote Sterling, Progressive Conservative member for Yale in British Columbia, because of ill health.

Decides to Act

However, it is understood that Mr. King now has decided to make the move, possibly along with announcement of other new senators. There are 10 vacancies in the upper chamber. Former Premier John Hart of British Columbia also might be among appointments to the Senate.

If Mr. Mackenzie goes to the Senate, it is likely that Fisheries Minister Gregg, holder of the Victoria Cross from the First World War and a former sergeant at arms in the Commons, will become Veterans Minister. He probably would be succeeded as Fisheries Minister by R. W. Mayhew, Liberal member for Victoria, B.C.

RCAF Pilot Stands By For Mercy Mission

GOOSE BAY, Labrador, Jan. 19—(CP).—FO Barney Hartman of the RCAF stood by his aircraft here today waiting for the weather to clear sufficiently for him to take off to rescue a sick woman at Cartwright, 250 miles northeast of here, on the bleak Labrador coast.

15,000-Ton Vessel Breaks Adrift In Night

HAMBURG, Jan. 19 — (AP)— The 15,000-ton ship Sierra Cordoba broke adrift last night while she was being towed to Britain for conversion into scrap. The British Control Commission said today.

Tugs were trying to get another line aboard. There was no indication of danger to the skeleton crew.

The Danish Admiralty had received a report that the vessel had aboard tons of ammunition for dumping in the North Sea, but the Commission denied this. The ship formerly was German-owned.

Battle 5 Hours To Subdue $250,000 Fire

MONTREAL, Jan. 19—(CP)—Firemen today remained on the scene of a spectacular three-alarm fire that gutted two three-storey buildings and damaged two others early this morning causing a loss estimated at $250,000.

More than 175 firemen from 20 stations answered the call from the heart of Montreal's shopping district. They battled the blaze for more than five hours in sub-zero weather before bringing it under control. Water was poured on the ruins for a long time with more than six inches of ice covering St. Catherine St.

The buildings were located on Montreal's main thoroughfare just west of Bleury St. and thousands of moviegoers jammed the streets to watch ice-coated firemen battle against the flames.

Several firemen suffered minor injuries as they tried to get to the heart of the blaze. They were hampered by the location of the building in the middle of the block.

The fire broke out in the basement of a sporting goods store but by the time firemen had succeeded in battering down reinforced steel doors to the rear of the building the flames had spread to the top floors.

The fire broke out at 8:30 last night and it was not until 2 a.m. today that fire director Raymond Pare said it was under control.

Four thieves smashed two safes and stole approximately $3,200 in cash and $1,700 worth of bonds from the Canada Bread Company offices after cowing two night employees with revolvers. The workers, Thomas A. Mitchell, 56, and Alfred Burdis, 33, were forced to face a wall while the thugs openeds the safes.

A few hours earlier, two youthful bandits snatched $425 from the cash register of the Westdale Cake Shop in the west end after holding up a clerk, Mrs. Molly Sykes.

Four Cases Heard In Lindsay Court

LINDSAY, Jan. 19 —(ENS)—Lindsay's crime free record for this year was shattered over the week-end with four cases before Magistrate E. A. Gee today.

Cuthbert Lindsay, no fixed address, was fined $15 or 15 days on a charge of intoxication. He told the court he did not have the money to pay his fine but expected some from Ottawa shortly. He will wait in the county gaol for the money to arrive.

R. Walker, 22, of Boskung was charged with intoxicated driving and having liquor illegally. The charge was laid by Provincial Constable Milligan of Minden, he was released on a $1,000 bail supplied by his father, Howard Walker, to appear in Minden police court Thursday.

William McGann, 26, Kinmount, was charged with intoxication and Howard Walker supplied the money for his $15 fine. McGann was a passenger in the Walker car when stopped by P.C. Milligan.

Gandhi Terminates Fast As Peace Pledge Given

NEW DELHI, Jan. 19—(AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi's hope of harmony in India lay today in the solemn pledge by religious leaders which ended his peace fast after 121 hours and 45 minutes. The Indian patriot and Hindu spiritual leader drank sweet lime juice at 2.15 a.m. EST Sunday. It was his first nourishment since 11 a.m. Tuesday, when he began the fast, his 15th.

Five hours after breaking his fast, the 78-year-old Gandhi told a big prayer meeting he did so on the "pledge and counsel" of friends from Hindu-led India and Moslem-led Pakistan.

They guaranteed, he said, "complete, unbroken friendship" among Hindus, Moslems and Sikhs. Gandhi said fulfilment of this pledge would double "my intense wish to live a full span of life doing service to humanity... at least 125 years, or as some say, 133 years."

His reference was to a resolution, signed a few hours before he ended his ordeal, in which communal leaders pledged their lives for peace.

7-Point Program

They adopted his seven-point program for social acceptance and safety of lives and property of Moslems in India. They set up a committee of 130, of all religions, to meet nightly for a review of progress toward these ends.

An associate said that, once Gandhi is sure harmony reigns in India, he intends to go to Pakistan to try "truth and non-violence" to the same purpose there.

The two Dominions, created last August 15, have been torn by communal riots fatal to hundreds of thousands. They now are at odds over trivial raids in the disputed state of Kashmir.

In line with Gandhi's campaign, the Indian Government last night granted freedom of pardons to all Pakistan soldiers accused or convicted of criminal acts between Independence Day and January 10.

Four physicians reported Gandhi "far from well" and in need of rest and nourishment to get back to normal. He spoke to the prayer meeting by microphone system from his room in the home of millionaire industrialist G. D. Birla, where he sat cross-legged on a bed.

Congregation Of St. James Church Reviews Successful Year's Work

The annual congregational meeting of St. James' United Church was held recently in the Wesley Hall. Rev. F. W. Craik was chairman, while W. A. Prest was secretary. The meeting opened with a brief devotional period in which the minister was assisted by A. E. Prest. The pianist was Mrs. H. F. Doig.

Following the devotional period reports of the various organizations were presented. In the statistical report of the Session, the minister stated that during 1947 he conducted 57 services of baptism, 38 marriages, and 30 funeral services, eight of which were for members of the church. The present membership of the church stands at 607. After reading the names of members who had passed to their reward during the year the congregation bowed for a moment in silent prayer followed by a brief prayer by the minister.

Departments Report.

The reports of the various departments by their respective representatives presented a successful year of activity. The Women's Association with Mrs. G. Harris as president, while making excellent donations to the church, also provided new furnishings for and supervised the redecorating of the parsonage. The Women's Missionary Society, under Mrs. E. Johnston, president, the Mission Band under Miss Constance Wagar, and the Jean Wagar Mission Circle exceeded the allocation set by the Presbytery. Miss Gladys Langton, president of the latter group, has given splendid leadership. St. James' Brotherhood, under the leadership of Horace Naish, enjoyed excellent attendances, with fine programs, at their weekly meetings, and added generously to the church finances.

The Sunday School, with Geo. Wallace, superintendent for 1947, reported a fine average attendance throughout the year, with finances in excellent shape. Deep regret was expressed at the retirement of John Sanderson, who for 30 years has been the loyal and efficient secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School. This responsible position is now in the capable hands of Clare Murduff.

The Young People's Union has enjoyed a good year under the direction of Mr. Wm. Piercy. The executive has already planned a progressive series of meetings for the strengthening of the society and more effective service in the church.

Mr. C. F. Kitney, for the past quarter-century the treasurer of the church, presented his financial report. A substantial balance was reported in the current account while the missionary and maintainance allocation was again exceeded. Extensive renovations and repairs were completed on the roof and the exterior of the church painted, along with other improvements to the interior of the building. The accounts for this work have been fully paid.

The auditors, Mr. L. Hodgin and Mr. J. Stuart, reported the church books in excellent shape reflecting great credit on the church treasurer, Mr. C. F. Kitney, and his associate Mr. Gerald Cuff.

Letters of appreciation, endorsed by the congregation, will be sent to Mr. George Martin for his faithful and courteous services as caretaker of the church; to the members of the choir for their excellent services in the ministry of music; to the Sunday School board of management and the brotherhood for their fine co-operation; to Mr. John Sanderson for long and efficient service as secretary of the Sunday School; to Mrs. H. F. Doig for faithful service over many years as pianist of the Sunday School; and to Mr. W. Naish, the energetic chairman of the board of managers for 1947.

Appointments Made

The congregation made the following appointments to the Session, for a term of three years: Mr. A. E. Prest, Mr. E. Kitney, Mr. R. Monorief, Mr. E. Wood, Mr. L. Hudgin and Mr H. Ball. For a two year term, Mrs. W. Rose and Mr. W. Naish.

For long and faithful service as a member of the Session, Mr. Robert Ritchie was honored with life membership to the Session.

Members elected to the Board of Stewards were as follows: for a three year term, Mr. H. Bell, Mr. R. Tully, Mr. W. Miller, Mr. G. Seabrook, Mr. L. Bristow, Mr. W. Roode; for two years, Mr A. Saunders and Mr. R. Parks; for one year, Mr. R. Rowland.

New appointments to the Trustee Board were Mr. Wm. A. Prest, Mr. A. G. Saunders, Mr. H. Doig and Mr. H. Ball.

Auditors appointed were Mr. L. Hudgin and Mr. J. Stuart, while the representatives to Anson House will be Mrs. W. K. Sloane and Mrs. M. Drysdale.

Mr. A. E. Prest voiced the appreciation of the congregation for the fine spiritual leadership and efficient work of Rev. Mr. Craik and Mrs. Craik during the year and during the entire pastorate.

In reply, the minister expressed his appreciation for the excellent spirit of cooperation prevailing among the members of the congregation. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Craik after which dainty refreshments were served by the ladies of the Women's Association.

whom they wish and from what party they wish. That is their fault, but in this country we must not suffer a dictatorship where only a certain few shall say who shall govern. This means the loss of right when the people cannot choose their own leaders, and Europe to-day has suffered from this form of government, both from those parties of the right and the left.

Both forms are equally dangerous and diametrically opposite and opposed to our form of government in Canada.

"Some will say that this kind of thing has nothing to do with Canada and why should they bother. We are not living in a sealed compartment and immune from activities concerning another country. It does effect Canada. We have proof that in the world today there are evidences endeavouring to thwart our way of living. We have proof that there are inroads made by alien agents in Canada today who are attacking our form of government, and we must all do our utmost to offset these activities by such agents.

No Quarrel With Soviet

"I have no quarrel with Russia", continued the speaker, "and if the present form of Russian government suits the people of Russia that is well, but all I say is let them keep that particular form of government there.

It is the right of the Russian people to be governed by the present Russian party, and evidently they want that form of government. The harm is done only when they try to force us to accept their particular form of government and to accept their 'isms' and ideologies, and it is up to every one of us to fight this with all our might.

"It is useless to say to a Communist, 'You are a Communist' and then hit him on the head, that is what they like for they thrive on such advertisement. We must look for the underlying growth of Communism in Canada and remove it at its source, not wait until it grows in a lasting sore and then try and cure it. We must all take an active interest in developing the affairs of our country, no matter what political party. Canadians must become more interested in all political parties and raise the particular light of their own party. Some people say that politics are dirty. This is no way to have an interest in politics or in one's government.

Our interests in politics must have a wider scope than that. If politics are dirty then it behooves all of us to remedy it and it is the obligation of every true Canadian to refute this statement and remedy such damage caused by foolish remarks. Politics are not any more dirty than the practices of any other profession. Selfish interests are bound to appear in all branches of industry and professional occupations.

Politics Healthy

"Politics are the lifeblood of Canada, and the biggest business in the Dominion. One way to stop the isms and ideologies of another country that may be forced upon us is to be more awake to the damages that may result and show a greater interest in the politics of this country." There are far too many who are either too lazy or indifferent to vote. That is a grave mistake. In Australia a heavy fine is imposed on anyone who has a vote and will not use it.

I do not advocate that a fine should be imposed on Canadians but I do say that it is only a patriotic action to exercise that vote.

"Another thing that is important for us to do is to educate the younger people in the political interests of their country," continued the speaker. "There is a danger that those whose minds are not fully matured can easily have their ideas turned by alien agents and those who are against the particular form of government that we enjoy. There are far too many propagandists in Canada who are ready to work on these young people and fill their minds with isms that are foreign to Canadian tradition and welfare. We must do all we can to educate these young people and build for the benefit of a future Canada.

"We have the greatest country in the world. In the days that lie ahead Canada may take a big part in any future war, such has been been intimated. International complications can arise over night.

"Canada has not reached the zenith of what she can nor will be. We must have a Canada from coast to coast strong enough to maintain an integrity against all comers."

The Hon. Farquhar Oliver was introduced by Col. J. Dewart and a vote of thanks was moved by Frank Paterson.

Ex-Furnace Tender Remanded To Jan. 26

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 19 — (CP)—Frank J. Timmons, 72-year-old former furnace tender, today was remanded to Jan. 26 on a charge of murder arising out of the fatal beating of his 42-year-old daughter Helen.

No argument preceded the slaying in the Timmons bungalow a week ago, police believe. Timmons was reported to have been brooding over his own poor health which had caused him to give up his job three months ago.

Driver Is Fined In Car Crash

Maurice Hurtubise, 556 Homewood Ave., was found guilty on a charge of careless driving and fined $10 and costs of $4.50 this morning.

Involving an accident on Water St., the accused pleaded not guilty to the charge. Defence counsel was James Dunn.

John A. Bradshaw, 360 Water St., whose parked car had been struck by the truck driven by the accused, stated that damage to his car was estimated at $200.

PC Gordon Trennum, who investigated, said that the accused had been drinking slightly.

Hugh Davis, a defence witness and former employer of the accused, who had worked as a taxi driver, said that Hurtubise was a "competent driver." Witness stated that from his observations, damage to the Bradshaw car would not have amounted to more than $65. The $200 figures given he said would be "exorbitant."

Charles Fader was found guilty of careless driving and fined $5 and costs of $13.50. Magistrate W. R. Philp gave his judgment today after having heard evidence in the case previously.

The magistrate said that in his opinion the accused had not kept a proper watchfulness for the circumstances.

Seven Days In Jail

The minimum sentence of seven days was imposed on Gerald Hogan on his plea of guilty to drunk driving. The vehicle was impounded for three months.

The accident, on January 6, took place at the corner of Parkhill Rd. and Water St., evidence of PC Gordon Trennum stated.

In passing sentence, Magistrate W. R. Philp noted that, in his opinion, the accused had not observed the traffic light there.

George Sisson, 298 Prince St., was fined $10 and costs of $2.50 when he pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor, in court this morning.

William Clinton pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk in public and paid a fine of $50 and costs of $2.50 after admitting this was his second conviction on such a charge.

Fear Insurance To Be Cancelled As Bomb Found

GRAND FORKS, B.C., Jan. 19 —(CP)—Strengthened Provincial Police detachments stood on the alert today for any outbreak of Doukhobor violence in this district while investigation went forward into an apparent attempt to blow up the $100,000 Growers' Exchange Building.

Rogers Peachey, deputy commissioner of British Columbia Provincial Police, arrived here yesterday to head the investigation touched off by the discovery of a bomb containing 35 sticks of dynamite in a rubbish-covered cardboard box under a loading platform at the building. Fifty workers were in the building when the bomb was found Friday.

Municipal officials in this town of 2,200 persons in the interior of the province called for immediate action from the attorney-general's department towards ending Doukhobor strife and protecting property owners. Less than three weeks ago a downtown building was destroyed by dynamite and fire.

Property owners feared that insurance companies would make wholesale cancellation of policies. One insurance company already has cancelled a policy while another has given notice of cancellation on a number of properties.

General Manager Henry Wiebe of the Growers' Exchange Building held that finding of the bomb made it look like a deliberate attempt was made to blow up the structure. However, some investigators discounted the threat since no attempt had been made to light the fuse. They considered it merely an attempt to get rid of "incriminating evidence."

Tommy Church Named Head Of Travellers

Peterborough branch of the Associated Canadian Travellers installed a slate of officers for the new year at a dinner meeting held Saturday noon in Hooper's Palm Room. Mr. R. D Buchan, Toronto, Eastern manager ACT, officiated.

Those who were installed included: Tommy Church, president; Douglas Delaney, secretary-treasurer, Percy Dallin and Ed. O'Brien, vice-presidents; Max Middleton, Kenneth Robertson, George Mustard, George Crawford, Archie Menzies Howie Hammell, Gordon Carveth, Nick Knapp, Frank Stinson, and Eric Nickson, directors.

An address on conservation and wild life was given by Maj. Ketcheson, Carling Conservation Club, who stated that some 6,000,000 acres in Ontario were urgently in need of the conservation program.

He asked the club to assist in bringing back forest lands which he described as natural reservoirs restoring rivers and streams. It would provide adequate water to general electrical power, he said, and would benefit fish and game by giving them their natural habitat.

Major Ketcheson showed three colored films on Canadian wild life. He was introduced by Doug Delaney and was thanked by Roy Taylor on behalf of the club.

Fish And Game Club Seeks United Effort

COBOURG, Jan. 19 —(ENS)— Recommendations made by the Northumberland Fish and Game club last October and forwarded to the Department of Lands and Forests on November 10 have so far brought no response or even acknowledgment that the communication had been received, it was revealed at the week-end meeting of the Northumberland Fish and Game Association.

"I should think they could at least acknowledge our letter," commented H. O. Taylor, president of the association.

Decision of the meeting was to sound out other clubs in the district, including Peterborough Fish and Game club, as to whether a joint proposal along the lines of the recommendations could be made.

$50.00 Minimum

The association last October recommended that the minimum fine for breach of fish and game regulations be $50.00; that the minimum size of pickerel be increased from 13 to 16 inches and that the department supply game wardens with legal counsel in prosecuting cases as the Northumberland Fish and Game Association felt that game wardens were not qualified to compete against skilled defence counsel.

New regulations were drawn up at the January meeting of the association, affecting the operation of the rifle club and it was announced that shooting would resume this coming Friday and that on January 30 there would be a shoot for cash prizes.

Alderville Woman Is 85 Had Unusual Career

By CORA NILL

ROSENEATH, Jan. 19. (ENS) Mrs. Mary Ann Black, Alderville's grand old lady, will be 85 years old tomorrow, January 20. As she sits in her little home by the side of the road where highway 45 passes the cross roads at Alderville, she has many and varied memories.

The daughter of a woman found as an infant wailing beside the dead body of her mother in the forest, where, following the pagan custom she had gone to give birth to her baby, Mrs. Black's life has been patterned somewhat along the lines of this background.

Her father, Peter Crow, known as "Professor", took the elder members of his family, including Mary Ann, on concert tours, and many were the happy experiences and knowledge gained from these travels.

The story is told that when teaching in an Indian school in Minnesota, a blizzard came on and with the children under her care she had nothing but stored corn for food. The firewood was none too plentiful, either. But by using the wood sparingly and making corn soup she kept the children warm and fed for three or four days while the blizzard lasted. She was accorded great praise for this deed, for it was expected all would be frozen to death.

Mary Ann Crow returned to her native Alderville, taking her place in church and community life and teaching music. Later she married Ben Loukes of Hiawatha. They operated a boarding house and a store and Mrs. Loukes' fame as a cook went far afield.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Loukes moved to Trent Valley Lodge, a tourist home near Hastings which she operated for several years. During this time she met and married Richard Black. Mrs. Black was again widowed, and returning again to Alderville she took up residence in her present home.

She prefers to live alone although urged to live with her brother-in-law and sister, Chief and Mrs. Norman Marsden. She reads without the aid of glasses, still plays her piano and sings.

During the fall she would be seen occasionally walking into Roseneath, a distance of a mile, but now that winter does not permit her to venture far from her door, from her fireside she looks out on the world that passes her door. The passersby can see the bright scarlet of blossoming geraniums in her windows.

Churchill Going Home

Overpopulation, Labor Shortage Serious Problem For Germany

BERLIN, Jan. 19—(Reuters).—Some of the most serious results of the war for Germany are only now beginning to weigh upon the country, according to a comprehensive statistical study of the German census made by the population and survey branch of the United States military government. Overpopulation together with labor shortages, a critical surplus of women and a breakdown of home life, all hamper increased industrial production, the report states. All must be expected to have far-reaching consequences during the next 40 years.

The report does not touch upon political or outside influences. But, confined as it is to population statistics and their obvious implications, it is as gloomy a prophesy as has yet appeared concerning Germany's future.

The study's 100 pages of census charts and conclusions show the cost of war to a country as clearly as do military cemeteries.

Germany's population is given as 65,911,180, representing an increase of 6,100,000 within today's boundaries between 1939 and 1946 — the seven years of census figures which the study considers.

Four-fifths self-sufficient in food before the war, it is estimated that the future German economy will provide only about 60 per cent. of the pre-war diet even granted the same efficiency of production. Greater industrialization could reduce the effects of overpopulation, the report states, but with lack of capital equipment in industry, there is little possibility of such a solution in the near future.

Low Standards.

"As long as these conditions exist, Germany will have a surplus population with such attending social and economic consequences as unemployment, a low standard of living, emigration when permitted, and a low birth-rate," the report continues.

The report states that there have been three important changes within the economic structure of the population:

1—A shift of population from the productive group to the unproductive.

2—A shift within the productive group from production and distribution of material products (agriculture, industry, handicraft, trade and transportation) to production of services (i.e. private services and governmental activity).

3—A shift within the production of goods from industrial to agricultural production.

All these shifts, the statisticians say, "are quite contrary to the economic needs of a country obliged to accept a sudden compulsory immigration of millions and which suffered heavy losses of capital equipment during the war."

3 Fire Deaths Reported In 8 Fatalities

By The Canadian Press

Three deaths by fire were among the small total of eight week-end fatalities recorded today by The Canadian Press in eastern Canada. All the other fatalities were due to traffic mishaps.

In the only week-end incident in which more than one person was killed, two sisters, Phyllis and Hilda Larkin, aged 16 and 13 respectively, died of suffocation when fire broke out in their Charlottetown home Sunday. The girls' father, Joseph Larkin and two other children were taken to hospital with injuries.

At Arvida, Que., Lucien La Traverse died Saturday when fire swept his home.

Four of the traffic deaths were in Ontario, the other in Quebec.

Thomas F. Gronof of Plymouth, Mich., was killed near Chatham when his car collided with a transport truck. Steve Semmens, 45, was killed at Hamilton by a motorcar whose driver failed to stop. Henry Rapkin, 75-year-old traffic guard at an east end Toronto school crossing, died in hospital Sunday of injuries received Friday when he was hit by a truck as he tried to retrieve a mitten dropped by a school-child. Philip Bonville, 73, was fatally injured when struck by a fire truck leaving an Ottawa fire hall.

At Ste. Angele de Manoir, Que., David Henderson of Cowansville was killed Saturday night when his car ran into a tree by the roadside.

PREVIEW OF ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY—This drawing, issued by Francis B. Wilby, chairman of the power authority of the state of New York, was prepared from completed engineering plan of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project and shows how the seaway will appear when built. The overall project calls for a 2,200,000 horsepower hydro-electric development near Massena, N.Y., in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river and for further development of navigable channels in this and other sections of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system, which now has the project depth of 27 feet over about 90 per cent. of the distance from Duluth-Chicago to the open sea. Canada already has spent $132,672,000 and the U.S. $31,742,000 on works which form an integral part of the project now before Congress. Greater part of the new works (71 per cent.) remaining to be completed are in the International Rapids section. Drawing above shows major works contemplated in this section. At lower right is the Barnhart Island powerhouse, which will have an output of 2,200,000 horsepower. In centre of the picture is the Long Sault dam, and at right the ship canal locks.

Social Service Work Outlined

COBOURG, Jan. 19.—(ENS)—Social service work of the Salvation Army in Cobourg was related by the commandant, Capt. G. Cox at the weekly luncheon meeting of Cobourg Rotary Club. The Salvation Army had a field of its own, he said. Its social service was linked with a spiritual field, the speaker said.

He spoke of the work of the Salvation Army in city centres but confined his remarks mainly to its work in Cobourg. A girl from the reformatory had been given a job in his own household and had made such good progress that she was now working out. All cases, however, did not turn out so satisfactorily.

Most people who went astray had potential good in them which could be developed if there were funds available to accomplish it.

What Are Peterborough's Liberals Doing?

The Dominion Government is now more than half-way through its term in power and a general election must be held within the next two years; it is not impossible that the election might come this year, though we are not impressed by the rumours which we have heard to that effect. What plans have the local Liberals made for that event? Have they chosen a candidate? A provincial contest this summer is by no means out of the question. Have the Liberals anyone in mind for a provincial candidate? The Conservatives have carried the last two Dominion and provincial elections in this riding, but not by such large majorities that the Liberals need consider their case hopeless. But if the local Liberal organization regards itself as a Sleeping Beauty which will be awakened to new and radiant life by the kiss of a fairy prince in the form of an ideal candidate, it is badly mistaken; this is an occasion upon which the Sleeping Beauty will have to find her own prince, and train him for his job.

* * *

Although The Examiner is independent in political affairs we should greatly like to see the local Liberals get down to business. A keen interest in politics is a sign of an alert community. Mr. Gordon Fraser has served Peterborough ably, but a member of the Opposition is not the ideal representative of a rapidly growing manufacturing community. Mr. Harold Scott, as a member of the provincial Cabinet has brought honour to this city and has been able to watch its interests from a point of vantage; nevertheless, a brisk provincial contest would be a healthy thing for Peterborough.

* * *

A quick survey of the political trend in the Dominion since 1939 is interesting. We base our conclusions upon public opinion polls. From 1939 until 1943 the Liberal party lost favour in the Dominion; since that time it has gained strength, until now it is estimated to have 43 per cent. of public support, as against the 28 per cent. of the Progressive Conservatives and the 16 per cent. of the C.C.F. We can check these poll results by comparing them with the four most recent by-elections; of the votes polled in these 58,065 were Liberal (47 per cent.), 23,759 were Conservative (19 per cent.) and 19,655 were C.C.F. (16 per cent.). We may also form an opinion by looking at these figures of the votes polled in the seven by-elections which have been held since the last general election in 1945:

Liberal	80,514
Progressive Conservative	44,266
C.C.F.	30,931
Social Credit	17,576
L.P.P. (Communist)	7,188
Others	9,762

It will be seen that the Liberal vote exceeds the total of the votes cast for the two other principal parties.

* * *

The position of the Liberals in the Dominion is very strong. The Liberal party in Ontario is still the ruin which Mr. Hepburn left. Either situation is a challenge to the local Liberals. What are they doing? Elections are not won at the last moment, or by unknown candidates. If their intentions are serious, they should be at work now.

The US. Budget—And Truman And Taft And Taber

People everywhere who are convinced of the urgent necessity of getting the Marshall Plan into operation had hoped that if President Truman were able to undercut appreciably some estimates of U.S. Republican critics when announcing his budget, it might have the effect of gaining readier approval of the plan from the Republicans. It seems to have been a vain hope, for the cost of the first year of President Truman's ten-year plan, as contained in the U.S. budget, was well below that forecast by Republican Senator Robert Taft, presidential hopeful, and far below that of Republican Congressman John Taber of the House Appropriations Committee—yet there has been no appreciable slackening of opposition to Marshall Plan expenditures in certain Republican quarters.

President Truman had announced his ten-year plan in his State of the Union message. Senator Taft immediately charged that the President was "doubling Joe Stalin's bid" and that the plan would cost "almost at once ten billion dollars a year more than we are now spending; with later increases to come". New York's Congressman Taber was almost twice as pessimistic; he declared the President's program would at once add nineteen billion a year to the cost of government.

When President Truman presented the budget, Senator Taft and Congressman Taber were answered in detail. The following table is the way he figures the cost for the first year of his ten-year plan:

For foreign aid, including China	$7,100,000,000
For universal miltary training	500,000,000
For national health program	116,000,000
For public housing and public works	57,000,000
For aid to education, science, research	315,000,000

The total, $8,088,000,000, is almost two billion dollars under Taft's ten billion dollar estimate and less than half of Taber's nineteen billion dollar estimate.

These are astronomical figures, yet the additional expenditure required for President Truman's ten-year plan represents less than one-quarter of the entire budget presented by him. Since the Republican critics had estimated the additional expenditure would represent either one-third or more than one-half of the total budget expenditures, there would appear to have been good reason for optimism regarding Republican co-operation. But the optimists, apparently, will now have demonstrated to them once again the manner in which international welfare may be disregarded if there is an opportunity to make domestic political capital by so doing.

Mr. Taft and Mr. Taber, and their followers in the Republican Party, seem to believe they can maintain and perhaps better their party's position by criticizing and trying to block or whittle down certain expenditures, notably those called for by the Marshall Plan. Since these expenditures will be met by the people of the United States, it may be improper for a Canadian newspaper to condemn the course now being followed by Messrs. Taft and Taber and other elected representatives of the people of the United States. But if the conduct of these men and their followers should result in the loss to the western nations of the remaining free countries of Europe, it will be the most colossal case of penny-wise and pound-foolish in all history.

A Graceful Ambassador

We congratulate Miss Barbara Ann Scott on winning the women's European figure-skating championship, and ourselves on having such a comely ambassador-at-large in Europe's capitals. Europeans will no longer believe that Canadians are merely huskies in uniform or pouchy bald-heads in business suits. Our military and our commercial and diplomatic people have been good representatives of Canada but Miss Scott is in her person and skating art a Canadian abroad of international renown who is sprightly and graceful. Her youth, her fresh charm and her ability to glide with the greatest of ease across the boundaries and artificial ice of Europe have gained the headlines and the hearts of Europeans more fully than a ton of No. 1 Canadian hard wheat—which, we are happy to say, she in no wise resembles. A nation that can produce both wheat and Miss Scott for export is indeed a chosen land.

The City Should Protect Itself

The Nashua Paper Company has moved into its new building, and we congratulate it upon that fact. Its move leaves the building vacant which it has occupied for so many years, and the city (which owns that building) will find many people who are anxious to secure it for storage or for industrial use.

We feel that the city would be well advised to protect itself in this matter by letting the building on a monthly tenancy only. If an industry should want to come to Peterborough the fact that the city had a building which could quickly be put at the disposal of the newcomer might be the deciding factor in an extremely profitable arrangement.

Of Cabbages And Kings

By PETER ELIOT

"WHILE an undergraduate at Oxford", writes Denis W. Brogan, in The Free State, "I was once asked by a college servant if I was taking any interest in a current election. I replied, not quite truthfully, that I wasn't. "I believe sir, that there were non-voting people in Ancient Greece called idiotes,' was the merited rebuke."

◇ ◇ ◇

COMMENTING on the sharp division in England between the military and civil, Brogan continues, "Only one soldier has ever become Prime Minister, the Duke of Wellington. Even on the battlefield, the Duke wore a kind of semi-civil dress and his most famous lieutenant, Sir Thomas Picton, commanded in a tall hat. It was this indifference to the tailoring side of war that gives special point to the most famous story about Wellington. Leaving the palace after a levee in full Field Marshal's uniform, he was accosted by a civilian who said, 'Mr. Smith, I believe?' 'If you believe that you will believe anything.' Military men in full regalia were not as common in London as in Berlin.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE judgement of the Duke on his great rival is worth noting in its probably unconscious revelation of the truth. Lady Salisbury asked which was the greatest military genius, Marlborough or Napoleon? 'Why I don't know—it is very hard to tell. I can hardly conceive anything greater than Napoleon at the head of any army—especially a French army. Then he had one prodigious advantage — he had no responsibility — he could do whatever he pleased; and no man ever lost more armies than he did. Now with me the loss of every man told. I could not risk so much. I knew that if I ever lost five hundred men without the clearest necessity, I should be brought upon my knees to the bar of the House of Commons.'

◇ ◇ ◇

"NOTHING in the scholastic portion of life at Oxford," (writes Sir William Beach Thomas in The Way Of A Countryman) "gave me so much pleasure as talks in the room of one of the examiners. He had a delightful gift of illustration. For example, in discussing Bacon's four causes he explained that an omelette was the final cause of a hen's egg. His illustration of the exceptions to the law of association of ideas was this: when Tobias' mother saw Tobias' dog she thought of Tobias, but when Tobias' mother saw Tobias she failed to think of his dog. Years later I met that great humourist, Stephen Leacock, while he was writing his book, My Discovery Of England, and he said that his absurd admiration of Oxford and its teaching methods was founded on his discovery that the dons did not teach their pupils, they smoked at them. How very much more learning I should have acquired if there had been more smoking and fewer lectures!"

◇ ◇ ◇

"GOOD writers are wont to be characteristic in common conversation. The last time I saw Barrie I reminded him of a sentiment he had written under pressure in a war correspondent's autograph book. It was this grim warning, 'Beware of a pale woman with a large appetite!' He capped it by telling me of a like request from a schoolboy, who had a book with differently tinted leaves. When Barrie began to write his name, the boy stopped him with horror at his presumption. 'The blue pages', he explained, 'are reserved for cricketers.' With what luscious intonation Barrie pronounced that word 'cricketers' for whom he too, had a boy-like admiration."

THE bravery and the devotion of subordinates of Viscount Alexander—present Governor General of Canada—are told in a recent small biography by James Robinson. "Alexander had a reputation for cold-blooded courage but he tried to instil in the minds of his men that it was foolish to take unnecessary risks. This story is typical of his shrewdness. He was making a tour of the trenches when the C.S.M., who was killed later, saluted and pointed in the direction of the enemy line a few hundred yards away.

"Would you like a shot, sir?" he inquired pointed to a figure which was bobbing in the enemy trench. It resembled a German soldier digging — and the field grey cap was slightly askew as if the digging were hot work. Alexander studied the bobbing figure from every angle through a periscope. 'It's odd to see him hesitate' was a secret comment of the onlookers. Alexander shook his head, saying 'No thank you, I'll not bother.' His refusal to have a shot at the Boche probably saved his life. The bobbing figure was a booby trap—and a German sniper was ensconced twenty yards from it ready to do his deadly work."

AUTHORS have not always been popular lions of society such as they are today. When J. M. Barrie was reading for his M.A. at Edinburgh it became pretty generally accepted (due to Barrie's belligerent declarations) that he would 'end up' an author. On one of the treasured week-ends home, Barrie was asked the usual well-meaning questions about his plans and future, which infuriate most men. One of his most disappointed antagonists—disappointed because he still intended to become an author, cried "And you," in a tone of mingled pity and incredulity—"and you an M.A.!"

A CHANGE

The vicar was paying a call on some of his parishioners whom he had not seen for some weeks, and his last visit was to one of the oldest residents of the village.

After the preliminaries were over, he sat back to have a chat with the old man.

"I understand you have a son in Hollywood. Do you see him often?" he asked.

"Ah, he's been home every summer for five years."

"And does he bring his wife with him?"

"He does, sir. And five fine gals they were."

Letters To The Editor

KEEP FIREMEN AT THE FIRE HALL

Sir: Re the firemen cleaning out around hydrants:

I for one do not want them out running around the city in spite of what Mr. Chalmers or anyone else says.

If several alarms were to come in at the same time....I want those rummy-playing boys where they can answer those alarms.

So, and this is a Taxpayer talking,—keep right on playing rummy boys; but, when the fire bell rings....we the people, will know where you are. The boys have done a pretty good job in the past and more power to them now with their NEW leaders.

Thanking you,

A TAXPAYER.

DON'T DESTROY THE TRUST

Sir: Your report of the discussion by Council proposing to abolish the City Trust is a matter of much importance particularly to the freeholders of the city in view of the statement of the large amount of Sinking Funds Debentures yet to be paid as given in the annual report of city finances. The first thought that comes to mind is what would be the opinion of the City Auditor. Council does not offer a single reason backing up their proposed action.

The whole history of the Trust is that the system has been a most outstanding feature of the sound financial position of the city. The cost of operation to say nothing of the complete protection of the Sinking Fund is small—about $2,500 annually. It is a safe statement that if these funds had been controlled by Council there would not be any $300,000 available to help meet the cost of a new Civic Hospital to say nothing of the many financial aids that have been possible for numerous purposes, such as Riverside Park, King Edward Park, costs of Ackerman lawsuit lost by Council, aids to reduce tax rate in a number of years, subscriptions to Victory Loans of nearly $2,000,000, horse barns all paid for by the Trust.

If it was possible to secure a poll of the freeholders, only, as to the wisdom of dissolving the Trust, I venture to say that 97 per cent. would condemn the proposal.

Judging from the report the Mayor and Ald. Dodds seem to be the chief leaders. I do not wish to criticize their ability to pass on this important matter but surely the way is open.

The proposal will scarcely appeal to the Board of Education or the Utilities Commission.

The Ontario Municipal Board would have very definite opinions if they felt free to give expression unsolicited. That Board has waded through the financial troubles of municipalities in Ontario during the last ten years. The chief cause was the use of Sinking Funds for other purposes than the meeting of their maturing bonds. It was only during last year that this Board was able to return to numerous municipalities full control of their finances. Peterborough never had any such experience thanks to the Act of Incorporation of the City Trust.

In brief, the Mayor is determined to destroy the Trust without providing any other sound system to take its place. Banks are not trust corporations, therefore, further large sums of money collected from the taxpayers and to be set aside for the payment of maturing bonds would be under the control of Council, solely. Would Council wish for this responsibility? The worthy Mayor may be destroying not only the Trust but also public confidence in his leadership. There are always people who prefer to be their own executioners.

PREPARING FOR WAR BRINGS WAR

Sir: I was wheeled from an operating room in St. Joseph's Hospital, about the beginning of World War II; as we entered a ward, and while was still not conscious that I was trying to say anything, I blurted "How's the situation in the Balkans". If, while still under the ether, I had offered a plan for a permanent settlement of Balkan difficulties it would probably have been as sensible as any scheme we may get from power-politics.

Last spring when the plan to prevent Russia from getting a toe-hold at the brink of the Mediterranean was announced as the Truman Doctrine, I was reminded that when Carthage ruled the waves Hanno, a great leader of the Imperial or Aristrocratic faction of Carthage, forbade the Romans to even wash their hands in the Mediterranean. But the Romans learned how to build war ships, invented grappling-hooks, beat the Carthaginian Navy, and Carthage was destroyed, as Cato, the Roman Censor, demanded that it should be.

When ERP represents itself as the voice of America, and Walter Winchell (and others) interprets the echo of his own war-whoop as a challenge from Vishinsky and warns twenty-five million "readers" that they must arm for war—to preserve peace, it is quite likely that the Politburo is being serenaded by Communist Cato's demanding that American Imperialism "must be destroyed".

"Time" Nov. 3, printed a report from Sam Welles, in which he said "There are far more Communists in the Ruhr, where the Communists are not in control, than in Eeastern Germany, where they are". Sometimes it seems tnat we are better fitted to develop Communists in America than they are in Russia, and considering the increased cost and autocratic activity of government here, it looks as though we may now be on yon side of the Rubicon, having crossed in our slumber.

We think we have a great store of knowledge as to what causes people to become Communists, so it would probably be a good idea for us to rid ourselves of the causes; then, if we consider that Communism is bad for foreign people, we could invite them to come over to be denatured. If we merely chase them "underground" some political or military Constantine may, at any time, decide that he needs their support to force his way into a Capitol job. It took only about twenty thousand Communists to drop Nicholas down the mine shaft.

The Russian Communist argument that no change for social betterment can be had without the use of force is, like the old motto "in time of peace prepare for war" a pernicious myth. Any worth-while program for common weal has resulted from the effort of a few efficient minds, and where any effort has been made to carry out good social plans, organized force and violence has ever acted to retard or prevent what it is trying to accomplish. War preparation may be a catering to some special interests, or it may be just plain ignorance, but has never helped to bring any permanent peaceful conditions to the world. Most of the great powers or would-be world conquerors who have armed in advance and set out to rule the world have either been beaten in battle, beheaded, stabbed, poisoned, driven to suicide, sent to St. Helena, put out of Potsdam, bombed in Berlin, or rendered destitute by virtue of victorious destruction. The survivors are preparing to follow suite.

Respectfully,
W. H ROSEBUSH.

SKULLDUGGERY IN PETERBOROUGH

Sir: I would like to see more of your editorial enlarging on the Poll Tax Issue.

If the city has been receiving moneys from poll tax that is unfair....Then that money should be paid back in all fairness to the people involved!

There seems to be a lot of skullduggery in Peterborough that should be dragged out into the open.

It seems strange that more people do not air their views re this fraud!

And I still say if they are not going to build a Memorial Centre I want my money back.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Lord is exalted; for he dwelleth on high: he hath filled Zion with judgment and righteousness. And Wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times, and strength of salvation: the fear of the Lord is his treasure. (Isa. 33: 5, 6.)

I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people: I will sing unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds. (Ps. 57: 9, 10.)

◇ ◇ ◇

All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth unto such as keep his covenant and his testimonies....

The secret of the Lord is with them that fear him; and he will shew them his covenant. (Ps. 25: :10, 14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous: for praise is comely for the upright. Praise the Lord with harp: sing unto him with psaltery and an instrument of ten strings....

For the word of the Lord is right: and all his works are done in truth. (Ps. 33: 1, 2, 4.)

"Get a job!" cried the tramp in disgust. "What for—to support a tramp like me?"

Life And Education Of A Prince....

By H.R.H. DUKE OF WINDSOR

CHAPTER SEVEN

Life at Sandringham, I suppose, was as close to a boy's innate desires as the conventions governing the education of a British Prince would allow.

We were all taught to ride at an early age and as soon as we could jump a fence without falling off we were sent out fox-hunting with the West Norfolk Hounds.

Yet all the same Finch saw to it that we learned to fish for roach with worms impaled on a bent pin. The lake, close by the cottage, so tranquil in my mother's view, was for us a fertile scene of sanguinar encounters when Mary, Bertie and I fought as pirates in flat-bottomed boats.

The happiest hours of all were those in which we were left to our own devices, and these were spent mostly on our bicycles. The parks and woodlands of Sandringham, even more than Windsor and Balmoral, became enchanted trails for two boys and a girl on rubber wheels.

Watched train

As a special treat we are allowed to bicycle down to the village of Wolverton to watch the afternoon train come in, pick up the mail and maybe buy some sweets at the shop.

If I have never known what it means to be snobbish, it is in no small measure because of the happy example of a village schoolmaster, Mr. Walter Jones, who took over our teaching whenever Hansell went off on his holidays. Jones, speaking with a rich Yorkshire burr, was a pole removed from Hansell. But Jones was a first-rate amateur naturalist, and had a wonderful way with dogs and birds, and he would take us rambling through the woodlands and on the marshes and teach us where to look for the nest of the different species of birds and to recognize their calls. And having seen the feeble efforts of Bertie and me to play football with Mary, he organized two teams among the sons of the coachmen, gardeners, gamekeepers, and other employees or the estate. If royal protocol required that my brother and I be named captains of the opposing sides, that guaranteed us no additional consideration in the scrimmage.

The point about life at Sandringham is that for all the outward luxury and grandiosity, the core was a substantial human understanding. I used to tag along after my grandfather and my father while they made the rounds of the estates discussing general problems with the agent and tenant farmers or consulting Jackson, the head gamekeeper about the shooting. My father felt an abiding sense of responsibility for all these people.

That no one stood on ceremony at Sandringham was illustrated by a little incident that occured one winter on the pond. My father fancied himself as a fast skater and he challenged Finch to a race. On a sharp turn, Finch noted for his clumsiness, crashed into my father, who went down in a lump and lay quite still. As the horrified valet tried to raise my father's head, my father's senses returned: a nautical oath sent Finch fleeing toward the bank. Slowly my father came to his feet and without a word skated to shore, rubbing a tremendous lump on his forehead.

That evening I found him in his study pouring a mild drink. His eyes twinkled. "You go to Finch," he said, "and tell him there's no hard feelings, and tell him I'm going to beat him tomorrow."

How pleasent it all was. If we ever missed the company of other children, at least there were no intruders to contest our possessions or interfere with the fun we had evolved for ourselves.

We grew up in security and detachment from the political shocks and tensions that even then were being felt in the grimy discontented industrial cities of Britain.

Disappearance of Privacy

Reflecting the other day on some of the changes that have overtaken my life since my boyhood, it occurred to me that as regards a man's relationship to his times, perhaps the most significant changes has been the disappearance of privacy. I grew up before the age of photography. We were seldom recognized on the street, and when we were, the salutation would be a friendly wave of the hand, or in the case of a courtier or family friend, a polite lifting of the hat.

There is, alas, an end to all good things, and in my case the year 1907 marked the end of my cloistered boyhood and the start of the career which my father had decided was in my best interest. I was 12½, old enough for the competitive examination for naval cadets.

The first ordeal was an oral interview by a commitee of stern elder admirals and schoolmasters. One of the questions levelled at me was whether I was scared in the dark, and barley had I answered a quavering No when I was asked who was my favourite author.

A few days later I was notified that I was eligible to compete in the written examination. Here indeed was the best of what I had been able to learn from Hansell. I crammed far into the night. Two weeks later, along with some hundred boys from all manner of schools in Great Britain, and even from the Dominions. I sat at a desk in a public examination hall in London, and for three days struggled with papers.

There were only 67 places open and I left the hall praying that I would not fail.

After days of suspense my father told me that my prayer had been answered: I had passed into the Navy and in May would enter the Royal Naval College at Osborne, near Cowes, on the Isle of Wight.

A man from the famous firm of Gieves, Ltd., naval outfitters, came to measure me for my uniform, the fitting of which my father personally supervised. I was proud of the round blue jacket, with its brass buttons and cadet's white collar tab, and of my naval cap, and would parade in it before my sister and brothers. Then the fateful day of leaving arrived, and my father took me away to Osborne. Despite my most determined efforts to uphold what I guessed must be the traditions of the Royal Navy, I left Marlborough House with tears drenching my new blue uniform.

The education of a British naval cadet at that time required four years training ashore—two at Osborne and two at Dartmouth in Devonshire.

To make sure that I got started right my father took me to Portsmouth on the train; and calmed me with stories of his early naval life. Steaming down Solthead to Cowes he fell silent; then just before the softly. "Now that you are leaving home, David, and going out into the world always remember that I am your best friend."

Famous Canadian Surgeon Dies On Week-End Skiing Expedition

COLLINGWOOD, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Canada's medical profession today mourns Dr. Roscoe R. Graham, a country doctor's son whose deftness with the scalpel earned him a reputation among colleagues on this continent as a leader in the delicate field of abdominal surgery.

Dr. Graham, 58 on Jan. 2, was stricken with a heart attack while skiing here yesterday with his wife and a friend. He had driven here from Toronto Saturday for a week-end of one of his favorite outdoor recreations.

At the time of his death, the American College of Surgeons had just invited him to give the John B. Murphy oration in San Francisco next spring—an invitation considered a signal honor among surgeons of North America.

This was only one of the many honors heaped upon the Toronto surgeon as he rose steadily to the pinnacle of his profession and won world renown. He was a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada, of the American College of Surgeons and of the Mexican Academy of Surgery.

He also was a member of the American Surgical Association, The Central Surgical Society and the Canadian Medical Association. He was president of the Canadian Society of Clinical Surgeons and was associated with many other surgical associations and societies. He contributed numerous papers, mostly on abdominal surgery, to surgical journals of Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

Operated On Ford

He was chosen in 1939 to perform an operation in Detroit on the late Edsel Ford, then head of the Ford motor empire. Dr. Roy McClure, surgeon-in-chief of the Henry Ford hospital in Detroit, and himself an eminent surgeon, called in Dr. Graham.

Born in Lobo, a little village near London, Ont., he was one of the three sons of the late Dr. Peter Graham who followed their father into the medical profession.

One of his brothers, Dr. Stanley Graham, is professor of pediatrics at the University of Glasgow. The other, the late Dr. Wilfred Graham, practised as a surgeon in Vancouver until his death a year ago.

In the first world war he served overseas with the Royal Canadian Medical Corps and at the end of the war he again became associated with the Toronto General Hospital. At the time of his death he was one of the hospital's senior attending surgeons and assistant professor of surgery at the University of Toronto.

Say Poor Diet Killed Baby

GODERICH, Jan. 19 (CP). — Dr. John Fisher, provincial pathologist, testifying Saturday in the manslaughter trial of Ernestienne and Doreen Whiteford, said that in his opinion their baby had died of malnutrition as a result of insufficient or inadequate diet.

The couple had been charged jointly as being responsible for the death of the child whose weight at two months was 5 pounds 11 ounces, as compared with what Dr. Fisher said was a normal weight of over 10 pounds.

The Crown alleges a baby was born to Doreen Whiteford August 10, 1947, that in September she and Ernestienne Whiteford made a down payment of $1,000 on a house, and that on October 5 the baby died of malnutrition.

Dr. J. Dunlop of Exeter, who said he was called to treat the baby on October 5 and found it in desperate condition, described the male accused "very definitely sub-normal" in mentality. M. Fletcher, another Exeter doctor, observed Mrs. Whiteford had retrogressed as she matured.

Dr. W. L. Malcolm Dies

ITHACA, N.Y., Jan. 19—(CP).—Dr. William Lindsay Malcolm, 63-year-old director of the School of Engineering at Cornell University, and a native of Mitchell, Ont, died yesterday. He was assistant professor of civil engineering and professor of municipal engineering at Queen's University, Kingston, in 1907-08, where he designed and built the University stadium, hockey rink and sanitary-engineering building.

Labor Congress Plans To Support The Labor Party

TORONTO, Jan. 19 — (CP). — The Ontario Federation of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, claiming to represent some 150,000 A.F.L. trade unionists in the province, at its annual convention Saturday laid the basis for support of a "Labor Party" in the next Ontario elections.

Delegates said unofficially that this probably means unofficial support of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation where that party place trade unionists as candidates in the field.

The resolution on political action was adopted unanimously by the convention representing Communist, C.C.F. and non-partisan Unionists.

Specifically the resolution called on members of the Federation and its affiliates to defeat all members of the Ontario legislature who vote against legislation advocated by the Federation. The resolution said that the Ontario government not only failed to act on any of the Federation's proposals, but that the government of Premier Drew fought and defeated all legislative matters introduced that had the support of organized labor.

After criticizing the Progressive Conservative Provincial Administration, the resolution said: "The Liberal part in the Ontario legislature and at Ottawa have shown no greater consideration of labor's demands and need."

Declaring that the two older parties have "consistently followed the dictates of big business," the Federation called for support of "only those candidates who have proven by their actions to be worthy of labor's confidence."

One delegate suggested that the convention place itself on record as supporting the C.C.F. but no action was taken.

CINDER THOSE ICY SPOTS ON STEPS AND WALKS

Ice is treacherous! Many painful and serious falls are occasioned each day by icy steps or sidewalks. Be careful when you walk, and do your part to keep the streets safe for others. Spreading sand or cinders on a slippery walk sets an example for the community, helps to protect yourself, and guarantees the safety of others. It takes little time, and is proof of your "Good Citizenship".

Marines Capture 51-42 Cage Win From Toronto West End 'Y' Gang

A fair-sized crowd of fans at the Collegiate gym on Saturday night saw Outboard Marines "A" basketeers come from behind to pull out a 51-42 exhibition victory over Toronto West End "Y" seniors, as Marines showed they are fast rounding into shape and showing flashes of their championship ability.

The West End boys were a bit better on shooting in the first half with play fairly evenly divided. They worked into the locals' zone for neat lay-ups and were leading 25-16 at the half. Gord Burns got five of six foul shots this half. Marines turned it on in the second half to tie it up and then go ahead. Capt. Joe Stewart was again their sparkplug with driving interceptions and fine playmaking. Toronto fought hard and were always in the game with F. Dempster tossing some nice set shots from well out.

Wilson, Dempster and Johnston looked best for the losers. Joe Stewart, Ed Nicholls and Bill Edger led the Marines with nifty work, and though Nicholls hit the hoop for 14 points, he still hasn't hit his peak. The team will play Hayes Steel Hellcats a return go in Merritton next Saturday.

The teams:

West-End Y— Corrigan 4, Spry 4, Wilson 4, Dempster 10, Pierce 2, Marshall 3, Johnston 7, Cole 3, Tratcyk 2, Stanley 3.

Marines — J. Stewart 18, Nicholls 14, Burns 5, Gillespie, Edger 6, A. Stewart 4, MacPherson, Csumrik, Kidd 2, Menzies 2.

Reefree, R. Dyer. Umpire, L. Grose.

Prelim Game.

A mixed hoop tilt was dished up as a prelim with Jean Castle's YWCA girls dropping a 29-7 decision to the Y Boys' Junior Leader Corps. They made it a battle all the way with both sides rather loose in ball handling and shooting. D. Callan, M. Freeman and F. Floyd were most effective for the lasses, while Ted Crandfield, Ackford, B. Jamieson with B. Young stood out for the boys. The count was 14-3 at the half for the YM bunch. The fans liked the prelim and it was fine practise for the girls as they had to hustle to keep up with the speedier boys. The teams:

Girls — D. Callan 2, E. McFadden, G. Davey, B. Reid, B. Jaquith, N. Crowder, F. Floyd, J. Vass 2, M. Freeman 3.

Boys — Cranfield, 5, Ackford 8, Graham 2, Young 8, Jamieson 6, Grafstein.

Katan To Meet Masked Marvel

John Katan who meets the Masked Marvel here in Wednesday's feature wrestling match has made an unusually confident statement regarding his chances of un-masking the Unknown. "I am willing to meet him on a winner-take-all basis" says Katan, "and he can have a side bet on it as well if he has enough nerve." While the Masked Marvel was unavailable for comment a Buffalo spokesman for him intimated that the mystery-man would probably take Katan up on his dare. "This masked wrestler" stated Ed Don George, now matchmaker in Buffalo, "is one of the greatest wrestlers in the world and I don't think even Katan can beat him." It should we just about twice as rough as the Mask's bouts have been here in the past for Katan will be trying everything to win this one.

Harrison Gets Blank Cheque At Richmond

RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 19. — (AP).— Good-natured E. J. (Dutch) Harrison today had only a blank cheque — wholly blank, that is—to show for his smashing, 15-under-par victory in the $10,000 Richmond open golf tournament.

Similar blank cheques also went to all of the other "money winners"—but Harrison and the others who qualified for prize cash and the Professional Golfers Association's assurance of the promised amount in cash—probably at Phoenix, Ariz., next weekend.

Harrison's share for his sensational 72-hole 273, including a course record 65 —seven under par—in the opening round, will be $2,000 when the P.G.A. cashes those blank cheques.

The unusual action was taken because the three negro golfers, all denied permission to compete, sued the P.G.A. and the Richmond sponsors for $315,000—including potential prize money. The P.G.A. delayed payment in cash, it explained, to avoid the possibility of the $10,000 prize total being tied up in litigation.

Most of the golfers headed for Phoenix and its $10,000 open and the P.G.A. hinted broadly the prizes would be paid across the State line.

Harrison's finishing drive gave him a two-stroke margin over Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., who made a great bid for top honors by firing a six-under 66 in the last round. Demaret ended with 275.

The possibility of Montreal Alouettes of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union becoming a farm team of Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-America Conference appeared last night with Branch Rickey, new Dodgers' owner, expressing interest in the proposition and Leo Dandurand, Alouettes president, ready to visit Rickey to discuss a working agreement.

Dandurand said he would like to have a tie-up between the Big Four Alouettes and Dodgers. Rickey in a long distance telephone conversation said he was "definitely interested."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Who is the Mask, that is a task for every grapple fan—just who's the Mask the customers ask, is he a mouse or a man? Well, he isn't a mouse, though a lot of folks figure he's a rat the way he wrestles. But he is in against a tough hombre here this Wednesday at the Brock in the main bout. Set a rogue to catch a rogue, so they matched villainous John Katan (big and rough) with the powerful Marvel. That'll be something to see, with no holds barred. We trust Commissioner Syl Apps doesn't come down, or he'll be too shaken to score a goal for a month. Ken Kenneth meets Jack Moore in the semi-windup, both being husky drive-ahead scrappers, and something will have to give. A good prelim, too.

* * * * * *

Tomorrow, puck fans can see the OHA senior "B" struggle they have been waiting for, Petes vs. Legionnaires on Lindsay ice. While the Petes pulled out a one-goal win o'er Legion earlier in Omemee, the Legionnaires are hotter than the hinges of a certain place on Lindsay's sheet and this is the first clash there betwixt these local clubs. A win for Legion would put 'em in top spot in this hot group while a Petes' victory would give them a firm grip on the upper rung. It's a natural as both clubs' large followings know and sure to be a honey of a scrap on fast ice. Omemee and Lindsay fans will be there in force, too, and the place should be packed.

* * * * * *

Those Special Trains

That special train being run from here for the occasion recalls other train trips to see local clubs play. Junior "B", intermediate "A" and senior "B". Without exception, these special trips have drawn big crowds, whether it be to Lindsay, Belleville, Oshawa, Hamilton or what have you? Lot of fun on those hockey excursions down through the years, and the games calling for these specials have always proved exceptional entertainment. But it is really something unique when a special is run for two Peterborough puck clubs playing against each other. One for the book.

* * * * * *

Let's see how this group is shaping up as they near the halfway mark in their schedule. Petes are in front by half a game, playing one less than Legion and Kingston. They have three wins and one defeat to date while Legion is right on their heels with three nods and two reverses in five starts. Belleville is coming close, too, with two and two—and they may take Kingston on Wednesday to move right up into a second-place tie. The Saints are trailing the field at the moment with but one victory in five games, though they could easily catch a playoff spot yet, three of the four teams going into group playoffs. Quite a scramble, huh?

* * * * * *

What The Man Thinks

Scribe Carver of Belleville says: "The Veterans met a foeman worthy of their steel. This Legion squad is a force to be reckoned with in this grouping. Greenlaw, Rochetta and Crowley pack a powerful punch. R. Nicholls who guards the twine is nobody's fool. Mr. Godfrey, who was a definite standout in the game last night, can sign a Belleville certificate any time he feels so inclined. Seriously, the game here was indicative of the fine calibre of hockey that is being played in this new senior 'B' group. Perhaps never before in the history of the ancient rivalry between Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough, have the teams been so more or less evenly matched. It is good hockey. There is no outstanding team, at least it hasn't been proved so far."

* * * * * *

Industrial League hockeyists go again several nights this week. Tonight at the Sacred Heart rink, Nashua meets Westclox at six, with Automotives clashing with Marines an hour later. Wednesday on the same rink, the postponed game is listed for six, with Westclox playing Marines at seven. Colts tackle De Laval at 6.30, Quakers play Westclox at 7.35 and Nashua tackles Ventilating Shades at 8.40 on Thursday at the Quaker rink. Quakers trek to Millbrook for an 8:30 fixture on Friday. Referees should report on time. Schedule will be run weekly.

* * * * * *

Concerning Cage Play

Nurses play Kawarthas at eight tonight in the YW gym, and 'tis expected the three week-end girls' games will have accounts in on the morrow. Lasses had a prelim tilt with the "Y" boys at the Collegiate on Saturday, dropping a 29-7 decision in a lively go. The main event saw Marines "A" cagers cop a 51-52 exhibition win o'er Toronto West End "Y" seniors, led by Joe Stewart's sharp shooting. The "A" outfit goes to Merritton for a game this coming week-end. In Lindsay on Saturday, the Scugog squad took a win over Marines "B" bunch in a neat Lakeshore Loop fixture.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND YAWN: PMHA games in Lakefield tonight: Southenders vs. Trojan Bantams at seven, Rotary Midgets vs. St. Peter's, and Trojans vs. Lakefield Juves. . . . Rest of revised schedules will be in tomorrow. . . Lakefield bantams beat Morrow Club 7-1 up there Sat'day . . Rangers beat Leafs 6-4 as Canadiens and Wings tied 3-3 in Trojan AC hockey . . . Trojanettes started, too, with Canadiens blanking Hawks 5-0. . . Lindsay juniors took Oshawa 8-5 with Whitby being in front of Orono 10-6 . . 'Caygeon is at Omemee tonight in juvenile play, and at Lakefield on Wednesday . . School and church leagues continue their local activity this week on various fronts . . TVL tonight: Marmora at Stirling, Campbellford at Hastings, Norwood at Warkworth, Frankford at Madoc, and Lakefield at Tweed . . Ski and badminton dope in elsewhere . That seems to be it.

Badminton Club Prepares Busy Schedule

The Peterboro Badminton Club will be a busy spot for the next few months, with seven inter-club tournaments scheduled and the Central Ontario championships being played here in March.

Peterboro club goes to Oshawa this Saturday for a match with General Motors Club. The Oshawa Flying Club will be here the following Saturday evening. A team from the Peterboro club will be at Lakefield for a match next week.

With all these tournaments coming up there will be a lot of activity on the club ladder to gain top spot.

The largest crowd of the season was out Saturday night for some good play as F. Conlin's team defeated Leo Copp's side by 13 games to nine. Conlin took three ladies' doubles to two and four men's to three. In the mixed doubles Conlin won six to four.

Mercurys Down Dutchmen In 7-4 Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Score-settling was the order-of-the day in the Ontario Hockey Association's senior and junior A circuits during the weekend.

Tommy Burlington's Owen Sound Mercurys recovered from their current slump to notch their first victory in five starts against the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen with a 7-4 win at Owen Sound.

Dave Pinkey back-slapped his Stratford Kroehlers to their first win over a Galt junior team in two years—they blanked the Rockets 3-0 in a listless affair at Galt.

Toronto's junior Marlboros salved their pains from Friday night's 9-0 defeat by Barrie Flyers with their 5-3 win over the same Flyers at Toronto.

Stratford Indians strengthened their hold on third place by giving Brantford Redmen their 23rd loss in 26 tries with a 10-2 victory in a senior tussle at Brantford and left the Redmen in the league's cellar.

Weaken Biltmores

The league-leading Windsor Spitfires weakened further the Guelph Biltmores chances of making the playoffs. They took a 6-3 decision from the Guelph squad in a junior tilt at Windsor. It was Windsor's 22nd victory in 25 starts while Guelph remains in eighth place with nine wins in 27 tries.

Art Jackson's St. Catharines Teepees in the junior loop kept within two points of Toronto Marlboros in sixth and last playoff position by defeating the ninth place Toronto St. Michael's Majors 5-3 at St. Catharines.

In the second junior game at Toronto the second-place Oshawa Generals encouraged Toronto Young Rangers' losing ways with their 6-1 victory over the cellar-dwelling Rangers. It was Toronto's 24th loss in 26 starts and Oshawa's 19th win in 25 tries.

At Owen Sound paced by playing coach Tommy Burlington and Pat McReavy with three goals each, the Mercurys trounced the fourth-place Dutchmen and moved into a tie with Kitchener-Waterloo.

Tod Miller scored the other Owen Sound goal. Dutchmen marksmen were Ray Verity, Don Bauer, Lloyd Roubell and Art Hurst.

Trojan Results

Two smartly played Trojan A.C. hockey games were run off on Saturday with all four teams going well in clean play. Rangers edged Leafs 6-4 with the issue in doubt till the end. Canadiens and Wings went to a 3-3 tie, with passing plays a feature. Armstrong, Hewie, Stewart and White were pick of the Canadens, while Collins, Allen, Floyd and Jones stood out for Wings. Corkery, Smith, Foster and Deck shone for Rangers, the latter player being in a scrappy mood. Leafian standouts were Brioux, Clarke, Gilmour and Pullyblank. Gilmour got one of the nicest goals of the season. Teams:

Rangers—Panter, Foster, Smith, Deck, Dauncey, Michaels, Holbrook.

Leafs—Braund, Clarke, Gilmour, Brioux, Pullyblank, Collins, Barker, Clements, Graham.

Wings—Evans, Allen, Floyd, LaRoche, Collins, Burfield.

Canadiens— Curtis, Henderson, Armstrong, Hewie, Stewart, White, Bertrand.

Lakefield Won

Lakefield bantams took a 7-1 puck win over Morrow Recreation Club in Lakefield on Saturday. It was a wide-open game, with just about everything going, but Lakefield had an edge most of the way. They were sparked by Coyle and Sloan, each having three goals and three assists. Twist got their other marker. Hogan counted on a pass from Corbett for the other side's lone marker. No penalties were handed out. Tonight, the Morrow Club bantams are playing the Trojans at Lakefield at seven o'clock.

MURPH CHAMBERLAIN

KEN REARDON

THEY STARRED—Two good reasons for the Canadiens' victory over the Toronto Leafs on Thursday were Kenny Reardon and Murph Chamberlain. Reardon, looking like the charging flash of a few seasons ago, ended up with a $25 fine and 10-minute penalty for attacking linesman Joe Springer. Chamberlain, playing his second game since a leg injury in November, showed he had lost none of his form. The Montrealers, on home ice, piled up an 8-4 score.

Lindsay Wins Cage Tilt Over Marines

Lindsay cagers copped a 38-28 Lakeshore League basketball win over the local Marines B crew in Lindsay on Saturday night. It was a better game than the score indicates, with the victors having only a 21-20 edge in the second half. They rolled up a neat lead the first half when the high basket bothered Marines and their shooting was a little off.

Sturgess shone going both ways for the homesters and Callaghan was hot on long shots. The whole team clicked well. And all Harry Yudin's gang worked hard and made it interesting the last session of a fast and pretty clean contest. Green, Smith and Seabrook led the snipers. The teams:

Marines — Currall, Green 5, Smith 9, Seabrook 6, Hanbidge 2, Routley, Jones 2, Gardner 4, Butcher, Burroughs.

Lindsay — Preston 3, Elliott, Newton, Laidley, Reeds 9, Callaghan, B. Callaghan 10, Sturgess 9, Bryans 5, Eggleton 2.

Hornets Lead AHL Circuit

By The Canadian Press

Pittsburgh Hornets today are back in their old familiar position at the top of the American Hockey League's western circuit—a full game ahead of the fast-stepping Buffalo Bisons.

Hornets came up with a win and a tie over the weekend while Bisons had to be content with one draw. Pittsburgh downed Indianapolis 4-1 and came back to tie Buffalo 1-1 last night.

However Cleveland Barons stole the Hornets thunder, winning both their games, whipping Buffalo 7-4 and New Haven 4-2.

Meanwhile, the leaders in the east, Providence Reds, came in for some oug treatment, dropping a 10-2 decision to the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Flyers and a 9-4 verdict to Indianapolis.

Hershey tripped New Haven 2-1 and Philadelphia whipped Springfield 8-4 to round out the week-end schedule.

Leafs Take League Lead Canadiens Get 4th Spot

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens were the only teams that gathered as much as three points out of a possible four in a lively week-end that saw five National Hockey League games. As a result the Leafs jumped into the league lead, two points ahead of Detroit, while the Canadiens vaulted over Boston to take the fourth and last play-off spot.

Today's standings showed Leafs with 46 points in 36 games, Detroit 44, New York 37, Montreal 34, Boston 33 and Chicago 22.

On their own ice Saturday the Leafs walloped Boston 4-1 and Canadiens trimmed Chicago 3-1. Then on Sunday Toronto tied 2-2 at New York, Montreal tied 1-1 at Boston and the tail-end Hawks edged Detroit 5-4 right in the Motor City.

With a match misconduct penalty to sharpshooting Maurice (Rocket) Richard of the Canadiens, the Sunday game at Boston easily took the cake for all-round excitement.

The first period had gone 12 minutes when Referee Bill Chadwick thumbed Richard for slashing Milt Schmidt. When Richard got to the box he slung his stick onto the ice. Then Richard broke loose from the restraining arms of Murphy Chamberlain, also a prisoner, and stepped on the ice. Referee Chadwick then ordered the Montreal ace out of action for the rest of the game and called a cop to escort him to the dressing room.

Gets $50 Fine.

Richard drew an automatic $50 fine while Chadwick prepares a report for NHL President Clarence Campbell, who will decide whether any further action is needed.

Ed Sandford of Boston scored the only goal of the first period when nine penalties were handed out including the three to Richard—a minor, 10-minute misconduct, and match misconduct. Ken Mosdell and Fern Flaman drew majors for a fight in the second period which ended with Mosdell on his back and the Boston defenceman clubbing him with his gloved right hand. Winger Jacques Locas took a face-off pass from Tod Campeau to score Montreal's tying goal before the period ended and the third period was scoreless.

Only casualty of that last frame was Referee Chadwick, felled forcibly when he collided with Ed Sandford, but the official was able to continue.

Evenly Fough.

The other tie game, at New York, was close and evenly fought all the way. Turk Broda in the Toronto goal and Sugar Jim Henry in the Ranger nets each threw out 23 shots. Phil Watson grabbed his own rebound to score for the Rangers early in the second period, but Teeter Kennedy tied it up and Max Bentley put Leafs ahead before the frame ended.

Ed Slowinski, utility player who had been used only sparingly by the Rangers, got the tying goal in the third period when he took a pass from Cal Gardner, who had missed an open net only a moment before, and scored on Broda. There were only five penalties in the New York game, all minors.

At Detroit Sunday Roy Conacher scored the winning goal for Chicago in the third period. The Hawks' ace forward Doug Bentley went out of action in the first period with a six-inch stitch needed to fix a gash near his left eye, inflicted by Fernand Gauthier's stick.

TAKE SKATING HONORS

Roger Wickson and Jeane Mathews, both of Vancouver, gave brilliant displays in both compulsory figures and free skating at Calgary Saturday to retain their western Canada figure skating championships.

STOP FIGHT BROADCASTS

A ban on radio broadcasting and television of fights in Britain was announced Saturday by the Boxing Board of Control, effective after Feb. 20, until the Board conducts conferences with the BBC.

Princeton University's hockey team trounced the United States Olympic committee's "official" Olympic team 6-2 Saturday at Princeton, N.J.

They are as follows: President, Percy Oddie; first vice-president, Fred M. Rutherford; second vice-president, Reg. Seymour; secretary-treasurer, Gilbert G. Stephens; auditors, Wesley Stephens and Gerald West.

Honorary directors are: Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Hon. Earl Drope, His Worship Harvey M. Donald, Melville Wight, H. M. Carr, F. F. Long, F. W. Barnum, W. J. Duncan.

In past years the Campbellford Fair has been held on Wednesday and Thursday, immediately after Belleville Fair, giving exhibitors very little time to move their exhibits from one fair to the other. This year the dates will be Thursday and Friday, if those dates do not conflict with other fairs in this district.

The financial statement for 1947 was presented and approved. Total receipts were $4,597.57, and the bank balance after payment of all bills is $105.92.

Liner Weathers Severe Storm

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(AP)—The liner Queen Mary, with 1,432 passengers aboard docked Saturday 37 hours behind schedule after weathering a storm of near-hurricane force which Commodore Cyril Illingsworth, skipper of the 81,000-ton vessel, described as one of the "dirtiest" he had experienced in a long time.

Commodore Illingsworth said the ship had to go 80 miles off course to escape the brunt of the storm, when it was about 700 miles from the North American coast.

"It was the dirtiest I've seen for a long time," the Commodore said. "I don't know if I've ever seen worse weather on the North Atlantic."

The Queen Mary, he added, rode "colossal seas", with waves 40 and 50 feet high. But the liner took the storm well and "I don't believe we had a cup or saucer broken."

The brunt of the storm lasted 11 or 12 hours, the commander said, and he was forced to reduce the Queen Mary's normal cruising speed of 28½ knots to 10.

Coal Shipment Britain's Recovery Sign

LONDON, Jan. 19—(Reuterks) —Some time this month a ship will leave a British port on a voyage which is regarded here as symbolic of Britain's progress to industrial recovery.

No well-dressed men and women will crowd her rails as she steams out for Sweden. Luxury is the last word one could apply to this vessel with its sooty decks, its grimy crew, its black holds.

Her importance lies in her cargo. For she will be carrying the first regular shipment of British coal under the new trade pack agreed with Sweden at the end of 1947.

Export of the "black gold" which before the war brought Britain more than £34,000,000 ($136,000,000) a year from sales abroad, stopped almost dead at the end of February, 1947. Production was too low even to feed the home factories on which Britain's recovery drive depended.

Since then, however, production records in the mines have soared, and stocks of coal have accumulated until home industrial consumers—the No. 1 priority—are turning away offers of extra coal.

Although the January shipment to Sweden is the first export under firm contract since the coal crisis, Britain did actually begin to export small amounts informally to several countries, including Portugal and France, in the closing weeks of 1947.

THE SKY'S THE LIMIT—The population of Peterborough turned out en masse over the week-end to take advantage of the ideal weather and snow conditions Saturday morning. Children from 8 to 16, 350 strong, commuted by bus to Kemp's Hill for two hours' instruction under the sponsorship of the city's Recreational Committee. Seasoned amateurs took to the high hills, jumps and lakes. At Left, one little lass looks over the instructor's performance with awe and hopes to "be as good" some day. Centre Top, Pilot Dunlop (Tom) Mathias ties tow lines to his plane's wing struts as Jim King, Centre, and Uberta Bianco (Ab White) get into their gear. Centre of panel shows Bianco "sky joring" behind the sport plane at 75 miles per hour, across Chemong Lake, one of the first pictures on record of this new popular sport. A crowd of youngsters waiting for buses (Centre Lower) at the terminal. Bianco (at Right) demonstrates a "gelandersprung" on the lakeshore of Chemong Park.

Two Peterboro' Boys Held For Lauzon and Macdonald

Two employees of the CGE here and police authorities in five counties had some excitement on Saturday when Mike Burke and Walter Curtis, both 21 years old and both of 92 Aylmer street—on law-abiding business and innocently visiting in Marmora and Warkworth—were "identified" by a 16-year-old girl in a Havelock restaurant as the notorious Mickey Macdonald and Ulysses Lauzon, escaped penitentiary convicts.

The pair, driving in Curtis' car, left the city Saturday afternoon and drove to Marmora, where they paid a short visit to Mr. and Mrs. William Burke, Burke's brother and sister-in-law. Then they returned to Havelock, planning to proceed to Warkworth, where they would visit a friend.

The stop at a restaurant in Havelock, leaving the car parked some distance down the street, was apparently the start of the chase for the two wandering "criminals." For in May's restaurant, while asking driection to Warkworth, a young girl with an elderly man, raised the hue and cry after the two strangers, basing her sensational expose probably on post office posters and newspaper pictures.

Unaware of the uncomplimentary connection which had been made, the two proceeded to Warkworth via Campbellford.

By this time, the girl's alarm had been relayed to police in Northumberland, Durham, Hastings, Peterborough and Victoria counties, who began preparing a trap for the celebrated pair.

Stopped at Campbellford.

The two subjects of this intensive man-hunt, on their way back now, stopped at the Royal Lunch Cafe in Campbellford, where they got first hint that their presence was causing some comment among the authorites.

Chief of the Campbellford police force approached the pair and began questioning them. Not realizing the meaning of the interrogation at first the answers given were light-hearted and probably strengthened the opinion of the chief that these men, although perhaps not the notorious pair as reported were at least suspicious characters.

"Wherever I hang my hat," was the address one gave in answer to where was his home.

Told that they had been reported as hitchhiking through Havelock (an impression gathered because the car had been parked far down the street there), Curtis answered jokingly: "Well, I've got a car now,"

The innocent comment may have been ill-worded for the frame of mind of the officer. He advised them that the roads to Havelock were blocked, with patrols and suggested that they stay in the town until they had been identified; if they went to Havelock "you might stop a bullet," they were informed.

The Campbellford officer, quite properly taking no chances with two men who might be the escaped convicts, refused their invitation to drive him to the office. Instead, the three of them walked.

Comparison with photos of the real MacDonald and Lauzon, as well as sincerely worded offers to phone Peterborough to establish the identity of the pair soon convinced the holding officer. The threat now lay in permitting the two to continue their trip while the alert was still in force with the waiting police .... and then again, maybe they were, after all, the wanted men ....

Burke knew many officers in the district even, Percy Gray, PPC of Marmora, a major in the provost corps, was Burke's commanding officer during the war. Burke served in that corps in Montreal and Ottawa.

For Curtis, the experience, although not a pleasant one, was not a new sensation. In North Dakota, on an equally quiet and legal trip, he had once been "picked up" for a harrowing short time— that time, he had been mistaken for a man charged with murder in that state.

Welcome Given New Rector At All Saints

All Saints' Anglican Church welcomed its new rector, Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, BA, L.Th., and Mrs. Kibblewhite at an informal reception in the Parish Hall, Sunday night after the church service.

The congregation has been without a rector for almost three month since Rev. W. A. Filer was transferred to a Hamilton parish. Mr. Kibblewhite preached his first sermon in the morning, and briefly introduced himself when making the weekly announcements.

At the reception Mr. and Mrs. Kibblewhite had their first real opportunity of meeting their new parishioners. With Gordon Millen as chairman for the reception, the introduction was made by Thos. H. Boddy who welcomed the rector and his wife in the name of All Saints' congregation.

Both Mr and Mrs. Kibblewhite spoke. He thanked the congregation for its hearty welcome, and expressed his appreciation at what had been done in the way of accommodation. The fact that he had come from All Saints' in Collingwood to the All Saints' in Peterborough helped to make him feel even more at home he said.

Mrs. Kibblewhite spoke briefly thanking everyone for their courtesy and interest. She specifically mentioned the complete redecoration of the rectory, from repapering to harwood floors.

Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, BA, BD, of St. John's was present as head of the local deanery.

Parishioners greeted them individually, briefly introducing themselves and shaking hands. Refreshments were then served.

Leasing Plant To CGE Recommended

Lease to the Canadian General Electric Co. of the Perry Street section of the factory vacated by Nashua Paper Co. is recommended to the city council in the report of its industrial committee to be presented tonight by the chairman, Ald. P. J. Anglesey.

The directing clause is: "That the Canadian Sealright Company be granted permission to lease to the Canadian General Electric Company the building lying immediately south of Perry st., this building being required by the C. G. E. Co. for manufacutring purposes."

It will be remembered that the council last year had planned to offer the north part of the building to some new industry wishing to locate here. The enterprise of Canadian Nashua Paper had provided the council with the vacant factory space for which it had been hoping. Companies, it was said, were avoiding the high cost of new construction, and were looking for just such premises as that which the city owns in the Aylmer-Perry block.

Canadian Sealright Co. has inherited the right of leasing, and are retaining a section of the building. Weeks ago it was reported that C. G. E. was renting storage space at the southwest end of the property, one or two buildings which have been chiefly used for that purpose.

The committee is also recommending approval of the reservation of space at the 1948 Cleveland American and Canadian Sportsmen's show. A cheque for $36, one-quarter of the cost of the space, is being forwarded to Cleveland.

Cash Register President Has Local Ties

The recent appointment of Frank E. Wright as president of the National Cash Register Company of Canada is of special interest in this district in the fact that his mother, the late Mrs, W. E. Wright, was born in Peterborough, and was a sister of the late Eddie Jones of this city, and subsequently of Hastings.

Mrs. Wright was Maude Jones of Peterborough, and through the family relationship the new president is a first cousin of Mr. Ernie and Mr. J. R. Jones, who succeeded their father as proprietor of the Royal Hotel at Hastings.

Mr. Frank Wright's father, the late W. E. Wright of Winnipeg, was for years manager of National Cash Register for western Canada. The son succeeded his father in that position in 1934. He was appointed manager of the Canadian sales division and held that position until Dec. 22, 1947, when he was appointed to the Canadian presidency. His aunt, Mrs. Eddie Jones, is now living in Hamilton, the home also of her daughter, Mrs. Lyle Jex.

Mr. Wright is the first Canadian to be head of the company's large interests in this country.

350 Children Given Lessons In Skiing On Warsaw Road

Peterborough is just about the skiing-est city in Canada and Saturday started with a mass movement of children between the ages of 8 and 16 who went to the bus terminal, 350 strong, well bundled against the cold and clutching bundles of stubby skils and poles. They were taken by a fleet of shuttle buses to Kemp's Hill on the Warsaw Road. Instructors were recruited from the ranks of the Peterborough Ski Club, and they were to be taught how to ski with a minimum of pratfalls and broken equipment. For two hours they contorted themselves up and down the hill and came back to town sore, tired and extremely hnngry. This mass effort for the youngsters is sponsored by the city's Recreation Committee and will continue each Saturday morning for the next six weeks, or as long as conditions permit.

Towed By Plane

On the other extreme were the professionals who swarmed to the large ski hills and the Nassau Jump. And not content with the common ski-hill variety of the sport such as "schuss-ing" the hills and doing their graceful christies and gelandesprungs, Jim King and Uberta Bianco (Ab White) tried the latest in ski-joring, behind a ski plane on Chemong Lake. They quite rightfully coined the phrase "ski-joring," a new popular sport that is being done at St. Jovite, Que., and North Bay. A light sport plane piloted by Dunlop (Tom) Mathias towed the skiiers singly from 150-foot tow lines attached to the wing strut cluster of the aircraft. The plane made a two-mile trial run, took off and flew about thirty feet "off the deck" and attained a speed of 75 miles per hour in passing the Chemong Boat Livery building.

Ab made three successful runs, well clad in heavy clothing and goggles. He said that he expected to have stiff thigh muscles until next summer due to the terrific pulling strain. Jim King was not quite so successful when he broke a ski in a take-off tangle in slushy snow. It is the first time the sport has been accomplished in this part of Ontario.

Back to the ski hills again, it is reported that aside from the juvenile turnout at Kemp's on Saturday morning, there were 100 enthusiasts in the afternoon and the fine Sunday weather brought out 250 people. The snow condition was fast and tricky on the tow slope that was well pounded down by excess traffic.

Out on the Bethany Hills 65 sports took advantage of the long slopes on Saturday and on Sunday there were 250 addicts performing under ideal weather and snow conditions. Pete Donaghue, was the only minor casulty and received lacerations on his face after doing an awkward "sitzmark". Veteran skier Otto Laderach, and 15 others of the Peterborough Ski Club warmed up on cross-country runs on a 15-mile course from Bethany to Cavan and return in preparation for the Ontario zone championships which will be held here on February 7. There were a number of out-of-town guests at Bethany Sunday from Ottawa, Oshawa, Toronto and Cobourg.

Jumpers Are Out

A number of aspiring jumpers performed at the Nassau Hill under the direction of Bob Curry. They too were limbering up for the big February meet and word has got around that the boys are good. Other jumpers are invited to report to the Hill next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. for free instruction. Next Sunday jumpers from the Toronto Ski Club will be guests at Nassau, reported to be the largest and best ski jump between Fort William and Ottawa. Louis Yeotes, local merchant, is donating a cup trophy for the Peterborough Ski Club for competition in jumping.

It is little wonder that the sport is so popular in Peterborough since the city can rightfully lay claim to being Canada's home of the ski. The Peterborough Canoe Co., has been manufacturing them for over 35 years, originally from a Norwegian design. As the sport became more popular and exacting, gradual changes have been made and they have established a uniform design of the shorter and wider Swiss ski for the past 15 years. The famous European professional, Fritz Loosli, was a consultant on their construction during which time he was showing greenhorn Canadians how to use the parralel technique which is standard practice today and suits the Canadian terrain best. The making of skis has been going on at the plant since early last Fall and is now just about over, except for an order to New Zealand that will be shipped to arrive "down under" in time for the start of their winter skiing in May or June.

Three In Race For County's 1948 Wardenship

Reeve Wm. C. Grant of Lakefield is being mentioned for the wardenship of Peterborough county, bracketed with Reeve Wm. Darling of Dummer and Reeve James Humphries of Asphodel.

Reeve Grant is a commuting barrister, living in Lakefield, and practising law from his office on George St., in Peterborough. The arrangement appears to satisfy everybody, and from reports and indications Lakefield is getting good administration from the Grant council.

The last Warden from Lakefield was the late Charles S. Tanner in 1931. Dummer's turn was seven years later, in 1938, with Reeve E. N. MacDonald presiding over one of the best balance council's in Peterborough's municipal history.

Time is no doubt a factor in the circulation of this honor, and in that respect it has been mentioned that Asphodel's wardenship was more recent than the other two. John McColl, recent candidate for the reeveship in a contest with Mr. Humphries, was Warden in 1940.

The only comment the Examiner has heard recently is that friends of Mr. Grant have been urging his claim as a rotary right of stronger basis than the two others. There may be several other municipalities entitled to consideration from that standpoint.

County Council meets Tuesday afternoon for the first sessions of the year.

Apsley Fair Board Reports Surplus

APSLEY, Jan. 19 — (ENS) — Apsley Agricultural Society held the annual meeting in the town hall this week. Rev. C. A. G. Spence presided.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. Staples, gave the report of year's work which showed an increase in membership and a cash balance. The directors would like to see a further increase in the livestock exhibit. The poultry section was particularly weak. The early frost did something to lessen the horticultural exhibit but it was above average. The canned fruit and vegetables might be improved. Baking and dairy exhibits better than previous year. Needlework showed decided improvement.

Date set for 1948 fair is September 2 and 3.

Officers for 1948: Honorary president, Reeve N. Nelson; president, Rev. C. A. G. Spence; 1st vice-president, A. Blakely; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. Lean; sec.-treas., Mrs. W. Staples; directors: Thos. Trotter, N. Bolton, Joseph Tucker, Frank McFadden, Howard Blakely, Mrs. Robt. Scott, Mrs. Jos. Tucker, Mrs. A. Blakely, Mrs. F. McFadden.

At the close of the meeting the officers adjourned to Wilson lodge for a banquet. Rev. Spence read an address and Mrs. Staples presented the service diploma to Mrs. F. McFadden. She thanked the directors and said she always enjoyed working with the board and did it all "just for the fun of it."

Mrs. Jos. Tucker moved a vote of thanks to Rev. C. A. G. Spence for providing the banquet. This was seconded by Mrs. Robt Scott.

Directions

The Potato Cakes are actually potato pancakes containing meat: Grate 3 cups raw potatoes, letting them drop into 1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon cream to prevent browning. Add 1 tablespoon flour and from ½ to 1 cup ground cooked meat, and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix well, and drop by spoonfuls into heavy frying pan containing about ¼-inch hot drippings. Turn once when bottom is golden. These are surprisingly delicious for such an economical dish.

The packaged "Danish Dessert" is a "find" for me. It is a lovely raspberry-red-currant flavour. I think the thickening agent is Irish Moss instead of cornstarch or arrowroot. It is only 11 cents per package. Be sure to ask your grocer for it and try it.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

IN-LAW TROUBLE
Wife's First Consideration Is Husband, Children

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married five years, I have a comfortable home, a husband who is a good provider and two small children. However, I am very unhappy as my husband insists that I be friendly with his family, but he refuses to have anything to do with my family.

Dorothy Dix

I have made up my mind to leave him on this account, take my children go back and live with my mother. Don't you think I would be justified in doing this?

MISERABLE.

ANSWER: Because your husband doesn't like your family and will have nothing to do with them doesn't free you from your marriage vows and give you a right to divorce him and take away from him the children he loves. Nor does it give you the right of doing your children the deadly wrong of depriving them of the love, care and protection of a father whose only fault seems to be that he doesn't admire your people.

Tables May Turn.

If you leave your husband for no better reason than that he doesn't hit it off with your family, you will regret it bitterly. While your people resent your husband's treatment of them and lead you to believe that they will welcome you home with open arms, if you accept their invitation, it will be another story. It won't be long before they will let you know that they consider you and the children a burden. I have seen it happen hundreds of times.

Of course, it is a pity that your husband doesn't try to like your people, because it would make it pleasant all around, but if he won't, perhaps he has a good reason for not doing so. After all, it isn't a vital matter.

My advice to you is to pack your duds and go live somewhere as far away as possible from his family as well as your own family. Cleave to your husband and children. They are your first consideration.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married for several years and I have reason to believe that my husband is unfaithful to me. Do you think that I should let him know that I suspect him? Do you think that a woman can overcome jealousy?

MYRA.

ANSWER: The most valuable quality that a wife can cultivate is convenient blindness. For a wife's happiness depends upon her faith in her husband and the more she shuts her eyes to his faults and the more implicitly she believes in him, the better off she is.

As for telling your husband of your suspicions, that is folly. The jealous woman often precipitates upon herself the thing she dreads, for by continually accusing her husband of philandering, she makes him believe that he is irresistible to the ladies.

Certainly a woman can control her jealousy. Just recognize it as a symptom of an inferiority complex and that the reason you are jealous is because you think yourself less attractive than other women. Just keep saying to yourself that your husband picked you out in the first place for a wife because he preferred you, that you are just as good-looking and charming as any other woman and that you can hold your own with the best of them.

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think I will make a mistake in marrying a man I never have seen? I got his address from a correspondence club. If what he writes is true, I know I could love him. He wants me to meet him in a distant city and marry him. What is your advice?

H.R.

ANSWER: Good gracious, aren't there enough risks in marrying a man you do know without taking any chances on tying up with a perfect stranger whom you never have seen?

Consider you don't know a thing about this man's life, what sort of family he comes from nor whether he can make a living for you or not. He may have another wife, for all you know. He may be diseased. He may have a repulsive personality. There may be a million things to make him undesirable as a husband. Don't be fool enough to buy a pig in a poke.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 20

THE sidereal operations combine for an energetic and vigorous effort on launching ambitious programs, with propositions and projects of concrete promise of success for realistic and workable ideas. Yet, in the meantime, a too-strenuous or aggressive attack might have power to blunt the judgment or add confusion and indecision to well-laid plans, thereby confounding the issue.

Take time for calm consideration; proceed with soundly-organized tactics, then move ahead with courage and vim for progress, probably in new fields or fresh endeavors.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of real progress and advantages for the launching of plans of major importance. While the energies, ideas and planned programs are based on realistic and workable foundations for development, yet there are as well indications of mental confusions, involvements, indecision, scattered forces or wavering. Time out for proper preparedness, studied techniques, fresh ways and means of doing a big job, might prevent this dissipation of forces, assets and other vital factors. Real progress is in sight for practical plans.

A child born on this day will be energetic, constructive, skillful and forceful, but also may be inclined to confused ideas, indecision, lack of continuity.

Canada to See London-Styled Spring Attire

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (CP). — The spring collection of dresses designed by couturier Arthur Banks will shortly be shown in Toronto and Montreal, and possibly in London, Ont., it was announced at the collection's unveiling here.

Three new British materials will be included in the display—a haircord Worcester, carried out in such combinations yellow and black; a nylon taffeta and a crackle nylon.

The crackle nylon is self-patterned with the pattern shrunk into the cloth, giving it almost a quilted effect.

Points in designing are the midcalf length for day wear, with a few calf-length evening dresses which, combined with coatees, may be worn as dinner and cocktail dresses also. These are mostly in satin-backed bengaline and slipper-satin. Both sides of the bengaline are used for effect, the shoulder, neckline or waist often accentuated by a contrasting color, usually in petersham.

Favors Straighter Lines

Banks is using front gathering and draping, slight hip accentuation, using only the straighter lines.

The haircord Worcester is shown in a severely-cut suit with a long-backed adaptation of the tail-coat packet and contrasting colored skkict.

With the pegtop skirts, Banks uses long, classically-cut jackets with or without slight hip accentuation, the hip effect generally carried out in the fluting or draping of the pockets.

For the fuller-skirted suits he uses the nipped waist line and flare side design for hip effect.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I would like to know how to make homemade pea soup using the end of a smoked ham bone. I would like to know if I could put a few lentils in pea soup too. I was thinking that I would use this soup for a main dish because in some of the Government pamphlets it says peas are very high in protein.

Young Homemaker.

ANSWER: I welcome this request because Split Pea Soup is certainly a nourishing winter dish.

Homemade Split Pea Soup

Soak one-half pound washed and picked over split peas, in 1 quart water overnight. In the morning add 1 quart hot water, about a 1 lb. piece smoked ham (raw or cooked—a ham hock is good if you have no leftover ham), 2 stalks celery cut fine, 1 onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and cook over very low heat about 2 hours or until peas are so soft they are mushy. This is very good cooked in fireless cooker. Taste for salt—you will probably need more if the ham is not very salty. This may be pureed of course, but this step is not necessary. To serve spoon soup into large bowls and add bits of the ham to each bowl. Half lentils and peas or beans may be used in place of all peas. To give this soup variety one cubed potato, 1 cup cubed carrot may be added during last ½ hour of cooking.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I have been wanting a good recipe for codfish cakes and have been watching for it for months, but decided I had better write to you. I think other readers would like this too, because it is not costly.

Redhead.

Codfish Cakes

(The success of this dish lies in the sufficient soaking of the codfish—if excess salt is left in it the dish is spoiled.)

Soak 2 cups shredded salt cod in cold water until all of the objectionable salt flavour is soaked out—(this may be done in about 1 hour if the water is changed frequently.) To this add 6 medium-sized potatoes which have been peeled, boiled and mashed. Add 2 beaten eggs, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and ½ cup cream or top milk or evaporated milk. Beat all until fluffy. Drop from spoon into deep, hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. and fry until brown,—about 10 minutes. Drain on unglazed paper. This mixture may be baked also as a loaf in a greased baking dish, brown in moderate oven at 350 deg. Fahr. Or it may be fried in a pan with very little fat.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: We like beets and parsnips but I am afraid we will get tired of them before this winter is over. Would you give me a "different" way to serve both of these vegetables?

Mary Kaskas.

ANSWER: Dutch Beets: Heat diced boiled beets in a sauce made by boiling together for 1 minute 1 cup water, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, and salt and pepper to taste.

Beet Salad: To 1 cup diced cold beets add ½ cup diced celery, 1 diced hard cooked egg, 1 teaspoon chopped onion or chives, about 1-3 cup genuine mayonnaise.

Parsnip Puffs

Five parsnips cooked until tender, 3 tablespoons milk, 2 tablespoons melted fat, 1 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons water, ½ cup dry bread or cracker crumbs. Mash parsnips and add milk, fat, salt, pepper. Add 1 beaten egg, beat very well and set aside to cool. Shape into small balls. Roll in crumbs, then in the other beaten egg diluted with the water, and again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 350 deg. Fahr. Drain on unglazed paper.

Canada's Import Ban Saves Good Amount of US Dollars

OTTAWA, Jan. 19—(CP).—External trade officials say the first returns on the results of Canada's import restrictions, due in about a fortnight, will show they are affecting a sizeable saving in United States dollars. While the figures have not yet been totalled up, one official engaged in their compilation says they will show "quite a big reduction" in the amount of imports coming into Canada since Finance Minister Abbott clamped down bans and restrictions in an effort to hoard the Dominion's dwindling stocks of U.S. currency.

The first significant totals will cover December foreign purchases. The restrictions became effective in mid-November, but the figures for that month don't show any important variations, largely because a great volume of goods affected had been contracted for before the bans took force. Much of this amount was allowed to enter.

BWI Trade

Trade relations between Canada, the British West Indies and British Guiana will be discussed informally on the arrival in Ottawa Tuesday of representatives from Guiana, Trinidad and Jamaica.

Although the supply of flour to British colonies in the Caribbean is a subject of special concern, it is expected that the visiting delegation will explore other commercial avenues.

During the war Britain undertook to procure flour for the Caribbean colonies then unable to make their own arrangements and that practice is being continued. But the British West Indies and other colonies preferred to procure their own flour.

As a result they now are paying a higher price for flour than Britain obtains it under the long-term Anglo-Canadian wheat contract. The delegation is expected to attempt to purchase flour at a cheaper price for the colonies not obtaining it through Britain.

In the first 10 months of this years Canada sold 1,145,747 barrels of flour for $14,578,605 to Bermuda, British Guiana, British Honduras, Barbardos, Jamaica, Trinidad, Bahamas, and the Leeward and Windward Islands.

UAW Prefers Price Drop To Higher Wages

BRANTFORD, Jan. 19 (CP).—Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers (CIO) told a union meeting yesterday that the UAW would have preferred a roll-back of prices to a campaign for higher wages.

He addressed 85 delegates who claimed to represent 100,000 agricultural implement workers in Canada and the United States at the conclusion of a two-day conference during which a farm equipment department of the U AW was set up. Harry Kitzman of Racine, Wis., will be director of the department with Harvey Barber of Brantford as assistant director in charge of the Canadian section.

Earlier the delegates were told the union this year will seek a wage increase of 30 cents an hour —25 cents across the board plus 5 cents an hour toward the cost of social security, including medical care.

Mr. Reuther said that, lacking any assurance that prices would drop appreciably, the union had no alternative but to go out for higher wages.

"The brutal, naked economic facts in the United States and Canada are nothing to encourage people. We are drifting toward economic disaster, the tendency toward inflation is increasing every day and the resulting economic dislocation could be tragic.

"We are skating on such thin ice that it would take a micrometer to measure it. Our job is to fight this trend toward political confusion and chaos in the world which could easily allow the germ of another world war to thrive."

Plane Argument Ends

LONDON, Jan. 19—(Reuters)—A long-standing controversy over the merits of the Tudor I aircraft appeared near an end yesterday with publication of a report by a government-appointed committee announcing that this type of passenger plane will be regularly operated by British Overseas Airways Corporation, if final trials during the next few weeks are successful.

KITTY RESCUED — A stroll in the dark almost proved fatal for this unlucky kitty, when its paw became entangled in the cable-drum of an elevator in New York. Its agonized yowling brought help from a police emergency squad and ASPCA agents, who donned heavy gloves to handle the trapped cat crouched in fear of the approaching rescuers.

3 Killed In Wreck

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 19—(AP)—Three trainmen were believed killed nesterday in the blazing wreckage of two Grand Trunk freight trains which collided three miles west of here.

Confer Degree

MARMORA, Jan. 19—(ENS)—Officers of Marmora LOL 319 assisted by officers of Wellman's Corners LOL conferred the Royal Arch degree on five candidates at the regular meeting of LOL 319 held on Thursday evening. Visiting brethren were also in attendance from Springbrook and Nickle lodges.

Termed 'Ridiculous'

LONDON, Jan. 19—(Reuters) —A member of the royal family, who requested that her name be withheld, laughed and said "ridiculous" when asked Saturday whether it was true—as reported in Saturday's Daily Mirror—that "Princess Elizabeth is telling her intimate friends that she hopes to have a baby before the end of this year."

Eire Holding Jewels Pawned By Russians

DUBLIN, Jan. 19 — (AP). — Eire is holding some Russian jewels pawned 29 years ago.

Prime Minister Eamon de Valera said yesterday Russian Government emissaries arranged a loan in 1919 with Irish Republican representatives in United States, giving the gems as collateral.

"The loan was made, but to my knowledge never repaid," De Valera told a meeting. "The jewelry is in government control awaiting possible redemption. No effort was ever made to realize on the articles or to get an expert estimate of their value."

De Valera did not give the amount of the loan.

Say U.S. Imports Continue Drop

By The Canadian Press

Along with reductions in imports from the United States which will result from present restrictions, there are indications that these imports will be subject to a normal lowering from the high figures of 1946-47.

The current monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia takes this view when it states:

"The great demand for United States goods is the combined result of high production and income and of the accumulation of requirements deferred during the war and the depressed period before the war . . . it should not be assumed that the recent level of these demands is typical of what may be expected in future. There has undoubtedly been a substantial amount of inventory replenishment, accentuated to some extent by anticipation of the very restrictions which are now in effect. Purchases for inventory could not have continued for long at present rates . . .

"Moreover, there are growing indications that Canada will soon be able to obtain more goods from Britain and other countries . . ."

Imports from the United States amounted to $1,905,000,000 in the 12 months ending Sept. 30, 1947, compared with $1,405,000,000 in 1946, $497,000,000 in 1939 and $894,000,000 in 1929, the most active peacetime year. Allowing for price increases, this means that volume is about twice that of 1939 and 35 to 40 per cent greater than 1929.

British Skeptical "Reds" Responsible

NANKING, Jan. 19.—(AP) — An informed source said today British Embassy officials are highly skeptical of Chinese suggestions that the burning of the British consulate at Canton was inspired by Communists.

"The big question which remains," he said, 'is who is at the bottom of this agitation. The government is saying the Communists are. I personally find this hard to swallow."

Suggest Site For Power Plant

TORONTO, Jan. 19 — (CP).— One of the power sites suggested for joint development on the Ontario-Manitoba boundary is that at Boundary Falls at the junction of the English and Winnipeg Rivers, it was said last night by an Ontario Hydro official.

Premier Drew of Ontario and Premier Garson of Manitoba on Saturday conferred here on proposals for joint development of one of several power sites near the Ontario-Manitoba border. An official statement said the meeting was in the nature of a preliminary conference and decision on which of the sites shall be developed is to be made at a conference of Ontario and Manitoba Hydro engineers to be held shortly.

Dr. Otto Holden, assistant general manager of the Ontario Hydro Engineering Department, said last night that the Boundary Falls site is one of those suggested for development. It lies close to the inter-provincial boundary on the Ontario side.

ALL MISUNDERSTAND

DON'T get too upset when you and your partner have a misunderstanding. All partnerships have them upon occasion, especially during the auction. The important thing is to prevent the misunderstanding from damaging the work of your pair on the next or succeeding deals. In fact, it ought to improve your pair by eliminating the likelihood of that particular kind of misunderstanding if a similar situation presents itself again. That is the way such an incident affects the world's best players.

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South

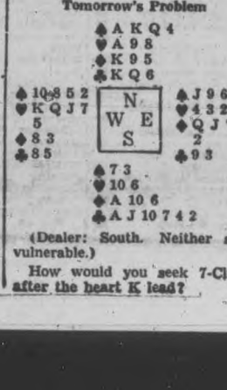
Pass	2♥	3♦	4♥
Dbl

Everybody has heard of Oswald Jacoby, who sat West on this deal, and Theodore A. Lightner, who was in the East. Most bridge students also know the name of John R. Crawford, of Philadelphia, one of the most brilliant of the younger championship crop, who was in the South and became the beneficiary of the misunderstanding between his veteran opponents.



Mr. Jacoby thought Lightner's redouble showed something a bit above an average hand in general high card strength, carrying the extra implication of most such redoubles that if either opponent then made a bid both members of the redoubler's side "would take a whack at him"—meaning that, if the first one could not double it he would pass to see if his partner wanted to, and if the partner did not want to, he would bid.

Where the misunderstanding came in was that Mr. Lightner thought his bid of 3-Diamonds over 2-Hearts, instead of doubling or passing, should have shown his partner that he had only the "fitting" type of redouble without much strength on the side. But Mr. Jacoby did not so understand it when he doubled the 4-Hearts.

After the heart 2 lead, Mr. Crawford made his doubled game plus an extra trick. Playing West for both missing spade honors, he lost only two tricks in clubs to score a whale of a top score for his pair and team.

Can't Back Third Party Picton Man Resigns

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19.—(AP). —A. F Whitney resigned from the Progressive Citizens of America today because "I cannot go along in its endorsement of a third party."

Whitney, native of Picton, Ont., and president of the powerful Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, has been a member of P.C.A.'s board of directors, and sat on the stage when Henry A. Wallace, P.C.A.'s presidential candidate, recently spoke here.

In a resignation letter to C. B. Baldwin, executive vice-chairman of PCA, Whitney wrote:

"Idealism must often be tempered with enough realism to keep lofty goals from being forever out of reach.... that is why I cannot go along with PCA in its endorsement of a third party for the elections of 1948."

Asks More Immigrants

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—(CP) — Calling for admission of 100,000 of Europe's displaced persons to Canada David Croll, Liberal Member of Parliament for Toronto Spadina, yesterday urged that immigration regulations be amended so that the "white collar" and professional classes could enter Canada as easily as tradesmen and laborers.

Downtown Areas Depopulated Then Blighted

Describing modern cities as "figuratively exploding," as the population abandoned downtown locations for homes in suburban areas, Mr. Frank Lyons, Transportation Division, C.G.E., Toronto, advocated public transit systems as the only way to accommodate a large population "within a reasonable area." His address "Urban Transit," was given to the Y's Men's Club.

In a fact-packed survey of transportation today in North America, Mr. Ryan pointed out that every day on this continent 70,000,000 people go for a ride; of that number, half ride in 100,000 public transit vehicles, and the other half in 30,000,000 private autos. Statistics, he said, showed that the first method was 17 times as safe as the second.

He mentioned that the popular trek to the suburbs meant that a reduced city-population had to bear an extra heavy burden of taxation to maintain the city services; and this in turn caused the general exodus to be accelerated.

His explanation for this was that "the area of cities is determined by the distance that can be travelled in a reasonable time between home and work."

Blames Automobile

Then he showed how the evolution in transportation methods has changed the structures of cities. In the olden days the pedestrian or horseback rider would live about two-and-a-half miles from work; the introduction of the cable car and street car enlarged that radius to about five miles; and the automobile has boosted it to 15-20 miles.

It was estimated that the auto allowed the area of the urban centre to sprawl out to 10 times its previous size. At the same time there has not been a proportionate increase in population; in fact, he said, it showed signs of falling off.

Thus in his opinion the auto depopulated the downtown regions, leaving what he described as "blighted areas." And superhighways from outside had to be channneled into the cities.

"There is no room for the largest city's population within a reasonable area," he said, "but everybody cannot ride in autos. He said a careful check had revealed that the averags auto in the United States and Canada carried a load of only one-and-three-quarter persons. It has been estimated that every person moving by auto uses 500 square feet of street, and uses 140 square feet to park.

He said there was not enough street area or parking space to spare; and the situation could only be remedied through public transit. A person travelling in this manner uses 70 square feet, as compared with the 500, for the private cad driver.

The modern city is a complicated and involved organization," he said. Just as a factory in order to operate smoothly and efficiently must be planned and arranged so that all its parts operate harmoniously, so a city, to serve its inhabitants well must have its various activities integrated."

An efficient system of transportation was advocated "so that the required ciriculation of materials and people may take place without waste of effort and time. Otherwise the city, like a poorly planned factory, will be inefficient in performing the functions for which it exists."

President Ken Jackson presented Eric Vincent, who is leaving for Chicago in the near future, with a gift from fellow members.

Won't Insist Two Writers Go In Chains

TORONTO, Jan. 19 — Law officers of Alberta will not insist that Jack Cooke, publisher of New Liberty magazine, and Harold Dingman, Ottawa writer, be taken in chains to that province.

This information was vouched for last night by John R. Cartwright, Toronto lawyer, who has been acting for the Attorney-General of Alberta.

"There will be no difficulty about the transfer if these two men agree to go to Edmonton under their own steam and I understand that they have," said Mr. Cartwright.

Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow of Osgoode Hall Saturday had dismissed a motion of quash the five Alberta warrants which charge Jack Kent Cooke, publisher of New Liberty magazine and Harold Dingman, its Ottawa correspondent, with conspiracy to publish a defamatory libel.

The warrants arose from an article by Mr. Dingman in the magazine entitled "Babies For Export," dealing with child welfare practices in Alberta.

Mr. Cartwright was referring to the statement by Mr. Cooke that he hoped neither he nor Mr. Dingman would be handcuffed to RCMP officers for the trip to Edmonton.

Buckhorn WI Holds Health Discussion

BUCKHORN, Jan. 19 (ENS)—The Buckhorn Women's Institute held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Shearer with the president, Mrs. W. Shearer presiding and 15 members and one visitor present. The roll-call was "Suggestion as to what the Women's Institute could do to better child welfare." A variety of answers were given as: Dental inspection and hot lunches in the schools, a place established where supervised recreational activities for children could be carried on, children be encouraged to have a hobby, and that Boy Scout and Girl Guide organizations be formed.

The making of articles for the bazaar was discussed and it was decided that each member be responsible for three articles. Mrs. W. H. Pearson and Mrs. McKenty offered to be responsible for the packing and mailing of Christmas cards given by members to the poor children in the West Indies.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Ed. Pearson, convener for Health and Child Welfare. Mr. K. Stewart was the guest speaker. He pointed out that since man's stay on earth is for only a few years, it is well to make that time a healthy one. He told how St. Augustine searched for the land of eternal youth, and how in recent times a Russian scientist developed a serum which he hoped would make people live to be 150 years old. Stressing that the body is the most fonderful machine in the world, Mr. Stewart referred to the Indians of the early days who kept their bodies healthy and strong by their outdoor life and their plain food. He advised his listeners to prevent ill-health by paying careful attention to the food eaten and to have regular check-ups by a doctor. He referred to the research work that is done on many diseases and the many organizations that come to the rescue of those who are physically and mentally in need. The government's effort to prevent trouble by food and drug control and the establishment of many clinics, concluded a splendid address.

Mrs. A. Bennett read Princess Elizabeth's letter of appreciation to Mr. Mackenzie King for the wedding presents Canada sent to her.

Babies' Clinic, School Nurse Started By Red Cross In '47

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 17 (ENS)—Mrs. W. W. Leonard was again chosen president of the Red Cross Society at the eighth annual meeting held at the Curry home recently.

In welcoming the guests, Mrs. Leonard stated the annual meeting was a time of stock-taking—looking over achievements and making plans for the future. The president said the Red Cross is faced with a challenge. Canada has many peplexing problems to solve, but is still a highly favored continent, and we must unite to do all we can to help the people of Britain and the other European countries at this time when they are facing hunger and civil war.

The Red Cross expects to have the new blood transfusion clinic in operation before the end of '48.

Miss Irene Madill, secretary, gave a most complete annual report. Two major projects had been started, the Well Babies' Clinic and the establishing of a school nurse, both under the supervision and at the suggestion of Dr. Hugh Gastle, M.O.H. The Red Cross had also assisted the local council with the swimming project, providing nurses and supervisors. Five out of nine passed their senior tests, 24 out of 25 their intermediate and 26 out of 26 their junior, and the assistant lifeguards had obtained their bronze medals, which the supervisor, Miss Mary Northey, presented at Christmas. A first aid box was presented to the Sea Scouts during the year. Surplus nursing supplies had been sent to the Red Cross hospital at Apsley.

Mrs. Archie Stewart gave the treasurer's report which showed a balance of $1,092.

Mrs. N. S. Higgins and Mrs. Sherman Northey gave a report for the Beaver Club. Mrs. Fred Lawrence, work convener, gave her report, and Mrs. W. Gillman reported for the knitting.

Nurse Reports.

Mrs. Wallace Hendren, school nurse, reported 264 heads had been examined and 26 letters sent out. Eyes of 222 pupils had been tested and 26 found defective. Ninety-one cards had been sent out for diphtheria inoculation.

Mrs. J. Delledonne's report for the Well Babies' Clinic showed 44 babies had received a check-up, samples of cod liver oil, and baby books and diaries. Mrs. Leonard paid high tribute to Mrs. Delledonne who has been spending several hours of each day caring for a veteran's wife who is ill, and considers it Red Cross work along with the Baby Clinic.

Praise From Reeve.

Reeve W. C. Grant extended to the Red Cross the apppreciation of the people of Lakefield for their fine work, and expressed the wish that the organization study the new health schemes so it would be able to assume the leadership of new health projects.

Mrs. G. K. Fraser said she was delighted to see how well the Lakefield Red Cross carried on its peacetime plan, so they would not be caught unprepared. Learning to work together for others was the most important thing.

Mrs. Roy Jackman sang two Scottish songs, accompanied by Mrs. Wilfred Lee.

J. McKerchar gave an address on "Places and Things in Scotland as I Saw Them," telling of Perth, Dundee, and Edinburgh.

Mrs. G. Robinson made a motion that $125 be donated to the Legion for purchasing chairs for veterans, Mrs. Leonard, Miss Madill and Mrs. Gillman to purchase same.

Mrs. J. Ridpath presided for the election of officers as follows: Hon. presidents, Mrs. H. Ketchum, Mrs. Grace Stuart; past president, Mrs. J. Ridpath; president, Mrs. W. Leonard; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. H. Wilford; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. N. S. Higgins; secretary, Mrs. Bob McCraken; treasurer, Mrs. R. Bailey, J. McKerchar and Arthur Morris of Young's Point; auditors, J. McKerchar, Frank Payne.; representative from Home and School, Mrs. Wilford; representative from Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. C. Foster; representative Women's Institute, Mrs. F. Dixon.

In reviewing the slate of officers, Mrs. Leonard mentioned that the new secretary, Mrs. Bob McCracken, had been a nursing sister during the war and been awarded the Royal Red Cross medal for saving a mother and a new baby at Newfoundalnd.

Refreshments were then served by the refreshments committee, Mrs. F. L. Erskine, Mrs. H. Ketchum, Mrs. J. Brown and Mrs. Sabatino.

Your Baby and You

by Ruth Parsons

To guard baby's health, everything used in fixing his formula should be kept absolutely germ-free. This may seem quite a task, and it is if you go about it in bits and pieces. The easiest way is to do all sterilizing at one time. Once a day, after scrubbing with lots of suds and rinsing with lots of water, boil everything together . . . except nipples . . . in a big open pan with a cloth in the bottom. Water should cover all utensils while they boil for five minutes. Remove everything with tweezers and set on a clean towel to dry without wiping. Boil nipples separately in salted water so they won't get soft. Then lift out into dry, sterile jar. Cover and store in a dark place until time to use.

Russia Develops Rocket Bombs

TIMMINS, Jan. 19 (CP)—A 37-year-old Ukrainian mechanical engineer, who asked that his name be not used for fear of reprisal, even here, said yesterday that Russia now has the world's most powerful rocket missiles.

One of 37 displaced persons who arrived here for work in gold mines of the Porcupine area, Ukrainian engineer, a graduate of Odessa University, said the missiles had been developed by captured German scientists at secret research stations behind the Ural mountain and have been tested for destructiveness in Northern Siberian outposts.

He knew of the rocket experiments because he had been forced to work on them in Siberia, he said. The missiles V-3 and V-4 are vastly more powerful than the V-2s dropped on Britain during the war. He said Russia may have the atomic bomb, but was not sure.

Hit 'Treasure' Digging Hope It's Pirate Gold

GREEN COVE SPRINGS, Fla., Jan. 20—(AP). — Eighty-year-old G. F. Mobley and his financial backer, Dr. H. H. Humphries, hoped today workmen will unearth a $4,000,000 pirate cache which Mobley believed is buried here. Several chunks of yellow metal brought to the surface yesterday by the huge shovel being used in the excavation on the edge of a downtown street caused considerable excitement. The pieces looked like bits of gold but opinion was divided.

Contractor J. T. Conway, handling the digging for Mobley, said "It's metal and it was 30 feet down." He thinks it's gold.

One jeweller who looked it over wasn't so sure, however. He thought it might be iron pyrite, known as "fool's gold."

Later, workmen dug for several hours last night but encountered difficulty from wet sand sliding in the hole and operations were called off at 11 p.m. Conway said the digging would be resumed today.

The bits of metal which caused the excitement were found by an unidentified sailor who picked them out of clay dug up by the large shovel. Turning to Police Chief Ed Leuders, said:

"Maybe this is what they're looking for."

As the word spread, a large crowd gathered and police erected a fence to keep spectators from the hole.

The elderly Mobley has insisted for 18 years there is gold on the spot. He previously tried digging for it but ran out of money.

Barbara Wins Beauty Award

DAVOS, Switzerland, Jan. 20—(CP). — Mail from Canada addressed simply "Miss Belvedere, Davos," should reach Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott without much difficulty— and if the Canadian Ice Queen remains in this town much longer the title may be simplified to just "Miss Davos."

The slender, fair-haired European and world figure-skating champion won the "Miss Belvedere" honor in a fashion parade at the hotel of that name, where she is staying before moving to St. Moritz for the Olympics. She won it from visiting belles from other parts of North America and Europe.

The parade was organized by Marcel Rochas of Paris, one of the world's top five fashion designers and presumably a fellow with a keen eye for feminine beauty. He is staying at the same hotel and figured it would be an interesting idea to see how the lovely Ottawa girl stacked up against the good-lookers from other countries.

The contest took place early this month while Miss Scott was here training for defence of her European crown at Prague. Rochas can't be reached for comment now and Barbara Ann is a trifle shy in talking about it, but she won the beauty award.

The decision is upheld by the flock of camera men who follow Miss Scott wherever she goes. She has been the centre of attraction ever since her arrival in Europe in mid-December and Rochas' choice suggests it is not just because she is a nifty skater.

Crude Bomb Explodes At Gandhi Meeting

NEW DELHI, Jan. 20 — A crude bomb exploded 15 yards from Mohandas K. Gandhi, Hindu spiritual leader as he addressed his prayer meeting tonight. No one was injured. Gandhi continued his speech. Afterwards the police arrested a well-dressed young man reported to be in possession of another crude bomb. He was believed to be one of four who arrived in a jeep. The other three sped away in the jeep as the explosion occurred.

The young man identified himself as a Hindu refugee from the West Punjab.

Police said there was no evidence of an attempt upon the life of Gandhi.

However, the authorities said they would question the young Hindu. Police said an army-type grenade was found in the man's pocket but that he had made no attempt to use it.

Name Howe To Head Trade Dept.

Gregg, MacKinnon Get New Positions, Mackenzie Senator

By JOHN LEBLANC.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20 — (CP). — A broad re-alignment of Cabinet duties was in progress to-day, but the paramount question of Canadian politics—the future of Prime Minister Mackenzie King—was still unanswered.

Mr. King avoided any commitment on his plans last night as he announced a three-way shift in the Cabinet line-up that sent Veteran Minister Mackenzie to the Senate and brought new holders to the Veterans, Fisheries, and Trade portfolios.

"It isn't for me to say what my future will be; that is in the hands of the Liberal Party," he told a press conference on the eve of an address—forecast as his retirement speech—to-night to the Advisory Council of the National Liberal Federation.

Cabinet Changes.

Brought about by the wishes of Mr. Mackenzie and Trade Minister MacKinnon for less heavy duties, the new Cabinet changes are as follows:

1. Mr. Mackenzie goes to the Senate as a British Columbia representative, replacing the late Hon. G. G. McGeer.

2. Milton F. Gregg, VC, who left University of New Brunswick presidency last fall to become Fisheries Minister, takes over the Veterans post.

3. Mr. MacKinnon becomes Minister of Fisheries, a post which Mr. King indicated he would hold temporarily until the appointment of a British Columbia minister to replace Mr. Mackenzie in the Cabinet.

4. Reconstruction Minister Howe, whose war-born department is in process of liquidation, takes over trade and commerce, retaining his own ministry as long as it survives. In trade and commerce, he will have more machinery for carrying out his role in Canada's dollar-conservation program.

Department Abolished

Mr. King also announced the extinction of the Department of National War Services as of yesterday. Revenue Minister McCann, who held that portfolio, resigned it but retained the revenue post.

Mr. King said there would be "some further changes in departmental work" announced later, but he did not indicate what they might be. One of these, it was understood, would be the expected elevation of Mr. MacKinnon to the Senate, making way for a British Columbia minister.

The Prime Minister had no information on when by-elections would be called to fill the three Commons vacancies, in Yale, Vancouver centre, and Ontario. The Vancouver seat, he said, had become vacant only an hour before the press conference — by Mr. MacKenzie's Senate appointment — and the others were under consideration.

In another announcement, Mr. King said Mr. MacKinnon would act as trade minister when Mr. Howe was not at his desk.

Morality Squad Predicts Winnipeg Gambling Boom

By ARCH MACKENZIE

WINNIPEG, Jan. 20.—(CP).—A high official of the Winnipeg police department today predicted increased activity, possibly to "boom" proportions on the part of bookies and those 'gentlemen" who spend their evening rattling the 'bones" and shuffling the pasteboards professionally.

A veteran police officer, he expressed the belief that a criminal code amendment allowing fines instead of jail terms for persons convicted a third time on gambling or betting charges would act as a potential incentive for renewed efforts by gamblers and bookies.

"Those fellows don't care a rap for fines. Jail terms used to scare them off but they don't worry about fines since they don't actually pay them . . . their suckers do."

Winnipeg's morality squad, 13 men and one woman, hit hard last year at an influx of gambling house operators, said from Eastern Canada where tightening controls had sent them west.

"We've got them in hand," said the official who added that many of the invaders were Chinese lottery men. Morality squad records showed 20 more gambling house operators were charged last year than in 1946 when charges totalled 81.

"The official said most of the bookie spots have been driven into Winnipeg's outlying districts where they operate by phone with their locations passed by word of mouth to bettors.

Dice and card games have not been allowed to settle at any fixed point but those in existence were believed to circulate about a chain of 20 to 30 houses, some outside Winnipeg. In such cases, city police usually left control to RCMP.

Have Narrow Escape

TORONTO, Jan. 20—(CP). —A barrier of flames early today blocked a frantic mother's efforts to reach her two children when fire trapped them in the living room of their suburban Scarboro home. The children, Gordon Lumley, three, and Howard, two, were rescued by two men attracted by Mrs. Gordon Lumley's screams. They broke through a window to reach the terrified tots who had buried their heads in a chesterfield.

Rap Brakeman For Actions In CNR Wreck

LA TUQUE, Que., Jan. 20 — (CP).—A coroner's jury, investigating last Wednesday's track wreck at Wykes, Que., which claimed nine lives, last night absolved the Canadian National Railways and its operating personnel of criminal negligence but criticized Brakeman E. G. Rousseau for "lack of foresight."

The jury also recommended that the Canadian National Railways operate its express trains ahead of the locals on the transcontinental line which crosses Quebec's bleak northern country.

Rousseau was brakeman of train 11, a local which was stalled in a curve when train 21, an express, ploughed into the rear of the local, killing nine and injuring 55.

In his testimony Rousseau said that he was in the last coach of the local when he heard the whistle of the express train. He said he ran for 10 or 12 minutes and waived a red flag but that the engineer of the express did not see it.

Ice Handicap

Rousseau said that the ice prevented him from placing a torpedo on the track to warn the incoming train.

The jury stated in its verdict that Rousseau had shown a "lack of foresight" in not making use of the full 16 minutes between the time the local stopped on account of a locomotive breakdown and the time the express rammed into it.

"He could have walked much farther in 16 minutes to give warning to the express train," the verdict said.

The jury returned the verdict after listening to nearly 2½ hours of testimony from eye-witnesses who were present when the frost stalled local was struck in the rear by the express bound for Cochrane.

Six-Hour Rioting Over Iraqi Pact

BAGHDAD, Jan. 20 — (AP).—Eight persons were killed to-day in six hours of rioting started by youthful foes of the new British-Iraqi alliance.

Policemen with armored cars and machine-guns finally restored order around noon. The Iraqi Army also was placed on the alert.

Hundreds were arrested About 40 policemen and 100 civilians were injured. The dead were two policemen, two inspectors, and four civilians.

Gunfire was exchanged heavily in the main centres of Baghdad, and considerable property damage resulted. Official sources asserted that "subversive hands" exploited feeling against the treaty, signed last week, to foment the disturbances. The Council of Ministers had the situation under study.

More than 6,000 youths were among the demonstrators.

Await King Speech

OTTAWA, Jan. 20—(CP)—As delegates awaited an important speech tonight by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, rumors circulated about the annual meeting of the National Liberal Federation about the possibility of a "snap" general election this fall. Still holding the edge in the speculation, however, is Mr. King's address to the annual banquet, in which he may disclose his plans for retirement and designate his personal choice as successor.

U.N. Council Votes 9-0 For Probe

Canada Backs Plan Expressing Hope Disagreement Solved

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 20 (AP) —The United Nations Security Council voted 9 to 0 to-day to establish a three-power "Good Offices" Committee to mediate disputes between India and Pakistan. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstained.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko of Russia voiced satisfaction with an expressed willingness of India and Pakistan to try to settle their differences by peaceful means but disagreed with the method of setting up the mediation agency.

The proposal was submitted by Fernand Van Langenhove, current Council President, who had spent last week-end and yesterday conferring with representatives of the two quarrelling Dominions.

He said both Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan had agreed to the proposed resolution.

Three Members.

The "Good Offices" Committee would be made up of three members, one to be selected by India, one by Pakistan and the third by the two so selected.

Canada threw its weight behind the proposal, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the Dominion's representative on the Council, saying he was "very happy" to support it and expressing the hope that the week-end negotiations which resulted in the resolution would prove a good sign for future improvement in relations between India and Pakistan.

Last summer the Council set up a Good Offices Committee to bring about a settlement of the Dutch-Indonesian fighting in the East Indies. This committee obtained signatures to a truce last week and will report soon to the Council.

The Kashmir dispute arose here when India charged Pakistan with helping Pathan Moslem tribal invaders who crossed the Kashmir border last October and still are in Kashmir State. Pakistan retorted with a charge that Hindu India was committing acts of aggression against her and a demand that the UN appoint a commission or commissions to investigate Moslem charges of mass murder in India.

Highway Crews Work To Clear Drifted Roads

TORONTO, Jan. 20—(CP). — Highway crews worked throughout the night clearing Ontario roads plugged with blizzard-driven snow and driving conditions are "pretty good" today throughout the province. The area immediately south of Georgian Bay, however, is "heavy," the Highways Department said.

Mild weather which last night combined with drifting snow to plug Western Ontario roads continued today in southern parts of the province, with temperatures ranging from 10 to 32 above. Weather forecasters said there was a possibility of thawing in the south and predicted light snow and winds up to 25 miles an hour for the province generally.

Russians Speak Sharply To Allied Group

BERLIN, Jan. 20—(AP)—Russia formally demanded today the dissolution of the Anglo-United States agreement for joint economic administration of their zones of Germany, asserting the arrangement violated the Postdam agreement.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the United States military governor, is understood to have taken the floor immediately afterward and replied to the Russian charges.

No details of Sokolovsky's statement or the other business of the council were made available immediately.

The council meeting, the first since the breakup of the session of the four-power Foreign Ministers' Council in London, ended at 6.10 p.m. The meeting was closed to reporters.

Gen. Clay and his political advisor, Robert Murphy, represented the United States. Clay planned to leave for Washington tonight to confer with officials of the army and state departments about Marshall plan funds for Germany.

A high American official said the Russians charged the Anglo-American Bizonia merger was a violation of the Potsdam agreement and laws of the Allied Control Council. The Russians declared it should be dissolved.

This, in effect, would be a rejection of the standing offer to Russia to join her zone to the territory.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Lt.-Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the American and British commanders, respectively, will inform Sokolovsky of the bizonal setup and invite the Russians to join.

Some observers believe the Russians may reply by creating a "central" German occupation administration of their own and claim that it represents all Germany as the only true government.

No responsible official, however, expects the Russians to take any action which could be construed as bringing about an irreparable break between the east and the west.

House Of Commons Votes To Grant Elizabeth $200,000 Salary Year

Bevan To Explain Stiffening Attitude Toward Russian Moves; Expect Two Days' Debate On Foreign Affairs

LONDON, Jan. 20—(CP).—The House of Commons voted today to grant Princess Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, £50,000 ($200,000) a year. The vote was 294 to 17. It came after a debate of less than two hours, in which a revolt by a handful of Labor members was put down. The action was taken on the decisive second reading of the Government-sponsored measure.

Earlier Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, spoke briefly, expressing hope that the bill would go through.

Sir Stafford said the bill only put into legal form the resolutions already accepted by the Commons. It provided an annuity of £25,000 ($100,000) in addition to the existing payment of £15,000 ($60,000) for Princess Elizabeth and £10,000 ($40,000) for the Duke of Edinburgh.

Opposition came at once from Labor member Ronald Chamberlain, who said that the undoubted enthusiasm at the royal wedding did not mean approval of certain outworn aspects of the court system.

Views Distorted

Chamberlain said his views had been distorted in the press. He was not a Republican and was not opposed to the royal family. The young couple should have an adequate personal allowance and all other expenditure should be certified in the usual way. That would reduce court expenditure.

Parliament returned today from a month's Christmas recess and the measure to increase the couple's allowances topped the agenda.

The House will shift to the more pressing question of international affairs when Foreign Secretary Bevin is to deliver a major speech reviewing Britain's foreign policy. Informed sources say Bevin will explain the stiffening of Britain's attitude toward Russia since the breakdown of the four-power conference here last month.

Bevin's address is expected to outline British foreign policy broadly, touching on the Greek situation, Palestine, and the general political picture of Europe He may also go into some detail on the official disclosure of last week that many British troops to be evacuated from the Holy Land will be sent to Cyprus.

Arab Fighters Strike At Jewish Colony

JERUSALEM, Jan. 20.—(AP). —Arab fighters, apparently striking in reprisal for Jewish raids yesterday, hit today at the Jewish colony of Yechiel, northeast of Acre, and police said fighting was still going on three hours later.

The colony is one of 19 Jewish settlements which are outside the Jewish state proposed under the United Nations' partition plan, approved Nov. 29.

Jewish settlement police left the colony at the height of the attack to evacuate casualties but their vehicle was stopped and burned. There was no official report on the number of casualties.

Charge Farmer Failing To Feed Horses

Evidence of the prosecution on a charge against Thomas Hetherington of failing to provide proper feed and veterinary attention to five horses was heard today in police court. Magistrate E. A. Gee heard five witnesses describe conditions found on the Hetherington farm, about three miles from the city, when they visited there on January 9.

Gerald Dunford, inspector for the Peterborough Humane Society, in the charge described conditions on the visit. Manure, he said, was piled more than two feet deep in some parts of the stable.

Peter Gratton Royal, an old trotter 24 or 25 years of age, one of the animals referred to in the charge, had no food in front of him, witness said. There was no water available in the barn where the five horses were confined.

Mr. Dunford said that he noticed that on the last trip that Peter Gratton Royal had lost flesh since the previous time he had inspected the farm—about five weeks before. There was no straw for bedding the horses, he said. The only feed he found in the barn would have fed all the horses only one feed. He described how he had found tree limbs stripped of bark, where the horses had been chewing them.

Condition Poor

Dr. Arthur Johnston, veterinary surgeon, presented his qualifications to speak as a competent authority. The condition of the

Rat Attacks Baby In Crib

WINDSOR, Jan. 20.—(CP).—A baby was attacked in his crib by a large rat last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown. Aroused by the screams of 17-month-old Larry, Mr. Brown rushed in with a hammer and killed the rat. It measured 14 inches in length.

Today Mrs. Brown told of several occasions in the past when Larry had been attacked at play or while sleeping. She said he has numerous scratches inflicted by rodents which infest the house they live in.

There are literally armies of rats in the house, she said, adding that food must be kept in tin and metal containers to keep it from the hungry rodents.

Clearly visible are large holes in the walls and partitions where the rats have chawed their way into the rooms.

Mysterious Blast Rocks Oshawa Block

OSHAWA, Jan. 20. — (CP). — At least 14 windows were shattered last night as a mysterious explosion rocked a laundry, a furniture store and five apartments in downtown Oshawa, but no person was injured.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage, said to be comparatively slight.

Police said the cause of the blast has not been determined Pieces of tin — one of which "smelled of powder" — were found embedded in a door of the furniture shop storeroom.

Thousands Idle As Cold Forces Plants To Close

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 20.—(CP).—Thousands of Western Ontario workers had an enforced holiday today but the shortage of natural gas which made them idle was expected to be ended early this afternoon.

They were laid off temporarily yesterday as cold weather caused a sharp increase in domestic consumption of gas and forced reduction of supplies to nearly 100 industries in five cities.

Thomas Weir, general manager of the Union Gas Company in Chatham, announced, however, that moderation of the weather would enable the company to restore normal supply to the affected industries at 1 p.m. today.

Yesterday some 3,400 workers in Windsor were sent home, a major part of the employees of 38 companies in Essex County which were forced either to close down or curtail production. Temporary unemployment faced more than 900 London breadwinners, although not more than 50 were laid off yesterday.

Other centres affected included Sarnia, Woodstock and Chatham.

Manager W. L. Duffield of London's city gas company said the supply of fuel, partly imported by pipeline from the Texas Panhandle, was dependent entirely on the weather and only milder conditions could end the shortage. Across southwestern Ontario in areas served by Union Gas Company—of which city gas is a subsidiary—the story of crippled industry was the same.

Most seriously affected was the Windsor area, where Chrysler Corporation closed its three plants, laying off 2,300 men.

Thomas Weir, general manager of Union Gas Company, said at Chatham that a shortage of pipeline materials makes it impossible for his company to obtain extra supplies from Texas and Wyoming.

Gold Stocks Show Modest Gains Today

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—(CP). — Golds shifted over to the recovery road for the first day in several sessions as relatively light trading on the stock exchange today pushed several stocks up for modest gains. Industrials were easy but base metals showed minor changes.

Volume for the first three hours was 362,000 shares, about 23,000 below yesterday's similar period.

In the plus column of golds were Bevcourt, Buffadison, Central Patricia, Chesterville, Cochenour, Donalda, Hollinger, Hosco, Keno Hill, Kirkland Lake, Little Long Lac, Louvicourt, MacLeod, Malartic, O'Brien, Upper Canada, Sylvanite, Preston and Pamour.

Industrials were mixed on a downward trend with gainers including Abitibi, B.A., Oil Pfd., Canada Steamships Pfd., Canadian Breweries, Consumers Gas, Dominion Founderies, Walkers, Labatt and Winnipeg Electric. Base Metals moved narrowly.

OGDENSBURG, NY, aJn. 20—(AP). — James Agnew, 62, was fatally burned last night when fire gutted the interior of a one-room St. Lawrence River boathouse in which he lived. Police Chief Herbert Meyers said he believed an exploding lantern started the fire.

Protest New Site Of Memorial Centre

William Tinker, John Gemmell and H. Benson were an Ashburnham deputation to the council Monday night objecting to the proposal that the Memorial Community Centre be built on the west side of Burnham St.

If the Centre is to go across the river, it was suggested as a concession that it be located on the east side of Burnham St. on property that extends deeply into that block. Several members of the council have also mentioned that area because, as they say, there is ample ground available at the rear of the stores on the south side of Hunter St.

Gratton horse he described as "very poor", mentioning irregularities in the teeth structure of the horse which would, in his opinion, prevent the horse from properly masticating small feed. This condition could be at least partially corrected with surgery, he testified.

Two stallions in the group of five were running loose in the stable, the veterinary said. They were "emaciated", and he expressed "amazement" that they had not killed each other. He said that the professional opinion the two were beyond help, "permanently unsound."

"Malnutrition is one of the reasons," the witness said, adding that, as stallions, the two had also probably injured themselves by fighting.

Stable Filthy

The stable was "in very filthy condition," Dr. Johnston said. In answer to questioning, he said that he believed the animals were suffering pain because of their condition. He also mentioned the length of toes of some of the animals. The usual length, he said, meant that the animals had to stand with their feet at an angle.

A rather lengthy discussion took place among the two counsel, W. B. Gordon, for the prosecution and Ralph Standish for Mr. Hetherington, witness and the magistrate in regard to the medicinal benefits—if any—of sumac boughs, which it was stated were being fed to the horses by the defendant.

The manure in one stall, said the witness, was two and a half feet deep.

Chris Graham, who has handled horses all his life said: "I have never seen anything like it in my life. I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen it myself."

The two stallions, he said, walked "like bady crippled men."

Hugh Stewart, a farmer of Peterborough county, who has at present about 60 horses in his stock, was another member of the inspecting party earlier this month and gave evidence. The horseman, who said he had handled horses for more than 30 years, estimated the proper weight of Peter Gratton Royal should be 1,000; the actual weight, when he inspected it, he judged at 650 to 700 pounds.

The two stallions, he said, were "in horrible condition," saying that they walked as if they had to force themselves to do so, and acting as if the act gave them pain.

"Revolting" was the description given of the stables by Colonel Charles Ackerman, former official with the Humane Society here and the last witness of the prosecution. The case is continuing.

Scotland Yard Probes Russ Envoy Break-in

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(Reuters). —Scotland Yard is investigating a recent attempted theft at the private house of Col. I. Gorshkov, Russian military attache in London, it was learned today.

Thieves broke into the house, in London's west end, when occupants were out. Apparently they only entered the library, which contains valuable books and documents, and it was believed nothing was stolen.

Last June Russian authorities complained that the homes of two members of their staff in London and a school for children of Russian embassy employees had been entered. Russian reports at that time spoke of "the strange helplessness of the police."

Dairies Must Pay Or Face Court

TORONTO, Jan. 20—(CP).—A Toronto paper said today London and Hamilton dairies will be brought into court by the Ontario Government if they don't pay producers the full amount of an increase in the milk price which was ordered by the Milk Control Board in December.

"A final warning will be mailed to the distributors' associations of these cities this week," the paper says. "If they refuse to pay up, court proceedings are slated to be launched next Monday. In the case of the London distributors about $14,000 is at stake; in Hamilton the sum is roughly $15,000."

London dairies so far have not implemented an order of the board which approved a price of $3.90 a hundredweight to producers as of Dec. 1. This price was agreed to by the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association and the Control Board. London distributors claim they did not sign the agreement and are not bound by it.

They did, however, agree to a price of $3.65 a hundredweight and December cheques to farmers, based on this figure, were accepted under protest.

Won't Pay

HAMILTON, Jan. 20 —(CP)— Milk distributors here and in London, Ont., said today they will not pay the full amount of a milk price increase ordered by the Milk Control Board last December unless ordered to do so by the courts.

They were commenting on a Toronto report that Hamilton and London dairies will be brought into court by the Ontario government if they do not pay the full increase.

British Prison Reforms Better Life Than Outside

By A. LESLIE HAYNES

LONDON, Jan. 20—(Reuters).—Maybe, after all, life in British prisoners is better than it is outside. When parliament first discussed proposed reforms in the judicial punishment code there were allegations of harsh treatment in some prisons.

But this has brought a reply from Mrs. M. Greenwood, secretary of the Stafford Women's Citizens' Association, that according to released convicts life is so pleasant in Stafford prison in the industrial midlands that many former convicts have threatened to commit offences to enable them to be sent back rather than face present-day conditions outside the prison walls.

This is the picture of life in the prison as given by Mrs. Greenwood:

Accommodation: All the cells are centrally heated. Should one become damp its inmate is moved immediately.

Food: Prisoners get more food than the outside public. It is sampled daily by the governor and medical officer.

Easy Work.

Work Convicts work on an average from 4½ to 5 hours a day. Younger prisoners are taught a trade by expert instructors.

Play: There are regular concerts and movie shows. First offenders run their own debating society and produce plays. Each man is allowed four books and one magazine from the prison library at any one time.

Study: Convicts are allowed to take a correspondence course at public expense in any subject they like.

Reforms already adopted in prisons throughout the country have laid emphasis on the mental cure of prisoners rather than on their punishment. Measures have been aimed at increasing their self-respect.

Changes which are envisaged will be even more drastic in the women's prisons. Already at Holloway, the women's prison in London, lipstick and powder can be bought in the prison shop.

Name Rector For Cobourg

Receiving his early education in Brockville, Mr. Bedford-Jones entered the University of Toronto and Trinity College. He was ordained by the late Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen.

Announcement was also made Sunday that Rev. Frank D. Lockwood, young rector at Medonte, has been named assistant to Rev. G. Hasted Dowker at Grace Church-on-the-Hill. He succeeds Rev. Trevor Jones, who has taken charge as the first rector of St. Andrew's church, Centre Island.

Give Collector Of Garbage $2,000 Raise

LINDSAY, Jan. 20.—(ENS).—Town council wrestled with a knotty problem Monday night with a $2,000 increase to the garbage collector at stake. The problem was whether the increased garbage from 175 new houses would offset the decrease caused by the installation of 400 oil-burner furnaces. The majority of members agreed that it did and the $2,000 increase was authorized.

Mr. P. Kearns, the garbage collector, had applied for a $2,000 increase over last year's contract of $4,500. He had been granted a $1,500 increase last year.

Chairman of town property Ald. J. C. Kingsborough said that with the increase Mr. Kearns and his men would be receiving 59½ cents an hour with allowance for horses.

Reeve H. H. McFadden pointed out approximately 400 oil burner furnaces had been installed in the town and this would cut down the amount of ashes in the garbage.

Mayor Chas. Lamb was of the opinion that despite the fact there would be less ashes, the oil burners did not allow any of the other garbage to be burned. He doubted if the oil burned made any difference to the total amount of garbage.

After dealing with the garbage contract an increase for the caretaker of the dump was considered. He is to receive $150 more a year.

Halifax Jobless Rate Soaring

HALIFAX, Jan. 20 —(CP)—A ringside seat on Canada's war effort didn't give Haligonians a raincheck on the curtain-call—prosperity.

The lines of unemployed grew today and cast lengthening shadows over the waterfront of this old port.

Already 3,500 persons were jobless and less than a sixth as many vacancies were listed. This still was below the 5,000 peak of March last year but employment officials said that by spring Halifax might set a new and unwanted record.

Seasonal construction and farm jobs have fallen off to a minimum and the ranks of the longshoremen were reduced to 1,600 by a skimpy summer shipping season.

The hardest blow fell yesterday when Halifax Shipyards Limited laid off 113 of its some 1,000 workers and announced that another 400 would be discharged within a week. This would jump the unemployed total to 4,000.

Abandon Old Ship As Tow Lines Snap

HAMBURG, Jan. 20 — (Reuters). — The 11,492-ton former German ship, the Sierra Cordoba, today was a drifting derelict off the Jutland coast after tow lines from two British tugs taking the vessel to Britain for conversion into scrap parted when the liner struck a submerged wreck.

Owing to heavy seas it was impossible to make fast another tow line and the tugs left after a skeleton crew of eight men were taken off the Seirra Cordoba.

Some Tactics Used By Prohibitionists Would Drive A Man To Drink—Blackwell

TORONTO, Jan. 20—Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell declared yesterday that the tactics of some of the prohibitionists would drive any man to drink.

He made this remark amid laughter in the course of a speech before the Ontario Hotel Association at the Royal York Hotel. The prohibitionists forces would be well advised, he said, to abandon their present "pressure group tactics and smear campaigns."

"While the Ontario liquor situation is not entirely satisfactory," Mr. Blackwell said, "the last two years has seen a substantial increase in the volume of public opinion which feels that the licensing system has been improved."

"It was gradually dawning on people, he said, that the province now had a judicial system of issuing liquor licenses. Licensing was no longer a hole-in-the-corner procedure, he stated.

"Although there are still plenty of complaints," said the attorney-general, "and much legitimate criticism about the way in which alcohol is consumed, there is less and less opposition to the licensing system."

Salary $3,000 Or Less? Tax Form Easy

Representatives of the Federal Department of Finance are in Peterborough this week with the reassuring message that the 1947 income tax form is the last word in simplicity.

If your salary is $3,000 or under, you are presumably one of the multitude for whom this new form has been devised. You might almost imagine it having been streamlined, if it were not for the fact that it bears a family resemblance to all its ancestors.

Actually, it does look less formidable than those sheets of blank spaces of other years. That fact is verified by Mr. J. W. Graves of payroll aduits and tax deductions and Mr. W. Knudsen, his assistant both of the Belleville income tax office.

The psychologic approach to your tax form is that it is not the grim affair many persons imagine it. And, according to Graves and Knudsen if criticism ever was true, it no longer obtains today.

For instance this question: "Did you file a 1946 return?" That is a Yes-or No matter. Here's another "State your wife's income during 1947?" That ought to be simple, too, for most husbands, apart from the fact that Mrs. Doe earned vastly more than she was actually paid for, if you put it on that basis.

"Give the name and address of your employer." —That's another sample of just how easy it is. So you take one question at a time, and there are only 22, and the first thing you know you have the whole sheet filled in,— far easier than a cross-word puzzle.

Mr. Graves also stresses this caution: look on the back of the form. That should be done first. There are eight questions on the back, and, if you answer "Yes" to any one of them, the simplified-clarified tax form is not for you.

One of the queries is: "Did you work for more than one employer during 1947?" If you must answer that in the affirmative then you are out of the company for which the new form was designed.

Furthermore, you don't have to do any calculating of your tax. On this form you write down the outline of your financial affairs last year, file the return before April 30, and your tax, if any, will be calculated by the income tax department.

When you get this optional income tax sheet, read both sides, and likewise believe that it is as it is reputed to be.

Say Lindsay Fire Hall Nothing But A Trap

LINDSAY, Jan. 20 — (ENS). — The Lindsay fire hall is a fire trap. The floor and the beams and joists beneath are saturated with oil, Ald. J. C. Kingsborough told Council Monday night.

He said there was no one on duty at the first hall at nights except Fire Chief C. Campbell who lives in an apartment above the hall. He pointed out that at nights Mrs. Campbell had to be awakened before a call could be answered and he recommended that at last one more permanent man be added to brigade. He also suggested that young men employed by the board of works could well form part of the volunteer brigade in the day time.

Council Orders Car For Police

COBOURG, Jan. 20.—(ENS).—Council Monday night authorized the police committee to order a car for the police department. Councillor Victor Climo said that enough was spent on taxis last year to operate two cars.

Councillor George Galbraith expressed oppositon to council granting a concert company use of the opera house at no charge. The concerts are being arranged by a local committee through contact with a New York company.

"Why send money to New York. What is the matter with Canadian talent?" asked Councillor Climo

On motion the matter was laid on the table.

Council heard a petition from 37 residents from the north end of the town asking for bus transportation for school children About 75 pupils needed the transportation and it would serve the purpose of keeping them from walking along the highway. It was referred to the finance committee.

Rev. Walter Patterson Injured In Collision

MILLBROOK, Jan. 20—(ENS). —No services were held on the Presbyterian charge in Centreville and Millbrook on Sunday, due to the injuries received in a motor accident by the minister, Rev. Walter Patterson. The accident occurred during the weekend when he was returning from conducting the funeral services of Mrs. Walter Gillott in Oshawa. He received several fractured ribs.

Accompanied by A. R. Payne and Miss Carrie Trembeth, Port Hope, Mr. Patterson had slowed down to stop at the latter's home in Port Hope, when his car was in a collision. Considerable damage was caused by the impact, which drove the steering-wheel into Mr. Patterson's side. Miss Trembeth was cut by flying glass, receiving three stitches to close a wound in her face. Mr. Payne escaped unharmed.

Minister Acclaims Service Clubs Effective Agencies Of Democracy

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 20 — (ENS)— The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Public Welfare was guest speaker at a Rotary dinner Monday. The minister said he believes social welfare, as practiced by service clubs, to be a much more effective agent of democracy than public welfare. Traits of goodwill and charity which exist in all of us are encouraged by the personal contacts in social aid afforded by the clubs.

"In Ontario alone, the Department of Welfare has a budget of $32 million for 4 million people," he said, "and it is by sharing with others than we can make this country a social democracy which will be an example to the whole world.

"We should feel a note of optmism at living in this province which is growing through the greatest period of developmen of any in the Dominion. Ther are more than 11,000 industrie in Ontario operating at full capacity with 384 ones in the pas year, and there are yet great undeveloped opportunities, especially in the northern and westerr parts of the province.

"Ontario needs 25 million more people to fully develop its great forest, mining, and agriculturr areas, an dit is the duty of th Government to make possible th devolopment and population What we need is a larger consumer public to absorb our products, he said, and the Campbellford people can do no better than encourage new industries."

The Rotary Club announced their Ladies' Night to be held on Feb. 10, and their Ice Carnival to be held at Davidson's Arena, Friday night, Jan. 20.

True Democracy Exists For Individual

In an address to the Peterborough Lions Club, District Governor Gordon Belyea described democracy in Canada as the refusal to recognize as privileged—birth, wealth, race, or creed. He spoke at the fortnightly meeting held on Monday night at the Kawartha Club.

"True democratic government more than any other is predicated upon the dignity of the individual. It exists for the greater happiness, appreciation, and usefulness of the individual. it is not always perfect any more than man whom it serves is perfect."

"Democracy is one of those everyday words that means different things to different people," he said. "Even political science students these days fail to agree on adequate definitions: To some it is a form of government; to others it is a way of social life; but in Canada it is founded upon a refusal to recognize a privilege of domination built on birth, race, wealth, or creed."

Human Being First.

The speaker pointed out that the people, not the natural resources, were more important. "It is the character of human beings inhabiting this vast area that will command the respect of nations," he said.

Canada's racial composition was 98 per cent transplanted European stock, he said. And the remainder is made up of Indians and Eskimo. One-quarter was from France, one-half from the British Isles, and the remainder mainly from other European countries.

Turning to the question of choice of government, he said: "The insistence of certain groups on the use of force to suppress opinion, reduces natural thought and consciousness to a state of paralysis."

"True democracy more than any other is predicated upon the dignity of the individual," he said. "It exists for the greater happiness, appreciation and usefulness of the individual. It is not always perfect any more than man whom it serves is perfect." But he added that it was the best yet known.

Deprecating the influence of the modern trend towards state control, he said: "The function of government is usually negative and restrictive rather than positive and active, being resolvable principally into protection of life, liberty and property. He claimed that reasonable laws, wisely administered, would give man the fruits of his labor at a comparatively small personal sacrifice of his freedom. "No laws, however stringent, can make the idle industrious, the thriftless provident or the drunken sober," he said And he recommended "self-help" not "government help" as the solution.

The speaker was introduced by Deputy-District Governor Doug. Weaver, and was thanked by J Arnold Deyell. Winner of the draw was J. E. Girven. Those at the head table were Gordon Powell, Gordon Belyea, Pat Scolalrd Stanley Darling, and Ronald McGee.

Guests of the evening included Thomas Taylor, Vernore Rose, Howard Gardner, Reg. Coffey, Gordon Powell, and Doug Weaver. Jim Marshall was acclaimed second vice-president within a short time after nominations opened. At the conclusion of the meeting entertainment and refreshments were provided by Stanley Darling.

Cost-of-Living Increased Price of Meals In Lock-up

There seems to be no place to go where the increased cost-of-living can be avoided. The old joke about jails being a lodging place where—at least—the price situation won't affect you has now joined many 'old jokes' which tend to fade with a glance at today's price tags.

Peterborough's only "official" meal service, operated by the city for the benefit of those citizens who disagree with certain sections of the Criminal Code, Liquor Control Act, Highway Traffic Act and other rugged individualists, reflects the trend of the times.

The drunk or vagrant who have found involuntary lodging in the city's spacious guest quarters now shell out thirty cents for breakfast, up a nickel from the quarter it used to be. At dinner-time, the forty-five blue plate special now costs an even half-dollar.

The comment of those who eat in orthodox restaurants isn't at all sympathetic. Similar meats—perhaps in more pleasant surroundings, but nonetheless similar in actual food value—now cost the legitimate eater from 60 cents to a dollar—and that doesn't include free lodging.

In Other Centres

The picture is the same all over the country, according to Canadian Press reports.

Already "customers" in the city lock-up in London, Ont., are paying an increase of 25 per cent for their morning sandwich and coffee, while Governor John E. York of the Middlesex County Jail is closely scrutinizing his food budget.

Officials in Niagara Falls announced a 10-cent per meal boost in prices for diners in the city jail there.

In London, prisoners are held in the lockup only overnight. If they wish, they may have a sandwich and coffee in the morning before appearing in court. If the "customer" has his own money he pays, if not the city has the prisoner as its guests.

In 1946, 15 cents was the cost of breakfast here whereas the cost is now 20 cents.

The situation is slightly different in the county jail, where prisoners are not charged for their food.

Pressmen's Strike Ends

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—(CP). — Striking members of the Toronto Printing Pressmen's Union (AFL) who walked out five weeks ago when differences involving wages and the question of union security could not be resolved with employers, will meet today to vote on proposed settlement. An end of the strike was expected with exception of four or five firms.

Extending The Bus Company Franchise

We hear considerable criticism of the Council's readiness to include a clause in the Peterborough Bill which will allow extension of the franchise of the local bus company for five years. As the present franchise has approximately five years to run such a clause extends the bus company's license to operate for ten years without any appeal to public opinion on the subject, or any undertaking from the bus company that the service will be extended or improved, or even maintained at its present level. The Council's easy-going attitude towards this matter is hard to understand.

* * *

The bus company wants a long franchise so that it can operate with a sense of security, and so that it can make plans for the future. Now this is all very well, but it should not be necessary for us to point out that the bus company will never be in any danger of losing its franchise if it gives good service. Other businesses keep their trade by doing the best they can for their customers; the bus company could do the same. As for future plans, we think that the company should tell the Council what these are, in detail, before having its franchise extended. The new plans should be clearly stated in the grant of the franchise as conditions under which it becomes valid.

* * *

Like every other business, a bus company has its special problems. The customers of the local service know this, and are ready to make the necessary allowances. Nevertheless, there is a widespread feeling that when all allowances have been made, the local service is not what it should be; that there are not enough buses at rush hours, that the routes do not cover the city adequately, and that winter weather is exaggerated as an excuse for hit-or-miss service. Such complaints will not be stilled by giving the bus company ten clear years in which to do as it pleases.

* * *

The City Council has not been careful enough of the people's rights in this matter. It is a common gibe that Councillors do not ride on the buses, and there is a large measure of truth in it. Those who depend on the buses to get to work before the whistle blows, to get home and back to work within an hour at lunchtime, and to get home again in the five o'clock rush are qualified to speak about the efficiency of the service. The Council should extend the franchise of the bus company only after it has examined the present service carefully, and made stipulations as to what it to be done in the future to improve it and extend it. Other businesses have to suit the public in order to keep afloat. Why treat the bus company with special tenderness?

Our South American Interests

South America is a continent of which Canadians have generally little knowledge and in which they have shown little interest. They know that Brazil is the largest country, that its people speak Portuguese, and that Rio de Janeiro is a fine capital. They know that in the Argentine the people speak Spanish, look dark and gay, and that the wife of the head of the state is Eva Peron. The general ignorance and lack of interest, even apathy, is disgraceful.

Canada does big business with South American countries, there are hundreds of Canadians living there and holding responsible positions, there are tens of thousands of Canadian dollars invested in these countries (consider, for instance, the Canadian Brazilian Traction Company), and Latin Americans have a high regard for Canadians. They are reported to like us even better than they like Americans.

During the last fiscal year we exported a hundred million dollars worth of goods to Latin America (which includes Mexico and Central America). Our chief customers were Brazil, Argentina, Mexico, Venezuela and Columbia. Our imports from Latin America were valued at 125 million dolltrs. Venezuela is fourth in the list of countries from which we import — U.S.A., U.K. and British India being the first three.

South America is becoming increasingly important to us diplomatically and commercially; an indication of that is the number of embassies and trade commissions we have there. We have embassies in Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Santiago, and Lima (each with Commercial Secretaries), a Consul-General at Caracas and a Trade Commissioner at Bogota. Canadians will travel in increasingly greater numbers to South America, for pleasure and for business. Our highest-ranking traveller this year will be Viscount Alexander, who is to pay a state visit to Brazil in June. Spanish is becoming a major language study in our universities.

Canadians should become more familiar with South America. The Examiner's Third Column on this page carries from time to time reports from correspondents in Latin America. It is hoped that these interest our readers.

The Power Of A Red Light

Not long ago, in terms of terrestrial history, the biggest man with the biggest club was the most powerful social agent on earth. Today is is the red light.

A red light stops the huffiest, puffiest locomotive on rails. It warns aeroplanes to stay up the air. It keeps ocean liners separated from each other as they pass in the night. It stops hundreds of powerful cars with a flash of its eye, and for blocks these dangerous monsters are kept docile and stationary. How fascinating it is to look up Fifth Avenue in New York and see banks of whizzing cars suddenly halted by synchronized red lights. For an instant the whirl of the city is static, then the intersecting streets debouch their ants which swiftly cross the line of vision until the Avenue lights change again. What ancient or modern mortal possessed the potency of a red light?

Even the modern Gargantua, the reincarnation of primeval dinosaurs, the rumbling, awkward mechanical snow-remover on tractors, is obedient to the will of a red light. As it makes its growling way home from work, it stops for the light. But even such power as the red light's has its limitations—the huge mechanism is only half way across the intersection before the light changes; still the machine moves heedlessly forward.

The red light is the universal "NO!" The exception that proves this statement is the red light in a squalid metropolitan area which has a "Yes, Come Hither" look attracting men of moral turpitude.

Indoor Swimming Pools

Toronto's City Council is submitting to the Ontario Legislature a private bill which would allow it to make special money grants to the Board of Education to provide swimming pools in schools. Swimming pools are very good things, in the right places and when used at the right time, but we think that schools are not the right places, chiefly because their pools would be used most frequently at the wrong time.

It has not yet been demonstrated that jumping from a classroom into a swimming pool fosters the educative process. Nor has it been demonstrated that a mid-winter dip in a heated indoor pool is healthy. The swimmer must eventually climb out to face snow and zero weather.

Expensive, publicly-owned and operated indoor pools for year-round swimming are unseasonable luxuries which, we suspect, people who care for their health and pocket-books could do without. Artificial pools where the flow and purity of the water is regulated are excellent, when used in warmer weather and when situated out-of-doors in parks and gardens. Large urban centres should be plentifully supplied with them.

The Dutch are a healthy, sane people. They have many "baths", but they do not use them in winter. Most of them are fine outdoor pools, surrounded by grass and trees and the air above the water isn't saturated with heat, chlorine and body odours. Our season from May to September isn't so much different from theirs that such pools would not be practicable in Canada.

Last Sunday evening the $300 jackpot question on an American quiz program, broadcasting across not only the U.S. but Canada was: "Who is the Governor-General of Canada?" Nobody guessed right. The announcer had to tell them it was "Veecount" (that was his pronunciation) Alexander.

Chile And Argentina

By RAY JOSEPHS

A FAVOURITE Chilean story has it that a Yanqui newsman, flying over the Andes to Argentina and seeing the towering statue of Christ which the two countries erected to perpetuate peace, asked: "Why is the back to Chile instead of facing north or south to see both countries." "But" replied the Chilean, "we need Christ to keep an eye on those Argentines."

The tale is of course apocryphal. But it does pretty well indicate the postwar attitude of many people to whom I've talked here in Santigao. Ever since the Argentine militarists' power seizure in '43 and particularly since the election of Juan D. Peron in 1946, Chile has in turn been gloomy, optimistic, worried and indifferent about her powerful cross-Andean neighbour.

As Argentine's Nazi-trained Army has grown—current Chilean estimates run as high as 500,000, a tremendous figure for Latin-America—Chile's French-influenced force has sought to keep pace. As Argentines move toward the right, Chile, until recently, has moved to the left. And as Buenos Aires has alternately threatened and cajoled, Santiago has sought to find some solution that would help her benefit from needed Argentine products, without becoming an economic puppet.

CHILEAN President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla's efforts to bring about ratification of a Chilean-Argentine pact completed a year ago has brought the issue to the forefront once more. The 50-year pact is to extend Chile credits totaling $250 millions, provide loans for industrial purposes, port works and facilities, particularly those giving Argentina her long sought link to the Pacific. It also establishes a temporary customs union and special concessions both ways for the movement of products of one through the other to third countries.

Realizing the need for action ever since Germany's World War I production of artificial nitrates took the heart out of Chile's basic economy, many Chileans have favored tying their resources with Argentina's and selling Peron things needed for his ambitious five-year-plan, even though, as some put it: "We've had no other course but to accept—since the United States has not come through on any of our many recent applications for further credits."

CHILE has not gone into the matter without previously looking elsewhere. Gonzalez Videla first sought closer ties to Brazil as a counter measure. Having been the most popular Latin Ambassador in Rio de Janiero in '43 and '44, he returned for his first Presidential visit in June. As this gift-filled plane crossed the Brazilian border, he rose, sang the country's national anthem in good Portuguese and later bowed through a confetti and cannon reception exceeded only by the more recent welcome for President Truman. There were no concrete results, however, much as he tried.

Moreover, though it would be officially denied, I've learned from the best possible sources that there's little love lost between Peron and Gonzalez Videla, Chile's President met Argentina's in Tucuman, Argentina, after the triumphal but non-treaty producing Brazilian tour; found Peron's fabulous wife, Evita, had arranged things to make Peron the star, Gonzalez Videla a mere understudy. Furthermore Evita and "Mitty" Gonzalez Videla, the tall, blonde, politically astute wife of the Chilean Chief Executive, didn't see eye to eye either—and there was considerable pushing for the limelight all the way around.

THE fact that Peron outshines him as a continental figure has also rankled Gonzalez Videla, himself no bush league grandstand player. Neither Argentines nor Chileans openly bring up the embarrassing point that during his Presidential campaign Gonzalez Videla made a number of strong anti-Peron speeches. Or that some years ago Peron, during his days as Military Attache here in Santiago, was actually forced to leave the country when discovered in an anti-Government plot.

But Argentina's desire for Chile's minerals, the newly discovered oil in her south, and the desire for the Pacific outlet overshadowed such things. Chile also needs grains and meat. I've seen herds of beef cattle literally walked across the towering Andes for slaughter here, trains and planes loaded with merchandise which Chile desperately requires. Chief stumbling block to further trade, in fact, has been Chile's lack of exchange. In the first six months of '47 Argentina accounted for only 9 per cent. of Chile's foreign trade; the U.S., as the world's top consumer of copper and nitrates, for 30 to 40 per cent.

ARGENTINE propaganda has sought to develop pre-pac[illegible] in every way possible. Argentina's [illegible]A. airline has been taking an increa[illegible]re of the cross-Andean travel, her [illegible] authorities are notably more cordial to Chileans than any other Latins, and the number of Argentine magazines and books I've seen available everywhere here often exceeds Chile's own publications.

Yet Chileans and Argentines are getting closer, for as one Chilean told me: "Our situation is like that of two cousins, one of whom has become suddenly rich but still suspects the other has something he wants. There's no great love lost but somehow we've got to live together."

LET HOCKEY ENTHUSIASTS SHOW SOME SPUNK

Sir: People are talking a lot about a new rink for the city. When the new Memorial Centre is built it will have, we think a good rink. That will not be built for two or three years. I'm not moaning about that. The Centre is a big and costly thing and shouldn't be rushed into, especially now when building costs are so high. Another thing to remember is that it is supposed to be a stately memorial, not merely a big barn structure housing a rink.

It is a great pity that our Seniors and Intermediates and even Juniors have no covered rink to play on. They should have, but it seems to me that it is up to the players and the hockey fans to provide one if they can't wait for the Centre. Why should the city provide it? The way some of the enthusiastic hockey supporters (more ready with their yelps than with their money) talk you would think that hockey players and teams were God's gift to Peterborough and that the citizens should gratefully fork out thousands of dollars. If that argument doesn't work, the enthusiasts say the city should fork out the money to prevent hockey players from becoming juvenile delinquents.

If hockey players and their friends really wanted a rink they could have one if they had enough gumption to go out themselves and collect money and get themselves organized, and help build the thing. No, they want everything handed to them on a platter by the Council and service clubs. Hockey should be able to support itself, except for the little kids who are already well provided with outdoor rinks.

What is the matter with these hockey supporters? They can't have much "go" in them. Fifteen years or so ago there were plans for a big artificial rink. They fell through. They used to have a covered rink on Brock street. It didn't have artificial ice, but it was better than nothing. What happened to it? It was sold for a dance hall, and the hockey people did not do anything to stop the sale. Why didn't they organize and buy the rink? Were they afraid that it would cost them a bit of money? Why, a few of the prominent lovers of hockey helped put the sale through, so I have heard.

There was a letter in the paper the other day from a mother who objected to her small son going to Lakefield to play. There was no covered rink in Peterborough for the child to play on. He did not get home until midnight. That is disgraceful. Juveniles, Midgets and Bantams should not expect to play on special rinks. They are school children. Were they allowed to play their games on the Brock Street rink in the old days? It is all nonsense that the O.H.A. should dictate that children's playoff games must be played on indoor rinks. Somebody (like that mother who wrote to you) should start dictating to the O.H.A.

Let the school boys play on healthy outdoor rinks. The Juniors, Intermediates and Seniors should have a covered rink. But that is up to them. Show a little spunk, boys. Like the lacrosse people. And stop asking for hand-outs. We seem to be on bad times, for even the kids don't want to help clean off the ice. They want a city employee to do it.

Yours sincerely,
J. E. S.

CITIZENS BEWARE OF STANDING ON THE SIDEWALK

Sir: Would you kindly inform the citizens of Peterborough if there is a law preventing us from talking to one another on the sidewalk for a matter of two or three minutes. If there is such a law it would prevent citizens from waiting on buses etc.

It appears to me that some of the city police are getting a little too authoritative. Do they forget for one minute who is paying their salaries. There are a great many other problems that need their attention, that if attended to would give no time to inflict trouble on innocent bystanders for the sake of getting an arrest to their credit.

Now my friends it appears that when one sees an officer approaching you should be a psychiatrist and be able to read his mind as he has already told you three or four times before you will hear him asking you to move out of the way. Be sure not to reply to him because he can then say he had quite a session with you, even if you don't open your mouth or bat an eye. Dear citizens do not forget this law applies to sober people who have not been drinking anything stronger than water and don't care to be pushed around. With people who have been drinking and causing a disturbance it is a different thing, but when a sober citizen is considered an obstruction on a ten or twelve foot sidewalk simply because he paused for a couple of minutes to talk business in front of a hotel I think this is being carried a little too far.

Canada is a free country and we do not feel that this little freedom should be denied us.

Yours truly
A CITY TAXPAYER.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

Jesus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.... And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath; I am from above: ye are of this world; I am not of this world ..

I have many things to say and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true; and I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him.... And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him ...

Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. (John 8: 12-14, 23, 26, 29, 31, 32.)

Still Another Danger

To open employment to women who want to undertake it is one thing: to conscript women for juries is very different. "Women are persons' of course, but so are children and they have far more need of their mothers than has the administration of justice. If we must foresee one exemption for all women who have to take care of children, whether small or of school age, it makes it scarcely worth while to change the law. Religious and social authorities are alarmed at the crisis threatening the family, which constitutes one of the principal menaces to our Christian civilization. It would be illogical enough if, under the pretext of bettering the administration of justice, the Canadian State struck further blow at family life and established a new source of juvenile delinquency. — Le Devoir, Montreal.

A BRITISH OPINION

"My life at Osborne was no different from any other British naval cadet, which by contrast with the papering that goes on today in the name of progressive education was a fairly Spartan business."

Life And Education Of A Prince....

By H.R.H. DUKE OF WINDSOR

CHAPTER EIGHT

By custom the new termers always arrived two days before the rest of the college returned from leave. This interval gave me time to shake down before the seniors appeared. It was customary for each boy of the new term to be scrutinised for peculiarities in his appearance, and to be asked all manner of personal questions — his name, who his father was, where he lived. Manifestly all the answers that I could muster could not have been more damning, for, quite apart from my royal parentage and homes, the fact that I had never been to school before caused me to be regardd as a freak.

The privacy of my royal existence was rolled up like a curtain. Within a day or two of their return several sixth or senior-termers decided his Royal Highness Prince Edward would look much better with his fair hair dyed red. So one evening before "Quarters" (Evening Parade), I was cornered by my betters and made to stand at attention while one of them poured a bottle of red ink over my head. The ink dropped down my neck, ruining one of the few white shirts that I possessed; a moment later the bugle sounded off "Quarters," and the sixth-termers dashed away to fall in their ranks, leaving me in a terrifying dilemma for which nothing that I had ever learned under the good Hansell seemed to supply a solution.

One of Two Courses

If I went to "Quarters" dripping red ink, the Officer of the Day would coldly ask questions which I would be obliged to answer; that would mean telling on the seniors. And if I missed "Quarters" my name would be put in the commander's report, with a consequent bad mark on my record.

Yet, while my training had all been in the direction of supporting the constituted authority in all circumstances, a dim instinct inclined me to the latter alternative, for I wisely reasoned that my punishment at the commander's hands would be as nothing compared to what the seniors would mete out if I told. So I slunk away in the darkness to get a clean shirt out of my sea chest. Next morning, as I feared, my name went up on the defaulters' list, and I was sentenced to spend three days in alternately running briskly around the stable yard while holding a rod stiffly between my shoulder blades and facing the paintwork for an hour in the seamanship room.

Another form of "hazing" which caused me no little discomfiture was a mock ceremony performed, if I can rightly recall, by the same persecutors. An empty classroom window was raised far enough to push my head through, and then banged down on my neck, a crude reminder of the sad fate of Charles I., and the British capacity to deal with royalty who talked out of turn. Quite a while after the sound of the seniors' retreating footsteps had died away, my cries attracted a sympathetic passer-by, who released me, fortunately with my head intact.

Yet, aside from these relatively mild Republican correctives, my life at Osborne was no different from that of any other British naval cadet, which, by contrast with the pampering that goes on today in the name of progressive education, was a fairly Spartan business.

Our term was divided into two watches: Starboard for the top or brainy half; Port for the dumbbells. We filled two of the 12 dormitories, each named for a British admiral, which were grouped around the old stables of Osborne House, erected by my great-grandmother.

Began At Bottom

My dormitary bore the famous name of Exmouth, and the narrow margin by which I qualified as a naval cadet may be judged by the fact that I began my naval career in the Port watch, Class 3, the very bottom.

"Reveille" at six o'clock in summer and 6.30 in winter was proclaimed on a blaring bugle that made me yearn for Forsyth's bagpipes. A moment later a gong would rout us out of bed and in a convulsive motion we would all kneel down and say our prayers, in the cadet captain's judgment After the minimum time which was required for the Lord to hear and take note of us, he would yank the gong twice, and, still half asleep, we would jerk to our feet and, in a communal motion, start brushing our teeth.

Once more the gong would sound—the signal for the plunge into the Arctic pool at the end of the hall. Today, I have only to close my eyes to see again that pathetic crowd of naked, shivering little boys, myself among them, being herded reluctantly toward that green-tiled swimming pool in the first morning light.

If at first it seemed especially hard to me, it was because I was caught up without the previous experience of school in the unfamiliar community life of small boys to all of its fierce, subtle and wonderful relationships.

For having Finch to take care of my clothes and pick up after me, I now had to look after myself. And from the comfortable rooms of our different homes I found myself thrust with some 30 other boys into a long, bare dormitory. The orbit of my living shrank to a cheap iron bed and a black and white sea chest with three compartments in which to keep my clothes, a tray and a private till.

Poker Debt Reveals Thief

OSHAWA, Jan. 20 (CP).—Payment of a poker debt led to the arrest of Michael Nolan, it was revealed today as he was committed for trial on a charge of stealing $4,722 in bonds and securities from a tin box which Mark Smith, Scott Township farmer, had buried in his garden.

Mr. Smith said he hid the bonds and securities in the box because he was unable to obtain a safety deposit box in a bank. When he went to dig up the tin last June 24 to get a promissory note, he discovered the theft.

Nolan was arrested after Ontario Provincial Police traced a $50 bond cashed at a bank by a Toronto woman. She said she received in as settlement for a poker debt.

Spanks Wife With Griddle Magistrate, Court Approve

WINDSOR, Jan. 20 — (CP). — John Spicer had the pleasurable experience of finding every one on his side, including the Crown Attorney, when he appeared before Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan today charged with assaulting his wife.

Magistrate MacMillan upheld Spicer's right to take his wife over his knee and spank her with a frying pan because she had developed the habit of staying out until after midnight and refusing to wash the dishes.

"She got what she deserved," seconded Crown Attorney E. C. Awrey after hearing the husband tell his version of the affair.

Spicer's wife, Winifred, had charged him with assault causing bodily harm.

At today's hearing Spicer pleaded guilty. Then, in extenuation, he told his wife went out alone New Year's night and did not return until the next morning.

"I let her in the house and asked her where she had been. She told me it was none of my business. Then I pointed to the dirty dishes and she said, 'Wash them yourself.'

"My patience was exhausted by this time, so I turned her on my knee and spanked her with the frying pan."

At this point Magistrate MacMillan advised Spicer to change his plea to not guilty and dismissed the charge.

JOHNNY doesn't know why he is able to carry so many of the shiny milk pails. "Aluminum" means nothing to him now. It will, when he grows up. For this modern metal is already doing much to make farm work easier.

This light metal that won't rust is being used for all kinds of farm implements and equipment to reduce labour and last longer — for such things as milk cans, garage doors, flashing, roofing, siding, ventilators.

It is a "natural" for all sorts of uses about the dairy — so light, so easy to clean and, as aluminum paint, for inside and outside use, it is equivalent to putting on a shield of wear and weather resisting metal.

In the kitchen, too, it saves endless labour as cooking utensils and housekeeping appliances. Yes, aluminum will make life on the farm a lot easier. Johnny's parents have discovered its many outstanding advantages.

Where does Aluminum come from?

All basic raw materials are imported; Bauxite from British Guiana, Cryolite from Greenland, Fluorspar from Newfoundland. Canada makes use of her waterpower and manpower to turn them into Aluminum — uses up no natural resources of her own. All these "ingredients" are brought together at the model city of Arvida, Canada, home of the largest aluminum-producing plant in the world.

Nurses built up a 12-6 margin at the interval but it was tied up at 16-all by the Saints at the end of regulation time. Both opened it up in overtime with Nurses gaining the odd point. E. Crawford, A. Bowler and J. Plunkett sparked the winners' attack, while J. Smedmor and M. Beggs led the losers. Teams:

Marchildon Signs With Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20 (AP) —Philadelphia Athletics have two announced holdouts but shrewd Connie Mack quietly has signed the real strength of his 1948 team—the batterymen.

Mack, vacationing in Florida, has through his long baseball career always declared: "Give me the pitchers and I'll give you a winning team."

Fidgety Phil Marchildren, a 19-game winner last year; the two no-hit boys—promising Bill McCahan and Toronto-born Dick Fowler; young Carl Scheib; Joe Coleman; veteran Bill Dietrich; ace reliefer Russ Christophe; and fast balling Bob Savage, are on the roster. All have signed but Coleman, Christopher and Savage.

Marchildon's signed contract arrived at the Shibe Park office yesterday from his winter home in Penetanguishene. Earl Mack, assistant manager declined to stipulate the terms of the Canadian's contract but said he had been granted a good boost in salary.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A letter from Ken (Wimpy) O'Toole of Hamilton and he speaks of a grid booster night up there Friday, celebrities including: Shag Shaughnessy, Joe McCarthy, Joe Krohl, Ted Reeve, Frank Filchock, Frank Gnup, Tim Daly, Jim Coleman, Rex Stimers, etc. Ken says Filchock, who has signed again to coach Hamilton Tigers in the Big Four, has bought a Hamilton home and expects to stay there. He loves fishing, says Wimp, and expects to come up this way some week-end. And he is a popular speaker at sports' functions, so any local club interested in obtaining him might drop him a line at Box 172, Tiger Football Club, Hamilton. Frank came over from the States last autumn and put himself in solid with Canadian football fans for his great playing and gentlemanly actions.

Ken Kingston calls to say there'll be a meeting tomorrow eve at seven in the "Y" of men interested in looking after minor lacrosse clubs here next summer. Their jobs will be of a managerial nature—as a paid coach will do the teaching—and maintaining discipline. It'll be worked along the same line as the boy scouts and is an important work. Ken of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club executive is chairman of the committee to get the minors organized, and they'll receive financial aid from the parent club.

Ken Can't See It

And from Ken we receive some info on insurance for athletes re that $5-a-stitch item we had in the other night. Some NHL and AHL puckists are going for that, but Ken doesn't seem to think so much of it. He favors a straight accident insurance policy which protects a chap 24 hours a day every day in the year, and not just at games, practices or in transit. Premium is too high for the benefits derived is his feeling, and it makes sense. The other has more coverage and would apply, say, to Bun Kingdon, clerk, rather than to Bun Kingdon, centre player of the Petes' puckists. So that's that. Quite a few local athletic clubs have carried insurance the past year.

Petes play Legionnaires at 8.30 tonight in the Lindsay arena, an OHA senior "B" fixture. And, lo, a great multitude shall be on hand. Big demand the past several days for reserve-seat ducats and the building is liable to bulge at the seams, though there's always room for a few more, it seems. Two classy clubs battling it out bitterly on good ice, and both are Peterborough teams. With top spot in the grouping at stake, so what more could one ask for? Except, of course, an arena of our own so that it wouldn't be necessary to take a car, bus or special train to see Peterborough players perform in a "home" game miles from this city. Ah, well....

Getting Into Shape

Our OHA-ers are gradually playing themselves into condition and in the last couple of contests when Legion and Petes played 'gainst Belleville and Kingston they appeared to be skating on even terms at the last. Despite the early start the Vets and Saints had. Older players, of course, take longer rounding into the peak of condition in this speedy sport, while the younger chaps soon hit their stride after a few furious frays. By playoff time, neither Legionnaires nor Petes should have to concede a thing on condition and both will be plenty potent by that time, barring injuries. Don't look now, but it might be that the two local clubs will hit group finals against each other. Then, watch the fur fly!

* * * * * *

Peterborough Hockey Club executive met last night and voted $25 to the PMHA and another $25 to the junior "B" Oddfellows. And they decided to play an exhibition game shortly with the IOOF-ers to give the juniors the practice, allowing them any money taken in. Good going. OHA executive also met last p.m. in Toronto and, among other things, ruled that Joe Aitken must play senior "B" for Kingston Saints and not for Belleville, as he requested. Russ Rines was ruled ineligible to play for Gananoque but may perform for Kingston Saints in senior "B". And Don Crowe, residing in Toronto, was granted permission to play senior "B" for the Petes, a club he has been with for some years.

Nice Publicity, Huh?

Jim Coleman writes in his widely-read Globe sports column today: "What's wrong up in Peterborough? There are 80 organized hockey teams in the city and there isn't a single covered rink. Some of the clubs have to go as far afield as 20 miles to play their home games. The citizens raised more than $300,000 for a Memorial Gardens but now, apparently, they can't make up their minds where the building should be constructed." Yeah, Jim, there are over 80 teams here, the sum is a lot larger than 300 G's, and teams travel further than 20 miles for "home" games. It is a shame, eh?

Lakefield Juves Edge Trojans 3-2

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 20.—(ENS). —Lakefield Lions' juveniles edged Peterborough Trojans 3 to 2 in a wild fray that saw 15 penalties handed out. Due to a crowded rink schedule the fracas was split into three 15-minute periods, each of which was packed with enough excitement and arguments to make up what they lacked in time.

Tommy Birch, Lions' centre, took top scoring honors, netting all three with nice co-operation from his team mates.

Floyd was outstanding for Peterborough with one goal and assist for the Trojans. Both goalies did good jobs.

Birch opened the scoring with an assist from Flavelle, and the rest of the session went scoreless. Penalties went to Lawson, Trojans; two to Perc. Calberry and one to Birch of the Lions.

The second round was scoreless, but a battle from start to end with nine penalties dished out. Three went to Trojans, Lawson 2, Wyatt. Six went to Lakefield, D. Wasson, Birch, P. Calberry, Evans, R. Calberry, Morrison.

The final set-to saw the boys get down to hockey and the Trojans put up a real scrap. Each team bulged the twine twice Wyatt opened the tally sheet for the Trojans to tie the game, Floyd being credited with an assist. Birch on an assist by Dracup put the Lions one up three minutes later. Floyd tied it again a couple of minutes after on a solo. With the battle anyone's game, Birch came through once more, against assisted by Dracup, with the winning goal. Hunter of the Lions drew 2 penalties in this stanza.

Lakefield Lions—Goal, Don Wasson; defence, Flavelle, Dean Wasson; centre, Birch; wings, Dracup, Hunter; alternates, Evans, Percy Calberry, Morrison, Hockaday, Ross Calberry, Sabatino.

Legion Trojans—Goal, Menard; defence, Grainger, Allen; centre, Casey; wings, Lawson, Driscoll; alternates, Doris, Wyatt, Floyd, Riches, McPhail, Crowder.

MAY WITHDRAW ALL TEAMS

The United States Olympic committee has voted 68 to 6 to withdraw all American teams from the winter games at St. Moritz Jan. 30-Feb. 8, if the Amateur Hockey Association's disputed entry is allowed to compete.

CAR TRAVELS 1,019 MILES PER HOUR—The world's fastest ground vehicle is the supersonic car (above) built by an aircraft company near the Muroc Air Base in the California desert. Designed as an "outdoor wind tunnel" on which to test experimental foils, the car is said to have attained a speed of 1,019 miles an hour, far surpassing the speed of sound. The vehicle slides on slippers which grip the rails and is propelled by five rockets, one of which can be seen at rear, centre, of the machine. The boom atop the rig holds the model to be tested.

Rogers Hornsby, "greatest righthanded hitter in baseball's long history," was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame six years ago today. Outremont Rink Stars At 'Spiel

QUEBEC, Jan. 20 — (CP) — Curlers from Canada and the United States still were talking today of the miraculous seven-end finish scored by Carl Ott's rink of Outremont, Que., in the opening matches of the 35th international bonspiel of Quebec province which started yesterday.

The Ott foursome, down 10-1 at the finish of seven ends in their match with E. J. St. Pierre of Edmundston, N.B., put on a show that had spectators sitting on the edge of their seats.

Besides Ott's spectacular play, upsets and the winning form shown by D. P. Connolly rink of Bathurst, N.B., defending international champions, were the highlights of the international classic played in Quebec's Winter Club.

Competition Keen In Men's League

No shutouts were registered in the YMCA Men's League last night all decisions being 4-2 verdicts. Commercial stayed on top of the loop by defeating Jay Bees 4-2, Artists whipped Quakers by the same margin, and Aberdeens and Canada Packers won from Tips Tops and B'nai B'rith 4-2.

Mike Doris was high man on the night's rolling with 716 and Fred Willison with 703 was the only other bowler over 700.

Percy Johnson had high single of 307 and Ken Whatley was next with 303.

As the Packers and B'nai B'rith failed to turn in their score sheet their scores are not listed.

Katan Shapes Up As One To Unmask the Marvel

Both John Katan and the Masked Marvel who meet in the main bout at the Brock Arena tomorrow night, have agreed to the "winner-take-all" basis. Katan dared the Mask with his offer but the latter didn't back away. It should result in one of the roughest mat affairs seen here in a long time. The mystery-man will certainly not find Honest John any "baby-face" likely to fall for the masked wrestler's under-cover tricks. Katan will hand them right back with interest and it could be that the dour Canadian-Ukrainian will be the man to un-mask Mr. Unknown. Both wrestlers are strong and powerful and both ruthless in their ring tactics. It will probably be the first time that Katan will be in favor with the fans.

Big Jack Moore comes in from Ohio to meet Ken Kenneth in the semi-final and Don McIntyre meets Dr. Ed Meske in the third bout. The card shapes up as one of the best balanced of the season.

Alouette Head Threatens To Jump Big 4 For ORFU

MONTREAL, Jan. 20—(CP).—When the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, better known as the Big Four, holds a closed annual meeting, it would take practically a royal commission investigation to find out what happened. But Leo Dandurand, president of the Big Four Montreal Alouettes, came back to town yesterday from Saturday's session at Toronto plenty peeved at delegates of the circuit's other three clubs, who, said Leo, had "ganged up on the Alouettes."

Among other things, Lea said he had threatened at the meeting "to jump the Big Four and affiliate with the Ontario Rugby Football Union, who would be very glad to have us."

"Imagine, those Toronto Argonauts didn't want anything but a routine statement to the press about the meeting," said Dandurand.

"They wanted to hide under the table deals that were made by the other clubs. Well they asked for a battle. We will give it to them."

Took Action

Dandurand said Saturday's meeting had passed or vetoed the following rules and suggestions, all of which the Alouette president hinted were aimed to cripple the Montreal club:

1. Turned down an Alouette proposition for enlarging the Big Four to six or eight clubs.

2. Refused to extend the limitations on American imports, so that any American, even if he has been playing for the last two years in Canada, still is considered an import. (At Saturday's meeting it was decided to extend the rule on imports in effect for the last two years, allowing five on a team).

3. Passed a rule whereby no player of one team in the Big Four may sign with another club in the same loop without first getting a release from his former team.

4. Suggested that each home team contribute 33 1-3 per cent of its gate to the visiting club.

Dandurand was irked at the import ruling because it means that both Virgil Wagner, all-star backfielder and the league's leading scorer last year, and Herb Trawick, all-star negro lineman, still will be considered as imports next season. Both have played two years with Alouettes, and Trawick now makes his home in Montreal where he has gone into business, and intends taking out Canadian citizenship papers.

O'Connor Holds Top Spot On Scoring List

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—(CP).—Buddy O'Connor, New York Rangers' stylish playmakers today held top spot in the National Hockey League scoring list for the third straight week, official statistics showing the centre star with 38 points, two more than Max Bentley of Toronto Maple Leafs.

O'Connor has 16 goals and 22 assists while Bentley has 19 markers and 17 assists.

Syl Apps of Toronto is next best with 35 points, while Jim McFadden of Detroit has 34, Montreal's Elmer Lach 33 and Bud Poile of Chicago Black Hawks 32.

Apps had one assist clipped off his total at his own request during the last week. The Toronto veteran was credited with an assist on a goal in the game against Canadiens in Montreal last Thursday, but after the game asked the official scorer to give the assist to linemate Bill Ezinicki instead.

Max Bentley's 19 goals leads sharpshooting department, while O'Connor's 22 assists put him ahead in that column.

Bill Barilko, Leafs' scrappy rearguard, amazed the league by not drawing a single penalty in Toronto's last five games. With 107 minutes in the cooler, Barilko seemed a cinch a few weeks ago to crack the all-time mark for most penalties in a season set by Red Horner of Toronto in the 1935-36 season when he had 167 minutes.

Bill Durnan, Montreal's four time Vezina trophy winner, has moved ahead in the goal-keeping race. Bill has allowed 82 goals in 35 games for a goals-against average of 2.34. Harry Lumley of Detroit is next best with a 2.44 average.

TO DEFEND TITLE

Willie Pep, world's featherweight champion, will defend his title against Humberto Sierra of Cuba at Miami, Fla., Feb. 24, it was announced today.

OHA To Permit Crowe To Play With The Petes

TORONTO, Jan. 20 — (CP). — The Ontario Hockey Association, in a long executive meeting that lasted into the early hours of the morning today cleaned up an extensive list of grievances and other league business.

Rulings included:

Owen Sound Mercurys of the Senior A loop cannot sign Harry Kazarian, formerly with Galt Red Wings in the Junior A circuit and just released from Atlantic City in the Eastern United States Hockey League, because the player deadline has passed.

A protest by the St. Catharines Teepees regarding validity of a goal in a Junior A game against Guelph Biltmores at Galt about a week ago was dismissed. Teepees had protested the Galt time clock was faulty.

Joe Aitken of Kingston who tried out with Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey League this season, can play only in Senior B company at Kingston. He had asked to play Senior B for Belleville.

Hamilton Tigers in the Senior A circuit cannot use goalie Jack Eley because of the player deadline.

Suspended From Pats

Mike Janski is suspended from the Senior A Hamilton Patricias for not having transfer permission from the Toronto Hockey League.

The St. Catharines Junior B club was refused permission to use Frederic Hay from Hamilton Aerovox to replace Norman Kenny, out with a broken leg.

Russell Rines, ineligible to play for Gananoque in Junior B, can be used by Kingston Senior B club.

Don Crowe can play with Peterborough in Senior B company.

Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the Senior A loop were granted permission to apply to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for a new player to replace their playing coach Flash Hollett.

Ageless Tigers At Top Of Loop

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—(CP). — Like Old Man River, the ageless Hamilton Tigers have kept rolling along this season in the Ontario Hockey Association's seven-team Senior A race. Last week they pulled ahead of their arch-rivals, Toronto Marlboros, and today they're atop the loop with a two-point lead over Joe Primeau's Dukes.

In the 10-team Junior A loop Windsor Spitfires still hold first-place although menaced by five other clubs, all in play-off position. Last year's Memorial Cup champions, Toronto St. Michael's Majors, are pretty well out of the running — holding down eighth place with but five victories in 23 starts this season.

In the Senior A loop the two top clubs face tough opposition from three others, Stratford Indians, Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen and Owen Sound Mercurys—respectively third, and in a fourth-place tie.

Those five clubs in the junior circuit worrying Windsor are Oshawa Generals, three points behind; Barrie Flyers, eight points behind; Galt Rockets in fourth place with 32 points, two behind Barrie; Dave Pinkey's Stratford Kroehlers in fifth spot with 28 points, and Toronto Junior Marlboros in sixth and last playoff position with 26 points.

OOPS! — Only "casualty" at Monday night's CNE grandstand fire was this aerial ladder truck, tipped over when the jack slipped on icy ground and gave way, bringing the one-ton ladder down on the fence surrounding construction area. No firemen were on the ladder and the truck was later set back on its wheels with no damage. The fire was brought under control within a half hour with only slight damage to the new stand.

Reign of the Communists Described As One of Terror

"The Communists almost took the city of Kaifeng on December 12 and although the threat has passed, yet they may come again " wrote Miss Greta Clark from Shanghai, China, to her family here just a week ago. Miss Clark, an Anglican missionary, was one of a group of church workers evacuated from the city early in January because of the Red advance there.

"The history of their coming into other cities is very bad for any churches, whether there are missionaries there or not," said the letter, dated January 7 from Shanghai.

In China Since 1919

The veteran missionary worker, who has served in China since 1919, with furloughs in Canada during which time she taught at Havergal Ladies' College, Toronto, was born in Omemee.

The letter bears evidence of the general uneasiness felt in China because of the Communist advances when it states: ". We pray that our friends will be kept safe in our Lord's keeping."

One of the reasons for the evacuation, mentioned in the letter, is "Our Chinese bishop told us it might be much easier for the church if there were no foreigners there, and we can only hope it will."

"It was heart-breaking to leave the student work," says Miss Clark, in detailing progress which has been made by her mission in advancing Christian teaching in the Chinese province of Honan.

The Chinese teachers connected with the mission have remained, the letter advises, but is uncertain how long they can remain. "The salvation seems very dark ...the reign of the Communists is one of terror...one longs for God to raise up a leadership that will lead us out of this into a time of peace."

MISS GRETA CLARK

Miss Clark is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark, Omemee. Receiving her early education in this district, she attended Deaconess House, Toronto, to prepare for her missionary work. For more than 30 years, she has carried on the work in China which was started here.

In her earlier years, she taught school at Zion, Keene, Omemee and other district points. Her last visit to her home was in the spring of 1946.

Howard Clark, brother of Miss Clark, RR 1, Peterborough, received the letter—an airmail bearing stamps worth 8,000 Chinese dollars.

Other brothers are Milton of Lindsay Highway, near Peterborough; Lawrence of Kitchener, and the late Wilbur J. Clark, who died last year.

Sisters of the evacuee are Miss Frank Webster, Norwood; Mrs. E. W. Oak, Waterloo; Mrs. Ray Webster, Otonabee; Mrs. Frank Huffman, Toronto; Mrs. Stanley Knowles, Omemee.

YPU Donates $20 To Fraserville Rink

FRASERVILLE, Jan. 20 (ENS) The first meeting of the new year of the Fraserville YPU was held Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Moffat. It was directed by the citizenship convener, Mrs. L. L. McClenaghan who opened the meeting. Scripture lesson was read by Allan Moffat, after which Miss Margaret Waterman led in prayer.

The topic "Claims on Mankind of the Animal World for Justice and Compassion" was given by Mrs. L. L. McClenaghan. Miss Eleanor Whitfield and Miss Greta Moncrief contributed to the program. The president, Miss Margaret Waterman conducted the business discussion. It was agreed that the YPU donate $20 toward the expenses of the Fraserville rink. Seamen To Bar Communists Membership

MONTREAL, Jan. 20 (CP). — The first bi-annual convention of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union yesterday resolved to bar from membership "anyone advocating Communist or Fascist principles" after President J. A. (Pat) Sullivan declared there was a fight going on within organized labor as to whether the Communists or the trade unions would run labor organizations.

Mr. Sullivan, who broke with the Canadian Seamen's Union (TLC) a year ago over the issue that it was Communist dominated, opened the two-day meeting with an address claiming the new union had enrolled 4,200 members since last April.

Other accomplishments he listed as establishment of a monthly newspaper, The Binnacle, and the granting of wage increases by some steamship companies.

Internal Trouble.

He added, however, that "we have had to fight a disruptive force within our trade, who are noted for taking their directives from their Moscow-inspired bosses instead of from the seamen who, for the past decade, have been paying their wages."

"We have passed through a period, in the last few months, where it was impossible for our organizers to travel alone, where every means was used to keep us from contacting our members.

"We must realize that, at the present there is a fight, going within the ranks of organized labor as to whether the Communists within the trade unions will take over or whether the trade unionists will run their organizations for their economic welfare."

The convention passed a resolution to have all members of Parliament demand a parliamentary committee "to investigate and bring in recommendations for changes of the obsolete parts of this (The Canada Shipping) Act."

Pensioner Dies In Orillia Fire

TORONTO, Jan. 20. — In the half-dozen fires which broke out in Ontario towns and cities there was one fatality on Monday. The charred body of Clem Hutchison, 70, of Orillia, was found in the smouldering debris of a two-storey rooming-house from which he once escaped.

The old-age pensioner evidently lost his life in an attempt to rescue some of his belongings. With eight others he had jumped from a second-storey window into deep snowdrifts, it is stated. It was not known for several hours after the fire was checked that he had lost his life.

Fire Chief Lee Edwards stated that Hutchison was found on the floor of his room with his clothes partially burned off. Identification was made through the contents of the man's trunk. Despite the intense heat, a number of paper documents were not destroyed.

Among those who escaped were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swyer, John and Elias Shirk, Duncan Bress, Alex Beard, Alex McDonald and Charles McFadden. They dropped from a window in McFadden's room. Outside of some clothing, they lost all their possessions.

Notice by school children, the fire is believed to have started in a nearby garage. The flames spread to an adjoining feed and grain store, and to the rooming-house above. Damage to the nearby Royal Hotel was prevented by the town's new pumper truck, in service for the first time.

Festival Performance Criticized By Actor

SAINT JOHN, NB, Jan 20 — (CP). — The newly - formed Rothesay Play House opened the New Brunswick - Prince Edward Island regional drama festival with a presentation of "Little Women" here last night.

Robert Stuart, British actor named to adjudicate regional festivals across Canada, said the play "reeked of Victorian sentimentality and lacked a coherent picture." He added that the players moved too slowly and failed to give the play life.

The three-act play, adapted from the novel of Louisa M. Alcott by John D. Ravold, was the first of four New Brunswick presentations in the regional festival.

Ruth Likely, who played the lead role of "Jo," was praised by Mr. Stuart. Although she played the role without "enough boyishness" she had "given a fine performance," he said.

MERRICKVILLE, Jan. 20 (CP) —Sixty registered pigs about to be shipped to market were destroyed in a $10,000 blaze which swept through two farm buildings yesterday at a nearby farm.

Flames spread so rapidly that the farm owners, Floyd and Delbert Barber were able to save only a tractor and trailer in the machine shed.

Resorts Owners Ask Earlier Fishing Opening

By PETE McGILLEN

TORONTO, Jan. 20 — A resolution urging the early opening of the bass and maskinonge season in Ontario was unanimously endorsed by the Resort Section of Ontario members meeting in convention here Monday.

The motion moved by Roy Hicks, Rockland House, Bobcaygeon, and seconded by Jack Tressider, Sparrow Lake, pointed out that July 1 falls on a Thursday this year. That means Americans and other vacationists will start their holidays July 3. If the season was advanced to Saturday, June 26, it would mean an extra week of business for all the resorts in the areas where bass and muskie fishing is available.

Mr. Tressider, a resort owner for 25 years explained most fishermen of long standing will not take undersize fish nor break the fishing laws, because they are anxious to perpetuate the fishing for themselves. He added that no person could forecast whether or not it would be a late spring, which would keep the bass on spawning beds until July 1. 1947, he said was an abnormal year, and bass were still guarding the spawn on July 8.

Mr. Hicks argued the extra four days was amply justified in view of the great need for American dollars, and he said it would not interfere with the natural propagation of the maskinonge because they are finished spawning long before July 1. He suggested further that if any change was made, the announcement should come from the Department of Lands and Forests this month, so that it would not interfere with pre-season advertising.

No Comment To Make

Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests said Monday night, the resolution had not reached him. He had no comment to make other than to explain that since taking office, it had been his idea to stabilize the fishing and hunting season dates to avoid confusion. The resolution will likely get attention this week, as Mr. Hicks and Tressider have been appointed a committee of two to interview the Minister.

More than 140 members, all resort owners or operators are attending the two day convention which concludes with a dinner this evening.

Gil Watson, president and owner of Gil-Mar Lodge, Sturgeon Lake in his report said 1947 was a bumper year. He forecast a general increase in rates for resort accommodation this year, due to a 30 per cent increase in food costs since May of 1947, and a boost in labor costs.

A survey of resort owners indicates a 15 to 20 per cent boost in rates is likely this year. Last season prior to the lifting of ceilings on hotel and resort accommodation, a ten per cent increase was authorized, and in most cases was introduced. This according to the operators was not adequate to meet the growing costs of 1947.

Report Wrong Man In Police Court

Due to a reportorial error, it was incorrectly stated in Monday's Examiner that George Sisson, 298 Prince St., had paid a fine in court on a liquor charge. Mr. Sisson of that address had no connection with the case. It has since been learned that the accused is a resident of Port Hope. The Examiner regrets the embarassment it has caused Mr. Sisson and members of his family.

Hope Revived Timken Co. Locate In City

Hope of the Timken Detroit Co. locating in Peterborough a branch of their industry was revived by a significant deletion of a clause from the industrial committee report read by Ald. Pat Anglesey, chairman, in the council Monday night.

The text of that clause was: "That the Canadian Seakright Company be granted permission to lease to the Canadian General Electric Company the building lying immediately south of Perry St., this building being required by the C.G.E. Co. for manfuacturing purposes."

The factory building at Perry and Aylmer streets is owned by the city, and a large part of it has just been vacated by Canadian Nashua Paper Co. who are completing removal to their new plant on Braidwood Ave.

"In view of developments in Ottawa today," was Ald. Anglesey's brief explanation for striking the clause from his report.

Outlook Optimistic

Mayor Ovens said there was a more optimistic outlook for the Timken Co., leaving the inference of the possibility of renewal of the negotiations which the company terminated when the Dominion government several months ago announced a modified "austerity" plan to accumulate credit in U.S. dollars.

No information had been forthcoming in council circles as to the interest of Canadian General Electric Co. other than the "manufacturing purpose" mentioned in the industrial committee's recommendation. No opposition was expressed to that proposed lease of the Nashua premises but during the last year reports of new industries locating in Belleville and Lindsay had created some sense of uneasiness locally. At the same time it was an official wish that accommodation might become available for the fostering of any new companies which might be attracted, especially an industry of promising and strong background to fit into the group which had already become established here.

City's Private Bill Has Three Clauses

Three clauses comprise the city's private bill to the Legislature. One of them asks for annexation of a block of North Monaghan; another embodies a petition to divest the City Trust Commission of control of properties owned by the municipality and to restore them to the management and direction of the council.

A third clause applies for authority to the council to extend the present franchise of Peterborough Bus Lines for an additional five years beginning January 1, 1954.

The report of the committee of the whole council, read by Ald. Swanston, included the proposal "that a new agreement be prepared between the city and the bus company".

On that point, Ald. Swanston asked Mayor Ovens: "If we get permission to extend the franchise, this new agreement will be discussed before it is signed?"

Mayor Ovens answered: "Yes".

Jas. Hamilton Re-elected Head Of Board

James Hamilton was re-elected president of the Board of Directors of Little Lake Cemetery Co. Monday for the third year in succession, at the annual meeting.

Other members of the board are H. I. Bradburn, vice-president, and directors R. J. Kidd, H. A. Morrow, E. H. Howson, W. P. Eastwood, W. R. Turner, T. J. Carley, KC, and W. R. Thompson.

Mr. Thompson was elected to the vacancy on the board caused by the death of the late E. A. Peck who had been a director since 1917, and Mr. Carley fills the vacancy occasioned by the death of J. F. Strickland. Miss E. J. Saunders was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer and C. F. Kitney, Superintendent.

Profit Shown

In presenting his annual report for the year 1947 the President said, "The year's operations showed a small profit instead of a deficit as in 1946, due to a full year's benefit of increased service charges. I am afraid however that the service charges are still not sufficient and they should be reviewed again in the not too distant future."

This was the 97th annual report made by the Board of directors. The operations in 1947 showed considerably more sales than in 1946. More labor and equipment was available, and this allowed the superintendent to improve the grounds of the cemetery and keep them in better shape. Lots to the value of $5,826 were sold. In trust funds $3,340 were received, and the total investments increased $9,918 during the year. The total revenue was $3,481.

324 Burials

The number of burials during 1947 were 324, which was about 40 more on an average than the last five years. During the year the Board had engaged Mr. Wyrick of Demoines, Iowa, who is a prominent authority on all phases of cemetery design and management. Mr. Wyrick advised the Board on cemetery matters generally, but more important in regard to the new addition, and it is believed that his experience and advise will prove to be of great value.

The auditor's report showed that the value of lots sold in 1947 totalled $5,826 leaving the present amount of unsold lots at $94,472.14. The amount received during the year for permanent care was $3,340.00 while an amount of $3,003.00 was also set aside for Permanent Care from the increased selling price.

Surplus of $1,421

Operations for the year showed a surplus of $1,421.61 before charging reserves as against a deficit of $172.67 for 1946. After allowing depreciation the surplus for 1947 was $496.66 while 1946 showed a deficit of $1,662.67 after depreciation.

The superintendent's (Mr. C. F. Kitney's report) showed that the winter of 1947 with the extra heavy snow fall added to the winter expenses. The roads were kept open until the latter part of the winter, but the last storm filled them in completely and it was necessary to hire a tractor shovel to dig a road to the chapel.

Section "E" and "W" were finished grading and seeded ready to be laid out next spring.

Mr. Kitney reported that during 1947 there were, 324 interments, 68 lots sold, 67 single graves, 13 half graves, 20 lots put under perpetual care and 46 foundations for monuments.

Social Evening Held By Junior Chamber

Nearly 75 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and guests met for a social evening at the South Beach Hotel, Young's Point, Monday evening. Kenneth Jones, president, was in charge of the meeting. Frank Hammond was pianist and song-leader.

Joseph Cook was in charge of entertainment, which included showing of conservation films.

The Junior Chamber will operate a coffee and refreshment booth at the coming ski meet in Peterborough, it was announced.

Ray McWilliams, chairman of the jamboree committee, said the preparations were now underway to make the 1948 showing "bigger and better" than the previous year, at which, he pointed out, a total of $4,600 had been taken, with a net profit of about $1,500.

Victoria Liberals Seek Large Hall

LINDSAY, Jan. 20 (ENS). — Liberal forces in this constituency — Victoria-Haliburton — look for a provincial general election this year.

Bruce McNevin, former member of the Federal Parliament, wrote to Lindsay town council last night on behalf of the riding Liberal Association asking to rent a large hall here for a campaign committee room "for the time required." His letter said there would be a provincial election this year.

There have been recurring reports that Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government would call an election this year—its term does not expire until 1950—but there has been no confirmation.

Receipts from parking meters from May 12 to December 31 last year amounted to $17,924.05 in 1947 total of $44,714.32 for various licenses and fines reported to the council Monday night by City Clerk E. A. Outram.

Modern Sets For 3 Plays Leave Imagination Free

By T. J. ALLEN

The type of stage sets for the three plays being presented Tuesday and Wednesday by the Peterborough Little Theatre is new to Peterborough. The sets are not conventional, they are not realistic. They are, however, not new to modern theatre, particularly in playhouses of New York and London which have discarded plush, slush and the lush, or to experimental groups here and abroad.

The dress rehearsal held Monday night gave this reviewer a preview of the plays in their setting. The sets have been excellently contrived so as to sketch the scene but to leave the playgoer's imagination free. The lighting facilities of the stage at the Collegiate auditorium are limited, and no amount of special equipment will compensate for the inadequacies of switch boxes, outlets and fixtures for spots, until a thorough overhaul is made—with the assistance of the best stage-lighting advice. But I am not presently concerned with compromise between setting, costumes and grouping. One could but regret that strategic spots and floods were not possible.

The setting for "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" was simple, the kind of simplicity which conceals art. It suggested a greensward in evening, a secluded part of a garden with its balustrade and stylized trees, and the backdrop gave a romantic Whitehall air—the castle evanescent in a whirl of half-remembered clouds. A third look would show that the clouds were coloured so as to blend with the setting and costumes. The costumes! But that is another story. I can hint that they were wonderfully beautiful. Wait for the curtain call (against the wine-coloured, lighted curtain) for their final full effect. You will demand not one but three or four curtain calls, if only to prolong your sight of the costumes.

The sets for both "The Dark Lady" and "Overlaid" were designed and carried out by Erma McVannel, who with a craftman's care transferred the designs from plan to miniature models before their construction for the actual stage was begun.

The second play "Overlaid" has a sharply contrasting setting, but here again the effect has been achieved with artful simplicity. Again there is a backdrop—this time of a winter scene which could be only ten miles from Peterborough. It doesn't show real hills and trees and clouds; that is its virtue. It is more universal than that.

The setting of "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" was planned and created by Miss Gertrude Cox, who like Miss McVannel worked from models. It is splendid without being elaborate. It is uncluttered and allows scope for the many actors and the great amount of movement. It provides for street scenes, the interior of a French bourgeois home, and a judge's study. There are actually three stage levels to this setting—the fore-stage, the inner room, and the top of the bookcase, where wonderful to relate, some of the dialogue is carried on. The use of different stage levels is as old as Shakespeare and as new as yesterday; it is good to see the technique applied in the first productions of the Peterborough Little Theatre. I mentioned that the setting was splendid. How subtly a precious bourgeois luxury is indicated—the two busts above the bookcase, the leather bindings, the embroidered cord from which hangs a tapestry. Then, of course, the costumes—cleverly conceived, originally designed and exquisitely, perfectly adapted. The settings are, after all, settings for the action of the play, for players in their roles and dress. They cannot properly be discussed apart from the play, and to-morrow I hope to be able to comment on the plays.

City Council Purchases 32 Hatton Lots For Houses

Thirty-two houses in the Hatton area at the west end of Charlotte St. will be part of the City Council's building program this year. They will be similar to some of the brick houses in the McKellar subdivision which was begun here by Housing Enterprises Ltd.

This information was included in a statement to the council on Monday night by Ald. Gordon Armstrong, chairman of the special housing committee. He mentioned locations obtained for 77 other houses which are generally to be of the Wartime Housing type built here during the last two years, and they are to be for the accommodation of war veterans and their families, at least preferentially.

The Examiner recently reported that phase of the 1948 project, lots obtained on Herman, Braidwood, Morrow, Montgomery, Morphet Ave., Downie Caddy, Rogers, Elm and Beverley Streets. Their total is 77, providing for that number of houses. The cost of the land and services is estimated at $28,600.

Ald. Armstrong said the average cost of these lots, including sewer service and connections, was $371.40. The city is required by the new agreement with Central Mortgage and Housing to furnish the land and services, but the council has not yet decided the manner of financing this contribution to the housing project.

The council and Central Mortgage have been mentioning in their discussions the prospect of transfer of the Hatton block which was bought by Wartime Housing during the war period. City Clerk Outram was instructed by the council to call at the company's office in Toronto last week, and the result was that the Central Mortgage valuation of $500 a lot was substantially reduced.

Cost $371.40 a Lot

Ald. Armstrong's reference to that phase of realty progress was: "The city can purchase from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at least 32 lots on the Hatton subdivision which have full sewer and water services, at a price of $291.40. It is estimated that the sewer connection cost for each lot will be $80, making the total cost $371.40, which is the same average cost as the 77 lots described above.

These lots with services represent an investment in 1943 by Wartime Housing of $500. It is therefore evident that the city is getting an excellent buy from Central Mortgage and Housing on those Hatton subdivision lots."

Houses to Cost $7,000

It is expected that the Hatton area houses will cost around $7,000.

"Investigation is being made of the possibility of erecting 6 or 7 more houses in the Hatton subdivision on lots which will represent no cost to the city for housing purposes, but which may require an investment of between $200 and $300 for fil which may be required."

The report discussed certain details of the approximate 200 houses to be built by Central Mortgage this year.

Two-bedroom houses will full basement and furnace will be about $6,500; and three-bedroom houses $6,600. The rent for the 2-bedroom houses will be $36.50 and the three-bedroom houses $37.50. The company is not recommending the erection of four-bedroom houses.

The council adopted the Armstrong report. "The City Clerk deserves congratulations for the way he brought it off," said the chairman. Mr. Outram was authorized to exercise the options.

Charlie Lawrence Joins The Mounties

After waiting eight months for his application to be accepted, Charlie Lawrence, 21, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Lawrence, Weller St., has been accepted by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He left last week to join the force at Rockcliffe, near Ottawa, the initial training station.

Always interested in athletics, Charlie played on P.C.V.S. senior rugby teams in 1945 and 1946. He graduated last June. Basketball was another favorite game which he used to play at the Y.M.C.A. He is over six-foot tall, and weighs about 170 pounds.

During the war he was a non-commissioned officer in the Air Cadets and this apparently whetted his appetite for the military or semi-military life.

Relatives who have heard from him report that he is enjoying the life.

League Gives Incubator To Hospital

Business meeting of Junior Welfare League was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John A. Dewart, Weller St., president of the organization.

It was decided that a reserve fund for hospital room furnishings be started, on motion of Mrs. Clare Collins and Mrs. Walter Blackwell. On motion of Mrs. R. Stevenson and Mrs. Hugh Waddell an incubator will be purchased for the Civic Hospital. Mrs. Dewart advised the members that bills for supplying milk to needy children are now increased.

A report of the Visiting Home-Maker's Organization was given by Mrs. Hubert Eastwood.

Arrangements are being made to send more food parcels to Britain this month. Two letters of appreciation in this connection were read. One parcel will again be addressed to an English journalist and author whose recently published book has been received by the League. A letter from her reads in part: "Dear Friend—In August last I had the great pleasure of acknowledging a parcel from the Junior Welfare League in which I shared, and had the joy of distribution. But when the post brought me a parcel all my very own a few days ago, I was simply overwhelmed—I confess it, I actually cried over it.

"You can imagine I was not long getting busy sharing the contents with a sick neighbor, a small family of friends who could not be covered from the previous parcel. a family with reduced income who find it hard to get even necessities. Other luxuries have brought pleasure to others, and yet I seem to have quite a supply left for my personal enjoyment. In actual fact I had my last tin of household milk—the skimmed sort we used to get, now unobtainable—and wondered if I should open it, when your parcel arrived.

"It happens that today is the publication of my first book in this my Golden Jubilee as a business and professional woman. I would ask the acceptance of a copy by your League as a small acknowledgment of your practical help to your English cousins who feel linked in fellowship by your kindly acts through these difficult times.

Yours sincerely,
Signed—Emily E. Moore.

Following adjournment of the meeting, tea was served by the hostess.

Omemee Couple Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

OMEMEE, Jan. 20 — (ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Pogue of Omemee were at home to their friends on Monday afternoon and evening on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of their wedding..

Mrs. Pogue (Rachel McConnell) is a daughter of the late Thomas McConnell and Margaret Lowes. She was born on the 5th Concession, Emily, on October 1, 1877, where she lived until the time of her marriage. Mr. Pogue a son of the late Ephraim Pogue and Elian Adams, was born in Ops Township, three miles west of Omemee, on February 23, 1877.

They were married in the home of Mrs. Pogue's parents January 19, 1898, by the Rev Mr Tanner of the Presbyterian Church in Omemee. The bride was attended by her sister Mary (Mrs. Hilton) and the groomsman was William McConnell, brother of the bride

They set up their home on a farm in Ops, near Mrs. Pogue's home, and farming continued to be their occupation until they moved to Omemee 14 years ago. The farm home was blessed by three boys, Ephraim, now residing in Windsor, Stanley of Peterboronugh and Thomas J. of Omemee. They have four grandchildren, Ephraim's daughter Beverly; and her two brothers Jack and Bill, and James Edward, son of Thomas J.

Mr. Pogue is the last of his family, two brothers Arnold and Archie having died some time ago. Of Mrs. Pogue's family a brother George and two sisters Edith (Mrs. F. McBain) and Ethel (Mrs. Fry) are deceased. Living are six brothers, William, John, Thomas, Harold, and Stephen, all of Emily Township, and Pennington of Peterborough, and two sisters, Mrs. Hilton (Mary) and Mrs. Burley (Irene) of Fenelon Falls.

Mr. Pogue is still able to do his day's work, being employed with the De Laval Co., Peterborough. Mrs. Pogue, though she has suffered considerable ill-health, is at present doing her own housework.

In looking back over the last half-century she expressed her philosophy of life by saying, "We must take the bitter with the sweet—fifty years is nothing and it is so quickly gone." she says the standard of living is much different now to what it was when she was a girl, when porridge and vegetables were cooked in big iron pots. But she thinks young folk enjoyed themselves just as much then as now, perhaps more. Modern young folk have too many social activities to appreciate all of them. In her time, she says, it was an event to come to Omemee, though she never lived more than three miles from it. But there were neighborly get-togethers and sleighing parties and so on. Their work was at home — there was no other work available—mere youngsters get jobs now. Our young people now, she said, have everything in their hand.

As to modern dress, she likes to see skirts a little longer, but not so long as they were when she was young. But people, she says, are the same—just as good-hearted as ever.

ERRAND "BOY" IS 101.

HENDON, England — (CP). — When 78-year-old Joe Star of Grantham claimed to be England's oldest errand boy, after 11 years' service, he was challenged by Harry Potterton, 101, errand boy since 1858, who still delivers letters and parcels.

Margaret Hastings Is Bride Of Archibald McBride

An exceptionally pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday morning in St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick. Alice Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hastings, became the bride of John Archibald McBride. Traditional wedding music was played throughout the ceremony by Mrs. Robert Aman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a ballerina-length wedding dress with full skirt of white nylon over satin, satin bodice with self flowers appliqued across the neckline, embroidered with seed pearls and silver beads and short puff sleeves. Her veil was of French embroidered net caught with orange blossoms to a halo headdress of shirred satin. She wore elbow-length white kid gloves, silver sandals, and carried a white and gold prayer book with orchid corsage and white satin streamers tied in lover's knots with pink rosebuds.

Mrs. H. Leard, matron of honor, was attired in street-length dusty rose crepe, fashioned with a draped skirt and neckline. She wore a small brown hat with veil, brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mr. Jack Murphy attended the groom.

A reception was held at the Empress Hotel where Mrs. Hastings received, wearing a dress of rose brocaded faille with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by Mrs. McBride who wore black crepe with embroidered nylon sleeves, black accessories and corsage of red roses.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a grey crepe dress with draping, red accessories and wore a muskrat fur coat.

Mr. and Mrs. McBride will live at 282 Stewart St.

BLACK NYLON TRICOT GOWN—The whimsies of top fashion photographers often make the senses reel, although largely pleasurably. This unique and handsome black nightgown is picturesquely photographed on the Florida dunes, along with a gilt ballroom chair for a prop. The gown rates the full light of day, for it is made of black nylon, its skirt knife-pleated below a corselet-smooth bodice, lipped with double self-frills, and with satin shoulder straps assuring a perfect fit. The fashionable and attractive look of the gown is readily seen; the hidden trick is that all those pleats stay put, even after laundering. Also, nylon dries fast.

DOROTHY DIX

CRITICISM NEEDED
If Truth Were Accepted, Person Would Change

Can you take criticism? Does it make you angry and resentful and cause you to hate the person who has had the effrontery to find fault with you? Or do you profit by criticism and correct the weakness that has been pointed out to you?

Dorothy Dix Naturally, none of us enjoys being criticized. It hurts our vanity too badly. It is too much like being skinned alive. But if we can endure the operation, it will cure us of what ails us and make a new man or woman of us. Most of our blemishes are the result of our egotism. We are so certain that the Good Lord turned out a masterpiece when we were born that we don't even suspect that we could be improved upon.

So we go along cultivating our faults and foibles, instead of doing something drastic towards eradicating them. The fat men and women gorge themselves a little more because they won't believe what they see in the mirror. Weak mothers of spoiled brats depend upon nature to reform their little hellions. Bores afflict us to tears with their oft-told tales. And the lazy and inefficient still can't understand why they never succeed.

And nobody puts them wise because not matter what we say behind the backs of our friends and acquaintances, we are silent before their faces, so far as telling them of their faults is concerned. For well we know that what people crave is flattery, not criticism. No Truthful Jane or James ever won a popularity contest.

Profit By Listening

It is a thousand pities that the critic is regarded so generally as Public Enemy Number One, for he would be the most valuable friend to thousands of men and women if they would only receive his message in the right spirit and profit by it. He could tell them what weakness was their undoing, what habits they had that grated on people's nerves, what faults blocked their way to success.

The pretty little stenographer who spends most of her time making up her face and putting on another layer of lipstick can't see why she loses her job, but her employer can. The man who is so untidy and slovenly-looking that nobody wants him around has been criticized for his sloppiness ever since he was a child, but he never has sensed why he doesn't get along. The braggart who spends his time telling of the marvellous things he is going to do wonders why he never seems to make a hit with employers—it never occurs to him that it is because he never would correct his faults, even when they were pointed out to him.

But, perhaps, the worst phase of the matter is that husbands nad wives cannot help each other as they should, because neither one will stand for any criticism from the other. The husband cannot say to the wife: You disillusion me by your lack of reserve or by your untidy dress or you bore me with talking continually about your mother and sisters or you are making me hate you by your nagging. The wife cannot say to the husband: You have the table manners of a boor or you disgust me with your slovenliness or I shudder at your grammar every time you speak.

Very often either the husband or the wife has had much better advantages of education and social contact than the other, yet one cannot pass on to the other these advantages, because it only angers the other not to be thought perfect.

What a pity that our vanity will not let us profit by criticism!

BPW Bridge February 2 Plans Completed Monday

Peterborough Business and Professional Women's Club met Monday evening in the Green Room of the YWCA for the first dinner meeting of 1948. Tables were laid with a centre streamer of pale green on which there were pink candles in crystal holders and pots of flowering pink cyclamen. Lace-edged mats were used for each place.

North-End group, in charge of serving and entertainment, had Miss M. Dawson as convener, assisted by Misses G. Clark, A. Davidson, M. Henderson, H. Lytle, V. Foote, V. Heyes and J. Horsfield. Grace was sung with Miss Ann Deyell at the piano.

President Mrs. Lyda Telford was in the chair, and plans for money-making projects were discussed. It was decided to hold a bridge in the YWCA on Monday, February 2. Mrs. Jean Watson was appointed convener.

Miss Leila Burgess, corresponding secretary, read a letter from Civic Hospital WA regarding possible donations to the new hospital. The club will decide on the amount of money they can use for this purpose upon receipt of information regarding costs from the Auxiliary.

"Yiddisha Love" with dialect and actions by Mrs. A. J. Aikenhead, elocutionist, provided an amusing interlude, followed by some sage advice in "Watch the Corners." Three films provided and shown by the Film Council were scenes from Jasper Park and of life in Ecuador, both in technicolor, and the "Feeling of Rejection" which gives a lesson in mental health education.

Members present were: Misses A. Deyell, L. Burgess, M. White, M. Eason, E. Distin, R. Carter, H. Lytle, J. Horsfield, J. Martin, E. Bennett, J. Saunders, V. Walsh, H. Moore, V. Foote, M. Henderson, G. Clark, V. Heyes, A. Davidson, M. Dawson, M. Edwards, M. Stone, A. Horsfield, Mesdames L. Telford, E. Dunford, H. Anderson, E. Miller, M. Pinning. Guests included Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Aikenhead.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 21

THE day seems to start out under a restrictive, static and thwarting vibration, with glum prospect of active progress or steady advancement of desired hopes aid wishes, yet by a philosophic attitude, an attempt to weigh the pros and cons of a difficult situation, a beam of light may bring relief to what appears to be ominous. This may come in the form of the timely intervention of friendly interests, possibly employers, superiors, elders, or others with power to alleviate and cheer. Definitely a time to "look for the silver lining."

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find the path difficult, blocked, futile and depressing, with little to encourage or give hope to a static, crystallized or disappointing state of affairs. Under delays, obstacles, defeats, or lack of physical energy to attack such problems, it would be well to care for the health, seek diversion or relaxation. Resort to study or philosophic consideration of current congestion, and suddenly all frustrations or impediments may melt away through the friendly efforts of superiors, employers, or other influential persons, ready to assist, encourage or perhaps bestow due rewards where such may be the heartening gesture. "Live in hope" is a much more philosophic approach to life than "die in despair."

A child born on this day may be congenitally gloomy, stubborn, depressed, frustrated, possibly because of lowered vitality. Recognition and succor from influential persons should break down such inhibitions or inertia.

South Dummer Euchre

The South Dummer Club held a progressive euchre party in South Dummer School. Prizes for the evening were won by Miss M. Elye, Port Hope, ladies' first; Mr. Leonard Chamberlain, men's first. Consolation prizes were won by Mrs. Earl Ireland and Mr. Geo. Baker.

DIAMONDS POPULAR

Until modern times only royalty and near royalty could display fine diamond rings, but today most married women wear them.

HELD AS WITNESS—Sylvia Weiner, widow of ex-convict "Chippy" Weiner, leaves her home in New York city for general sessions court. She was held as a material witness in the recent slaying of her husband and jailed in default of $25,000 bail. Officials say she told six conflicting stories of what she was doing at the time of Weiner's death.

Western Girls Prettier Than Eastern Ones

WINNIPEG, Jan. 20—(CP)—Girls in eastern Canada aren't going to like this a bit. A scout in search of chorus girls said here today that girls in the east don't stack up at all against western girls when it comes to looks.

Roly-Poly Al Weber, here to recruit 10 "ponies" (chorus girls shorter than five feet four) for a Montreal club, admitted that he hadn't found any girls here yet who were satisfactory from the dancing standpoint. But there hasn't been a thing wrong with the appearance of those girls he has interviewed.

"We come out here because western girls, especially Winnipegers, are prettier than easterners. We can't get prettier women anywhere and that goes for the States, too.

"Out here, they're fresher looking. And as far as dressers are concerned, well — whoever picked those 10 best-dressed women a while back never stuck his nose west of Toronto!"

Weber disclosed that he had been to Winnipeg twice previously to recruit dancers. His first trip was 12 years ago and he obtained a number of girls. On his next visit, a few years back, he was able to find only two who could make the grade.

"...They keep getting married off and we have to start out all over again," he moaned.

So they say about lovely Sonja Henie, ice skating queen and her new Canadian-born skating partner, Michael Kirby, both shown above in New York. For the first time in her long career on the ice, Miss Henie will skate with a movie star in her 11th annual personal appearance in New York. The movie star is Mr. Kirby. The two have been seen together a lot, on and off the ice.

British Go After New Records In Agriculture

BY JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Jan. 20 (CP)—British Agriculture, often content with antiquated methods before the war, now goes after production records with shiny mechanized equipment and long-range planning.

Measure of the advance from scythe to combine was given by Lord Packenham, Agriculture Ministry Parliamentary Secretary, comparing the 1946 farm picture with that of 1942:

Farm tractors increased 70 per cent; tractors plows 60 per cent; tractor mowers 120; potato spinners 60; milking machines 60; combine harvests 200.

Tractors in use increased from 55,000 in 1939 to 235,000 in 1948. Despite steel shortages and other production difficulties, tractor output in the third quarter of 1947 was higher than in the whole of 1938 and is to be further increased.

The goverment encourages the production of new farm equipment, such as caterpillar tractors, not so far produced in quantity in the United Kingdom. Meanwhile imports from the United States of equipment unavailable in the home market are being continued.

Need More Workers

An additional 60,000 regular farm workers are wanted by the next harvest, labor shortage being aggravated by the return of German prisoners of war. The Goverment hopes to have a total of 30,000 Polish and other European workers available within a few months and farmers may obtain the remainder from among British workers.

First objective of the new agricultural program is to save dollars. During the next 4 years Britain hopes to treble pork production, double egg production and increase beef and veal and milk output by 20 and 16 per cent respectively.

Mechanized equipment will help to increase the wheat acreage by 500,000 to 2,600,000 in 1948. And additional potatoes must be grown to maintain the basis ration of three pounds a person a week.

TERROR CONTINUES — British troops and workmen search the ruins of the Serai, the old Turkish government house in Jaffa, Palestine, where 14 Arabs were killed and 98 injured after it had been blown up by Jewish terrorists. Since the UN voted for partition, more than 875 persons have been killed in the Holy Land. Death of the first U.S. citizen to be killed in the 50-day-old partition warfare was announced by the Jewish agency over the week-end. The American was identified as M. A. Pearlstein, 22, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who was one of 35 Jews slain in an Arab ambush on a camel track through the Judean hills.

Laboratory Man Testifies Again As Ovaltine Case Resumed

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—Action against the makers of Ovaltine, A. Wander Ltd., Peterborough, charged with false advertising, was resumed Monday in a special court under Magistrate Gullen.

Called back to the stand by Crown Counsel A. H. Friedgut, for re-examination, W. A. Crandall, officer in charge of Vitamins Laboratory, Food and Drugs Department of National Health, Ottawa, testified that he gave Ovaltine "the benefit of the doubt" when he used figures in determining the value of two glasses of Ovaltine in comparison with two servings of peas. The advertisement, the witness pointed out, stated that two glasses of Ovaltine would supply more vitamin A than the two servings of peas.

Said Not Correct

"This is not correct," said Mr. Crandall. "I took the lower value of peas and found no comparison."

Asked if 5 oz. of Ovaltine would make statements in the advertisement correct, Mr. Crandall said it would be the "minimum" required to make the advertisement correct.

Lionel Bradley Pett, chief of nutritional division of the Department of National Health and Welfare, testified he was a specialist in medical nutrition and nutrition education. He said he had four university degrees, including Doctor of Medicine and Bachelor of Science. He also mentioned he was a member of several scientific societies in Canada.

Referring to an Ovaltine advertisement in the Toronto Daily Star, Dr. Pett said there were several "peculiar and confusing" matters. "There is no indication of whether you are to eat or drink Ovaltine," he stated.

"Two glasses of milk without any Ovaltine would satisfy many of the comparisons made in the text," he continued. "It is not true that better results of any kind can be obtained from the use of fortified foods."

Physiologically, the "ad" is "incorrect," he noted, because vitamins in a fortified food do not necessarily give "better results."

Extras Not Needed

Pointing out that the advertisement said: "If you are eating normal meals two glasses of Ovaltine will give you all the extra vitamins and minerals you need for robust health," Dr. Pett declared "one does not need any extra vitamins and minerals for robust health."

"We have, in the past five or six years conducted surveys all over Canada and thousands of people and these surveys suggest that more than half of the people in Canada eat meals with the foods named in the ad," he asserted.

"If that is the meaning of normal meals you do not need any extra vitamins," he emphasized.

At an earlier hearing it was stated that the advertisement "created an erroneous impression" regarding the relative value of Ovaltine to basic foods. The ad. contended two glasses of Ovaltine gave its user more vitamin C than four ounces of tomato juice, more calcium and phosphorus than two and a half ounces of cheddar cheese, more iron than three servings of spinach, more riboflavin than three-quarters of a pound of sirloin steak, more vitamin D than 10 ounces of butter, more food energy than two dishes of ice cream, more niacin than six slices of whole wheat bread, more vitamin B1 than three servings of oatmeal, more protein than three eggs and more vitamin A than two servings of peas.

Dr. Pett told the court that if milk were substituted for Ovaltine the comparisons of the foods mentioned would be "close to correct."

Essential To Health

"Vitamins are essential to health?" asked Mr. Carley. "Yes," replied Dr. Pett.

Defense counsel asked Dr. Pett to give the court a definition for malnutrition.

"I cannot give a simple definition," replied the witness. Turning to the magistrate he declared: "I'm sorry. Your Worship, but malnutrition is not susceptible to a short definition."

"I think this would be a good time then to adjourn for lunch," said Magistrate Gullen.

Gets 15th Divorce

DALLAS, Ore., Jan. 20—(AP).—Mrs. Betty Dunlavy, 40, a tavern owner, has won her fight for a 15th divorce. The decree was awarded by a county court when John S. Dunlavy failed to contest the suit. She married Dunlavy about two years ago. Several of her previous attempts at marital happiness lasted shorter periods, starting and ending in Nevada. She told the court she was married and divorced from one husband, — Victor Williams — three times. Prior to winning the latest suit, Mrs. Dunlavy told reporters she believed marriage "has its place" but added, however, "I have no prospects for No. 16 and I'm not looking."

WANTS UN POLICE—Talking to reporters in Washington, Mayor Israel Rokach, of Tel Aviv, Palestone, is shown as he urged a 10,000-man United Nations police force to keep order in the Holy Land after the British troops withdraw. He declared the British favor the Arabs who, he said, are under the direction of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem and those "who supported the Nazis during the war."

2 Ontario Men Will Go West For Trial

TORONTO, Jan. 20.— (CP).— Two Ontario men are expected to appear in an Edmonton court next Tuesday to answer five charges of conspiring to publish a defamatory libel.

Senior Magistrate R. J. Browne of Toronto, yesterday endorsed Alberta warrants for the men, publisher Jack Kent Cooke of New Liberty Magazine, and Harold Dingman, Ottawa correspondent for the magazine, but it is not expected the men will go to Edmonton in custody of the RCMP constable who brought the warrants here from the west.

Cooke said last night he was "not conscious of having committed any offence whatever" in publishing an article by Dingman entitled "Babies for Export" in New Liberty's Dec. 27 issue. The article criticized child welfare practices allegedly followed by Alberta's Social Credit government.

Endorsement of the warrants to enable them to be served in Ontario followed an unsuccessful effort on behalf of Cooke and Dingman to have the warrants quashed —in action which would have made the Alberta documents useless in this province.

Arguing last week for a motion to quash the warrants, Joseph Sedgwick of Toronto, counsel for Cooke and Dingman, said the article was entirely based on a report prepared for the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire by Dr. Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, noted welfare authority.

Asks Annulment

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 — (CP). — The New York Daily News says today it has learned that Nancy Oakes de Marigny, daughter of the late Canadian mining millionaire Sir Harry Oakes, is suing for annulment of her marriage to Count Alfred de Marigny.

Retail Sales Expected To Set Record

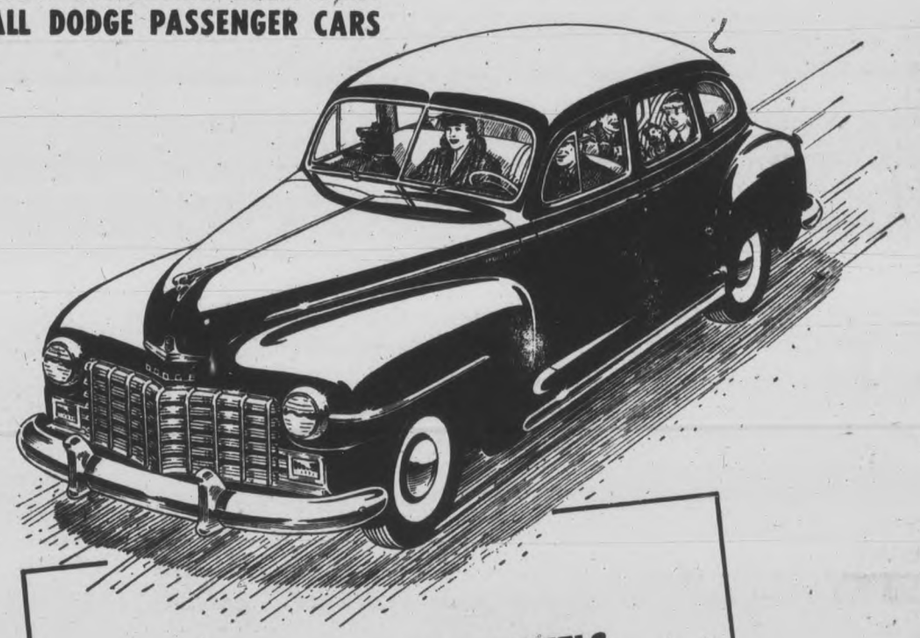
By The Canadian Press

While final compilation of the total sales of Canadian retail stores last year are not yet ready, indications are that they reached an all-time high.

It is estimated that they exceeded $5,000,000,000, which would be about 10 per cent above 1946 and some 154 per cent above the average of the years 1933-1939.

Price increases explain part of the heavy dollar total, but it is believed the unit total may have equalled 1946 and in some items exceeded it.

As indication of the expansion which took place in 1947 is seen in the fact that borrowings from chartered banks by wholesale and retail institutions reached an all-time high of $418,000,000, which is more than four times the amount of loans issued for this purpose in 1943. The total nearly equalled the figure for all types of manufacturing.



Commenting on these figures, W. E. S. Bryan of Fort William, retiring president of the Canadian Retail Federation, said:

"They suggest that the executives in this field are planning their future policies upon the expectation that consumer purchasing power is not likely to decline for some time to come. If their analysis of the situation should be at fault, it may well be that sharp re-organization will become inevitable with price cutting re-appearing as a sales stimulant; if it does, the repercussions will be felt throughout the entire economy."

DODGE SAFETY-RIM WHEELS WITH SUPER CUSHION TIRES GIVE YOU ADDED SAFETY AND A SMOOTHER RIDE

DODGE again adds a luxury car "extra" to all its passenger cars — unique, new-design Super Cushion tires to assure you greater comfort and safety. Combined with the new, wider Dodge "Safety-Rim" wheels, these bigger tires set a new standard of safety. They run cooler which lessens the chance of a blowout. Should a blowout occur, the deflated tire stays on the "Safety-Rim" wheel — even at high speed — allowing safe, straight stops.

Super Cushion tires use only 24 pounds air pressure yet they carry 26% more air volume, which greatly reduces road vibration. They cushion the car against crosswise shocks — the softer tires taking the jars when they hit ruts, stones or rough pavement.

This newest "Extra" joins such other outstanding Dodge extra features as: "Safety-Rim" wheels; Full Floating Ride; 6-cylinder brakes; an oil filter; four rings per piston; All-Fluid Drive on Custom models.

• Dodge engineers have done wonders to cushion cars against up and down shocks. (left). Lateral, or crosswise, shock had never been satisfactorily absorbed until Super-Cushions were produced. These bigger, more cushioned tires soak up lateral shock (right) giving a smoother, steadier ride.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

TRY TO SQUEEZE BOTH

NOTING that the only chance to make your contract is by means of a squeeze, the thing to do is build the most hopeful squeeze format. That is, construct a lineup at the end of the play which will throttle the opponents no matter which of them has what particular cards, if you can. Unable to do that, your job is to cover the largest possible number of arrangements of their cards.

	♠ A K Q 4 ♥ A 9 8 ♦ K 9 5 ♣ K Q 6
♠ 10 8 5 2 ♥ K Q J 7 5 ♦ 8 3 ♣ 8 5	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 ♥ 4 3 2 ♦ Q J 7 4 2 ♣ 9 3
	♠ 7 3 ♥ 10 6 ♦ A 10 6 ♣ A J 10 7 4 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	7 ♣

There are of course two very bad bids in that sequence. North has nothing like a game-demand two-bid; he can take only five tricks opposite a blank partner and hence couldn't even make a contract of one, let alone a game. The 4-Club response also violates sound bidding principles, as there is no need to jump and crowd the bidding once the side is committed to a game by a previous bid. But all's well that ends well. As to that, just ask Al Haeussler, of the Grumman Aircraft outfit on Long Island, who "got such a kick out of" his first squeezed grand slam that he didn't "bawl out my partner for not saying 7-No Trumps."

Upon seeing the heart K lead and the dummy, he noted only twelve tricks unless a squeeze would work. What a squeeze he built, Winning with the heart A, he scored the club K and Q, diamond K and A, then the rest of his clubs. As he led the last, the 7, he also had the two red 10-spots and two spades opposite four spades and a diamond.

Now note this: If the holder of four spades, whether in the East or the West, was the only defender who could guard against the heart 10, or against the diamond 10, the squeeze would work; the only pattern against which it would not win would be if one defender held the four spades and the other defender, whether East or West, could beat both of South's red cards.

As it happened, West, who had the four spades, also had to guard against the heart 10. When he tossed the heart Q on the final club, the heart 10 and three spades made the contract. If both the heart Q and the last diamond had been unplayed, four spade tricks would have ended the hand.

After East opens with 1-Club and West bids 1-Spade in a total-points team match, what would you do in the North?

TWO CARS COLLIDE

Damage to fenders of a car and a transport resulted from a collision at the centre of the intersection of Simcoe and Bethune Sts. about noon Monday. The car was that of Mrs. Pearl McCarney, 587 King street. Driver of the transport was Joseph F. McGrath, 252 Charlotte St. The report of PC A, Edmison stated that driving conditions were icy at the scene.

This cold weather is no life for a dog, according to the guest book at the Humane Society kennels. Already this week, five lost and shivering dogs have been turned in—two hounds and three collie pups.

CITY OWNS "CENTRE"

Dixon House, the community recreation centre in the Park Hill Road housing district, was accepted from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation by the council last night. It is not to be sold for profit, but is to be continued as a recreation centre. The bylaw was introduced by Ald. Raine and was seconded in its reading by Ald. Swanston.

REPORT ONE CHIMNEY FIRE

A chimney fire and a false alarm were the only two calls received by the fire department Monday. The false alarm was in the afternoon to a Louis St. address where a chimney fire was suspected. In the early evening a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Wm. Murney, 249 Dalhousie St. brought fireman to that address.

TRANSFER FORESTERS

A policy under which district and regional foresters will be transferred to posts throughout Ontario was announced Monday by Lands Minister Hon. Harold Scott. He told the annual meeting of Provincial Foresters the new plan is intended to make foresters acquainted with forestry conditions in regions other than those in which they are stationed.

TWO CRIPPLED CLERKS

Those wanting quick service or merchandise off the top shelf will just have to wait on themselves for a few days at Isadore Black's shop on George St. A week ago last Sunday, Ed Courneya who clerks there chipped an ankle bone and broke a small bone in his foot while skiing on the Nassau slopes. Last Sunday Aaron Black joined Ed "on the limp" by cracking up at the foot of Kemp's Hill after a downhill run, injuring his left shoulder and side. Both are hobbling around gallantly to please their customers, but in between times the chatter sounds like a two-man mutual consolation society.

Kiwanis To Mark 33rd Anniversary

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough will observe the 33rd anniversary of Kiwanis International during the week of January 18-24, with a program based on the service organization's 1948 administrative theme, "Citizenship Responsibility — Price of Freedom."

Ted Pridham, president of the club, said today that plans for the anniversary meeting, to be held at noon, Friday, at the Empress Hotel, had been virtually completed.

The guest speaker will be Kiwanian The Reverend James Holland of the West Toronto Kiwanis Club.

Founded in Detroit immediately previous to the beginning of World War I, Kiwanis International now embraces 180,000 business and professional leaders in more than 2,700 clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii.

Kiwanis International was not idle in 1947. In that year in addition to selling savings bonds and stamps valued at over thirty-three million dollars, the members of this organization have provided almost one half million lunches for needy children, cared for 100,000 children in day nurseries, camps and clinics, sponsored 3,600 Scout and Girl Guide troops, assisted over 100,000 veterans with housing and employment problems.

Recognizing the vital importance of the food situation at the present time, the Kiwanis International in 1947 promoted over 4,000 activities for farm youth and secured nearly 30,000 workers to assist farmers and plans generally to increase these activities in in 1948.

Mother Is Charged Under Liquor Act

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 21. CP)—A charge under the Ontario Liquor Licence Act has been laid against Mrs. Gwen Harvey of London whose two young children were rescued from a fire in their home last Friday.

The charge followed a demand by Mayor George Wenige for an investigation into the circumstances which led to Pauline Harvey, four and Billy, three, being rescued by firemen. The children were alone in the house.

After the rescue, police started a search for Mrs. Harvey in the downtown district but she returned while fire fighting equipment still was at the dwelling.

Mrs. Harvey said she had gone to a neighborhood store, but other witnesses reportedly told police she had been seen in a hotel beverage room. The charge under the Liquor License Act was decided after Crown Attorney Claude Savage conferred with Police Chief Earl Knight.

Police said her husband is not living at the home at the present time.

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said yesterday that Maurice (Rocket) Richard of the fourth-place Montreal Canadiens was fined $75 for his fiery outburst of temper in Boston Sunday night when he hurled two sticks on the ice from the penalty bench.

Richard received an automatic $25 fine for misconduct penalty handed out by Referee Bill Chadwick for slashing Milt Schmidt of Boston and arguing with an official. An automatic $50 match penalty was given for the stick-hurling incident. Campbell said no further action would be taken against Richard.

George Agar of Houston Huskies today holds a seven-point lead with 62 points in the United States Hockey league's scoring race. Teammate Paul Mundrick is in second place, two points ahead of St. Paul's Gino Rozzini.

Distelmeyer, 22-year-old Torontonian formerly of Kitchener, who is to represent Canada in the men's singles event and team with Suzanne Morrow, 17, also of Toronto, in the pairs, blamed the high altitude—6,000 feet—and rich food for his "off-color feeling." He is on a diet of tea and toast and hopes to resume training today.

Beset by injuries and urged to try to avoid more, Canada's Olympic ski team now training in Switzerland has cancelled all its race entries from now until the Olympic events, two weeks away.

The 1948 Canadian Olympic wrestling trials will be held at Toronto's Central YMCA May 28-29, the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada announced yesterday. The trials were set five weeks before the Olympic team's sailing.

Carl Liscombe, 32-year-old left winger of Providence Reds, continues to lead the American Hockey league's individual scoring parade. Liscombe, who took over the top rung a week ago and picked up three points last week to increase his output to 67.

$50,000 Bequest Is Made Scots Theatre

A climax to many propositions throughout past years for a Burns - Scots Poet Theatre has gained momentum when the executive of the Burns Federation decided at Ayr, Scotland, recently to accept in principle the offer of W. E. Butlin to give a site and a $50,000 donation for a Burns Memorial Theatre, which would be a national theatre for Scotland.

Sir P. Dollan, president of the Burns Federation, said the Federation had authorized him to discuss the scheme in detail with Mr. Butlin.

Told of the decision, Mr. Butlin said he was happy the offer had been accepted, and would take the greatest personal interest in the matter. He handed over the cheque at a dinner.

The site provisionally chosen for the theatre overlooks Ayr Bay, a few miles from Burns' birthplace at Alloway. The plan will cost $500,000.

Many local Scots and Robert Burns enthusiasts in the city who will be celebrating Burns' anniversary on Saturday, January 24, in the Empress Hotel, the night previous to his birthday (the 25th), will be happy that the project has made so much progress.

Col. J. A. Dewart will propose the "Immortal Memory," and Piper Tom Kay will play in the haggis at the Jolly Beggars' banquet.

Driver Reports Seeing Prodigy

BUFFALO, NY, Jan. 20 (CP).—A taxi driver reported he had seen a girl resembling Jacqueline Horner, 14-year-old piano prodigy missing from her Holywood home, board a train "for Canada" yesterday.

The driver, Leo Wilson, told the girl's father, George Wright Horner of Buffalo, he was "sure" the person he saw was Miss Horner, whose disappearance last Tuesday California police have been unable to explain.

However, late Monday night, Detective Fred Rambuss said an investigation of the driver's story had brought nothing to substantiate his belief that the girl he drove to the station was Miss Horner.

In Hollywood, the girl's mother Mrs. Clara Horner, said "I'm convinced Jackie has been kidnapped."

Wilson said he had driven the girl and a man from a downtown hotel to the Buffalo railway station, where the pair boarded the Canada-bound train.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

Claims Cabot Didn't Reach Newfoundland

By BOB JELLISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GLACE BAY, N.S., Jan. 20 — (CP)—Machinery through which Newfoundland might join the Dominion of Canada has just begun to roll when Albert Almon came along and threw a monkey wrench into the works by robbing the ancient colony of its most cherished belief.

Mr. Almon says that when John Cabot sailed to the New World in 1497, he didn't land at Newfoundland at all. It was Cape Breton he discovered.

Well, Mr. Almon has been awarded an honorary master of arts degree for his work in historical research and besides that he is the leading plumber of Glace Bay. Who could be better equipped to throw a wrench?

He was awarded the sheepskin by St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S., last spring in recognition of his gathering of historical data and archaeological tid-bits ever since he was a youngster. Now, he is considered the authority on the early history of Cape Breton Island.

And when he says Cabot probably never set foot on Newfoundland, he presents his findings to bear out his thesis.

Off and on since he was a youngster (Almon says he's "73 or 74" now) the tradesman who still operates his own shop has investigated the logs of Cabot's ship, the Matthew, and the first written reports of what he told the folks when he got back to England.

The log shows Cabot landed one June morning at a place Almon thinks is now Sugar Loaf at Cape North. He mounted the crest and raised the Royal Standard of England and the Banner of St. Mark over the island.

Circled The Island

Cabot then coasted along the shores about "300 leagues", circumnavigating the island and making notations of the adjoining lands. This fact leads Almon to remark that "Newfoundland was, at that time and that visit, too large for Cabot to circle. It must be that Cabot spoke of Cape Breton."

Armament of that period has recently been unearthed in Cape North, which seems to support Almon's theory. The tarnished articles included a cannon and several halberds, which were standard equipment on the Matthew. Almon knows that from a picture of the vessel being loaded for the voyage in Bristol. And, he no doubt left some of armament since he had it in abundance."

He adds: 'That was the only island Cabot claimed to have landed on, although he did mention sight of Newfoundland and named the island of Saint John."

These contentions and findings, interspersed with his own wry observations on the proceedings, have been set down in a schoolroom copy book, but otherwise Mr. Almon would be considered an iconoclast in any orthodox institution of learning. He is vehement in his belief that Columbus did not discover America. Cabot did.

Though he believes it possible that Columbus discovered South American about a year after Cabot's exploit, he says the closest Christopher ever got to North America was the island of San Salvador, about 350 miles southeast of the Florida tip.

Says Taft Labor Law Causes Black Market

TORONTO, Jan. 20—(CP)—Matthew Woll, United States Labor leader, said yesterday that the Taft Hartley labor law is forcing both union and management in the United States to "black market in labor agreements."

He told the annual meeting of local 35 of the International Photo Engravers' Union (AFL) that such agreements now are necessary in the U.S. because practices which had been benefcial to labor and management alike, are barred by the law.

The long-time vice-president of the American Federation of Labor said that while North American labor unions had poured millions of dollars overseas to foster democracy and preserve capitalism in devastated lands, "forces of reaction" in the United States had succeeded in destroying a quarter century of progress.

TWO CHILDREN LEFT ALONE DIE IN FIRE

ASKS FOR NEW LEADER—Prime Minister King asked the National Liberal Federation to select a new leader for the party. Some well-informed Liberals said his statement meant outright relinquishment of leadership to a new man.

Liberal Ranks Confused About King 'Retirement'

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, Jan. 21—(CP).—Canada had an answer today to its $64 political question — the future of Prime Minister Mackenzie King—but Liberal politicians read varying meanings into his long-awaited announcement of his retirement. While Mr. King asked the National Liberal Federation last night to call a summer convention to select "a new leader of our party," his words immediately touched off these interpretations from normally well-informed Liberals:

1. He meant outright relinquishment of party leadership and premiership to a new man as soon as that man is chosen by the convention.

2. He would accept re-nomination to head the party and government.

While the 73-year-old Mr. King emphasized that he wanted to retire soon—and would like to get started on his memoirs—observers said his 3,000-word reference to his own future and that of the party did not close his possible acceptance of a draft by

Hint Price War Over Gasoline

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP). — A Toronto papers said today that spokesmen for major oil companies have predicted "a price war in the Toronto gasoline business."

"They termed the reduction of three cents a gallon by a (suburban) New Toronto service station 'might well be the opening gun of the price war,'" the newspaper said.

"Officials said the present profit of six cents a gallon made by service stations was 'absurd.' The pre-war mark-up for gasoline of all grades gas 3½ cents, they said."

The New Toronto operator, Charlie Peck, said last night he has maintained his retail price at 35-37 cents a gallon and has not put recent increases into effect. He said his profit on each gallon was cut 50 per cent but gross sales and total profit are up 50 per cent.

34 "Mystery Men" Bound For Toronto

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 (CP)—A group of 34 "mystery men," who left Prestwick airport in Scotland on Trans-Canada Air Lines plane today are displaced persons bound for Toronto to work for a Canadian paper firm, it was learned here. The men, who reached Prestwick from Frankfurt, Germany, yesterday, were expected to arrive at nearby Dorval airport late tonight.

Three Perish In Montreal House Fire

50 Left Homeless As Flames Rage; Two Children Rescued

MONTREAL, Jan. 21—(CP).—Fire today took three lives in the community of Coteau Rouge, a part of Longueuil on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal proper. Fifty persons were made homeless.

About 9.30 a.m. firemen brought the blaze under control after laying more than a mile of hose to utilize water outlets in Montreal South and nearby St. Lambert.

Nearly six hours after the fire started at 3 a.m. in the rooming house of Mrs. Wilfrid Pelletier, it still was burning and spread to destroy a restaurant and four two-storey frame buildings and was bringing hot, crackling destruction to a second house.

Even as this fire burned, Montreal firemen fought another blaze in the business district of downtown Montreal where the two-storey building housing the R. S. Muir Electric Co. on McGill Street near Notre Dame was destroyed. Two firemen were injured in a roof collapse.

Dead in the Coteau Rouge fire were a Mr. Paquin, 80, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Guenette, all trapped in upstairs rooms in Mrs. Pelletier's house.

Saves Children

Mrs. Pelletier discovered the fire when she went to the kitchen and was met by a sheet of flame as she opened the door.

"It was terrible," she said, talking to a reporter as she stood in the snow outside her smouldering dwelling while firemen, helpless because of the lack of water in the Coteau Rouge community, stood just down the street watching the progress of the flames.

"I just had time to grab up my two children, call to the sleeping roomers and race outdoors ahead of the flames," said Mrs. Pelletier.

"I threw the children into the deep snow, then jumped into a drift myself to put out the smouldering embers in our clothes."

Mrs. Pelletier had 29 roomers in her house at the time and some had to jump from the second storey.

Malayan Federation Created By Britain

KUALA LUMPUR, Malay States, Jan. 21 — (AP). —Great Britain signed agreements today with the sarong-clad rulers of nine Malayan states, creating a federation of Malaya and returning internal self-government to the tin and rubber-rich Malay peninsula.

Only the Crown colony of Singapore, one of the great bastions of the Empire, was excepted.

The new federation, which represents the latest application of Britain's liberal post-war colonial policy, will become a going concern after Governor Sir Edward Gent issues an order-in-council, probably about Feb. 1.

Thereafter, Britain waives jurisdiction in Malaya over everything except external affairs, defence and appeals to the privy council, the Commonwealth's supreme judicial body.

British Columbia Gov't Can't Balance Its Books

VICTORIA, Jan. 21 — (CP). — The British Columbia government, like many ordinary Canadian householders, today is finding it increasingly difficult to balance its books.

Authoritative sources here say it is so badly "strapped" that consideration is being given to invading a tax field which in the past the government has considered an unpopular levy — the sales tax.

Amount of the proposed tax has not been mentioned but these sources consider it likely to be two per cent on all commodities except essential foods.

The government finds itself in the position of having all-time high revenues from most of its major sources—notably liquor, lands and forests, and gasoline—only to be outstripped by spiralling costs.

Furthermore, this year municipalities are expecting action on their plea that the government shoulder more of education costs. Premier Byron Johnson promised in an address last night "relief will be given at the forthcoming session of the legislature."

British Columbia's health and welfare program must find additional millions and expectation is that a sales tax, if introduced, will be earmarked for expenditure in this direction.

Ordered From Soviet

MOSCOW, Jan. 21—(AP). —The Russian government said today two Argentine Embassy officers accused of having tried to smuggle two Spaniards out of Russia in trunks Jan. 2 have left the Soviet Union at the suggestion of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. An Argentine Embassy spokesman said the two left Moscow by plane yesterday.

Labor And Farm Leaders Approve Probe

TORONTO, Jan. 21 (CP) — Spokesmen for labor and farm groups today expressed approval of the plan to establish a parliamentary committee to investigate causes for increases in the cost of living—but some questioned the power of such a committee to act "fast enough."

Eamon Park, public relations director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), commenting on the announcement in Ottawa last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said it is "a step in the right direction."

But he added: "It is a question if a House of Commons committee can get into action fast enough to give us the immediate relief from high prices we need."

Mr. King's announcement said the committee also will inquire into cases where hoarding and profiteering is suspected.

George H. Reynolds, secretary of the Toronto Wholesale Fruit and Produce Merchants' Association, said: "The public will be better served when it knows what the facts are."

V. S. Milburn, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said: "If there's a big bad wolf in this prices situation, then such an investigation should reveal it . . . the farmers will welcome it as we have nothing to hide."

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the USWA, said the investigation "should not be limited to retail prices . . . the entire gamut of prices should be studied, from the original cost of material through manufacturing and the wholesale process right down to the consumer."

John Lenglet, research director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO), said "there is need for an investigation of the meat-packing industry" but added he was "dubious whether this new committee will accomplish very much."

W. E. Tummon, secretary of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, suggested a complete probe of the meat industry—from farmer to consumer.

Missing Skaters Finally Found

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 21 — (CP). — The case of the missing Canadian skaters — Suzanne Morrow and Wally Distelmeyer of Toronto — has been solved. The figure-skating pair, scheduled to have given an exhibition in London's Wembley Pool Jan. 8 before arriving here for the Olympics, did not show up at the rink and their whereabouts had been a mystery for days.

It now appears they were refused permission to make the London appearance by the Canadian Figure Skating Association, which considered it unwise for the skaters to show their stuff before the Olympic games.

(The Wembley management had told newspaper men the refusal had come from the association but a spokesman for that body said he "knew nothing about" a refusal.)

Miss Morrow and Distelmeyer, formerly of Kitchener, said today they had received a letter routed through the Toronto Skating Club in which the association forbade their appearance at Wembley. They were both amazed when told the management had made a last-minute substitution and apologized to a crowd of 10,000 for the non-appearance of the Canadians.

Say Mother Shopping, Dad Working

Neighbor Hears Babies Screaming, But Can't Get In

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 21 — (CP). — Two small children were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a five-room house where they had been left unattended.

The victims were two-year-old Marilyn Flowers and her four-month-old sister, Joyce, children of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Flowers.

Three other children were at school when flames destroyed the tarpaper-covered dwelling.

The 31-year-old father was at work at a local factory and the mother was on a shopping trip.

Mrs. Flowers returned after a 90-minute absence to find the house destroyed and the two children dead.

Cause of the blaze was not determined immediately. The house was heated by a wood-burning cook stove in the kitchen. A small furnace, recently installed in the basement, was not in use.

"I don't know what I did to deserve this," sobbed Mr. Flowers, who was summoned from the factory where he is employed as an inspector.

Built Own Home

He said his family moved into the house this winter. He built it himself during the last three years when the family's home was a small shack at the rear of the property.

Anthony Tucker, a neighbor, said he noticed smoke pouring from the Flowers' house shortly before 11 a.m. — about an hour after Mrs. Flowers left the children.

Blame Stove.

"I went to the back door and could hear the kiddies screaming but the fire was burning so furiously I couldn't get in the door," said Mr. Tucker.

Mrs. Flowers told police she left about 10:10 a.m., visited a

Report Yugoslavia Has A-Bomb Supply

TRIESTE, Jan. 21 — (AP). — The pro-Italian newspaper La Voce Libera published today a purported secret speech by Premier Tito of Yugoslavia in which he was reported to have said that Yugoslavia has atomic bombs.

The newspaper said Tito, in a speech to his party executive at Zagreb, on Nov. 18, 1947, claimed that Yugoslavia had 150 divisions, atomic bombs and jet-propelled planes for the "final annihilation of reaction."

La Voce Libera quoted Tito as saying that reactionary forces, with the aid of United States and British capital, were working against the "Yugoslav proletariat," but that he had a "very strong, well organized army . . . Not only to protect our frontiers, but also to oust the division of gangsters concentrated in Italy and Austria." The quotations went on:

"We are ready to sink their fleet in the Adriatic; against their atomic bombs we shall use our own. We do not stand alone this time.

Cancel RAF Departure

ATHENS, Jan. 21—(Reuters).—The British air officer commanding in the Middle East has cancelled the departure of Royal Air Force squadrons at present stationed near Athens. The squadrons were to have left Greece within a week or two. A British Air Ministry spokesman commented today that the Royal Air Force has only a training mission and a communication flight in Greece at present.

Belleville Man Being Held On Murder Count

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21 —(CP)— Frank Ferraro, 30, of Belleville, was held today in the nearby Headingley Jail on a charge of murder in the death of taxi driver Hugh Scott, 48, said by police to have been killed when he sought to act as peacemaker in a night club brawl.

Ferraro was remanded for a week at his appearance in Provincial Police court yesterday. Police said statements had been taken from three other men who were released after originally being held as material witnesses. A fourth man, Steve Donaghue of Red Lake, Ont., still is held as a material witness.

Police said that from the various statements it had appeared that Ferraro had become involved in an argument with H. J. Scarff of Winnipeg, member of another party, over the use of improper language in front of ladies. Scott apparently was hit when he attempted to separate the pair.

The fracas occurred in a night club in suburban St. James. Constables investigating the disturbance found Scott lying on the floor. Scott was dead on arrival at hospital. Death was due to a brain haemorrhage.

Police Chief Donald MacDonald of St. James said a chair had been broken in the fight between Ferraro and Scarff when the latter fell over it. He said that to police knowledge no weapons had been used; that it was "strictly a fist fight."

Outstanding Athlete

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 21.—Frank Ferraro is remembered here as an outstanding athlete who starred at baseball and softball. He was born in Belleville where his parents and several sisters and a brother reside. Ferraro left Belleville about 11 years ago and went to Falconbridge. He had no police record of any kind, according to police here.

200,000 Workers Strike Over Food

COLOGNE, Jan. 21—(CP). — About 200,000 workers left their jobs in Nuernberg and Cologne today, protesting food shortages.

Union speakers assailed the British and United States administrations and the German government. Workers carried banners bearing such slogans as: "We want a united Germany"; "Death to black marketeers"; and "We are hungry."

More than 100,000 of the workers in the 24-hour strike were from 200 factories and firms in the Cologne area.

Proposes Special Parliamentary Committee To Probe Price Structure; Wants Power To Cure Any Price Excesses

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Jan. 21—(CP).—Delegates to the annual meeting of the National Liberal Federation today began planning for a national convention in response to a request by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that steps be taken to choose a new national leader and facilitate his retirement. At the same time, party supporters considered Mr. King's outright warning that their organization is not sufficiently "effective" to win a general election and his suggestion that they whip the party machine into shape "before it is too late."

From the party viewpoint,

OTTAWA, Jan. 21—(CP)— The National Liberal Federation today acceded to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's request that a national convention be held this summer by setting in motion the machinery for the appointment of convention committees.

those two statements stood out in a 10,000-word speech before the federation's annual dinner in which Mr. King also announced the proposed establishment of a special parliamentary committee on prices.

Despite suggestions that Mr. King had left a "door" open for his possible re-drafting by the party, the party had on record these two utterances:

1. A statement that it seems the time has come for the holding of a national convention.

2. A statement equally emphatic, that the selection of "a new leader of our party" should not be further delayed.

Apart from that, delegates digested his observation that no party, however good its principles and its policies, "can hope in these days to win in a general election without the aid of an efficient organization."

Need Something Better

"Thus," he said, "our party does not possess at the present time, nor has it since the last general election begun to have what is required to ensure the party's record and its policies being brought before the people as they should be.

"It does not possess in the Dominion, in the provinces, or in the constitutencies, the kind of careful scrutiny of the party's position which should exist at all times, if full justice is to be done cause and candidates alike."

For the public-at-large, perhaps the most important announcement was his disclosure that the government plans to ask parliament, after it resumes sittings next Monday, to appoint a special committee to investigate "hoarding and profiteering" in essential commodities and food services.

Dealing extensively with the prices problem, Mr. King conceded that there may be individuals or corporations who are taking advantage of an exceptional position or opportunity to charge "exorbitant" prices legitimately and

British Ready To Scrap 4 Battleships

LONDON, Jan. 21 — (Reuters). — Lord Hall, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the Commons today that four of Britain's battleships will be scrapped during the next 12 months.

The ships, scrapping of which will mean disappearance of some world-famous names from the Royal Navy, are the Queen Elizabeth, 32,700 tons; the Valiant, 31,000 tons; Nelson, 33,950 tons; and Rodney, 33,900 tons.

Disclosing the decisions at a specially-convened gathering of naval correspondents earlier, Lord Hall had opened with the words "the First Sea Lord and I feel like padres taking a funeral service for a number of very old friends."

Lord Hall also announced that the 30,750-ton battle cruiser Renown would be scrapped, and that several cruisers — believed to number seven — would also be disposed of in the near future. Winston Churchill went to wartime conference in the United States and Canada on the Renown.

Strength Uncertain

What the strength of the Royal Navy will be after the scrappings is still not clear, but Lord Hall told correspondents: "we have of course, five modern battleships which we shall retain."

These are the Duke of York, Howe, King George V and Anson — all with standard displacement of 35,000 tons — and the Vanguard, 42,500 tons.

Figures provided by the Admiralty showed British emphasis shifting to aircraft carriers and away from other capital ships.

Arab Fighters Strike Again

JERUSALEM, Jan. 21.—(AP). —Arab fighters struck again today at the Jewish settlement of Yehiam, northeast of Acre, in a renewal of yesterday's machine-gun and mortar attack which cost 17 lives.

Jewish sources in Jerusalem said they had been in telephone contact with Yehiam, one of 19 Jewish communities outside the boundaries of the proposed Jewish state, since the attack began.

They said they were told "some 500 Arabs, all in uniform, some with steel helmets and under the command of Iraq, German-trained officers, began firing at the settlement from trenches they dug yesterday."

Nine Jews and seven Arabs died in yesterday's day-long fight which was finally broken up by the appearance of army and police units from Acre. The Arabs apparently were trying to wipe out the settlement.

Find Few British Crimes Left Unsolved

Scotland Yard Aces Keep Relentlessly On Trail Of Remaining Mysteries

By MICHAEL O'MARA

LONDON, Jan. 21—(CP).—As police-station calendars registered the coming of 1948, new leaves were turned in the dossiers of Britain's hunted men — but seldom was the word "unsolved" scrawled across them.

Scotland Yard's criminal investigation department and he hundreds of law-enforcement agencies throughout the country rarely quit a case; and the hunt goes on month after month for alleged murderers, embezzlers, and those wanted for less serious crimes. Sooner or later, say the percentages, "routine inquiries" will pay off.

Major murder cases on which the police were working as the year ended were:

1. Gladys Hanrahan, found strangled, her head on her handbag, lying in a secluded part of London's Regent's Park early in October.

Superintendent Peter Beveridge and Detective-Inspector Reginald Spooner daily examine reports in the mystery of the dairy employee whose whole life can be accounted for — except her last hour.

Question Hundreds

2. Mrs. Dorothy (Rita) Green, known in Soho clubs and cafes as "Black Rita," shot in her Rupert Street apartment early in September by an assailant who escaped through theatre-hour crowds.

Acting Superintendent Robert Fabian—current "ace" of the CID —and Divisional Detective-Inspector Robert Higgins have questioned hundreds of denizens of London's "square mile of vice" and rumors say they know the man they want—but still lack evidence to bring him to trial.

3. Mrs. Margaret Cook, shot in the doorway of the Blue Lagoon Club in Carnaby Street, Soho, in November. Inquiries, by the same men, time and again cross the paths leading to "Black Rita's" killer.

A known murderer hunted by police is "The Mad Parson," John Edward Allen, convicted child-killer who escaped from Broadmoor Criminal Lunatic Asylum nearly five months ago, posing as a clergyman. He is believed "holed up" in London.

Said a Scotland Yard spokesman: "Most of these people are lying up somewhere. Some day they will move — then it's our turn."

Given Seven Years In Constable's Death

CHATHAM, Jan. 21 — (CP) — James Whalley, 24, last night was convicted of manslaughter in the death of police constable Douglas Reynolds and was sentenced by Mr. Justice Jean Genest to serve seven years in the penitentiary. The Chatham constable died from injuries received in a fight on the main street here Dec. 26.

Urges Canada Arm Against Communism

Most Slashing Attack Prime Minister Made On Foreign Affairs

By ROSS MUNRO

OTTAWA, Jan. 21 — (CP). — In nearly 30 years in public life, Prime Minister Mackenzie King has generally used cautious, middle-of-the-way language in public pronouncements.

But last night before the advisory council of the National Liberal Federation here he cut loose against Communism with as slashing an attack as he probably has ever made in the field of foreign affairs.

Launching into a denunciation of Communism in his long speech before 800 delegates, he waved his manuscript for emphasis as he declared:

"Today the signs of the new tyranny that seeks world domination are unmistakable. Communism is no less a tyranny than Nazism."

He continued: "Let us not speak of having entered upon an era of peace, where all about us are evidences of strife. Let us not allow another wolf-like menace to masquerade in sheep's clothing, seeking, all the while, whom it may devour."

Didn't Stop There

Mr. King didn't stop there in his bombardment of Communism.

"So long as Communism remains as a menace to the free world, it is vital to the defence of freedom to maintain a preponderance of military strength on the side of freedom and to secure that degree of unity among the nations which will ensure that they cannot be defeated and destroyed one by on."

Mr. King, speaking earnestly and with deep conviction, charged that Communism's aim was world conquest.

It hoped to effect its purpose by force. Its patterns of procedure, compared to Nazism, were similar but they went further.

"They seek to create unrest in all quarters of the globe, and, by devious underground and underhand methods, to penetrate and undermine the establish social systems of many lands."

Mr. King said that the world "is in an appallingly dangerous condition today."

He urged liberal-minded people to promote the "great principles" set forth in the United Nations Charter but cautioned them not to believe that the words of any charter "can effect anything in themselves" unless where force threatens "it can be kept at bay by superior force."

Guide Hanged At The Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 21 —(CP)—The first execution in Sault Ste. Marie in 46 years took place early this morning when Edgar James Simons, 19-year-old guide, was hanged for the murder of Mrs. Catharine Rupert last April 19.

Simons was a caretaker and guide at the tourist camp operated at Pancake Bay, 78 miles north of here on Lake Superior, by Mr. and Mrs. Rupert of Altoona, Pa.

An appeal against the conviction and sentence was dismissed by the Ontario Appellate Court January 8.

At noon yesterday Simons was told that a final appeal for executive clemency had been rejected.

Jail officials said that he ate a good supper last night and was calm all evening. A padre of the Salvation Army, Major A. P. Hetherington, sang hymns with him before he was led out to the scaffold.

At the last minute, Simons declared he had nothing to say. He was pronounced dead at 12.21 a.m. carefully exercised" will go far towards remedying these social wrongs.

Announcing appointment of the committee, he said:

"The House will be asked to give the committee the necessary powers to ascertain the facts with regard to the causes that have operated or are operating adversely to affect the cost of living.

Reasonable Raise

"Provision will be made for inquiry into cases where there are reasonable grounds for believing that increases in prices are due to a course of conduct which is unjust and unreasonable in relation to the production, distribution, and exchange of commodities and services essential to human wellbeing.

"On this committee, provision will be made for the representations of members of all political parties.

"As it is the public interest the investigation is to serve, the committee, subject to reservations the committee itself may deem advisable to make, will be expected to hold its hearings in public."

While the committee will not have powers of prosecution, its "mere existence," to say nothing of its work, will help to "slow down the increases," and in cases where, for example, there has been or is hoarding or profiteering, to effect a reduction in the prices.

At the same time, Mr. King blamed Canada's high price structure on the advance in prices abroad and said the "real cure" was production, not only in Canada, but also in the countries with which Canada trades.

No Price Control

Mr. King turned down suggestions that the government return to the wartime system of overall price control, terming it "purely a war measure" which could succeed only if accompanied by controls over wages, salaries and costs of production.

He rejected, too, proposals that subsidies be re-introduced, and pointed to a recent British Government announcement that it will provide no additional subsidies for the purpose of holding down consumer prices.

Asphodel Reeve Elected County Warden

James Humphries, Reeve of Asphodel, was elected Warden of Peterborough County at the inaugural session of the Council in the County Court House Tuesday afternoon.

William Darling, Reeve of Dummer, moved the nomination of the successful reeve, and Harry McIlmoyle, deputy reeve of Otonabee was the seconder. The only other nomination was Reeve W. C. Grant, Lakefield, moved by James Gifford, Ennismore, and seconded by Reeve M. H. Johnson, North Monaghan. Reeve Humphries was elected on the first ballot.

The newly elected Warden was sworn in by His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke.

County Assessor

The only motion put to the session at the first meeting was by Reeves James Gifford and W. C. Grant. He moved that the County Clerk should get in touch with the authorities in Toronto immediately with a view to having someone address the session in the matter of appointing a county assessor, and what benefits may have been experienced where a council had its own assessor.

Mr. Grant offered his congratulations to Warden Humphries on his being elected to office and intimated that he would not stand again for Wardenship. Reeve Johnston also congratulated Mr. Humphries and promised him all the co-operation it was possible for him to give while he was in office.

Members of the Peterborough County Council present were: James Humphries, Asphodel; Wm. Griffith, Belmont and Methuen; Albert Hall, Chandos; Norman Wilson, Burleigh and Anstruther; Jeremiah Mahoney, Douro; William Darling, Dummer; James Gifford, Ennismore; Peter Pearson, Galway and Cavendish; M. H. Johnston, North Monaghan; W. W. Dawson, Otonabee; Harry McIntyre, deputy, Otonabee; Gilbert McIlmoyle, Smith; Ross Harrison, deputy, Smith; W. C. Grant, Lakefield; W. E. Pakenham, Norwood; E. J. Leason, Havelock; and Charles Flynn, Harvey.

Humphries was first elected to office 10 years ago in Asphodel township. Hes served as councillor for six years and in 1943 was elected reeve of the township.

Warden Humphries was chairman of the County Roads committee in 1947, and during the first two years in office as councillor he was chairman of the Finance committee.

He was educated in Asphodel public school and graduated from Norwood High school. Upon leaving school he was a school teacher for a time, teaching in North Dummer and Hastings county.

Office in municipal affairs has been a form of service to the community enjoyed by the Humphries family. Mr. Humphries' father, Adam Humphries, spent 22 years of his life in municipal office. Nineteen years were served as councillor and three years as reeve. He retired from public life at the age of 75.

Crawls 300 Ft. To Safety Through Pipe

LONDON, Jan. 21 — (CP). — Dramatically rescued after an agonizing 300-foot crawl through a tile sewer pipe with water lapping his chin, Arnold Baynham of London recuperated to-day from effects of a sewer cave-in in North London that killed two fellow workmen.

Trapped and killed when nearly 100 tons of wet and frozen sand slid into a 24-foot-deep sewer excavation in the Bellwood Park Veterans' Housing Sub-Division late yesterday were George Blackwell, 49, of London, and Joseph Formica, 50, of Toronto, father of six children.

Baynham, third man in the cut when the cave-in occurred, was working in the 30-inch pipe and escaped being crushed but had to work his way through the tile pipe before being hauled up, almost exhausted, through a manhole. It was his second such accident on same job. Last year he escaped with broken ribs in a similar cave-in and Formica helped rescue him.

Could Not Get Bodies

At one time the feverishly-tolling construction men, police and firemen who attempted to rescue the men managed to uncover both Blackwell and Formica to their knees, but were unable to extricate the bodies.

They were finally pulled free with ropes and brought to the surface on Fire Department stretchers. Fire Chief R. C. McRonald said it was evident both men were dead when their bodies were first uncovered.

Fight Over Dog Causes Murder

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP).—A man was convicted of murder by a jury last night in a fatal shooting growing out of what he called an insult to his dog.

Testimony at the trial showed Christopher Malkish, 40, shot Vincent Conlon, a war veteran, last September in a restaurant. Witnesses said the trouble started when Conlon suggested Malkish take a half-eaten hamburger sandwich home to his dog. Malkish replied the dog would not eat hamburger and Conlon called the animal, a pure-bred Doberman Pinscher, a "fussy mutt."

Malkish testified he shot in self-defence, claiming Conlon attacked him with a knife.

Since there was no recommendation of mercy, a sentence of death in the electric chair is mandatory for the defendant.

Leading industrials ahead were Atlas Steel, Brazilian, Canada Packers B, Bank of Commerce, Canadian Canners, Eddy Paper, Great Lakes Paper, Walkers, Hinde and Dauch, Loblaw A, Shawinigan, Powell River, Minnesota and Ontario, Dominion Bridge.

Petrillo Denies Any Conspiracy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — (AP). — James C. Petrillo denied today there is any conspiracy between his American Federation of Musicians (A.F.L.) and the long-established radio networks to hold back the growth of FM (frequency modulation) broadcasting.

Petrillo told the House of Representatives labor committee he met with representatives of the fledgling FM industry a month ago and tentatively agreed to "make a deal" with them on use of musicians but said he told them:

"I have got to talk to the regular (AM) networks first."

Petrillo has banned "live" music on FM networks and the duplication of music programs on AM and FM networks. He also has prohibited union musicians from making phonograph records.

Petrillo was accused under the Lea Act of coercing Chicago radio station to hire more workers than needed.

Opposite View

But two Cabinet Ministers took the opposite view after hearing the Prime Minister and concluded he had made an outright statement of retirement with no strings attached.

They said their discussions with Mr. King over many months had pointed to this line of thought. And one, noting the Prime Minister's age, said he scarcely would accept a mandate from a convention for what could be "only a year or so."

One high-ranking Provincial Liberal said he thought personally Mr. King meant he would accept re-nomination as party leader at the convention.

On their face, he said, the Prime Minister's remarks also could be interpreted as meaning that he wanted to give up the party leadership as soon as possible but would be willing to carry on as head of government until the new man found his feet.

The new leader, temporarily at least, appeared without question now to be External Affairs Minister Louis St. Laurent, recognized for many months as Mr. King's own selection for a successor. However, Mr. St. Laurent is 65 and is known to be desirous of leaving public office.

A. Stephen Named Warden In 4-Way Battle In United Counties Council

COBOURG, Jan. 21—(ENS)—Reeve Alex Stephen of Haldimand Township was elected warden of the counties of Northumberland and Durham last night. Six ballots were cast on the first nomination without a sufficient majority and on the second nomination and the first ballot, Reeve Stephen defeated Reeve M. Wight of Seymour Township, 24-18.

Following were the nominations on the first vote: Mved by Deputy Reeve R. Ptter of Percy Twp. and seconded by Deputy Reeve D. Glenn of Cobourg, that Reeve A. Wartman be warden for 1948; moved by Deputy Reeve A. Ferguson of Haldimand Twp. and seconded by Reeve A. S. Baker of Bowmanville, that Reeve Alex Stephen be warden for 1948; moved by E. Woodyard of Clarke Twp. and seconded by Reeve E. B. Lingard of Port Hope, that Reeve L. Gordon of Colborne be warden for 1948; moved by Reeve G. Walton of Newcastle and seconded by Deputy Reeve A. E. Bennett of Seymour Twp. that Reeve M. Wight of Seymour Twp. be warden for 1948. Following was the vote:

First ballot—Wartman 8, Stephen 11, Gordon 11, Wight 12.

Second ballot—Wartman 7, Stephen 15, Gordon 9, Wight 11.

Third ballot—Wartman 7, Stephen 18, Gordon 7, Wight 10.

Fourth ballot—Wartman 5, Stephen 15, Gordon 10, Wight 12.

Fifth ballot—Wartman 5, Stephen 16, Gordon 5, Wight 16.

Sixth ballot—Wartman 6, Stephen 21, Gordon 4, Wight 11.

The session then adjourned for 15 minutes after which new nominations were brought in as follows:

Moved by Reeve Fred Denyes of Brighton and seconded by Deputy Reeve A. E. Bennett of Seymour Twp. that Reeve Wight be warden for 1948. Moved by Reeve A. S. Baker of Bowmanville and seconded by Deputy Reeve A. Ferguson of Haldimand Twp. that Reeve Stephens be warden for 1948. Following was the vote:

First ballot—Stephen 24, Wight 18.

As is the custom, the new warden was escorted to the chair by the mover and seconder of his nomination.

Is is most difficult to find words to express my appreciation of this great honor," declared Warden Stephen.

'All I can say is that I will do my best to discharge my duties to the best of my knowledge and ability. If at any time you think that I am not fair, speak up and say so. It is your privilege in this democracy of ours. When I came into council eight years ago they told me to sit still and say nothing and I would learn. I don't agree. I could suggest to the new members that you wade in and ask questions. In closing I want to express my appreciation of the fair campaign conducted by my opponents in this election for Warden," he declared.

Each of the unsuccessful candidate complimented the new Warden on his election and assured him of their co-operation in the ensuing year.

Chamber Jammed

Old timers said that the attendance for the Warden's election was the largest in their recollection. The council chamber was packed until nobody else could squeeze in and the committee room opening into the council chamber was also filled. Others crowded the hall and out on to the stairway. From the way the votes were recorded in open ballot, it was evident that political party interests were not considered.

42 Years Old

Seen in the crowd were ex-Wardens Roy Dodge, Fred Waterman, Percy Stinson, Norman Green, Milton Elliot, Percy Gooding, Cecil Carveth and Wilbur Davey. The session opened with a devotional service conducted by Rev. E. W. B. Mackay of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Counties clerk and treasurer Bill Barr presided over the nomination and and election of the Warden.

Warden Stephen is 42 years of age with 12 years' municipal experience of which three were township councillor, five as reeve and four as deputy-reeve. He has had 10 acclamations, the only contest being his first and 12th election. He was born in Haldimand township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Stephen. His father is 80 years of age and came here from Scotland. His mother was Mary Jewell of Haldimand township, comes from U.E.L. stock. The new Warden and his wife, who was Edna Parker of Haldimand township, have one child, Doris, age 7.

By religion he is a member of the United church and in politics a Liberal. By vocation he is a farmer and has farmed all his life. For the past six years he has operated his own farm of 300 acres. Warden Stephen held chairmanships on the road commission, of which he was a member for three years, and the board of management which he sat for 2 years. He also has been chairman of the road and bridge committee.

Privy Council To Determine Disputed Acts

REGINA, Jan. 21—(CP)—The CCF program of bolstering farm and labor groups has run afoul of the British North America Act and the Saskatchewan government is carrying to the Privy Council court decisions throwing out key sections of its program.

Crucial sections of the Farm Security and Trade Unions Acts, passed at a special legislative session shortly after Premier T. C. Douglas' C.C.F. govrenment swept into power in 1944, have been ruled ultra vires of the legislature by Canadian courts.

The Privy Council hearing will judge the Farm Security Act's controversial crop-failure clause —providing for automatic reduction of farm debt in crop failure years—and leave to appeal has been granted for the Trade Unions Act's equally- contentious reinstatement clause—empowering the Saskatchewan Labor Relations Board to order reinstatement and compensation of wrongfully-dismissed employees.

Because the British North America Act gives the Federal government exclusive right to legislate on interest and debt, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled the crop-failure clause invalid but, in a dissenting judgment, Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau held it a matter of agriculture and civil rights and, therefore, valid provincial legislation.

Ruled Unconstitutional

The Saskatchewan Appeal Court ruled the reinstatment clause unconstitutional because it gave labor board members judicial powers that could only be conferred by the federal government.

Referred to the Supreme Court by federal order-in-council after Saskatchewan refused to exempt property under the Veterans' Land Act and various national housing acts from its provisions, the Farm Security Act's disputed section six provided that when crop yields were less than $6. a seeded acre the principal owing on all mortgages would be reduced by the amount of interest due and final principal payment would be postponed for one year.

The Trade Union Act ruling was made when the appeal court quashed a labor board order directing the John East Iron Works of Saskatoon to reinstate five employees—allegedly dismissed for union activity—and pay them back wages. Also disputed are sections of the Trade Union Act declaring that board orders are enforceable as court orders and that unions may apply to courts for enforcement of bard orders.

Saskatchewan is also seeking from Canadian courts the right to regulate working conditions of employees normally coming under federal legislation. A Supreme Court decision expected in February will decide if provincial minimum wage legislation applies to postal workers and Saskatchewan is joining B.C. in a court fight to apply provincial working hours and wages codes to workers in railway hotels and restaurants.

Refuse Request To Halt Sewer Project

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21—(ENS).—At a special meeting of the Town Council Monday night, tenders for street foreman were considered and Joseph Brethour was hired to replace Thomas Peake at $135 per month. His duties begin Jan. 21.

Ellis Wood, garbage collector, addressed the council, stating he was losing $6.50 per day at his present rate of pay. The council pointed out that their contract for garbage collection was with David Bowen until April 1 and complaints of this sort would have to be presented to the board by him at their next meeting.

Because of the severe winter weather, the Booth Construction Company asked permission of the council to discontinue until spring the sewer construction job they are working on. This the council decided against and the contractors will be compensated at the rate of $2 per square yard for breaking frozen ground which cannot be broken by the back hoe of the shovel. For breaking pavement the extra allowance will be 50c per square yard. This payment will commence from the intersection of Ranney and Market Streets and continue to the completion of the project. The maximum depth of frozen ground which can be broken by the back hoe is from 12 to 18 inches.

The town solicitor was authorized to apply to the Municipal Board for the permission to issue debentures for $5,000 for overrun on the previous authorized expenditure of $43,290 for sewers; $3,000 for the construction of sidewalks and roads; and $12,600 for filling at the Integral and Wartime Housing projects.

J. F. R. Douglas was employed to attend, as solicitor, when requested, the regular and special meetings of the council, until N. Alex. McColl who has been absent, because of sickness, since last July.

The following officers were elected: Hon. president, Mrs. W. J. Lennox; president, Mrs. R. W. Linton; vice-president, Mrs. Moyse; secretary, Mrs. J. Williams; treasurer, Mrs. R. Beatty; assistant treasurer, Mrs. L. Benor; visiting committee, Miss G. Maynard; pantry committee, Mrs. N. Lloyd and Mrs. Higginson; sewing committee, Mrs. W. D. Wood.

It was reported that during 1947 15 meetings were held and the visiting committee reported having made 98 calls. The five-cent-a-week fund which has as its object the re-decorating of the church, was supported by 64 members of the congregation.

During 1947 the Guild catered for twenty-four dinners, one corn roast, and one farmers' night for the Rotary Club and also a banquet for the Trent Canal employees.

The Guild paid for the complete re-wiring of the church and also bought a new bishop's chair. This was presented to the church and dedicated to the memory of Miss E. Bedford. Other word done by the Guild was supplying new choir gowns for the choir, providing a new stove for the parish hall and donating a sum towards the new drapes and blinds for the parish hall.

Mrs. Fred Linton was presented with a gift at Christmas in appreciation of her excellent leadership.

No Tax Reduction Need Be Expected

Canada's fiscal year begins on April 1st. The Canadian Comptroller has released figures for the first eight months of the present fiscal year.

* * *

The financial situation seems to be this: in those eight months a grandiose surplus of 500 million dollars has been created. The presumption is that the surplus will be increased in the last four months of the fiscal year. A further presumption is that these large surpluses will make possible a considerable reduction in taxes, both indirect and on income. That belief is unfounded.

* * *

The Winnipeg Free Press has published an analysis of figures which show how false it is. Four-fifths of the 500 million dollar surplus has already been wiped out, and the surplus of revenue over expenditure for the months December-March will not be at all comparable with the revenue rate of the first eight months.

* * *

The surplus of 500 million dollars is not real because our loans to Britain and other countries have not been taken into account. Since the war's end (and particularly from the spring of 1946) we have lent to countries abroad $1,844,-500,000. These loans have not been treated as expenditures. This is a different accounting method from that used by the U.S., which treats advances made against loans as expenditures. The Canadian theory is that they will be repaid — though in the case of the 1¼ billion dollar British loan, no repayments are to begin until 1951, and only then does the loan begin to bear any interest (2 per cent.). Repayment is to be made over a period of 50 years.

* * *

These loans are presumably safe. The point is, however, that they have already been drawn on for as much as $1,342,-418,440 (up to December 1st). Where did Canada get the money? It used up its reserves of gold and American dollars which at the end of 1945 totalled 1,508 million dollars. The reserves had dwindled by December 1st to $408.2 million dollars. That is, we used up 1,027.8 millions of gold and American dollars and lent to Britain and Europe during the same period $300 million dollars more than that. Thus we are left with almost nothing in the pot, although we have committed ourselves to further drawings against loans. That is one way of looking at the December dollar-shortage crisis.

* * *

That is the general picture. The budgetary situation for the present fiscal year is similarly arid. We had up to December 1st a paper surplus of 500 million dollars. But the drawings against loans have not been taken into account. In the eight-months period the drawings amounted to $373,354,764. That wiped out most of the 500 million dollar surplus. It leaves a cash surplus of only 1¼ million dollars.

* * *

It might be asked: "If we had a huge surplus for the first 8 months, surely there will be a good surplus for the last four?" It should not be forgotten that in December the government had to impose restrictions against importing. These have entailed and will entail a loss of excise duties and tariffs. The total revenue lost may exceed fifty million dollars. It should further be realized that the drawings against the Canadian loans to Britain and Europe are continuing. At the end of next March they will probably have reached a total of 400 million dollars for the fiscal year.

* * *

The foregoing figures show that our surplus will not be tremendous. On what should the reduced surplus be used? It is sound policy in good times for a government to reduce the public debt. The present Government would be remiss in its duties if it did not make as great payments as possible against the national debt. The only practical conclusion to come to about tax reduction this year is that taxes cannot, should not and will not be reduced to any appreciable extent.

A Teachers' National Office

Formal education in Canada is controlled provincially, and this has tended to make Canadians provincial. Each province has its own textbooks (often written by teachers of that province), its own standards, its own Normal Schools. A result has been that Albertan teachers are almost solely the product of Albertan schools and colleges, Ontario teachers are likewise products of only Ontario schools, and they teach what they have learned in them from teachers who themselves were educated and trained solely in Ontario. Teachers in a province are generally natives of that province. All this had made for a kind of restrictive educational in-breeding which is not healthy. There are exceptions in the Maritime provinces where teaching certificates from a college in New Brunswick are accepted by Nova Scotia and P.E.I.

These conditions are changing slowly. In recent years there has been an exchange of ideas and information between teachers and administrators in the various provinces. On January 17th the Canadian Teachers' Federation opened a national office in Ottawa. This is a forward step. Eventually there may come a truly Canadian education, though the control need not pass from provincial departments to a central Federal department. Uniformity is not particularly desirable; what is needed is a letting down of the barriers between the provinces to allow the free interchange of teachers. B.C. teachers should be allowed to teach in Ontario so as to bring to this province their different points of view and educational backgrounds, and Ontario teachers' certificates should be accepted in B.C. The new national office will, we hope, foster this development.

When Gourmets Quaff

Businessmen's conventions can be boring; the atmosphere is either too stuffy or too like a schoolboys' binge. We should not mind, however, attending meetings of the Hotel and Restaurant Suppliers Association Inc. of Montreal, like those held a week ago.

A brewing company demonstrated the virtues of its products to all comers. The potion could be quaffed in special 12-ounce steins. On another floor of the hotel La Belle Fermiere (a food company) had a buffet table laid out in the manner of the reception table prepared for the wedding breakfast of Princess Elizabeth. Monsieur John Cassin of Les Amis d'Escoffier of New York discussed champagnes. Incidentally, 1947 will be a superior vintage year for the French product. Alas, none of the nectar was available.

Looking more closely into this matter we find that the Montreal affair was pork-and-beans compared with pre-war conventions of experts in the palate-pleasing business. They used to be held on luxury liners and all the spices of Arabia and the wines of Arcady and the concoctions of the patissiers of Paris were assembled to indulge the delicate sensibilities of epicures. O tempore, O mores. Please pass the marg.

Man, The Child Of The Gods

Wonders are many, and none is more wonderful than man; the power that crosses the white sea, driven by the stormy south-wind, making a path under the surges that threaten to engulf him; and Earth, the eldest of the gods, the immortal, unwearied, doth he wear.

And he masters by his arts the beast whose lair is in the wilds, who roams the hills; he tames the horse of shaggy mane, he puts the yoke upon its neck, he tames the tireless mountain bull.

And speech, and wind-swift thought, and all the moods that mould a state, hath he taught himself; and how to flee the arrows of the frost, when it is hard lodging under the clear sky, and the arrows of the rushing rain; yea, he hath resources for all . . . only against Death shall he call for aid in vain.

The three paragraphs above are from Sophocles' tragedy Antigone. Today, 2,390 years later, let us not despair because bacon has risen in price, because Russia is at odds with us, because scientists have torn the veil from atomic mysteries. Man is not a pawn, a plaything; he is the chiefest of all created things. "Wonders are many, and none is more wonderful than man".

WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

Illumination From The Amateur Theatre

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

A BOOK has been sent to me by the Oxford University Press which I think should be of interest to amateur dramatic societies and Little Theatre groups everywhere in Canada: it is "The Amateur and The Theatre" and it is a reprint of a lecture given in 1945 by Bonamy Dobree. Professor Dobree is the head of the faculty of English at the University of Leeds, and has a considerable reputation as a scholar in the field of English drama; he is also one of a small band of scholars who have attempted to understand drama as a product of the theatre, and not as a department of literature. These are his credentials; his opinions are fully able to speak for themselves.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT is Professor Dobree's belief that the amateur theatre is capable of refreshing and enlivening the professional theatre by its directness of approach and its enthusiasm. The sin of the professional is worship of technique for its own sake, and most experienced playgoers can tell when an actor is giving an unexceptionable performance, but is not "creating" as an artist should. Amateurs have little technique; unless they have sincerity and a real faculty for creation they have nothing to offer to the public.

◇ ◇ ◇

I THINK that Professor Dobree exaggerates this point. He seems to be a little too scornful of technique. Sincerity of purpose, unless balanced by a generous measure of artifice, is deadly dull on the stage, and it must also be remembered that sincerity itself is of no value unless the possessor of it also has artistic intuition, a generous measure of mother-wit, and a thorough intellectual grasp of the matter to which his sincerity is being applied. In the drama, as in any of the arts, it is not enough simply to "mean well"; you must do well, or give up your artistic pretensions. In his desire to encourage amateurs, it seems to me that Professor Dobree tends to run down professionals, and it must not be forgotten that professional actors and actresses of the better sort are artists of no slight importance, and no amateur, however gifted, can hope to hold a candle to them in the highly complicated task of creating a large gallery of impressive, credible, artistically complete characters.

◇ ◇ ◇

ABOUT the amateur theatre Professor Dobree has some things to say which I shall quote at length, for they appear to me to be very important. "Let the amateur take good plays", he says, "from Shakespeare to Shaw, plays sustained by thought and by words". Too often our Canadian amateurs waste their time by producing plays of slight worth, and they have not the art to give them a factitious importance. Professional actors may have to work in trivial plays for livelihood; amateurs are under no such compulsion, and they waste their time if they bother with plays which give them nothing to chew on. Again I quote Professor Dobree; "I want to see amateur societies increase enormously in number ....as a very valuable, almost essential, leisure activity. One of the problems of the thinker in educational matters is the difficulty of education for leisure, and here, it seems to me, is one of the prime ways of solving a difficult problem. One of the major things wrong with our civilization is the frustration of the creative instinct; the machine is more and more depriving the ordinary man of any opportunity for craftsmanship....My delight in the theatre is as an art, and not as a social medicine, but delight in an Art is partly in the illumination that we feel an art gives us; and I think that besides the development of the self that being an amateur actor can give innumerable people, there is also the delight of illumination that can be given to the audiences all over the country by seeing plays almost as an habitual thing"....These are words for our Little Theatres to ponder in their hearts.

◇ ◇ ◇

A BOOK on the same subject, but on a very different level, is "Amateur Dramatics" by Norman Lee (Oxford). It is a brightly written little book, which gives a great deal of practical advice to organizers of dramatic societies and amateur producers. The writer has had much experience in the field which he describes, and he has drawn upon the wisdom of experienced friends, as well. This is a book which any church or school group which is thinking of getting up a play would be well advised to purchase before making a beginning. It is thoroughly practical, and elementary in a good sense of the word.

Unconsidered Trifles

"I would like to meet you again," he murmured as they glided through the waltz. "What about letting me have your telephone number?"

"It's in the book," she told him.

"Good!" What's your name?"

"You'll find that in the book also," she said.

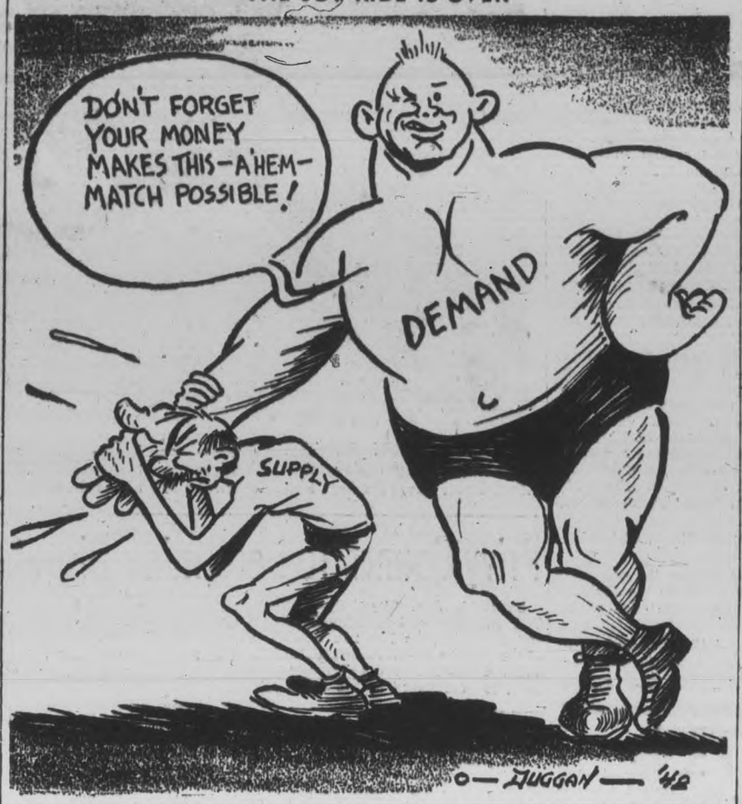
◇ ◇ ◇

A murder trial was in progress and the whole case hung on the matter of time. Only one witness had seen the prisoner on the day in question, and he was the timid little man in the box.

Counsel for the defence stood up, cleared his throat, and pointed his finger at the witness.

"Now think carefully," he began. "Are you quite sure it was exactly a quarter to nine when you met my client?"

"Er—quite sure, sir," replied the witness.



"Remember," went on counsel, "that a man's life depends on your being right. It was a lonely road, there were no clocks about, you admit you hadn't a watch, yet you remember the time exactly. Tell me, did you have anything to say to my client?"

"Yes."

"What did you say to him?"

"I said to him: 'Excuse me, but can you tell me the time?' "

Letters To The Editor

FED UP WITH BUS SERVICE

Sir: I see by the paper tonight the City Council has extended the lease to the Bus Lines for another 5 years. What for, may I ask? I am a resident of the south end and the service here is awful. Imagine a city this size and no direct line from the south end of the city to the city's largest factory. As you know to get to the C.G.E. we have to go away up to Kresge's store on George and transfer. Why does the bus have to double twice up George? It should run straight up Park to Charlotte. I venture to say if some of the City Council had to travel to the C.G.E. on a cold morning from this end and land at the plant late, they would not give them a 5 year extension of the franchise.

FED UP.

FARMERS AND INCOME TAX

Sir: I had hoped that some of our district farmers, or heads of our County Federation of Agriculture would have been sufficiently interested to comment on your editorial of the 2nd inst. under caption, "Wealth on the Farm". Perhaps, therefore, I may be permitted to do so, even at this late date.

The Examiner deplores the fact that so few farmers pay income tax. Quoting your own figures, which are presumably correct, you place the gross value of farm production in 1943 at $2,243,984,000. For present purposes this figure may be passed by as it involves considerable duplication. Your second figure of $1,434,056,000, cash income of Canada's farmers is the one we are concerned with, and admittedly it is a staggering sum. I think your estimate of 800,000 heads of farming households is, also, approximately correct. My objection is your manner of use of these figures. Here is the huge sum of 1½ billion dollars earned by a group of 800,000 persons, of whom only 3,560 paid income tax. Intentionally or otherwise, a grossly false impression is created. Why did you not follow these figures to their logical conclusion? A simple problem in long division reveals that the average cash income of the whole group amounted to $1,792. Obviously also, the cash income of many must have been below that figure when one considers the incomes of large stock farms, and the big grain farms of the prairies. (One farmer in Saskatchewan is reported to have paid in 1943, the year we are concerned with, $50,000 income tax on a 1,000 acre wheat crop.)

It should not be forgotten, also, that the figure, $1,792, represents the earnings not only of the farmer himself, but in a great many cases, of his wife and teen-age children, not for an 8 hour day, and 40 hour week, but a 12 hour day, 7 days of the week. Neither should it be forgotten that out of cash income the farmer must pay operating expenses, replacement and repair of machinery and equipment, purchase of fertilizers and concentrates, as well as the items of minor expenses incidental to operating a farm, and which are deductible for tax purposes. I am willing to wager that the net income of the average family farm in 1943, including the value of produce consumed, did not exceed $1,200, and on that point I am willing to abide by the verdict of any group of farmers the Examiner may wish to interview.

It might interest your readers to quote some examples of conditions in the '30s, 1932 for instance when cash income from agriculture amounted to $383,515,000, or an average of approximately $525 per farm, less, I imagine, than an unemployed family drew in relief. Yet out of this the farmer was supposed to live, pay taxes, and keep buildings and machinery in repair. It is not surprising, therefore, that when farm income began to rise in the '40s, vast sums had to be spent in repairs to buildings, and new machinery and equipment. In 1940 the late Sir Joseph Flavelle estimated that $250,000,000 would be required to effect repairs and replacements on Canada's farms.

Is the farmer getting rich today, 1948? I would refer you to your interviews with Mr. C. N. Downer in column 1, page 2, of your issue of the 14th inst.

One more shot and I'm through. You ask, "Are the farmers poor?" and cite capital investment in 1943 as $5,288,131,000. Not exactly poor, but if this investment had earned 3 per cent. the farmers would have had $158,-000,000 more income on which to pay tax. Of what use are paper values if they cannot be realized upon? The best buildings, stock, and equipment on the best farm in the country cannot earn profits in years of drought, excessive rainfall, and other unfavourable conditions. Try pulling the roof off your building, Mr. Editor, and see how efficient your operations will be with your plant exposed to the vagaries of the weather, and the whims of nature.

In conclusion, may I say most emphatically that this letter is not a defence of the farmer, or any other who should pay income tax, and doesn't. For him I hold no brief, he should be compelled to pay. My point is that far fewer farmers are in the income tax brackets than is generally supposed.

"PRODUCER

R.R. 1, Peterborough.

(ED. NOTE: "Producer" passes too lightly over the gross value of farm products, which was a billion dollars greater than the cash income, and allows considerable leeway for costs of production like feed for farm animals, farm labour etc. The average cash income of a farmer (approx. $1,792) should be compared with the average wage of people engaged in industry, which was $1,525. Out of that industrial workers had to buy all their food and pay city taxes or rent. We have no figures to show the total income tax paid by industrial workers. In 1943 employees of all kinds, 565,996 of them, (chiefly industrial workers) paid 71 million dollars in income tax. "Producer's" statements are interesting but do not invalidate our contention that agriculturalists (who are, remember, engaged in the biggest "industry" next to manufacturing) paid a startlingly low total income tax—about 2/3 of 1 per cent. of that paid by employees.)

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Elijah the Tishbite, who was of the inhabitants of Gilead said unto Ahab, As the Lord God of Israel liveth before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word.

And the word of the Lord came unto him, saying, Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward, and hide thyself by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan. And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook; and I have commanded the ravens to feed thee there....

And it came to pass after a while, that the brook dried up, because there had been no rain in the land. And the word of the Lord came unto him, saying, Arise, get thee to Zaraphath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow woman there to sustain thee....

And it came to pass after these things, that the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick; and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath left in him....And he said unto her, Give me thy son. And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him up into a loft, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed....

And the Lord heard the voice of Elijah; and the soul of the child came into him again, and he revived. And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the chamber mother; and Elijah said, See, thy son liveth. into the house, and delivered him unto his

And the woman said to Elijah, Now by this I know that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the Lord in thy mouth is truth. (I Kings 17: 1-4, 7-9, 17, 19, 22-24.)

Life And Education Of A Prince....

By H.R.H. DUKE OF WINDSOR

CHAPTER NINE

Hansell's earlier misgivings about my ability to hold my own in the classroom were all too convincingly borne out at the end of my first term. Examinations came every four months and marks were posted for everybody to see how he stood "in the order." However, according to a peculiar Osborne custom, we cadets when going on leave were required to carry the college report home in a sealed envelope which we handed to our parent or guardian upon arrival.

At the end of the first term I was not far from the bottom. However, my father had not complained about the first report; and so, in December 1907, I bore the second home to York Cottage without misgivings. While I had not distinguished myself in any subject, I was not conscious of having failed in any. As soon as the affectionate home-coming salutations were disposed of, I handed the fateful envelope to my father, who, evincing no immediate interest in its contents, put it casually in his pocket.

Summoned To Library

As there was no mention of my marks that evening at dinner I said to myself, "This is fine." Then next morning there was Finch with a long face and a chilling summons to the cold library, and a minute those red, cloth-covered walls witnessed a painful scene. My father looked me in the eye. "David," he said, "I am sorry to have to tell you that you have a bad report. Read it."

It was a curt, cruel document which bore no relation whatever to my own appraisal of my efforts. The sad fact was that mathematics, that spectre of Hansell's tutoring, had in all of its hideous aspects pursued me to Osborne. And without applied mathematics, navigation and engineering, the two pillars of a naval officer's education, were lost to me. My father's remedy for this crisis was to engage a master from Osborne; and as soon as Christmas festivities were over, I buckled down to work, forgoing, in the interest of my survival, a great part of my leave.

Yet it all seemed beyond my powers, and I fell prey to an appalling inferiority complex. When the following spring I took home the third term report, so overpowering was the sense of failure that on being summoned into the library, and without waiting for my father to speak, I burst into tears. "Come, David," he said, with unexpected kindness, "this is no way for a naval cadet to act. Besides you have quite a good report this time, and I am pleased with the progress you have made."

My father's interest in Osborne did not stop with my studies. During holidays he would ply me with questions about how we lived, what we ate, how much time we had to ourselves, and shake his head and exclaim that the Navy had gone soft. The frown that crossed his face when he learned that I slept not in a hammock but in a bed could not have been more severe had I informed him that gun turrets had been replaced by cocktail bars. "It wasn't like that in our day, was it Charles?" he would murmur resentfully to his life-long friend and equerry Sir Charles Cust. "We weren't coddled that way, were we?"

Out of Bottom Class

Evenually, by hard and brooding work during my leaves, I managed to pull myself out of the ruck of the bottom class, and was able to write to my father:—

"I am awaiting the results of the next exam with great excitement. I was fifth in an engineering paper the other day, and now I am 15th in the order."

Yet I was never really secure in the subjects, and in reporting to my father on my position in the order I was careful to introduce any adverse change in the best possible light.

"Dear Papa,

". . . My train arrives at Paddington at 1.25 p.m., so I shall just arrive in time for lunch. These are my places in the latest exams:—

History	30
Navigation	57
Engineering	59

". . . out of 59. As I did pretty well in the other two mathematical exams, trigonometry and geometry, it does not matter so much about navigation.

"Your devoted son . . ."

No doubt my being a Prince and in direct line to the Throne saved me where other boys without these connections might well have been dismissed. But I like to think that it was on my own merits that I survived to progress to Dartmouth for the last two years of my naval training ashore.

I took part in general school activities, and even sang in the choir, an accomplishment which had the subsidiary attraction of sometimes relieving the choristers from certain parades.

In January 1909, just before I went on to Dartmouth, my brother Bertie entered Osborne, also destined for a naval career. Since the school's rigid caste system did not permit a senior to be seen in the company of a first-termer, I dared not re-establish there the close companionship which we had always known. However, he was presently beset by the same difficulties that had nearly overpowered me, and by prearrangement we used to meet secretly back of the playing fields. Bertie would tell me his new boy troubles, and I would try to advise him on the basis of my own experience. I am afraid that between us, with the best of intentions, we imposed quite a strain upon the college schoolmasters.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Bless 'em all, bless 'em all,
Especially the ones who are tall;
They sure have the jump
On the short little runt
In the sport which is called basketball.

And isn't it the truth? They hop up at centre and tip the ball where they wish, their long arms make 'em tough to check, they have an obvious edge in shooting and are dangerous on rebounds off the backboards. The cage game certainly seems to be a tall guy's game.

* * * * * *

But we note where some officials around Madison Square Garden figure five of eight fouls come from scrambles under the hoops. And they state the remedy is to put the basket five feet higher and move it 20 inches from the backboard. At present they are just six inches from the backdrop and eight feet up. Thus, 'tis claimed, it would cut much of the element of luck and put a premium on accurate shooting. As well as cutting down some of the present high scoring. As a result, there'd be no congestion under the hoops, few rebound goals, no ganging for rebound, tap-in or re-taps, fewer fouls and less whistling. And more shorter guys, if good shots, could hold their own. Or so it seems to us.

* * * * * *

Long And Short Of It

Short athletes usually hold their own in most games—some even do in basketball. Size is certainly an advantage but the big leagues in hockey and baseball have plenty of short aces performing. Boxing and wrestling of course seed 'em according to size. Even rugged games like football and lacrosse have their share of under-sized chaps, though not too many. It is all up to a guy himself; if he has the goods and the ambition, then lack of height isn't going to keep him out of his favorite game.

* * * * * *

Harry McNabb, former local puck fan, writes from Craik, Sask., enclosing a couple of clippings of Harvey (Barney) Barnes. Barney, with Regina Caps, played for a spell for the Petes at the old Brock, and he's still going strong. One clipping said the defence star was out at present with an infected elbow. Another said: "Our Scotty Melville wonders what's wrong with Harvey Barnes for the league's most valuable player award. The effervescent one from Carnduff won't be celebrating his 35th birthday again, says Melville, but is prancing around more effectively than ever before. Too bad the CAHA big-wigs can't see him perform while they are in Regina—he's one that the new streamlined rules suit. They were practically written for him." Good stuff, Barney.

Petes Got The Duke

Fans flocked to see the Petes-Legion scrap on Scugog ice last eve and they witnessed a nifty number. Fast, close and a bit rugged in spots—though 'twas kept under control. Three major penalties handed out and one misconduct. Latter was handed to Dootch Vitarelli for asking Referee Bill Morrison: "Why don't you wear a Petes' sweater?" The query came when Bill ruled that Godfrey's shot hadn't gone over the goal-line in the third period, though the red light was flashed. We were too far away to see. The Petes won 5-3 and they looked a goal better on the game to us. We'd say it was about a 5-4 difference and that's twice they've been a goal better than the Legionnaires so far this semester. They clash again Friday in Omemee.

* * * * * *

Both sides kept up a rapid pace throughout and they look well matched in speed and condition now. Petes showed more polish in close, as Legion didn't cover up quite as well in front of their own net, and the Legion shooting was a little off. But there certainly isn't much difference betwixt these clubs and anything can happen any game. Both goalies shone in a busy chore, with Bun Kingdon, Freddy Mortimer and Johnny Godfrey other outstanding players all evening. All the guys out there toiled like troopers as there's plenty of rivalry between the local teams. They'll dish up dandy duels every time they clash this semester.

Fandom Out In Force

Big crowd took the special train from here—someone said about 700—while cars and buses took another crowd. Rink was packed with some 1,800 fans and we're told some were turned away. That's really tough luck, but Lindsay fans were lined up a block long at seven p.m., so Peterborough followers coming late were out of luck, in many cases. Interest certainly is high in the senior "B" setup all around the district. Examiner caretaker told us on our return: "The phones were going as if it was an NHL game!" Well, those who missed the joust in Lindsay should be on deck early Friday for the return showing. The Vets of Bella Villa play Kingston Saints this evening.

FINE GOALIE—Ray Harding improves each year it seems in goal for the Petes and was a big help last night as they edged Legion 5-3 in Lindsay in a swell OHA senior "B" struggle.

STARS AGAIN — Johnny Godfrey continues to play a whale of a game and he starred in Lindsay for Legion last night, even though the Petes pulled out a 5-3 win in a swell scrap before a big crowd.

Marmora Victors Over Stirling 9-5

STIRLING, Jan. 2—1 (ENS).—Marmora remained undefeated in the TVL when they took a 9-5 win over the Stirling-Bata Combines, fininshing strong in a speedy and fairly rugged struggle. B. Bastedo scored from D. Bastedo in the first, with Goodchild evening it up from Cousins. Twigg got the only Stirling marker in the second, with Utman assisting. E. Leonard got one from G. Leonard for the visitors and Trumble counted on Goodchild's pass. There were five penalties in the first frame and seven next heat.

Marmora pressed in the third to tally six times. Trumble got three of them, with G. Leonard, Goodchild, and McInroy getting the others, and Cousins having two assists and Goodchild a pair. For the homesters, Desjardins counted a pair of markers with B. Bastedo getting the other from Stapely. Only two penalties were given out. Trumble and G. Leonard shone for Marmora, with the Bastedo boys and Desjardins best for the other side.

Marmora — Goal, Koski; defence, G. Leonard, E. Leonard; centre, Cousins; wings, K. Trumble, Goodchild; alternates, Lovelace, McInroy, E. Trumble, Doyle, Brooks, Forestell.

Stirling — Goal, Aquino; defence, Armstrong, Utman; centre, D. Bastedo; wings, B. Bastedo, Mason; alternates, Muffitt, Cook, Twigg, Desjardins, Stapely, Morton, Ingram.

Referee—W. Shannon. Linesman—B. Bowen.

Petes Beat Legionnaires 5-to-3 Before A Big Crowd In Lindsay

The Petes took a firm grip on first place in their OHA Senior "B" group race last night in Lindsay when they defeated Legionnaires 5-3 before over 1,800 fans. A big crowd went from Peterborough—many on a special train—and a number couldn't get in the packed arena at game time. They play again in Omemee on Friday.

It was a typical Petes-Legion tilt, fast and close with some stiff checking in spots, ahough the referee kept a firm clamp on the game. Only nine penalties were handed out, but three were majors and one a misconduct. The ice was good and the pace fast practically all the way, and play pretty even throughout. Doug Mortimer suffered a bad bruise in the side in the first frame and had to retire.

An Argument

The Petes had a 2-1 edge in the first period, though they were outplayed the last half of this inning. It was pretty even in the middle chukker with the Petes having a 1-0 margin in scoring. And it was even again in the 2-2 third stanza, with each side in turn coming awfully close. A hot argument ensued when Godfrey apparently scored and the light went on but the referee overruled it, saying the puck hadn't crossed the goal-line. The Petes had a little more polish in close this contest, as Legion didn't cover up as well in front of their own net, and also were a bit off in their shooting.

Three stars were picked by neutral judges and given prizes, the three being Godfrey, Kingdon and Harding. To these might well be added Ross Nicholls and Fred Mortimer. But all players on both sides worked hard in a fine fray, even if it was ragged at times—though the pace kept up and the issue was in doubt till near the end.

Fast Going

They started fast on the speedy surface and Horton drew an early penalty for high-sticking. Then Ernie Nicholls went off for playing with a broken stick. He wasn't back when Blewett scored in close from Jerry Creighton and Garvey on a nice play. Later, Tompkins took a passout from Fred Mortimer and rapped it home, though off-balance, at close range to make it 2-0. There was some stiff checking and ragged but fast hockey, with Legion pressing the last part. Dootch Vitarelli came close and then he and Coughlin aided on Parnell's neat in-close counter on a backhand drive. They came close again and Doug Mortimer went off hurt. Harding robbed Greenlaw and later Ernie Nicholls as Legion swarmed in.

It was hot and even in the second. Fred Mortimer pulled a nifty rush and Burns nearly caught a corner. Then Kingdon tallied a dandy on a return pass from Fred Mortimer to make it 3-1. Rochetta and Greenlaw threatened and, when Tom Parsons was gated for high-sticking, Legion really pressed. But Tom was back when Horton got it for elbowing and he returned in time to keep it even and fast the rest of the way, even if the game was disorganized in spots as they tired and changed players.

Two Apiece

Greenlaw took Godfrey's pass at the start of the third heat and skirted defence to blast one home and narrow down the margin. Blewett was robbed by Nicholls and Drake Jopling's bullet almost went in. E. Nicholls was chased for tripping and a fight broke out between Hicks and Tompkins, each drawing majors. Freddy Mortimer got in close to slap the disc into the hemp aided by Blewett and Kingdon. Ernie was back when Kingdon got another from Fred Mortimer at point-blank range. They were all back and E. Nicholls nearly notched one. J. Mortimer got a major for slashing and drawing blood on Godfrey, and Legion pressed hotly but Harding was right on his toes. Godfrey claimed a goal—and the light went on—on a close one but Referee Morrison said it did not go over the goal-line. Dootch Vitarelli argued too hotly and was given a misconduct penalty. Then Godfrey dropped a pass back to Rochetta, stepped ahead and took Rochetta's forward pass and circled the net fast to shove a nice one home. They pressed the rest of the way but couldn't cut it down.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, R. Creighton and Jopling; centre, Garvey; wings, J. Creighton and Blewett; alternates, Horton, T. Parsons, F. Parsons, Tompkins, Kingdon, F. Mortimer and J. Mortimer.

Legion: Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and D. Mortimer; centre, Rochetta; wings, R. Greenlaw and Crowley; alternates, E. Nicholls, A. Nicholls, Burns, Parnell, Coughlin, D. Vitarelli and Hicks.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21 — (AP) — Lana Turner was reinstated by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio yesterday after she agreed to play the role of Lady de Winter in "The Three Musketeers." M. G. M. denied her suspension last Wednesday stemmed from Miss Turner's recent romance with Tyrone Power and her current one with tinplate heir, Bob Topping.

IRRESISTIBLE FORCE—In a game with the Streatham team, Canada's Olympic team was held to a 5-5 tie in London. Here Canadian goalie, Cpl. Downey, holds the puck with his skate while the Streatham players did everything but move the goal post to score a goal. The Canadian team is now in Switzerland.

Queen Mary Wins

Queen Mary blanked Queen Alex. 3-0 yesterday at Inverlea rink in a Junior Public School Hockey League tussle. There was no count in the first period but Franks scored from Roberts in the second. The latter counted again in the third as did Montgomery in the fast and clean contest on good ice. Teams:

Queen Mary: Goal, Cullen; defence, Merrett, Sarginson; centre, Franks; wings, Roberts, Deal; alternates: Finn, Harrison, Putnam, Jackson, Montgomery, Frazer.

Queen Alex: Goal, Morris; defence, Dack, Stewart; centre, T. McKinney; wings, B. McKinney, Weir; alternates: Hughey, B. Whitton, Harrison, Cooke, W. Whitton, Northey, Clarke.

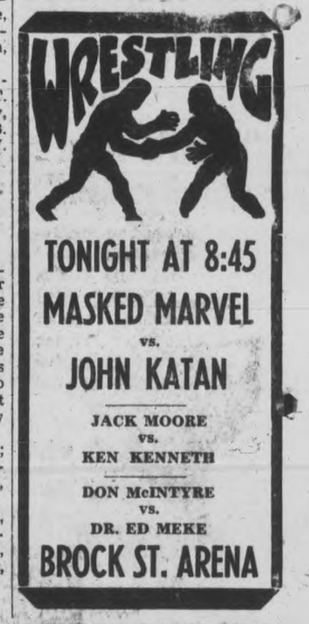
Separate School Tie

St. John's and Immaculate Conception battled to a 1-1 junior Separate School Hockey League draw, the Saints scoring in the first when Giardino dented the hemp and Purtell tying it in the third for the Easterners. It was snowing and blowing and hard to keep the ice at the Sacred Heart rink clean, but play was speedy and keen all the way. Teams:

St. John's —Goal, Woodhouse; defence, Damario, Blodgett; centre, Clarke; wings, Giardino, Kane.



Immaculate Conception— Goal, Guerin; defence, Walsh, O'Loughlin; centre, Byrne; wins, Purtell, Scott; alternates, Garvey, Jones, Leahy, O'Toole.

Hockey Dispute Showdown

The dispute over which of two United States ice hockey teams shall play in the winter Olympics starting Jan. 30 is headed for a showdown with all principals sticking to their guns. Quick rebuttal came from the Swiss in reply to a Chicago dispatch saying the United States Olympic committee had voted 66 to 6 to withdraw all American entries from the games if the A.H.A. team was allowed to compete.

Marcel Henninger, president of the Swiss committee, said in Geneva, "for us the position remains unchanged. All the American teams, including the hockey team of the A.H.A. have been properly inscribed and can participate."

Brantford Redmen Beat St. Catharines Referee

By The Canadian Press

Although it's a little late in the season Brantford Redmen still hope to gain recognition in the OHA Senior "A" race—last night they got some. Abiding by the current trend in hockey "if you can't beat the opposition, beat the referee," the last-place Redmen did their best at Owen Sound. Lloyd Mohne, Brantford rearguard, gave Referee Frank Elliott of St. Catharines the worst going-over any OHA official has taken this season.

Incidentally, Tommy Burlington's Mercurys broke their fourth-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen by swamping the Redmen 12-4, leaving them two points behind the third-place Stratford Indians.

Standings Unchanged

Standings remain unchanged in the junior loop but last night Oshawa Generals moved to within one point of the top-place Windsor Spitfires with a 6-3 decision over Toronto St. Michael's Majors. St. Mike's are in ninth place with but five victories in 24 starts.

It was comparatively tame contest at Owen Sound, until shortly before the end of second period Just as the bell rang referee Elliott called a penalty against Mohns for roughing Murray Fife. Mohns protested and started dishing out butt ends at the official. After the third such blow Elliott called a match misconduct and Mohns then cross-checked the referee across the side of the head, opening a cut beside Elliott's right eye.

Every man on the Owen Sound club shared in the scoring harvest except goalie Bob Gillson and defenceman Tom Pollock. Top man was Burlington with three goals and four assists, his third hat-trick in 10 games. Bruce Small racked up one goal and four assists.

Tod Miller and Doug Gillespie tallied two goals each with other counters going to Bun White, Murray Fife, Jack Ingoldsby and Freddie Smith.

Brantford marksmen were Bob Moy, George Zuk, Ken Pidgeon and Cuffy Wiacek.

Leafs Battle Long Jinx On Boston Ice

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs are back at full strength with the return of Captain Syl Apps and Defenceman Garth Boesch, and they're leading the National Hockey League by two points over Detroit Red Wings. Whether that happy state of affairs for Toronto fans will prevail Thursday morning is doubtful.

Tonight the Leafs take on the fifth place Bruins at Boston, and if the league-leaders win, that regularly full house of 13,900 fans in the Boston Garden will be awfully surprised. Because Leafs haven't beaten the Bruins on Boston ice since March, 1946.

The second and third-place teams in the present standing clash when Detroit Red Wings invade the New York Rangers at Madison Square Garden, and the third game of the night has the climbing Montreal Canadiens playing with the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks.

All in all, the standings could be tightened up considerably, if the night's games produce surprises.

If the goalies have their way, points are going to be hard to get tonight. At the moment Harry Lumley of Detroit and Bill Durnan of the Canadiens are tied for the lead with an average of only 2.47 goals against them. And Toronto's Turk Broda and Boston's Frank Brimsek are within decimal points of the leaders.

After tonight's full card there's only two games Saturday, with Chicago at Toronto and Detroit at Montreal, and all clubs again in action Sunday.

Increase Lead

By The Associated Press

Fort Worth Rangers increased their southern division lead in the United States Hockey League to three points last night in marking up a 2-2 overtime tie with Kansas City Pla-Mors.

Marvel vs. Katan At Brock Tonight

Tonight in the Brock Arena ring it will be a "battle of toughies" when the Masked Marvel collides with John Katan. It's on a "winner-take-all" basis so the big fellows will not be doing any stalling. Katan has promised to beat and unmask the hooded grappler and he has the toughness to make his threat quite logical. The Mask is a big hard grappler but Katan probably knows more about seamy tactics and intends to prove it.

John Katan

Big Jack Moore and Ken Kenneth will try for a main bout spot here when they meet in the semi-final. In the opener Don McIntyre who made an impression last week as an extremely clever matman mets Dr. Ed Meske. First bout starts 8:45 and doors open at 8 p.m.

Oshawa Rink Reaches Eights

QUEBEC, Jan. 21 — (CP). — Play was down to the quarter-finals to-day in two of three events for the international championship of the Quebec bonspiel with both the 1947 winners and runners-up out of the running. The D. P. Connolly rink of Bathurst, NB, last year's titlists, and E. H. Spooler of Toronto failed yesterday to survive second round matches.

Eights in the Val d'Or Golden Valley competition were drawn as follows: Walter Polski, Virginia, Minn., vs. Jack Adam of Moncton, NB.; W. E. Clarke of Montreal vs. George A. Hawkins of Charlottetown; J. K. McKellar of Toronto vs. T. P. Hallett of St. Jhn's, Nfld., and W. B. White of Oshawa vs. G. Suckling, Quebec.

The Oshawa rink scored two victories yesterday to reach the eights.

Montreal Group Makes Bid For Drama Prize

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 — (CP) — Montreal drama groups, their numbers increased over last year, will make a strong bid this spring to retain the high honors won in 1947 at the national drama festival by the western Quebec region.

Fourteen groups, four more than last year, will compete in the week-long regional festival opening here Jan. 26 and the winner and likely the runner-up will go to the national festival at Ottawa in April.

One of the 14 productions is by a Canadian author, Laurence Money of Montreal.

Five of the groups, the same number as last year, are made up of French-speaking players, including the famous Les Compagnons who won the coveted Bessborough Trophy at London, Ont., in 1947 for the best production of a play in either French or English.

Among the nine English-speaking groups, representing the full increase of four during the year, are teh players of the Montreal Repertory Theatre to whom went second honors at London for the best presentation in English, exclusive of the winner of the Bessborough.

Les Compagnons, again directed by the energetic Father Emile Legault, will offer this year "Antigone," a two-act modern version of an old Greek play, written by the French playwright Jean Anouilh.

The Repertory players, will present Rudolf Besier's well-known "The Barretts of Wimple Street" in three acts. A second presentation by the M.R.T. studio players, will be "Aria de Cape" by Edna St. Vincent de Millay, a one-act play.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

Hockey moguls in western Canada, scanning their schedules today find they have about one month left before entering interprovincial playoffs.

Al Pickard of Regina, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, this week announced western senior and junior interprovincial playoff dates will commence late in March.

Both senior and junior playoffs will operate on a point basis, with eight points needed to capture the best-of-seven-series.

Bill Gibbs, Brantford youngster who was with Hamilton Cardinals of the Pony League in 1946 and failed to last through the season has accepted terms with the Lynchburg club of the Class B Piedmont Baseball League it was announced yesterday.

The Archie Limon rink of the London Curling Club yesterday placed two stones in the final and to take top honors and the Union Gas Trophy in the finals of the annual western Ontario bonspiel by defeating a London foursome skipped by I. E. Lanning, 8-6.

Pete Zaduk, 159-pound battler from Guelph, last night won a unanimous decision over Claude Flager, 157½, of Buffalo, in a six-round middleweight bout at Buffalo.

Try For Pact In Easy Stages

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP) — Since a two-year effort by the college baseball coaches to obtain a "hands-off" agreement with organized baseball has resulted in little but kind and meaningless words, this department suggests taking a new angle. . . . Instead of trying to get everything at once, they should adopt the "Smorgasbord System"—a little bit here and a little bit there—in hopes of eventually achieving satisfactory results.

As a starter, why shouldn't they ask that pro scouts be forbidden to approach a college player until they had first consulted his coach and college president? . . . That way the collegians would get at least an even break and, as far as this writer can learn, no college coach wants to stand in the way of a player who has chance to become a highly-paid big-leaguer.

It's the back door approach and the signing of kids who likely will spend their baseball lives in the minors that causes most of the squawks.

Sports Before Your Eyes

A total of 93 New Jersey born foals have been nominated (at $10 apiece) for the 1948 New Jersey Futurity at Monmoth Park. Additional fees of $50 are due June 1. . . . It all proves that a foal and his money are soon parted. . . . The United States Soccer Football Association passes along word that an effort is being made to start the sport of soccer in Reno, Nev. . . . Just so all the kicks won't be made in the courtroom.

STRENGTHEN COPPER

Addition of two per cent beryllium to copper hardens the metal and increases its tensile strength.

THEY'RE NOW A PAIR OF GOOD SKATES — Bill Keefe, noted U.S. ice skater of Detroit, Mich., and his bride, the lovely Daphne Walker, former British amateur skating champion, are shown cutting a cake with a skate at the pre-wedding party given for them at the London theatre where they are appearing in the production "Stars On Ice." The couple's romance began when Keefe saved Miss Walker from drowning while they were bathing at Brighton, British seashore resort. They were married in St. George's church, Hanover Square, London.

Sport Fans Want No Follies Show

WATERLOO, Jan. 21 — (CP). —Six youths from nearby Tillsonburg are peeved to-day. Last night they bought six tickets at the City Arena.

Restlessly, they sat through what seemed an awfully long orchestra overture. Then their eyes popped when out on the ice came a chorus line of pretty girls.

In split seconds the angry youths were pounding on the arena manager's door.

"We want our money back," they yelled.

"Why?" asked the manager.

"Why? What the heck," they replied, "we came down to see Toronto Marlboros play Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen — there's only an ice show going on."

The manager wiped his brow, and explained: The game had been postponed, and, gosh, fellows, don't you like the girls?"

No H.S. Players

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—(AP).—George Trautman, boss of 57 minor baseball leagues, warned executives of those loops today they 'must stay away from all Canadian and United States high school players.'

Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, told 251 front-office executives of "bush" loop clubs at his first annual rules interpretation and discussion conference that Commissioner A. B (Happy) Chandler's interpretation of the high school rule would be enforced.

Baseball rule forbids the signing of any student at a high school which is a member of the National Feederation of State High School Athletic Associations, but Chandler interpreted the rule to mean all high schools, whether members of that association or not.

Nipawin 'Spiel Toughest Across Canada

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21.—(CP). — Canadian curling associations may take a dim view of it, but Grant Watson of Winnipeg, winner of the recent Nipawan, Sask., automobile bonspiel and twice member of Canadian championship rinks, says the Nipawin 'spiel is "much tougher" than curling for the Canadian title.

Quizzed by Scotty (Winnipeg Free Press) Harper, Watson explained that while there were 121 rinks entered in the Nipawin affair, not more than 10 of them were capable of winning the cars, but six of these 10 were from Winnipeg.

Harper said the Nipawin 'spiel made money this year, with more than $5,000 coming in through broadcasting rights while good crowds watched the games each day.

Although the idea of a "commercialized" bonspiel was frowned on by various curling associations, no move was made to halt the proceedings. But if rumors are correct that other cities and towns are talking of putting one on, that type of bonspiel will wear itself out.

"If we get too many of these affairs that will kill it," Watson told Harper.

Anyway, Nipawin officials are going right ahead with preparations for their third annual 'spiel, with ideas of increasing prizes which this year totalled around $23,000.

Paris Team Tough

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(CP).— The RCAF Flyers, Canada's Olympic hockey team, arrived by air from London and will meet Le Racing Club de Paris in an exhibition tilt tonight before moving on to Switzerland and final training for the games.

Local hockey fans believe the Flyers couldn't have chosen a sterner test anywhere in Europe than they will have against "Le Racing," a squad staffed almost entirely with Canadian imports who have beaten touring teams from Dundee, Prague and other points.

The Paris team has put together 15 consecutive victories with scores averaging about 6-2. In two exhibition games in Britain, the Flyers have notched 12 counters, but had 11 scored against them.

GOING TO SWITZERLAND — The members of the United States AAU ice hockey team, named by the U.S. Olympic committee to represent the U.S. at the winter Olympic games, are shown as they left New York for Germany. Another team, selected by the American Hockey Association to play in the Olympics is already in Europe, and the dispute over which team will represent this country is not expected to be settled until shortly before the games start at St. Mortiz, Jan. 30. From left to right, are: Paul R. Wild, St. Paul, Minn.; Lewis Preston, New York; Bruce Gardner, Hamilton, N.Y.; George Donahue, Winchester, Mass.; Chris Rodgers, Princeton, N.J.; William Brieli, New York; Thomas Dockrell, Hamilton, N.Y.; Joseph Riley, Midwood, Mass.; Allen Van, St. Paul, Minn., Captain; Neil Celley, Leoneth, Minn.; James Sloan, Princeton, N.J., and Olympic officials G. Reimer and C. Kunz, who did not make the trip.

Trojan Results

Two Bantam games were taken care of last evening and although the scores were one-sided, this hadn't any bearing on the games.

Canadiens took Rangers into camp 5 to 0 and Curtis was more than sensatonal in the net, stopping all shots from every angle, playing the perfect game, while Lockie, Hewie, Gordon, Reid, L. Henderson, Stewart were forwards who could not be overlooked. White and Jennings were a stone wall defence.

Rangers had Dauncey, Foster, Smith and Deck in there battling every minute but they just couldn't click.

Detroit didn't have any soft touch trimming the Leafs 5 to 1, but Leafs were robbed time and again on some neat passing plays. Allen, Floyd, Collins were the big guns for Detroit up front. Williams, Clarke, Gilmour and Kent were the pick of the Leafs. The teams:

Canadiens — Reid, Gordon, White, Curtis, Lockie, J. Henderson, Hewie, Jennings, B. Henderson, Guthrie and Stewart.

Rangers—Smith, Deck, Foster, Boate, Staves, Micheals, O'Dette, Holbrook.

Detroit — Evans, Allen, LaRoche, L. Collins, Floyd, Jones, Hargraves, Burfield, K. Collins.

Leafs — McCarthy, Clarke, Granihan, J. Collins, Barker, Pullyblank, Kent, Clements, Williams, Granihan.

Major League Players Reap 1947 Benefits

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP).—The major baseball leagues enjoyed a banner year at the gate in 1947 and indications are that the owners are kicking back a good part of the take to their players for the 1948 season.

With spring training a little more than a month away, few contract squabbles have been reported by the clubs which have revealed the signing of athletes for the coming season.

Three players, catcher Jim Hegan of Cleveland and first sacker Ferris Fain and outfielder Elmer Valo of Philadelphia Athletics are among those who have admitted they are dissatisfied with terms ofered by their clubs.

Cincinnati Reds have signed the most players so far—22—with Boston Braves next with 20 and New York Giants third with 19. New York Yankees have signed the most players among American League clubs, 18.

Three teams—Brooklyn Dodg-Chuck Diering signed with the St. Louis Browns haven't announced the signing of any players while Chicago White Sox and Chicago Cubs are reported to have signed one apiece.

Seven clubs reported the signing of 12 players yesterday with the Reds and Detroit Tigers leading the way with three each. The Tigers now have 12 in the fold.

Outfielder Terry Moore and Chuck Diering signel wtih the St. Louis Cardinals, while pitcher Spud Chandler of the Yanks and hurler Kirby Higbe of Pittsburgh came to terms with their respective clubs.

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP). — President George Panter of the O.H.A. today announced that player Lloyd Mohns of the Brantford Senior A team has been indefinitely suspended for an attack last night at Owen Sound on referee Frank Elliott.

The announcement, issued here on behalf of the Gravenhurst lawyer, said that Mohns has been ordered to appear before the O.H.A. sub-committee in Toronto Saturday to show cause why he should not be suspended for the attack during a game between Brantford Redmen and Owen Sound Mercurys.

Fellow Prisoner Sued For $350

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(AP).—A strange argument that started four years ago in a German prison camp over a $350 black market wrist watch and two Red Cross packages of food wound up in court here today.

Judge David C. Vokes said he would decide Monday whether a former United States Army pilot, Harry Murphy of Detroit, owes $350 to Richard Manning of San Francisco, also a former air corps man, because of a deal they made in the camp at Mooseberg, Germany, after both had been shot down in combat.

The battle reached court when Manning recently sued Murphy for the money.

Murphy, in testimony yesterday, explained he received a wrist watch from Manning in March, 1945, in the prison camp, on his promise to pay $350 to the Californian when and if both returned home alive. That was the price Manning said he paid for the watch.

The Detroiter said he used the watch in a trade for two packages of Red Cross food worth about $14 for himself and seven companions who had not eaten for two days.

Later, he related, he saw watches like Manning's on sale in Paris for $100, and offered one to his former fellow prisoner. Manning turned him down, and also refused to accept payment of $100. He filed the lawsuit after returning home some months ago.

Macanese Prefer Portugese Rule

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MACAO, Jan 21 —(AP)—On this tiny island colony of Portugal on China's coast there is only a single restaurant of five small tables to provide Portuguese food with the true flavor of Lisbon cookery.

(Milks should know. He spent considerable time in Portugal before his assignment to China.)

Yet Macao's people—both white and yellow—display an intense devotion to the motherland in resisting China's claim to possession of the colony's few square miles.

The most eastern link of Portugal's once-great empire, Macao is far more oriental then Portuguese. Customs and people are closely linked with the nearby Chinese mainland. A pureblood Portuguese is rare enough to attract attention on the street.

Over a dish of codfish—a favorite food wherever Portuguese gather the world over—one native Macao explained the patriotism of Macanese. He spoke in Portuguese filled with unfamiliar words and idioms which have crept into the language over the years.

"China," he said, "is an unhappy country today. "We know it well because almost every family in Macao has blood connections with the mainland.

"We hear of the civil strife, of the financial hardships, of the shortages of food. China has our sympathy, but any attempt to make this island a part of that unhappiness will be rejected with whatever strength we have."

Not Completely Happy

This Macanese admitted that oriental residents of Macao were not completely happy under the rule of the Portuguese officials from Lisbon, saying: "We would like more voice in governing our own land. Sometimes our officials and soldiers are inclined to forget that we, too, are Portuguese; but we have no thought of exchanging our present status for that of a province or dependency of China."

"Give Back Macao" slogans have accompanied various demonstrations in China's big cities, but most Macanese are not inclined to take them seriously. Several remarked that they felt the Chinese government was too busy with other affairs to turn serious attention this way.

Several Macanese mentioned Formosa, where China has had post-war governing problems that made a deep impression even on oriental Portuguese who once favored a Nanking regime.

Once known as the Monte Carlo of the East, Macao has regained neither the gaiety nor prosperity she knew before the war. The gaming halls have few patrons except for week-end excursionists from Hong Kong. Dreary cabarets are far removed from the dazzling palaces of entertainment of Estoril, in suburban Lisbon.

Most of the Portuguese troops stationed here walk the crowded streets with little spirit. Two of them said they were only waiting for the end of their two-year "hitches" to go back home to Porto (Oporto).

In addition to a battalion of cacadores (light infantry) from north Portugal, Macao is lent a dash of color by red-fezzed Negro troops from Portuguese East Africa.

Power Authority Approves Seaway

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 21 — (AP). — The New York State power authority today re-endorsed the St. Lawrence seaway project and at the same time a Republican assemblyman introduced a bill calling for abolition of the authority.

Wilson C. Van Duzer of Middletown said his bill would repeal the New York State Power Authority Act and transfer its "functions, powers and duties, in so far as practical, to the division of water power and control, state department of conservation."

The United States Senate will vote soon on the United States-Canadian agreement of 1941, which provides for development of 2,200,000 horsepower at a single site on the New York-Ontario frontier. It is estimated the New York power plant would produce 6,300,000 kilowatt hours of hydro-electricity energy a year.

To Fight Communists In Quebec–Duplessis

QUEBEC, Jan. 21.—(CP).—The great danger of Communism is general apathy, but the Quebec Government has been fighting it and will continue to fight, Premier Duplessis told the Quebec Legislative Assembly yesterday.

Communism stood for "atheism, treason, lies, hypocrisy and infamy," said the Quebec premier speaking in the throne speech debate. He said there was "no graver danger in the world today."

The premier spoke for an hour reviewing the policies of his Union Nationale Government after Liberal Leader Adelard Godbout had addressed the House urging the Government to encourage immigration, co-operate with the federal authorities and be prepared to accept Newfoundland as a Canadian sister province.

McGill Gets Record Of Early Professor

MONTREAL, Jan. 21—(CP)—Documents pertaining to the appointment of McGill University's earliest professor have been received from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

The documents, bearing the names of the majority of the university's board of governors in 1832, are of vellum and carry the seals of the governor-general of Canada and the lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada.

They set forth the appointment of Dr. John Stephenson, one of Montreal's early medical practitioners and educationists.

Three other Montreal doctors made up the entire faculty, which was limited to four professorships by its Royal charter.

These valuable documents were sent to McGill University's Redpath Library by Katherine Torrence Stephenson, granddaughter of Dr. Stephenson.

Lost Leg As Flyer Now Has Own Plane

EDMONTON, Jan. 21.—(CP)—Bob Comeau's flying career during the war ended with the loss of a leg and a spell in a German prison camp. When he returned to Canada and took a job as an interviewer in the casualty rehabilitation section of the department of veterans' affairs here, flying regulations prevented him from taking to the air as a pilot again.

However, now that he has an artificial leg and regulations have relaxed, he has acquired a private pilot's licence which permits him to fly dual-controlled aircraft.

He is accompanied on his flights by his wife, but still too young to enjoy the air are Comeau's four-year-old twin boys. They haven't as yet made up their minds whether or not they would like to follow in their father's footsteps.

Mr. Comeau flies an Ercoupe aircraft. It has two seats side by side and there are no rudder pedals. Instead of controls are all synchronized in the control wheel.

His instructor, Jack Ross, said he has seldom had more satisfaction in checking out a man on a solo flight than he had when Bob Comeau fulfilled his desire to fly again.

Stress Quality Growers Urged

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—(CP). — Warning against all-out production until future policy on vegetable imports is known, Secretary-Treasurer M. M. Robinson told the annual meeting of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association yesterday, that group members should concentrate on quality and grading.

Mr. Robinson suggested present high prices had been the result of scarcity that might have been avoided if producers had known in advance that restrictions on United States vegetable imports were planned.

He also recommended that now was not the time for producers to try for more than normal profits. Promotion of good will among consumers was more important.

As a matter of intelligent self-interest, the Marshall plan to aid Europe should recommend itself to Ontario farmers, Prof. W. M. Drummond of the Ontario Agricultural College, Gueph, told delegates. He declared if something like the plan were not continued, Europeans would not get food "and we won't be able to sell it."

Underlining the concern of the provincial farm population, processors and distributors conferred at the invitation of Agricultural Minister Kennedy, and spoke with alarm of soaring costs and declared willingness to fight the upward price trend.

Big Market In East For Canadian Goods

VICTORIA, Jan. 21. (CP) — There is a great potential market in China for Canadian goods, in the opinion of Lee Kim, prominent Chinese business man who recently returned from a trip to the Orient.

"Japan is making a bid to capture the Hong Kong market," he said in an interview, "and all sorts of Japanese goods similar to those sold in pre-war days have appeared there. There are little bits of everything such as clothing, toys and textiles.

"That market is also flooded with American goods of all sorts. The most startling thing about this United States merchandise is that it is being sold at lower prices than in Victoria.

Mr. Kim, who visited Hong Kong to survey business prospects between the Crown colony and Canada, said there was a great chance for Canada there. "China is in need of flour and lumber. We are in a better position to supply these products than the United States."

$12,840,000 Tunnel Sought By Glasgow

GLASGOW, Scotland, Jan. 21—CP)—Treasury sanction to construct at £3,210,000 ($12,840,000) tunnel under the Clyde for cross-river communications between important industries will be pressed by a Glasgow corporation.

City engineer Robert Bruce said refusal of the government to sanction the plan under its policy of cutting capital expenditure would restrict production of goods for export.

Haulage wastage, Bruce said, is computed at £1,000,000 ($4,000,000) yearly.

DRAFT OR ERP — U.S. Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall told the senate foreign relations committee that the U.S. may have to go back to the draft unless the Marshall plan is approved. He said that if Congress fails to approve the European recovery program, immediate strengthening of the armed forces would be necessary.

7 Left Homeless In $100,000 Fire

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—(CP). — A four-hour, two-alarm fire gutted a two-storey business and residential row in Ottawa's lower town area last night, leaving seven persons homeless and damage estimated at close to $100,000.

Five families in an adjoining apartment were temporarily routed by smoke.

A dozen firemen were treated at the scene when overcome by smoke and a young mother suffered a head gash in a fall down a flight of stairs while dashing from the burning building carrying her seven-year-old son.

The seven homeless lost all their possessions in two apartments on the building's second storey when the blaze, starting in the basement of a fruit store, ate its way upward and caused a partial collapse of the roof.

Mrs. Byron Hainer snatched her son from his bed when she saw smoke in the hall. Running from the building, she tripped and fell down a flight of stairs and was later treated for a head cut. The child suffered from shock.

Re-awakening In Canada Sought By Planners Of Health Week

When anything is well done, it is most likely that a lot of "know how" went into the job or else it wouldn't have been a success.

In the field of health, many people—medical scientists, public health officials, physicians and others—have put a lot of "know how" into the business of making and keeping people healthy, but they still need the personal co-operation of those same people.

Each person has a job to do in the matter of guarding his health, and the health of his family, his community and his country. However, if he doesn't "know how" he can't do much of a job.

In an effort to reawaken in Canadians a realization of the benefits of good health and the appalling costs of sickness, much of it preventable, and untimely death, the Health League of Canada, the Dominion's leading voluntary health education association, has designated the first week of February as NATIONAL HEALTH WEEK—February 1 to 7. It is hoped that through this observance—the fourth such annual affair sponsored by the Health League in co-operation with health departments and departments of education throughout Canada — the people of Canada will acquire a lot of "know how" concerning matters affecting their own health, and the health of their families and their neighbors.

In the field of health, the "know how" as far as the average person is concerned merely means an intelligent understanding of a simple set of health rules. Here are a few rules which, if followed, will benefit the follower's physical and mental well-being:

Eat right for health—follow a balanced diet.

Be sure the milk you drink is pasteurzied.

Avoid dirt — practice cleanliness.

Avoid contact with persons known to be suffering from contagious diseases, including colds.

Relax before and after eating.

Avoid constipation.

Avoid overweight.

If dieting is necessary, diet only under the instruction of your physician.

Get at least eight hours of sleep daily.

Avoid undue fatigue.

Be sure you and the members of your family have been immunized against such communicable—but preventable—diseases as diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox.

Avoid chills if overheated.

Exercise moderately in the open air—unless your physician advises otherwise.

See your physician regularly for complete examinations.

Visit your dentist regularly.

Avoid undue and unnecessary eye strain.

Wild 70 M.P.H. Chase Turns Out A Flop

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP).— A 70-mile-an-hour chase by the police in quest of a suspected car thief proved to be of the "wild goose" variety when it was learned that a stolen automobile was not involved.

The chase started in Burlington and ended near Port Credit when a Provincial police scout car forced the suspect to bring his vehicle to a halt. The officers thought the vehicle they were pursuing was one belonging to a St. Catharines man which had been stolen in Hamilton, but it proved to be the driver's own car. Police became suspicious when the car struck a light pole at Burlington, but no charges were preferred.

Arctic Rescue Stirring Record Of Heroism And Skill

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 21 (CP).—The Canadian Army and RCAF have disclosed the official story of "Operation Canon."

This was the dramatic October-November combined operation into the Arctic to rescue Canon John Turner, an injured missionary, from his Baffin Island mission and bring him back to civilization.

The assignment was successfully carried out by small army and air force teams, but Canon Turner died later in Winnipeg. Nevertheless, it stands out as an Arctic epic of two-service skill and daring in the bleak, eerie wilderness between Hudson Bay and the North Pole.

The scope of the task over the vast area of the far north can be measured by the 15,000 miles which the air force flew on this job.

The combined army and air force report, obtained by The Canadian Press, tells of the perils of dropping paratroopers into the rugged country near Moffet Inlet, where the mission was located.

It tells of the air force battle with the weather. It explains the ominous silence which blanketed the operation for days when the rescue party's wireless sets failed.

It tells of the partroopers' abortive efforts to move Canon Turner by sea to a Hudson's Bay Company post and of the day-and-night struggle of the army medical officer to keep his patient alive.

The arduous search through the wasteland for a suitable landing field for the RCAF rescue plane is described in detail.

Camped In Snow

The experiences are related of the paratroop leader who camped in the snow for 11 days near this lake preparing the landing strip. Caught in a blizzard, he had to remain in his sleeping bag for two days without heat or light to wait out the storm.

The story concludes with the dog-team sled ride in 24 below zero to take Canon Turner from the mission to the plane, waiting on a frozen lake 23 miles away.

The report narrates these events in unadorned language which makes this peace-time saga of Canada's military forces all the more dramatic.

"Operation Canon" actually began, the report said, on Sept. 26, when national defence headquarters received a telephone call from the department of national health and welfare, saying a missionary had accidentally shot himself at Moffet Inlet, on the northeast corner of Baffin Island. On Sept. 30, the health department said that immediate aid to the missionary, Canon John Turner, was required.

An army-air force conference was called immediately in Ottawa and Rev. M. S. Flint, who had lived at Moffet Inlet, was flown from Toronto to give advice about the area.

Then the Joint Air Force at Rivers, Man., was selected to carry out the rescue. FO. Bob Race of Vancouver and Maj. George Flint of Outremont, Que., were put in charge of the air force and army teams respectively.

Water Hazard

Briefings took place at Rivers and a study of the rescue area showed it was obvious no parachute drops could take place close to the mission because water temperature was 29 degrees, which would rapidly prove fatal to a paratrooper landing in it. The drop had to be made inland.

On Oct. 2, with plans completed, the RCAF Dakota aircraft flew from Rivers to Churchill, Man., on the first leg of the rescue.

The air force team was composed of FO. Race, FO. K. O. Moore of Vancouver, FO. C. C. McMillan of Winnipeg, Flt. Lt. A. B. Morabito of Creston, B.C., and Cpl. J. P. Rae of Cupar, Sask.

The army team, which was to drop, was composed of Capt. L. G. D'Artois of Richmond, Que., who won the Distinguished Service Order for his exploits with the French Maquis after parachuting into France before D-day in Normandy, Capt. R. W. Willoughby of Toronto, who was the medical officer, Sgt. W. W. Judd of Port Arthur, Ont., and Sgt. H. C. Cook of Edmonton. Capt. D'Artois was the ground force commander.

On Oct. 3, the two parties in the one plane reached Coral Harbor on Southampton Island, south of the western end of Baffin Island. With a total load of 31,120 pounds, the Dakota took off for Moffet Inlet the next day.

"The navigation problems were were numerous," the report continued. "Due to the proximity of the track to the north magnetic pole, magnetic compasses were useless and were noted to be continuously swinging over a range of 30 to 40 degrees.

"This meant that the sun must always be visible in order to fly the astro compass course. Maps were fairly accurate, but the scale considerably out."

Seen Through Fog

The mission was finally located through a hole in the fog. It was situated on a small strip of land some 70 yards wide, jutting out into the inlet from the base of a 600-foot cliff.

"This was obviously no place to drop men and supplies due to open water on both sides of the mission," the report said.

A message was dropped to the mission along with two fluorescent panels. If the rescue party was still in time to help Canon Turner, one panel was to be laid out on the snow. If the party was too late then two panels were to be displayed. One panel was laid out.

With the plane's gasoline supply being used up, it was necessary to find rapidly a dropping zone for the paratroopers. An area on a frozen lake was discovered five or six miles from the mission and dropping began.

Down went a 250-pound drum of gasoline. Then a 150-pound generator. Then Sgt. Judd with a portable radio set, followed by Capt. D'Artois. The main radio set, with batteries and spares, weighing 880 pounds drifted down next by parachute. On the last pass over the dropping zone, Capt. Willoughby and Sgt. Cook jumped.

The men and supplies landed safely and FO. Race returned to Coral Harbor.

At Moffet Inlet, Capt. D'Artois was first to reach the mission, where he found Mrs. Turner, her two children, John McCormack, the Hudson Bay Company factor from Arctic Bay, 70 miles north of the mission, and Canon Turner, who, the report said, "was unable to speak with clarity.

Canon's Condition

When Capt. Willoughby arrived with his medical supplies he examined the missionary. "Canon Turner's left side was completely paralyzed,' the report continued. "He had no control over his bowels or bladder and there was a large bed sore on his lower back. Generally, his condition was much better than was expected. The most imminent dangers were the probable development of meningitis and the extension of the bed sore.

"Treatment which then commenced and continued throughout the seven week period consisted of regular dressing of the bed sore, administration of penicillin every three hours day and night, as well as administration of sulpha drugs and general nursing care. Capt. Willoughby carried out the necessary treatment during the day.

Difficulties were encountered with the wireless equipment the rescue party brought in and contact could not be made with the Arctic stations standing by to pick up the signals.

Mr. Cormack suggested on Oct. 6 that the injured man be moved to the trading post at Arctic Bay where accommodation was better.

Bad weather prevented departure the next day and Canon Turner's boat was nearly wrecked in a storm.

Then follows the story of the unsuccessful attempt to reach Arctic Bay in which two boats were employed.

After a good deal of difficulty the missionary was put aboard a whaler which started at eight a.m. on Thursday, Oct. 10. The second boat left an hour later.

The whaler's defective motor and rough water and ice slowed progress. At nightfall the party anchored in a small inlet for protection. During the night the whaler was frozen in, but was finally released by the second boat.

The whaler's motor again failed and Capt. Willoughby explained that in view of the patient's long exposure, it was necessary either to complete the journey immediately or return to the mission. Meantime an Eskimo reported it was impossible to proceed because of ice conditions.

Return to Mission

The party then turned back. The return was made hazardous by thickening ice and the necessity of towing the whaler. The mission was reached in mid-afternoon, Oct. 11.

The attempted trip had aggravated the patient's bed sore and Capt. Willoughby had to operate on Oct. 11. The sore, which was two inches deep and five inches across, had become gangrenous and the doctor had to cut away the devitalized flesh.

"Although it was not possible to administer an anaesthetic, the Canon displayed remarkable courage and stood up well under the ordeal. The operation lasted about 20 minutes."

Several days were spent, without success, trying to repair the long-range wireless sets, which had not functioned at all.

On Oct. 17, the RCAF plane made another flight over the mission, dropping more supplies near it. It was required to fly a dangerous route alongside the 600-foot cliff. Another radio set was dropped, but it fell in the water and was damaged.

On Oct. 18, however, Sgt Cook finally got a composite wireless set going and made his first contact with the outside since Oct. 4. The station he reached was Arctic Bay, which was in contact with other Arctic stations.

Capt. D'Artois was by this time making daily trips from the mission in search for a suitable landing area where the plane could come down to pick up Canon Turner. He covered approximately 300 miles in his search with thin and shifting ice always a danger. Once, he fell through a lake and nearly lost his life. But an Eskimo boy pulled him out.

23 Miles From Mission

Finally on Nov. 2, Capt. D'Artois discovered a lake 23 miles south of the mission where the RCAF plane, which had continued to make flights from Coral Harbor over the mission, could land.

"For 11 days, the ground force commander camped at the lake in a tent, preparing the strip with markers and panels and checking the snow and weather conditions.

"This information was forwarded to Sgt. Cook for relay to the RCAF.

"During this period a blizzard prevented an Eskimo from reaching Capt. D'Artois with fuel for his stove and lamp. In addition, a high wind smashed the tent pole, and Capt D'Artois was forced to live for two days without either light or heat. He remained in his sleeping bag throughout the two days, waiting out the storm."

Meanwhile, preparations were made at air force bases to send in the Dakota to the make-shift strip on the lake.

Weather delayed the flight for days, but on Nov. 21 it was decided to make the trip. "Navigation at this point was even more limited due to the short daylight hours and by the fact that the sun never rose above the horizon at Moffet," the report said.

Difficult Landing

The difficult landing on the lake was made successfully and the mission was informed by wireless.

"Meanwhile, at the mission the patient was wrapped in furs, blankets and a sleeping bag and placed on a dog sled. The temperature was 24 degrees below zero. The fastest team was used to move the patient. A second team took Mrs. Turner and the two children while a third team was used by Sgt. Cook who closed the mission before departing.

"The intense cold was a danger to the patient but the precautions taken and the excellent time in which the dog team made the trip—three and one-half hours—had no serious ill effects on Canon Turner."

After the patient arrived, it was necessary to wait several hours for weather to lift at Coral Harbor before the plane could leave the lake.

A flare path was lit and with the aid of landing lights a take-off was made. Coral Harbor was reached and the next day the rescue party delivered Canon Turner to Winnipeg.

The unemotional report concluded that "this entire operation was undertaken at the very worst time of year for Arctic flying and navigation aids were very few—except for adverse weather conditions there were no serious obstacles encountered . . . the aircraft serviceability was excellent and the Dakota once more proved itself very versatile and dependable for Arctic flying."

3 Trucks Tangle Near Intersection

Three trucks were involved in a collision Tuesday morning near the CPR tracks on Monaghan Road, with "considerable" damage reported for all three. The trucks were one of the Peterborough Lumber Company, driven by Vernon LaPlante, 90 Ware Street; one owned by Bruce Parker, 45 Monaghan Road, and, with an eight-ton load, a Toronto - Peterborough transport driven by Lloyd Cuthrie, Millbrook.

There were no injuries in the accident, which occurred on a heavily iced portion of the road. PC Leo Murphy investigated.

Damages Heavy

Estimated damages to the car of Benjamin Abramsky, 492 Gordon Avenue, were $100 and about $5 to the car of Gerald Ivey, 514 Monaghan Road, according to a report given to police Tuesday on an accident which took place Jan. 15 on Aylmer Street.

PC V. A. McConnell investigated.

No Debentures Warden Says; Finances Safe

LINDSAY, Jan. 21 (ENS). — The County of Victoria is in the happy financial position that there is very little likelihood of issuing any debentures during 1948 and the present small debenture debt will be decreased by $9,336.94.

In his first warden's address to county council Warden A. Neil Wilson told members today, "I can see no necessity of issuing any more debentures this year." He gave a short resume of the major problems facing the county and asked the cooperation of all members.

Problems mentioned by the Warden included the appointment of a committee to consider the annual equalization of the county, the advisibility of arranging for any annual meeting of all local officials, the setting of the annual rate for expenditures on the county road system, further consideration of the building of the county bridge at Fenelon Falls and some consideration with regard to making provision for the chronically ill.

Mr. E. Brown, district field secretary of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, asked for the usual $400 grant. Mayor Chas. Lamb, chairman D. McQuarrie and secretary S. R. Pitts of the Lindsay and Victoria County old home week committee asked council to consider a substantial grant of $1,500 to $2,000 to the old home week. Mr. Claude Bottum, president of the Lindsay central exhibition, also asked for a grant.

Sentence Two For Old Theft

Two accused—a youth and a man—were sentenced to two and three months respectively in court this morning on charges of breaking, entering and theft at the home of Howard L. Shimer, 575 Waterford Street. The offences, according to the evidence given by PC William Clark, took place on the evening of June 24 last year.

Clark Purdy, 18, of Toronto, who had pleaded guilty previously and been remanded for sentence, was given two months.

John Chester James, charged with the same, changed his plea from not guilty to guilty through his counsel, G. N. Gordon, KC. Mr. Gordon asked that Magistrate W. R. Philp take into consideration of sentence that for about the last two years the accused had lived law-abiding life, that he had married and had a two-month-old child. Because the accused had a previous record, the Magistrate stated that he could not give suspended sentence without consent of the Crown. James was sentenced to three months.

In his evidence, PC Clark stated that the only items taken had been some food and fruit juices and one shirt.

Two Pay Fines

On his plea of guilty, Alfred Rose, 412 Bethune St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

Norman Corby, R.R. 1, Belleville, was fined $5 and costs of $2.50 for creating a disturbance, back in December.

Car Plunges Into Swamp On Lindsay Road Passenger's Head Crashes Windshield

Robert Lang, Armour Rd., was admitted to Civic Hospital shortly before midnight Tuesday following an unusual car accident on the Lindsay highway, about half a mile east of the Emily cemetery level crossing. He has a badly cut forehead and face.

Lang was a front-seat passenger in a car driven by Don Jones, 431 Brioux Ave. Also in the car was Jones's wife, his father-in-law, William Withers, Richard Withers and Miss Ruby Crape. They had attended the hockey match at Lindsay and were returning home when the accident took place.

Jones told Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure, he was passing another car when the left front tire blew out. The flat tire pulled the car into the ditch and it travelled some distance on the shoulder before plunging into a deep snow-filled swamp. Finally the car struck an elm tree and stopped. Lang's head smashed through the windshield.

An unknown motorist took the injured man to hospital.

Little Theatre Group Makes First Presentation In City

By T. J. ALLEN

Gentle Charles Lamb did not quite approve of hissing at actors, but he would have approved of Dr. Johnson being able to say about a Peterborough theatre: "Sir, there was a habit of sibilation in the house". An audience that can hiss can also applaud, shout "Bravo" and stamp its feet with approval. The sooner local audiences learn to hiss, the sooner they will be able to support with expressed enthusiasm such good productions as last night's three plays by city teachers who have inaugurated the Peterborough Little Theatre. The Collegiate auditorium was full, by the way, and the audience was appreciative—but it kept too much of its delight bottled up until after the performance. It has forgotten how to behave at plays, because the city has had so few in the last twenty years.

The first play, George Bernard Shaw's "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" was the finest as a play; it was the least successful in performance. The actors had to deal with Shaw's wit, his didacticism, his lack of stage movement; they had also to deal with Shakespeare and Queen Elizabeth. It was a creditable effort for a new players' group. Better lighting facilities would have helped.

Robert Bolton was splendid as Shakespeare. His costume, a great aid, was contrived from old riding breeches, second-hand canvas and the like. (Incidentally, the excellent costumes for all the plays were created by Earla Mac Vannel, Gertrude Cox, Maralin Munro and assistants out of thin air and a slim budget.) Despite excellent enunciation and stage presence, his Shakespeare was not full and warm. There was not enough savour of phrases and enough fillip. Elizabeth (played by Mildred Bailey) was a grand figure and a woman of parts. Her regality suffered from the way words like "prayer" and "my" were pronounced.

The Beefeater (Leonard McNeill) was wooden and thick-voiced as all soldiers are expected to be. The lady's maid (Irene Nichols) was a modest trollop freshly portrayed.

Second Play

The second play, "Overlaid" by Robertson Davies, had the incidental distinction of being the first major play presented in Peterborough which has been written by a resident of the city. It happens to have the distinction of being a good play. It has been performed in Ottawa and Kingston and in numerous western cities. In its performance "Overlaid" had an intense emotional response, which is the chief criterion of a good play, well performed. This comic tragedy, or tragic comedy is a social document, a tract for the times. Who was the psychological crack-pot—Pop or his daughter Ellen? Donald Munro as Pop had the right twang and his interpretation of the role kept the audience with mouths open for the next laugh. Helen Staples did a finely restrained job in the difficult role of Ethel whose ambition in life was a granite tombstone. Arnold Noftall as Mr. Bailey was the parody (or quintessence) of all insurance agents. I cannot refrain from quoting one of Pop's lines: "God likes music and naked women, and I'm happy to follow his example".

Third Play

"The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife" was the final and longest play of the three. It is by Anatole France and based on a story by Rabelais. The new, pretty wife of the French judge is dumb; a physician is called who looses her tongue. On these bare bones, Anatole France has made a farce, and from that farce, Peterborough amateur actors, stage designers, costume designers and directors created the most excellent foolery, the most fatuous comedy, the gayest, gabbliest, most precious, most winsome play Peterborough has ever had. It was fey and shook our ribs most incontinently.

Costumes, setting, gestures and "business" were Rabelaisian and stagily 16th-18th century. It would be fatuous to list actors individually and to try to find different adjectives for each. Let all the superlatives above apply to all the actors, from Lloyd Hale (Master Leonard Botal)—how excellent he was—to the unforgettable medical trio (Londerville the doctor, Hill the surgeon and Barnard the apothecary) and the pertly vulgar Seraphina Marchbanks. Here is the cast: Kenneth McKee (as Giles Boiscourtier the secretary), Constance McKelvie, Clayton Bullock, Lloyd Hale, Maralin Munro (a lovely loquacious dumb wife), Albert Hill, John Londerville, Joseph Barnard, Gordon Corneil, Earla MacVannel, Bernice Greenan, Musa Cox, Samuel Marchbanks, Seraphina Marchbanks, Jack Nichols. The seven last-named played the street interludes which added so much zest and liveliness to the production. That leads to one minor adverse comment: many of the actors has a slight tendency to display too much individual enthusiasm.

With such actors and with the success that each of the three plays attained, the Little Theatre movement in Peterborough is excellently begun and assured of a good future. The success was due to the native talent and long hard work of all, and to the enthusiasm, professional skill, art and sensitive intelligence of Brenda and R. Davies who collaborated in directing the three plays. Gordon Corneil took charge of the lighting. The prologue spoken by Fern Rahmel was an original plea for the co-operation of the audience and the acceptance of the theatre as a civic necessity and pleasure. Both now seem assured.

HIS FIRST LESSON

A story currently circulating concerns a recently-arrived Scottish scoutmaster and his first ski lesson. A C.G.E. draftsman, the Scot looks after the boys of a local church troop. But after a strenuous afternoon at this sport he was the one that needed looking after. His "laddies" challenged him to don skis and try his skill. Could a man of Wallace's breed refuse? For five gruelling hours he underwent the form of mayhem familiar to a beginner. He was rescued from snowbanks, lifted off fence posts, and disentangled from cedar trees—but never a murmur of complaint. Finally when the afternoon was spent (and so was he) he was asked what he thought of his prowess as a skier. He considered the problem for a moment and then said: "Well, I'm no sae good; but then I'm no sae bad aither."—D. W.

Gas Production At New High Causes Trouble

"We might as well get accustomed to the idea that something has to be done this year about our gas plant, George A. Macdonald of the Utilites Commission remarked this morning in reference to a problem which the Commission is approaching by way of enquiry and advice.

Gas production last year exceeded the 1946 total, but costs have been rising, total capacity has been reached, and the Commission has been for several months obtaining information from which they eventually reach a decision as to the course they should follow.

Sale of gas last year amounted to 71,702,400 cu. ft. as compared with 62,493,700 cu. ft. in the previous year.

The domestic demand showed some decrease but commercial consumption was higher, and industrial was twice the quantity of the preceding year.

Industrial Demand Doubled.

Peterborough's industries in 1947 bought 18,989,300 cu. ft. as against 9,453,700 cu. ft. in 1946. The largest increase was taken by Canadian General Electric Co. and other industries buying gas were De Laval, Canada Packers, Western Clock, Peterborough Lock, Outboard Marine, Ackerman's, Raybestos, and some small supply to J. J. Turner & Sons and Colonial Weaving.

Opinion in the Commission is that use of electric stoves and other appliances will gradually reduce the consumption of gas along the domestic front, but as a public utility for industries the demand has substantially advanced in the last few years.

At a recent meeting the Commission reached the stage of estimating the probable cost of a new plant, which may be designed to use propane, and also its financing. Outlay would be approximately $45,000 to $50,000 and the Commission has some $40,000 Victory Bonds which could be used for the gas project.

Before anything was undertaken, Mr. Macdonald said it was the intention of the Commission, and they were actually engaged in it now, to compile information, prepare a report and place it before the public.

Switch To Oil.

One of the proposals the Commission received within the last year was that it should switch to greater use of fuel oil. If they had made a move in that direction they would be in more precarious position than they are now with their oil line turned off and only enough storage to carry to the middle of February.

Price of coal has moved to higher levels, labor costs more and the whole production basis has been moving upward in cost. Both cost and the facilities of production are two phases of the gas problem of the Commission.

Burglars Fail To Enter Store

Determined attempts were made Tuesday night, apparently without success, to gain entrance to the Selkirk Men's Wear store at 341 George St. The signs of burglary were discovered shortly before midnight by PC A. Dalton.

Efforts were made by the would-be thief or thieves to break in the rear door by gouging the wood near the lock, then chiselling it away and taking the lock out. All this work was in vain because of heavy iron bars behind the door blocking the entrance. A rear window was also smashed.

Found near the window in the snow was an axe believed to have been used for the strenuous labors on the door and window. A check of the stock today shows there were no losses.

County Council Names Committees

Question Of Grants Receives Consideration

With the newly elected Warden James Humphries in the chair the Peterborough County Council attended their first session in the Court House Wednesday morning.

The first business of the day was the committee appointed to strike the Standing Committees for the year 1948 and the following committees were appointed: Education, James Gifford, chairman, with W. C. Grant, N. Wilson and Inspector Birkin. The Finance Committee has W. E. Pakenham for its chairman supported by W. W. Dawson and G. McIlmoyle.

Last year the Finance, County Property and Printing were controlled by the one committee but this year it was decided that two committees should operate, one committee being in charge of Finance and Printing and a separate committee for County Property. J. Mahoney was elected chairman for the County Property committee with William Darling.

E. J. Leeson was appointed chairman of the Equalization and Assessment committee and on the committee will be Messrs. W. C. Grant and Charles Flynn. N. Wilson will be chairman of the Old People's Home committee with Ross Harrison. Committee of Appointments will have Harry McIntyre for chairman and all members of the County Council. All members of the council will also form the committee for Legal and Legislative matters with William Griffith as chairman. Melville Johnston heads the committee on matters pertaining to Agriculture along with W. W. Dawson, Charles Flynn and Ross Harrison.

The Fish, Game and Tourist committee is headed by Charles Flynn with Albert Hall and William Griffith. Peter Pearson will be chairman of Reforestation with Harry McIntyre.

Gilbert McIlmoyle was appointed representative to attend all board meetings of the Children's Aid Society. The Health commitee has James Gifford as chairman with W. C. Grant and G. McIlmoyle. Charles Flynn is chairman of Planning and Development with W. E. Pakenham and E. J. Leeson. The Foley Estate committee has Harry McIntyre as chairman with G. McIlomyle and William Griffith.

On Road Committee

Ross Harrison was appointed to the County Roads committee for five years and W. W. Dawson for one year.

Warden James Humphries will be on all committees appointed by virtue of his office.

The report of the Standing committee on finance was then read. A request for a grant from the Peterborough Film Council was laid over until later in the session. Norman Wilson and James Gifford were appointed delegates to the Ontario Educational Association convention.

A grant of $300 to the Peterborough Salvation Army was moved and passed. The membership fee from the council of $15 to the Ontario Good Roads Association was approved. Norman Wilson moved that no action should be taken in respect of a request for a grant to the Polish Relief Fund. This motion was carried. Another motion by W. C. Grant that no action should be taken to a further request for a grant to the Navy League of Canada. This motion was also carried.

The Ontario Conservation and Reforestation Association will receive a grant of $25. This motion was made by M. Johnston.

The session is continuing.

HEADS RESORT OWNERS—Gilbert Watson, owner of Gil-Mar Lodge, Sturgeon Lake, was unanimously re-elected president of the Resort Section of the Canadian Hotel Association on Tuesday evening. He is starting his second term in the chair.

List Boundaries For Area To Be Annexed

The boundaries of the section of North Monaghan for which the city is applying to the Legislature for annexation are: On the east, Park Street from Howden Avenue to the river; south, the Otonabee River to Crawford's Grove and thence westerly along the county road, practically to the CNR; west, the extension of Western Avenue southerly from Lansdowne Street to the southern boundary, which is the road westerly from the river at Crawford's Grove.

The present boundary of the city on the south-west side begins at Park Street, extends westerly along Howden Avenue, north side, to Monaghan Road, thence northerly on Monaghan Road to a line parallel with Lansdowne Street, but south of it, 228 feet to the depth of the May's School property, to Erskine Avenue, thence northerly to Lansdowne Street, westerly to the west side of Western Avenue.

It will be recalled that the proposal for this present application grew out of the Arndon housing project. They are now completing 68 houses extending from Park Street to Monaghan Road in the area immediately south of the Housing Enterprise project which was built on either side of McKellar Street.

North Monaghan Council could not provide the local improvements and services required for the Arndon houses which were built on the undertaking of the city to provide those services.

That agreement required annexation of the Arndon property, but the Council took the further view that the city's expansion in the south-west area would continue. It was decided that looking forward to community needs and problems in the future, the city might as well ask for more ample annexation. For that reason the present movement crossed Monaghan Road and reached to the river from the foot of Park Street to the foot of Monaghan Road.

D. E. Ephgrave and J. A. Steele the Arndon contractors, are considering the building of more houses this year on the property lying south of Cameron Street and east of Monaghan Road.

Some of the residents outside the city's present borders opposed the new annexation, which had been approved by the Councils of Peterborough and North Monaghan. An order was sought from the Ontario Municipal Board authorizing annexation. It was granted December 30, 1947, but must be confirmed by special Act of the Legislature. Its Private Bills Committee will hear objections from affected residents of the township.

American Travel Budget To Top 2 Billion By 1950 Resort Convention Told

By PETE McGILLEN

By 1950, two billion dollars will be spent by Americans on travel, Robert F. Nelson, public relations counsel for Virginia, told more than 400 people attending the closing banquet of the Resorts of Ontario in Toronto Tuesday evening. His talk was an outline of the progress made in organizing the people of Virginia to meet travel competition, and the steps taken to educate everyone on the need for selling the state.

A tremendous amount of research was done, including a survey of 100,000 visiting car drivers, who were asked why they came to Virginia. Only ten per cent. were interested in historical sites, and 18 per cent. admired the scenery. The bulk of the trade came because they wanted to travel.

Between 1929 and 1930 the entire hotel structure of the state was rebuilt, with communities contributing to the financing of the hotels. Hotel laws and regulations were given an overhauling, 7,500 miles of hard surface roads were constructed.

"We believe the tourist trade has reached its peak. If this is true then we must get more money from the traveller to show an increase, and we propose to do this by encouraging him to spend one more day in Virginia. If this can be done, it will represent a 25 per cent. boost in revenue, because the average stay is 3½ days.

Partnership Plan

"We have found that the best advertising is word-of-mouth advertising, so we have set out to train two and half million Virginians in selling their home state. We have obtained the cooperation of service clubs and the people. In short we are all partners in the travel business," Mr. Nelson said.

He explained that their research revealed less than 40 per cent. of the travellers stayed at hotels, and they also learned there were more people serving the travel industry than were engaged in agriculture.

"People's travel habits are changing," he said. "They only stay two days now, whereas before they would spend two weeks. Everyone is on wheels, and they only spend two or three days in each place. Sooner or later this change in the habits of travellers will be felt in Canada."

Mr. Nelson said another new development in the Southern States was that the big coach lines were building motor courts at points where accommodation was not available along their routes.

Touching on the amount of money spent by the Americans on travel, he said the total prior to 1939 was 650 millions. In 1946, it was 750 millions. Of this amount Mexico and the countries of South America got a big slice. He forecast the "restless American public will spend two billions in travel by 1950."

"Canada is the playground of the world, the treasure chest of the world, and it will probably lead all nations in the bid for the travel business—but I must warn you, we in Virginia appreciate the value of the tourist dollar, and we are going after a big share of the travel business. If Canada recognizes the keen competition she will face in trying to get tourists' dollars, then her success is assured. Otherwise Canadians will discover that Mexico or other areas will have walked off with the lion's share of this lucrative trade."

During the course of his remarks, he explained they were urging the people catering to travellers to specialize in distinctive Virginia dishes, to put the emphasis on cleanliness, and above all, everyone concerned is being notified that courtesy must be a paramount consideration.

District resorts were well represented at the dinner which was followed by a two-hour floor show.

Charge Dismissed

A charge of careless driving against R. McCutcheon, Havelock, was dismissed in court this morning after evidence was heard. He was involved in an accident at the intersection of highways 7 and 30 near that village. Evidence was given by Police Chief Louis Rodrique. Magistrate Philp stated that he felt, from evidence of the Chief as to skidmarks at the scene, that there was no carelessness in McCutcheon's driving.

Husband, Wife Overcome By Gas Fumes

Robert F. Avery and his wife, Lynch St., had a narrow escape from asphyxiation early Wednesday morning when they collapsed from the effects of coal gas soon after they awoke. Although reeling from the deadly fumes, Mr. Avery was able to throw open the back door of his home allowing fresh air to rush in. He collapsed a few seconds later while trying to telephone a neighbor.

Only the circulation of the cold winter air as the two lay unconscious is believed to have saved them from total asphyxiation.

Mrs. Avery awoke feeling very dizzy and went downstairs to prepare breakfast, but returned to tell her husband she felt too ill. He then awoke and went downstairs, realized coal gas was present and flung open the door. He then collapsed while phoning and Mrs. Avery had become unconscious also.

Both recovered consciousness without outside aid. Later neighbors came in to render what assistance they could.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery spent the rest of the day resting at home after the house had been thoroughly aired of its deadly contents.

An overchecked draft is believed to have been responsible for presence of the coal gas.

Fined Minimum In Rentals Case

Steven Bencze, 617 Rubidge street, was fined $10 and costs of $7.75 on rental charges when he appeared in court this morning.

Charged with collecting a higher rent than permitted from September of last year, he entered a plea of guilty to that charge for a month and a half of that period, through his counsel Walter Howell.

The accused also pleaded guilty to failing to have the rent set by the prices office here within 30 days of rental.

W. F. Huycke, KC, was prosecutor for the Prices Board.

Cabin Camp Owners Fight Tax Case

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP) — Tourist camp operators throughout Ontario will be affected by a judgment to be handed down by Mr. Justice D. C. Wells in a test cast to determine whether a municipality has the right to levy a tax of more than $5 on such operators.

The case arises out of the action of nearby Toronto township in levying a tax of $50 on single cabins and $100 on double cabins in tourist camps at Lakeview, Ont.

E. C. Bogart, counsel for the Tourist Camp Owners, argued that the tax was prohibitive and threatened to force them out of business. He said a township by-law authorizing the tax was invalid because it was superseded by a Provincial Act of 1946 which placed the maximum tax at $5.

H. E. Manning argued for the township that it was entitled to a tax additional to the $5 stipulated by the Province.

Judgment was reserved.

Smith Farmer Found Guilty Of Failing To Feed Horses

Following nearly four hours' trial Tuesday morning and afternoon, a conviction was registered against Thomas Hetherington, horse-breeder, Smith Township, charged with failing to provide proper food and veterinarian care for five of his 17 horses.

An informal, sometimes humorous and sometimes pathetic discussion took place following the delivery of judgment by Magistrate E. A. Gee in which accused, prosecutor W. B. Gordon and defence counsel R. O. Standish and the magistrate, as well as one of two of the witnesses in the case tried to decide on what form the sentence should take. It was finally stated by the magistrate that he would reserve judgment until February 10 in order to give the accused time to make arrangements for consolidation of his plans.

Mr. Gordon stressed to the court that immediate steps should be taken to see that the condition of two stallions is looked after. Quoting from his witnesses, Mr. Gordon argued that the men who testified on the circumstances under which the horses were kept—Veterinary Surgeon Arthur Johnston, Chris Graham and Hugh Stewart, both authorities on horses—showed that the situation required prompt attention.

Denies Statements

The accused was the first defence witness called Tuesday afternoon, and denied all the statements made by the preceding witnesses. Outlining the standard program of feeding which he said he gave his charges, Hetherington said that he had always had sufficient grain feed and hay on hand for his stock.

"I'm not trying to starve my horses, I'm raising them for racing," he said, "it's a business with me." He said he was a horse-lover and had worked with horses for a large part of his 65 years.

Medicinal Remedy

The accused said that the much-discussed sumach branches which he fed to his horses was for medicinal purposes purely, and had not been given to them as a food substitute. This led to a side discussion with His Worship and the accused on the relative merits of various patent medicines for horses.

The toes of his horses were not long, he stated, referring to statements by prosecution witnesses that the toes were so long that several of the animals were lamed. He denied that his horses were suffering.

The elderly man declared that he could "nearly talk to Peter Gratton Royal," a pet horse of his. He detailed what steps he had taken to offset statements by other witnesses that the horse needed veterinary attention.

"I know what Peter wants," he said, and said that all of the horses had everything they needed.

Only other defence witness was Robert Fowler, who testified as to the amount and times of delivery of feed and hay to the Hetherington farm.

In his summing up, defence counsel Standish described the accused as having only the care of his horses as an interest "in this world," and pointed out that, as the man was not "socially inclined," the horses, which he had kept for many years, would be of prime importance to him. He also argued that the statements of the accused had not been refuted in regard to the amount of feed which had been given, and suggested that "the cursory examination" of the inspecting party should not be taken against the word of the accused, "who is working with these animals daily."

Argument of prosecutor Gordon said that the description of his witnesses had shown that the horses had reached the "point of starvation." Recalling Dr. Johnston's use of the word "emaciated," he stressed the full import of the veterinary's meaning by that term.

In his judgment, Magistrate Gee expressed surprise that such "valuable racing stock" should be so treated. He reviewed the situation as outlined by witnesses.

"It is a shame," the magistrate said, "to think of poor old Peter Gratton Royal, one of the finest blooded horses of this district, forced to a slow death in this manner.

Mr. Gee advised the accused to sell his stock and move to the city, to which Hetherington replied he would not consider living in Peterborough: "I can have more happiness with my horses."

Counsel Standish asked that some time be given before judgment was passed and stated that the accused planned to sell off some of his land and stock and properly outfit a stable for raising racers. He pointed out that his client had been busy all summer and autumn disposing of cattle.

In reserving his judgment to February 10, the magistrate warned that "whether it's a jail term or a fine" depends on the actions of the accused by that time.

Stork Derby Winner Dies

ELMVALE, Jan. 21 — (CP). — A bachelor lawyer's eccentric will, which precipitated Toronto's famed "Stork Derby," was recalled with the death of Mrs. Annie Smith, 42, who won $125,000 for being one of four Toronto mothers giving birth to the most children in 10 years.

Mrs. Smith, a native of Montreal, died yesterday in this village, some 60 miles north of Toronto. Nine children, six of whom were living at the time of the award in 1938, formed the basis of her claim to the share of the money from the estate of the late Charles Miller.

Long court proceedings arose from the will's queer bequests, but if Millar, a practical joker and bon vivant, thought the money would result in sad experiences from handling sudden wealth, he would have been disappointed. Surveys taken by reporters from time to time showed that the winners, none of whom was rich, had invested the money wisely and well. All agreed it had produced genuine happiness.

BACHELORS NOTE

Those who "live alone and like it" should watch their diets, nutritionists warn. It is too easy for a bachelor or a bachelor-girl to make a "snack" do in place of a meal instead of eating properly.

Dickens' Revival In England Attributed To Recent Films

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Jan. 21 — (CP). — With prices of new books going up, due to higher production and labor costs, London's multifarious second-hand book dealers are doing a roaring trade with volumes in varying degrees of wear and tear.

Large-scale dealers like Foyles on Charing Cross Road, which have upwards of 4,000,000 books in stock, say the classics are in greater demand than ever before, and the two best-selling authors of the moment are said to be Dickens and Mrs. Beaton's cook book.

The Dickens revival is attributed to the recent filming of "Great Expectations" and "Oliver Twist" and the radio dramatization of several other novels including "Pickwick Papers," "Hard Times" and "Tale of Two Cities."

Mrs. Beaton's cookery book—for which there is a waiting list of 300 at Foyles—seems to have thrived on the huge demand for recipes with which to eke out slender supplies of food, and is bought by restaurateurs as well as housewives.

Next to Dickens, Foyles' book manager said the biggest demand was for 20th-century novels by J. B. Priestley, Somerset Maughan, John Galsworth, John Steinbeck and the documentary fiction of Sir Philip Gibbs.

Growing Popuar

Political commentaries like "Inside U.S.A." by John Gunther and "I Chose Freedom" by the Russian writer Krauchenko are gaining in popularity and the emigration fever has produced a brisk demand for travel books.

The two most popular books on Canada, according to another Charing Cross Road bookseller, are "Canada Ride" by Merry Bosanquet and "Canada" by Sir J. G. Bourinat, first published in 1871. Another favorite is Bruce Hutchinson's "The Unknown Country" published here as "The Unknown Dominion."

Several old-established firms—notably Quaritch's, Sothebys and Christie's—deal in books of rare antiquity, frequently sold by auction.

An early edition of Shakespear's plays, published in 1663 and autographed by diarist Samuel Pepys, is currently for sale at £5,000 ($20,000).

Two Teen-Age Youths Acquitted Of Rape

GODERICH, Jan. 21—(CP)—Two teen-age youths late yesterday were acquitted on charges of rape of a 44-year-old mentally deficient woman after part of the crown's evidence was ruled inadmissible.

William Clark, 18, and Harold Wolff, 17, were found "not guilty" after Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder directed the assize court jury to bring in a verdict of acquittal.

"I must tell you that there is not sufficient evidence to convict these two accused," said His Lordship.

Mr. Justice Schroeder told the jury that the only person able definitely to connect the accused with the alleged offence was the victim herself and that her testimony had not been given on oath because she is mentally deficient. Such testimony was not valid at law unless corroborated by some person able to understand and take an oath, he said. "I know of no case precisely of this nature that has come before the courts."

Traders Ignore High Earnings

By The Canadian Press.

Market observers remain puzzled by the refusal of traders to recognize current high earnings in their stock market dealings.

A Toronto brokerage firm in a review of current prices and approximate dividend yields of representative mining and industrial stocks, made this observation:

"The current unwillingness of the market to recognize earning power is being carried to unusual extremes. Such relation between prices and earnings allows for large declines in earnings before the current dividends on stocks would be jeopardized."

Whether or not the investing public anticipates such "large declines in earnings," a brief survey of price movements on stock markets in Canada and the United States shows that the trend so far this year has repeated that of 1947, when stocks failed to reflect high earnings and rising commodity price levels.

Since the first of the year New York has recorded a majority of losing over gaining sessions. Toronto activity could be judged from the Exchange's indexes for industrials, up four sessions and down nine for the 13 trading periods; golds up four, down nine; base metals up seven, down six; Western oils up five, down eight. Montreal movements were similar to Toronto.

Burners, Sport Goods Have Tax Withdrawn

OTTAWA, Jan. 21 — (CP). — Repercussions threatening some of Canada's export trade with the United States have led to withdrawal of the Dominion's new 25 per cent "austerity" tax on a group of articles, it was learned yesterday.

Items affected are oil burners and oil-burning equipment, a wide range of sporting goods, shaving brushes, and also combs and mirrors costing less than 25 cents.

The sporting goods include the equipment for polo, billiards, pool, squash, bowling, curling, fishing, golf, tennis, and badminton.

BARUCH OFFERS RECOVERY PLAN — Bernard Baruch, elder U.S. statesman and adviser to presidents, is shown chatting with Senator Arthur Vandenburg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. He called for an all-production drive everywhere and a guarantee that the U.S. would buy any global surplus for the next five years.

Hint Scully May Get Deputy Tax Post

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—(CP). — Reports were current in the capital today that V. W. T. Scully, 48, Deputy Minister of Reconstruction, will be appointed to the vacant position of Deputy Minister of Revenue for Income Tax.

The post has been vacant since the resignation, some time ago, of Frank Brown because of ill health.

One report said the appointment would be announced by Prime Minister King before parliament re-opens next Monday.

Mr. Scully, an accountant and businessman, who was born in Ireland, headed War Supplies Ltd. and Victory Aircraft, both government-sponsored munitions enterprises, early in the war. Later he became vice-president of the National Research Council and late in 1945 was appointed deputy reconstruction minister.

Teacher Supply Much Improved Everywhere But In Maritimes

By The Canadian Press

Day by day the chances of junior having a holiday because there was no teacher in the little red school-house to receive his apples, grow more remote. A Canadian Press survey shows that although many rural schools remain closed due to lack of teachers, the supply has generally improved except in the Maritimes.

Slight but general salary hoists have made most of the teachers feel happier about their profession, and their reaction is reflected by increased enrolment at normal schools and short courses to temporarily qualify teachers.

Lack of sufficient training for rural teachers is reported in many provinces, with worst conditions reported in New Brunswick, where Dr. W. H. Mackenzie, superintendent of St. John city schools, describes the prospects as "desperate." He said the existent six-month teaching course was insufficient for proper training.

Quebec reports the teacher shortage situation improved over last year partly because of pay increases often brought about by teachers' unions. Separate Catholic school authorities say school attendance has generally improved with parents "more alive to the problems of education." Protestant school authorities say teachers are still scarce but about 30 per cent. of the teaching staffs are more competent.

Shortage Lessens

Dr. J. G. Althouse, Ontario Director of Education, said the shortage of teachers in Ontario had "considerably lessened" in the last two years because of increased enrolment in normal schools and establishment of summer training courses to improve teaching standards. Greatest shortage exists in elementary schools where 500 of 18,075 teachers were without professional training.

Manitoba Education Authorities say the situation there is gradually improving and more teachers are attending normal school than in 1946-47.

There were 8,928 teachers in charge of Saskatchewan schools in 1947 with 1,745 not fully-qualified. Some unqualified teachers were pinch- hitting in classrooms under supervision.

Enrolment at Alberta's Normal School has increased during the last year. The province, however, needs 537 more teachers this year, as compared with 626 last year.

WOUNDED LEFT — Wounded officers and men who were injured in the pitched battles between regular Greek forces and Red-sponsored insurgents around the strategic town of Konitsa, are pictured sitting by the roadside as they await transportation to the town of Yannina, where they will be hospitalized and treated. These men are of the regular Greek army. It took heavy artillery fire, followed by an infantry push to dislodge the insurgents from the hills about Konitsa.

Won't Divulge Name Of Expert Who "Passed" Ovaltine Ads

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—In the last three years of the Second Great War, the Canadian plant at Peterborough shipped 1,087,197 pounds of Ovaltine to relief and other agencies. This evidence was given by James J. McMillan, president of A. Wander Ltd. of Chicago, makers of Ovaltine, before Magistrate F. C. Gullen yesterday. "They would have taken more if we could have produced it," he added.

The company is charged by the Federal Department of Health with publishing misleading advertising. Comparative nutritional values are challenged.

Mr. McMillan said that the Greek War Relief took 481,464 pounds, the Canadian Red Cross Society for the Greek Red Cross, 90,000; the Indian supply mission, 126,981 pounds, and the NAAFI, representing the Navy, Army and Air Force Institutes, 126,981. United States plants sent other shipments to NAAFI and to India.

The crown rested its case Monday.

A portion of the advertising complained of stated that 'if you are eating normal meals, two glasses of Ovaltine will give you all the extra vitamins and minerals you need for robust health." It was claimed on the stand by Dr. L. B. Pett, chief of the nutritional division of the Federal department, that 'one does not need any extra vitamins or minerals for robust health," if normal meals are being consumed.

The case for the crown was concluded after cross examination of Dr. Pett by T. J. Carley, counsel for the makers of Ovaltine.

Discuss Malnutrition

In the first few minutes of cross-examiantion of Dr. Pett, defense counsel introduced questions of malnutrition which the magistrate ruled "had nothing to do with the issue."

"The broad subject of malnutrition has no relation to 'normal' meals in this issue," he stated.

Mr. Carley referred to a survey that Dr. Pett had conducted in Alberta and contended that the figures showed that ordinary meals have not been giving all the necessary foods.

"Those figures have since been repudiated by the council that set them up," replied Dr. Pett.

'Would it not be better to give a food that supplied protein and vitamin A than vitamin A alone?" asked Mr. Carley.

'If there were deficiencies of both those vitamins it would naturally be better to take both than just vitamin A alone."

Asked by the magistrate if there was any advantage in taking the vitamins together, as compared to taking them singly, Dr. Pett said there was no advantage in taking them together.

Better To Get Both

"Is it better to get both whether in one food or not?" asked Mr. Carley.

"Yes," replied the doctor. "If you need both, it follows that it is better to get both vitamins."

President Testifies

James G. McMillan, president and general manager of the Chicago firm manufacturing Ovaltine, testified the company was started in Great Britain.

He said the manufacture of Ovaltine began in Berne, Switzerland. Explaining that it was developed by Dr. A. Wander in conjunction with what he claimed were "eminent nutritionists," Mr. McMillan said Ovaltine was introduced "always through the medical profession."

He said he went to the U.S. in 1917 to start the Chicago branch, and set out to mention the growth of sales of Ovaltine in the U.S. when Crown Counsel A. H. Friedgut objected that this was not relevant.

"The extent to which the commodity has been used might have an indirect bearing on any impression whether erroneous or otherwise," declared the magistrate.

In 1933, the witness said, the company was justified in building a factory in Canada. A. Wander Ltd., Peterborough, is a branch of the British company in London, England, he stated further.

During the war, 'the witness continued, the Ovaltine companies have supplied army and air force organizations, relief organizations and the Red Cross.

"The sale of Ovaltine in Canada was never recommended without milk," he added.

"Do you drink ovaltine?" Mr. Friedgut asked the witness.

"Oh, yes. Every day. To get a good night's sleep."

Helps Him Sleep

"And does it give you a good night's sleep?"

"Always."

"You think it helps you?"

"I do."

"You also advertised it as good for nursing mothers?"—"Yes."

"You don't use it to supply the vitamins you need? You don't follow the advice given in your advertisement?"—"No."

"You mentioned Ovaltine was used in POW camps; you don't know whether it was used with water or milk?"

"No knowledge," replied Mr. McMillan.

Won't Divulge Name

The witness stated the advertising of Ovaltine was submitted to "competent critics." I would say the general concept or the advertisements in Canada are substantially the same," he explained.

The particular ad in question, he testified, was submitted to "experts." Asked to name the experts, he said: "I am not permitted to say."

"I think we should know further why the witness is not inclined to say what experts," said Magistrate Gullen.

"I am not permitted to tell. The experts prevented me," replied Mr. McMillan.

"The person hired for this job of censoring the ad, said he would be willing to advise if he wouldn't be forced to come and give evidence against the government. I don't wish to disclose his identity," he stated.

Pressed further by crown counsel for information about the "anonymous" man, Mr. McMillan said man consulted was a physiologist and biochemist.

"Why would he make such a stipulation?" asked Mr. Friedgut.

"That is his affair," witness answered.

Plane Crash Lands 11 People Injured

BOSTON, Jan. 21 —(AP)—At least 11 persons were injured in the skid-landing of a big Eastern Airlines Constellation on an icy runway at Logan International Airport early today.

The plane burst into flames after it ploughed into a snowbank at the end of the slippery runway, but 20 passengers and five crew members jumped 15 feet through doorways into snowbanks before the craft became a mass of fire. It was almost completely destroyed.

Airport officials said the plane was driven to Boston by bad weather at Newark, N.J. The pilot, from Miami, apparently was unfamiliar with the Boston airport.

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

Rt. Rev. Monsignor O'Sullivan was the speaker at a well-attended meeting of the Immaculate Conception Home and School Association on Monday evening. He chose as his subject "Some Irish Makers of Canadian History," and gave a review of the work done by Sir Guy Carleton, Robert Baldwin and D'Arcy McGee. He stated a deep knowledge of history is one of the best means of promoting loyalty to our country and urged all present to take a deeper interest in the study of Canadian history.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker by Mr. M. J. Roche and Mr. J. Murray.

Seventy-seven new members joined previous to the meeting. The president, Miss Hazel Guerin, congratulated the men on the splendid results of the membership drive, which was in charge of Mr. H. Fraser. Miss Guerin also expressed her appreciation to the various committees for the work and co-operation which had made the organization of our association such a success.

A donation was authorized to the Founder's Memorial Fund and an invitation given to the members to attend the Founder's Day Rally to be held in the near future.

It was decided to hold a home-made bake sale and rummage sale on Feb. 14th for the purpose of raising funds. Mrs. J. McGrath and Mrs. D. Rusaw were appointed conveners.

Mr. Leo McColl gave an outline of the aims and objectives of the recently organized Canadian Association of Consumers.

Piano solos by Cecile Byrnes and Mary Crilly and a group of songs by the pupils of Grade 4 were very much enjoyed. Following the meeting refreshments were served in the music room by a committee in charge of Mrs. J. McCormack and Mrs. Alex. Tait.

Midget Radio Is Powerful

By SEAGHAN MAYNES

HAMBURG, Jan. 21—(Reuters)—A midget radio which its inventor and manufacturer claims is the smallest ever produced in Germany as a commercial proposition, will appear on the German market in a short time.

Less than four inches long, 2½ inches high and weighing less than one pound, the three-tube radio has been constructed by a German radio technician, Bernhard Wobbe, in his small workshop at Winsen, near Hamburg.

Radio experts have subjected the set to thorough tests for efficiency and the German press hails it as a partial solution to the country's extreme shortage of radios, and it can be produced with only a percentage of the raw material needed for the construction of an ordinary small radio set.

In spite of optimistic press references to the possibilities of mass-production, however, German radio industry officials would not commit themselves to a guess on the length of time which must elapse before the midget radio is being turned out by the hundreds.

That it will not be in the near future is indicated by the fact that the serious shortage of raw materials, upon which production depends, is improving only with painful slowness.

Wobbe who confidently predicts a great future for his midget set which he has christened "Knirps" —meaning "small boy" in colloquial German—claims that with only four yards of ordinary wire to act as aerial, his "Knirps" can pick up between 30 and 40 foreign stations on its medium and short waves.

Not A Novelty

"Knirps" was not built as a novelty but with an eye to economy in material and its small size —it can be carried in the palm of the hand—has recommended it to some foreign manufacturers.

Wobbe, however, told me that he has already decided that the war-disabled and refugees will have first priority on his midget set and he is not interested at the moment in the export market. His attitude is that the needs of millions of radioless Germans should be filled first.

Although German radio manufacturers are back in limited production only comparatively few new radios seem to reach the retail shops. A high percentage vanishes into black market channels, where a new set brings up to 7,000 reichmarks ($700 at official exchange rates) and an old, worn set brings around 1,000 rm.

The midget "Knirps" will be sold for 200 rm ($20) when Wobbe is able to mass-produce it in a factory he is planning to develop in Hamburg. This is about double the pre-war equivalent price, but Wobbe, like most other German manufacturers, has to pay high prices of the scarce raw materials and technical equipment he needs.

The German radio industry estimates that if materials were available and the cost reasonable, about 3,000,000 radio sets could be sold in three weeks.

Until raw materials become available, for mass production of the midget "Knirps," Wobbe anticipates an initial output of five sets a week.

Mission Circle's 1948 Officers Are Installed

Mrs. Ashton Fife was hostess Monday night to the girls of the Jean Wagar Mission Circle of St. James' United Church. Miss Gladys Langton, the president, was in the chair. The Scripture was read by Miss Lottie Leggett. The feature of this meeting was the installation of officers by the pastor. Temperance was presented in a short talk by Mrs. L. Seabrook, who illustrated her message by the use of a fine temperance poster entitled "Building Canada with Glowing Hearts." Miss Mabel Dulmage outlined the work of two missionaries in the Canadian West. She also told how the various churches co-operated in their work for schools and hospitals among the new Canadians. As a pleasing interlude, Mrs. L. Aikenhead gave the humorous selections "Mrs. 'Arris at the Telephone" and "Watch the Corners," in recitation.

It was decided to invite Park Street Baptist Mission Circle to join the Jean Wagar Circle at the February meeting. Miss J. Martin, Mission Circle secretary of Peterborough Presbyterial, announced that this circle had won the reading contest for 1947.

Greetings for the New Year were read from the advisory president, Mrs. E. J. Wagar. An interesting contest based on the study book was enjoyed by everyone. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Fife, and her committee Mrs. E. Ephgrave and Miss M. Dulmage.

Miss Canada Seeks Career

By MARILYN LAMBORN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(CP).—Canada's beauty queen, 19-year-old Margaret Marshall, wants wrinkles—and she hopes she can acquire them in two years.

To prove to her public that she has brains behind hre peaches-and-cream complexion, honey-blonde hair and blue-grey eyes, the unaffected Toronto girl hopes she can become a full-fledged actress complete with "actors' expression"—series of lines about the eyes and mouth which result from stretching facial muscles after a few years' acting.

Miss Marshall said she was disappointed when she saw glamorous Hollywood actresses with wrinkles under their eyes and lining their foreheads. Then her dramatic teacher explained that they were trade marks of the theatre.

"I want to act, and if I have to have wrinkles to do it, I don't mind," she said.

With the $4,000 scholarship money she won in the "Miss Toronto" and "Miss Canada" contests, and in taking third place in the "Miss America" competition, she is delving into the art of the theatre, radio and speech. Most of her day is spent in studying at drama school in preparation for the day when she hopes to please television, radio, or movie audiences.

"People have forgotten about me being 'Miss Canada'," she said. "Now I have to prove myself as Margaret Marshall.

At the moment she is studying "Macbeth" and has received encouragement from her dramatic instructors.

"My teacher tells me I've the right emotional set-up for serious roles, and in a few years might have the acting ability."

But first Miss Marshall would like to use her singing and dancing ability in a light musical comedy. When she has an opportunity she hopes to renew singing lessons.

And boy friends are "out" for "quite a while until I get started on a real career," said the former theatre usher.

"A lot of boys ask me out just so they can boast about being out with 'Miss Canada,' but I'm really not interested in men—for a while."

She admits it is fun being 'Miss Canada," but there are a few disadvantages. She feels she must always "look the part" when often she'd rather dress in slacks and sweater. Neither does she like being called Miss Marshall, "when my name is Margaret."

BORDERLINE ANEMIA*

is no help to a happy marriage!

Thousands who are tired and pale may find renewed energy—restore healthy good looks—with Ironized Yeast Tablets

Do everyday tasks exhaust your energy and leave you feeling fatigued, depressed and irritable? Do you look and act older than your years? Is your color poor?

These signs often come from a blood condition and if you have them you may have a Borderline Anemia, a mild anemia due to a nutritional deficiency of iron.

Yes, the red cells in your blood may be losing their healthy color and size—they may be weakened to the point where they no longer can transmit full energy to your body. Many people—women, men and children—are dragging through life with this Borderline Anemia . . . tired, dispirited, "all done in."

How Ironized Yeast Tablets Build Up Your Blood and Your Vigor

If this common blood condition is robbing you of your usual healthy color and buoyant energy, you ought to take Ironized Yeast Tablets. They are formulated to help build up faded red blood cells to healthy color and size—to help you reclaim your vigor.

Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may be due to other conditions—so consult your doctor regularly. But in this Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets to help build up your blood. Take them to start your energy shifting back into "high"—to help restore your natural color! Take them so you really can enjoy life again!

DOROTHY DIX

OVERWORKED GRANDMA
Older Woman Needs Freedom From Demanding Children.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 58. My problem is what to do about my grandchildren, whom I love very dearly, but whom I would prefer to take in broken doses if such a thing is possible, instead of being fed up to the gills with them all the time.

I have reared a large family of two sons and five daughters, so you see the supply of grandchildren is inexhaustible. But now I would like to live a life of my own, with plenty of peace and quiet in it and doing the things that I enjoy doing myself.

But I find it impossible, for I am no longer a lady of leisure. I am just a baby-sitter. I am just Grandma. My daughters and my daughters-in-law dump the children on me and think they are giving me a treat. The older ones come over to Grandma's for tea. The smaller babies are brought over for Grandma to mind while their parents go to parties, concerts and theatres. This has been going on for about five years, with no prospects, so far as I can see, of the young mothers staying at home and minding their business and letting Grandma mind hers.

Would you write something for others to read?

OVERWORKED GRANDMA.

ANSWER: Well, it is a pleasure to hear of one grandmother who has the spunk to raise her voice in protest against the slavery which is wished on most women when the baby crop begins to come in. Not that it will do Grandma any good, for all young mothers are sold to the belief that Grandma just adores walking the colic and changing didies and that the racket made by Georgie and Sammy with their scooters, drums, whistles, and horns is just music to her ears.

It would be funny, if it wasn't also sad, how the family looks on Grandma. They never see her as a youngish woman who likes to go places and do amusing things; who plays a good game of bridge and has a nice taste in clothes a little on the gay side, if her daughters don't interfere with her; and who isn't too old or decrepit not to enjoy spending the evening in company with a boy friend who is also 60 or 70 and with whom she can say: "Don't you remember?"

Household Convenience.

No, the family picture of Grandma is of a sort of self-abnegating angel whose chief earthly delight is making cookies for hungry youngsters, and running after kids no matter how rheumatic her knees are, singing babies to sleep, listening to the advice that the young mothers give her, and being a sort of household convenience that does every odd job and doesn't have to be lubricated with any money.

And, of course, Grandma's job during the war and since the war has been a terrible one, for she has had to crowd Mary, Sally, Ellen, Jane, and their kids into her little house that already was bursting at the seams. She has had to give up her sunny room for the babies to play in; she has had to take care of the children while their mothers went out to play or to their jobs, and she has gotten no thanks for anything she has done, because she was just Grandma. All of her children and grandchildren have thought that Grandmothers were devised to make things easier for them.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 17 years of age and in love with a man of 35 who is married and has three children. We have been going together secretly for nine months. I want him to get a divorce and marry me, but he says it is best to wait a year or two longer.

Do you think I should wait or should I go to his wife and explain? A.R.C.

ANSWER: What is there to explain to a wife with whose husband you are having an affair? Are you going to tell her, as a happy surprise, that her husband has transferred his affections from her to you? Or are you going to explain to her that it would be cricket for her to get a divorce and let you marry her husband? It would certainly take a lot of explaining to make the lady appreciate your point of view.

My poor little 17-year-old child, haven't you sense enough to see that this unprincipled married Lothario is just playing with you when he tells you it is best to wait a year or two before he gets a divorce from his wife? He hasn't the faintest idea in the world of ever getting a divorce to marry you. So if you don't want to add to your unhappiness, call your whole sordid affair off. Wait until you can find some man who offers you a decent marriage.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 21

A most intriguing and bewildering state of affairs is likely to develop on this day, judging by the unusual, irregular and mystifying aspects of dominant, planetary influences. An inharmonious, exasperating, baffling and discouraging state of affairs, may appear to be injurious, futile, and disastrous, inciting to violent thoughts, words and deeds. Then suddenly from an obscure, unaccountable and strategic place comes a complete reversal in orderly processes. A weird intervention, or a peculiar person, may turn the day into joy, or even spiritual crisis.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a time of singular experiences, strange contacts, unusual adventures, in which, from subtle or obscure undercurrents, may arise peculiar or inexplicable developments. At first inharmonious, rash and rancorous, with irritated emotional and mental states of mind and feelings, quite surprisingly the picture changes, with intriguing and fascinating phases.

A spurt of genius, a "hunch" or weird revelation may be at the root of a complete about-face.

A child born on this day may have a rather dual personality. It may be exceptionally versatile, sensitive and temperamental, but as well rarely gifted in spiritual intellectual or artistic, creative expression. Intrigue and sublety may dominate its life.

DON'T SALVE BURNS

Health authorities advise not to try to alleviate pain from burns by applying ointment. Only sterilized dressings should be used and the burn should not be exposed to the air.

The following sound motion films were provided and shown by the Peterborough Film Council: "A City Sings," "Vegetable Insects", a color film by the Dept. of Agriculture, "Down Where North Begins" and "Life on Western Marshes."

Five door prizes of gladiolus bulbs were drawn for. Winners were Mr. Herb. Cardwell, Mr. Jack Smith, Mr. Alf Barber and Mrs. Barber. Mr. George H. Clarke made a donation of hybrid delphinium seeds to the Society and it will be distributed the membership.

Splendid Cough Syrup Easily Mixed at Home

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix this recipe in your own kitchen. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Anyone can do it. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.)

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat irritations.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient medicine, and you get four times as much for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, satisfying relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages and taking hold of the cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Pinex Is Swift Acting. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Dr. Whitton Gets Summons Too

EDMONTON, Jan. 21—(CP).—Counsel for Dr. Charlotte Whitton said last night the social welfare expert had been served with a summons charging libel and would be required to appear in court Jan. 27.

Lawyer George Speer said he did not know by whom the charge had been laid. However, he said it was likely the charge was the same as had been made against Jack Kent Cooke, publisher of New Liberty Magazine, and Harold Dingman, Ottawa writer. Mr. Cooke and Mr. Dingman were charged with conspiracy to publish defamatory libel.

Dr. Whitton supervised a study of welfare services in Alberta for the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. Mr. Cooke and Mr. Dingman were charged as a result of an article carried in the Dec. 27 issue of the magazine entitled "Babies For Export." The story dealt with child welfare conditions in Alberta.

Dr. Whitton, testifying before the royal commission set up by the Alberta government to investigate operations of the provincial welfare branch, said the magazine article and a manuscript submitted to her by Mr. Dingman last October were "substantially the same."

Mr. Steers said he had advised Dr. Whitton at the time that if the article did no more than accurately quote her report, he saw no reason why Mr. Dingman should not write it.

Makes Mercy Flight

GOOSE BAY, Labrador, Jan. 21.—(CP).— With FO. Barney Hartman of Tisdale, Sask., at the controls, a single-engined RCAF Norseman touched down safely here yesterday after a 400-mile rescue flight to bring Mrs. C. H. Forsythe to hospital from the Labrador coast village of Cartwright.

CHEMICAL MAGIC

By special chemical treatment, any kind of fabric can be made mildew-proof, water-proof and flame-proof without affecting the color.

Offer 25c Raise

GLACE BAY, N.S., Jan. 21.—(CP).—Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation has offered Nova Scotia coal miners an increase of 25 cents a day as against $1.10 demand put forward by District 26 United Mines Workers (CCL), Union Chief Freeman Jenkins announcer last night. An authoritative union source said the Dosco offer was not satisfactory.

Your Baby and You

by Ruth Parsons

Baby may start sun bathing when he's a month old . . . if the weather is suitable. Because weather varies so in different parts of Canada, your own good sense must determine what "suitable weather" is. Even in cold climates, April 1st may be warm and sunny enough. If you're in doubt as to baby's comfort, feel his flesh. If it's warm to your touch, he's all right. Give him his sun baths by an open window or in some outdoor spot protected from the wind. Start him off with two minutes both sides, and add a minute a day until he's getting 20 minutes front and back. Shield his eyes when he's on his back, and keep him in the shade when the sun is hot or even unduly warm. He'll still benefit from ultra-violet rays in the atmosphere.

No chance of monotony in baby's meals when you select Heinz Baby Foods. Here are the 22 nourishing varieties from which to choose: Beef and Liver Soup; Tomato Soup; Vegetable Soup; Asparagus; Carrots; Green Beans; Peas; Beets; Spinach; Peas and Carrots; Squash and Carrots; Chicken, Vegetable and Farina; Vegetables with Lamb; Applesauce; Peaches; Prunes; Pears with Farina; Plums with Farina; Apricots with Oatmeal; Orange Custard Dessert; Peach Custard Dessert; Prune Custard Dessert.

And when baby's older, add to his menu the 12 delicious varieties of coarser-textured Heinz Baby Foods: Chicken Soup; Lamb and Liver; Vegetable Beef Dinner; Tomato and Rice; Creamed Diced Vegetables; Mixed Vegetables; Carrots; Spinach; Green Beans; Prune Pudding; Pineapple Rice Pudding; Apple, Fig and Date Dessert.

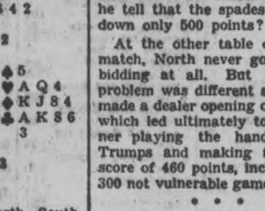
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WOULD YOU REALLY?

IT'S ALL well and good to say what you would have done in his place, after you have learned about the disaster that befell a poor unfortunate because of some bid, lead or play he made. But are you really sure you would not have done exactly the same thing he did? Now be honest with yourself. Isn't it pretty hard sometimes to be absolutely sure what action you would have taken?

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♠	2 ♠	Dbl	Pass
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	Pass	3 ♦
Dbl



That got set four tricks, giving East and West 1,100 points, whereupon a jubilator—who sat behind South, not North—said he would have passed North's position instead of making the 3 Diamond overcall on the second round which inaugurated his trouble. He was of course sincere, but still we aren't certain he would have passed with that freak distribution. Further, we feel sure he would have made the spade bid after the diamond call was doubled. Why? Because a man famous for psychic bids was in the West, none other than Oswald Jacoby himself, a player who might have called spades without them.

Whatever blame attached to South for taking out the double of 2-Spades into 3-Diamonds is hard to figure, when he had a singleton in one suit and three to an honor in the other. How could he tell that the spades would go down only 500 points?

At the other table of a team match, North never got into the bidding at all. But his entire problem was different since West made a dealer opening of 1-Spade, which led ultimately to his partner playing the hand at 3-No Trumps and making five for a score of 460 points, including the 300 not vulnerable game bonus.

Pension Raise Said Too Small

MONTREAL, Jan. 21—(CP).—The recent proposal of the Federal Government to increase the basic rate of veterans' pensions by $10 a month is not sufficiently adequate to offset the rising cost of living, the Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion said today in a statement.

"The Legion's idea of an appropriate increase in pensions at this time would be an additional 25 per cent. for all beneficiaries under the Act," the Legion stated. "This would boost a single totally disabled pensioner from $900 to $1,125 a year.

"It would also mean that a totally disabled pensioner with a wife and two children would receive a total of $1,905 a year. A widow, without children, would get $900 and a widow with two children would get $1,305," the Legion explained.

Warn 20 Dairies They Face Court

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP). — C. H. Meek, chairman of the Ontario Milk Board, today said about 20 dairies have been told "they leave themselves open to legal proceedings" if they continue to refuse producers the price increase set by arbitration last December.

Letters were sent to the dairies yesterday and they have been given five days from the mailing date to pay producers, Mr. Meek added.

A spokesman for London district distributors said they "are standing pat on their legal rights" when told they might face court action.

The distributors take the stand that they are not bound by the bargaining agreement for increase of 55 cents to $3.90 a hundredweight.

Meanwhile, more than 300 district milk producers received December cheques from dairies—all for $3.60 a hundredweight. They were accepted under protest, producers said.

Nursemaid Starts 4th Jail Term

DETROIT, Jan. 21.— (AP). — Twenty-six-year-old Marie Thrasher, who said she "lived the lives" of socially prominent and wealthy women, today began a fourth term prison term for passing bad cheques in their names.

The one-time nursemaid for well-to-do Detroit families began a sentence of six months to 14 years in the Detroit house of correction after pleading guilty.

She was accused of impersonating such women as Mrs. Benson Ford, wife of the automobile manufacturer's grandson, Mrs Gar Wood, wife of the speedboat king, and others.

"I lived the lives of Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Wood so long I believed it myself," she was quoted by authorities. Police said she netted $7,000 by passing bad cheques or charging merchandise to other women in shops in Detroit, Chicago and Washington.

Gandhi Asks Mercy For Man With Bomb

NEW DELHI, Jan. 21 — (AP). — Mohandas K. Gandhi said tonight he will ask the police to be merciful with a youthful Hindu accused of exploding a home made bomb near his prayer meeting last night. The suspect could be imprisoned for life.

"We should not harbor hatred," Gandhi said. "I will request the police not to trouble him but to have compassion towards him and make him see the righteous path."

Gandhi, too weak to walk because of his recent fast for communal peace, had been carried to the prayer meeting in a chair. He laughed when an unidentified man in the audience demanded that Gandhi proclaim himself a reincaration of God. When the speaker persisted, Gandhi impatiently told him to sit down and be quiet.

Mining Towns Seeking Aid

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP). — Mayor W. S. Beaton of Sudbury, said in a brief presented to the Ontario cabinet on behalf of the Ontario Municipal Association that legislation on mining tax has been "booted around for years."

The brief, released today, says that immediate action is necessary to amend the legislation so that municipalities in mining areas would be given part of the mining tax collected by the provincial government.

Mayor Beaton said the mining municipalities supply the services of water, sewers, garbage, fire, police, sidewalks, streets, bridges and drainage for employees of mining companies but receive no financial consideration in return.

"The mining tax collected by the provincial government from the nickel companies in the Sudbury area is approximately $11,000,000 annually, but under existing legislation, Sudbury and other mining municipalities in Ontario in the same position are not legally entitled to one dollar."

Britain May Get Nearly Two Billion In Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—The State Department estimated 'oday that Britain may receive $1,760,000,000 of the $6,800,000,000 which the Truman administration wants to spend in Europe during the first 15 months of the Marshall Plan.

In addition to this 25 per cent. slice of the outlay proposed for the period beginning April 1, the Department gave Congress these other tentative figures in the first official breakdown of the requested appropriation:

France, $1,434,000,000; Western Germany, $914,000,000; Italy, $869,000,000; the Netherlands, $705,000,000; Belgium - Luxembourg, $323,000,000; Greece, $186,000,000; Austria, $182,000,000; Denmark, $164,000,000; Ireland, $152,000,000; French - occupied Germany, $80,000,000; Norway, $34,000,000; Sweden, $33,000,000; Iceland, $13,000,000; the former German Saar area, $11,000,000.

There were no allotments to Portugal, Switzerland and Turkey, which are associated with the 13 other countries in the Marshall Plan.

The State Department submitted the figures to the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee as what it called an "illustrative distribution." It noted that the actual sharing of funds, which might not be quite the same, would be made by an administrator yet to be appointed, if Congress agrees to the Truman administration's plans.

No attempt was made to figure how much American aid would be in the form of loans and how much in outright grants. Lewis W. Douglas, American Ambassador to Britain, has told Congress that 20 to 40 per cent. probably would be in loans.

Report Divorce Applications Running Below Last Record Year

OTTAWA, Jan. 21—(CP).—Applications to parliament for divorce are running below last year's record rate, but are still far ahead of the pre-war average. So far 272 applications have been received from Quebec—the only province still without a divorce court—and will be considered at the session which resumes Jan. 26. Possibly others will be received before Feb. 20, the deadline set for the filing of applications.

Last year, 406 applications were received, 348 were approved and 27 were held over for this year. The remainder either were withdrawn or rejected. In pre-war 1938 when both Quebec and Prince Edward Island sent their divorce cases to parliament only 85 applications were received.

The 1947 divorce figures for all provinces have not yet reached the Dominion Bureau of Statistics here, but 1946 figures were indicative of the sharp upswing marriage dissolution has taken since the end of the war.

The 1946 figures by provinces, with 1938 figures in brackets, follow:

Prince Edward Island, four (two); Nova Scotia, 260 (51); New Brunswick, 382 (39); Quebec 290 (83); Ontario, 2,527 (824); Manitoba, 636 (205); Saskatchewan, 505 (232); Alberta, 962 (271); British Columbia, 2,005 (647); Canada, 7,571 (2,244).

Have No Records

Federal officials have kept no records that would show reasons for the increase in divorce However, they said, there was no doubt that the long separations caused by the war was one of the main contributing factors.

"Some husbands and wives were separated as long as six years, and, human nature being what it is, there were bound to be disagreements when they tried to resume normal lives again," said one official.

Another factor was that many couples married hurriedly during the war without really knowing one another. When the war ended they discovered their mistake.

While there have been numerous complaints in the Commons in recent years against parliament handling divorces from Quebec, it is not believed that any change will be made in procedure in the near future.

The predominantly Roman Catholic province is opposed to divorce and the Federal and Provincial Governments do not want to take any action that would, against the wishes of the majority of people, facilitate the obtaining of divorces.

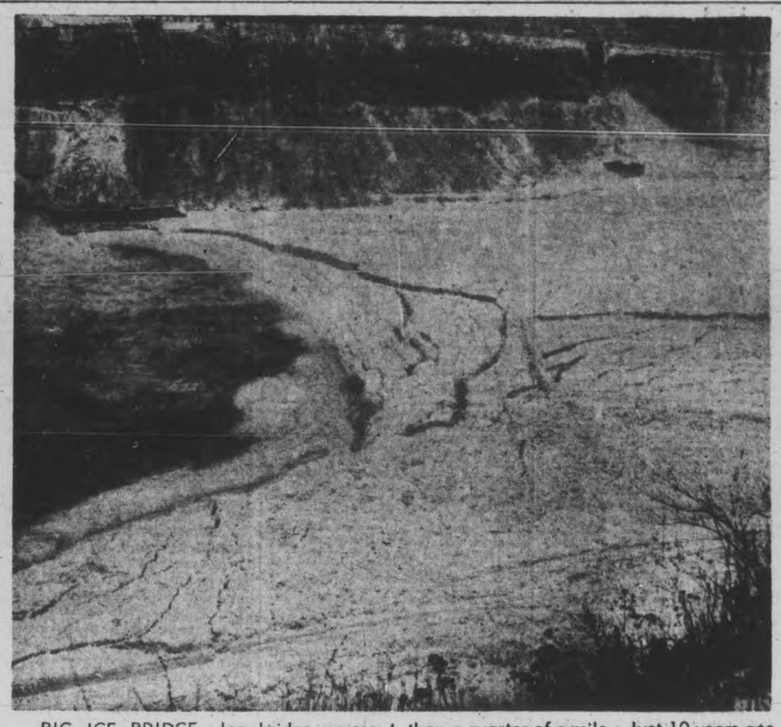
OTTAWA, Jan. 21. (CP)—Major changes in Veterans' Legislation were forecast for the coming parliamentary session today by Hon. Ian MacKenzie in a farewell statement following his move from the Veterans' Affairs Ministry to the Senate.

The former minister, whose transfer was announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said these amendments were planned:

1. As forecast in December by Prime Minister King, increased allowances to disability pensioners and those recipients of war veterans' allowances incapable of augmenting their allowance by casual earnings.

2. Additional protection for the children of veterans by enlarging the definition of an orphan to take in a child with one parent dead and the other having abandoned it.

3. Extension of the Veterans' Insurance Act to cover merchant seamen and members of the permanent force.



4. Amendment of the Veterans' Land Act to allow veterans taking university training to switch to land settlement after a short period of training. At present, those starting university training cannot move into the other category.

5. Another VLA amendment to allow veterans to transfer from university to vocational training. The minister said present restrictions have proven "prejudicial to proper rehabilitation in some cases.

6. Functions of the Board of Review, which deals with cases of veterans denied gratuities because of dishonorable discharge, would be continued within the department when the board itself is dissolved.

Canadian Dollar Discount Cut By Two Cents

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 21—(AP)—Local banks yesterday cut the discount on the Canadian dollar by two cents, bringing its worth here in United States currency u pfrom 91½ to 93½ cents.

A Foreign Exchange official of a leading bank who declined use of his name, said buying of Canadian currency was not heavy, consisting mostly of purchases ranging from $10 to $100, but the market was "thin" due to a limited supply of Canadian dollars here.

Calling the jump "very suprising" at a time of year when tourist and investment demand is low, he added.

"The most logical explanation is that the Canadian government apparently has succeeded in plugging the holes through which Dominion currency had been escaping across the border, thereby cutting the supply in this country.

"Furthermore, U.S. holders of Canadian secudities seem less eager to cash them in and run. In other words, confidence in the Canadian dollar and the Ottawa govrenment's fiscal control program is definitely stronger."

SOVIET POLICY LEADING TO WAR-BEVIN

Slashes Two Kills Self Over Tenants

Landlord Threatened Roomers All Week In Row Over Heating

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP)— Wielding a butcher knife, 46-year-old John Szczepanek early today slashed Mrs. Stella Pytel about the arms, hands and face, cut her 4½-year-old son on the hand and committed suicide by cutting his own throat "from ear to ear" in which police said was the climax to a long series of trouble between Szcyepanek and his tenants.

Mrs. Pytel described by police as Szczepanek's common - law wife, was treated at hospital and permitted to return to her home in west-central Toronto, where the slashings occurred.

The child, Edward Pytel, was admitted to the Hospital for Sick Children and held for examination. His only injury was a cut finger, police said.

Szczepanek ran amok and turned on Mrs. Pytel when she remonstrated with him as he was about to "have words" with tenants of the house, police said.

After slashing her and cutting the child, he turned the knife on himself and died almost immediately.

Heating Row

Police said the woundings and suicide were the culmination of a week-long argument between Szczepanek and his tenants over the hearting of the house.

They said the landlord last week threatened to "do away with" the persons who occupied the upper rooms of the house.

Today, at 3 a.m., Szczepanek grabbed a butcher knife and was going upstairs when Mrs. Pytel tride to stop him, police said. She was painfully cut but ran upstairs screaming a warning to the tenants.

THREE PERSONS WERE BURNED to death near Montreal in the little village of Coteau Rouge, but the toll would have been higher had not a little girl grown thirsty. The fire destroyed four buildings containing eight flats, and an adjoining store. Awakening at 3 o'clock, Yvonne Joubinville, 3½ years old, called out to her grandmother for a drink of water. The latter, Mrs. William Pelletier, on awakening, found the house full of smoke. Roaring out of control, flames swept through one of the four buildings which were razed in the early morning fire. Villagers were helpless in the face of the blaze as there was no local water available. The fury of the fire threatened many other homes in the area.

Says Russia Wants West Under Rule

Says Britain Ready To Make Treaties To Halt Communism

LONDON, Jan. 22. — (AP).— Foreign Secretary Bevin said today Russia is making a ruthless drive to dominate Europe and that he believes continuance of this policy by any one power will lead to another war.

"If the policy is pursued of trying to dominate Europe by any one power, by whatever means, direct or indirect," Bevin said. 'we are driven to the conclusion that it will inevitably lead again to another war."

"The Marshall program has brought to light vividly what must have been under the surface all the time."

Bevin pictured the European recovery plan, proposed by State Secretary Marshall of the United States, as unmasking Russian efforts to communize western Europe as well as the States already in Moscow's orbit.

Nevertheless he emphasized British eagerness to co-operate with the Soviets, saying:

"It is madness to think of anything else if we are ever going to have peace.

"But the British government cannot agree to four-power co-operation while one of those four powers continues to impose its political and economic system on the smaller states."

Ready to Consolidate

The Foreign Secretary proclaimed Britain's right to organize "kindred souls" of Western Europe, saying:

"I believe the time is ripe for the consolidation of Western Europe."

Bevin said Russia's reaction to the Marshall plan had unmasked her desire to control Western as well as Eastern Europe.

"The Marshall program has brought to light vividly what must have been under the surface all along," he asserted.

"We are not now proposing a formal political union with France. We shall maintain the closest possible contacts and work for ever closer unity between our two countries.

"The time has come to find ways and means to develop our

NEW LIBERAL LEADER?—Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Mr. King's right hand man, has been most frequently mentioned as a successor to the post of Prime Minister.

Warns Farmers Be Careful About Dependence On Exports To Britain

McKinney Urges Federation Seek Outlet For Some Products In US Fears Canadians May Be Left In Lurch

The Canadian farmer should seek an outlet in the United States for some of his products instead of putting too much dependence on exports to Britain, Alex. McKinney of Brampton suggested in his address at the annual meeting of Peterborough County Federation of Agriculture in the YMCA on Wednesday night.

Granting that this country had a moral obligation to assist in supplying Britain with food while she was struggling out of the tremendous effects of the war on her whole economy, Mr. McKinney said the British were keen traders and would normally buy their requirements in the markets that afforded them the most attractive prices. That was one of his topics in his discussion of the spread in prices between the farm producers and the ultimate consumer.

Lorne Reynolds, president of the Peterborough Federation, was chairman of the meeting. Mr. McKinney, a past president of the Ontario Federation, was introduced by John Kitney, secretary-treasurer, as "one of the best farmers in this province."

Mr. McKinney has long been a director of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, and through that and other connections is fairly well known to Peterborough farmers.

The meeting elected six directors: Mrs. Roland Scott, David McIntyre, Elmer Milburn, Stewart Nelson, Henry Sharpe and Bruce Graham.

The financial statement by Mr. Kitney showed a credit balance of $1,214.59. Expenditure included payment of $500 as the county contribution to the provincial body last year.

Mr. Reynolds review the affairs of the Federation last year including the promotion of the creamery patrons' vote, the August field day, feed grain petition, assisting the dental health week, investigation of the county health unit plan and other activities.

The evening program presented violin solos by Master Willie Anderson of Ashburnham accompanied at the piano by his sister, Helen, and vocal numbers by Mrs. D. Campanaro, with Miss Margaret McCabe accompanist. Refreshments were served after the evening's business was concluded.

Liberals Call Convention To Pick Leader

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 — (CP). — The Liberal party swung its organization into action today for the calling of a summer convention to choose a leader into whose hands will pass the reins of the government of Canada.

A committee to arrange for the convention was struck by the advisory council of the National Liberal Federation at its closing convention sessions yesterday following a message from Prime Minister Mackenzie King that choice of "a new leader for our party should not be delayed."

Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg are in the running as convention cities and the meeting is expected to be held in August. J. Gordon Fogo, re-elected president of the federation along with the entire executive, said these details would be decided shortly.

One point was made clear last night by a source close to Mr. King—whoever is drafted by the convention will take over as prime minister.

Should a new man be chosen, this source said, Mr. King would, without prior public announcement, hand his resignation as prime minister to the Governor-General and make way for the new leader just as soon as the latter could form a cabinet. In resigning the prime minister would take his cabinet out with him, though its members probably would get ministerial appointments under the new leader.

Quebec Province Flying Its Own Flag

QUEBEC, Jan. 22 — (CP). — An azure blue banner with white cross and fleurs de lys at its corners flew today above Quebec's parliament after a surprise government move which led to the flag's adoption by the province yesterday.

Premier Duplessis announced unexpectedly that the flag had been given official approval by order in council passed during a meeting of the provincial cabinet. He made the announcement as the provincial legislative assembly met and applauding members gave their assent immediately.

The suddenness of the government's action caught even the province's departmental staffs unprepared and the flag run up above the parliament clock tower replacing the Union Jack was a temporary versiou to be modified in the official design.

The flag that flies today, familiar throughout Quebec as that of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, was also used for a display in the assembly during its evening sitting.

Adoption of a flag which gives Quebec a provincial distinction formerly held only by Nova Scotia was a personal victory for Rene Chaloult, Nationalist member for Quebec county, who had campaigned for it more than 10 years.

The lone Nationalist in the Quebec parliament was the sponsor of a motion on the legislature order paper recommending that the government "hoist a flag which would symbolize the aspirations of the people of the province."

Quick Work

Premier Duplessis gave the House word of the order-in-council, sanctioned only three hours before the new flag was run up at 3.10 p.m. Adoption was unanimous.

In the provincial version on the "drapeau fleurdelyse," the four corner fleurs de lys will be changed to upright position from the present pointing to the flag's centre. Their gold will be changed to white.

Government officials said it was possible too that Quebec's coats of arms with its lion, fleurs de lys, maple leaves and moto "je me souviens (I remember)" might be added, though its placing would present a problem.

Seven Policemen Shot, Stabbed

JERUSALEM, Jan. 22.—(AP). —Hagana, Jewish militia, said it attacked the Arab village of Yazur and killed 12 Arabs today after seven Jewish settlement police were slain at a road block at the edge of town.

Yazur is about five miles south of Tel Aviv on the main road to Jerusalem. Officials confirmed the Hagana report that seven Jewish settlement police were shot or stabbed to death and said four others were wounded there. They reported only three of the Arab attackers killed.

Hagana said the Arabs who did not fall in the battle at the road blocks were driven into Yazur in the village and was surrounded.

A second Jewish convoy was attacked between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv. Jewish sources said one Jew was killed and two wounded.

Ask Criminal Code Change To Secure Press Freedom

TORONTO, Jan. 22—(CP).—Jack Kent Cooke, publisher of New Liberty Magazine, who with Harold Dingman, Ottawa writer, will appear Tuesday at Edmonton on five charges of conspiracy to commit a defamatory libel, in a statement today called for an amendment to the Criminal Code "which will outlaw for all time the right of any government or individual to strangle the traditional freedom of the press."

The charges against Mr. Cooke and Mr. Dingman were laid by the Alberta Attorney-General's Department following the publishing of an article titled "Babies For Export" by Mr. Dingman in the Dec. 27 issue of New Liberty.

Mr. Cooke's Statement

There are two distinct issues in this case. One of them is the question of the innocence or guilt of Mr. Dingman and me on a charge of conspiracy to commit a libel. The other is the question of the freedom of the press in Canada.

The first of these issues will be decided in court in Alberta. We shall answer to the charge when the time comes. It would obviously be improper for me to comment on that phase of the case at this time.

The second issue, that of freedom of the press, should be decided in Canada's parliament. In my opinion, it should be decided by the passage of a new law which will prevent for all time a recurrence of the back-door method by which the Alberta authorities have sought to penalize me for publishing this article.

A Different Angle

Straightforward libel actions are not unusual in Canada, or for that matter in any other country where citizens are free. If a man br a group of men feel they have been wronged by a publication they have legal rights to vindicate themselves and can do so with libel proceedings.

But this charge against New Liberty is not a straightforward libel action. It is a charge of conspiracy to commit a libel. The emphasis in the charge must be on the word conspiracy, because only through this legal subterfuge, could the Alberta Government cause Mr. Dingman and me the loss of time, inconvenience and great expense that we are now facing. Incidentally, I understand that this is the first time in the history of British law that this charge has been made.

I believe that this action of the Alberta authorities is a dangerous precedent. Using the same method which the Alberta authorities have employed, any disgruntled or power-seeking person in Canada can harass, persecute and intimidate any publisher, editor or writer in the country who dares to criticize him, any government or group with which he is associated.

Canadian Troops At Hong Kong To Boost Morale

LONDON, Jan. 22.— (CP). — The luckless defence of Hong Kong in 1941, in which two Canadian battalions took part, was embarked upon principally for its psychological effect in China, Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, British commander-in-chief in the Far East at that time, said in a dispatch made public today.

"Hong Kong was regarded officially as an undesirable military commitment or else as an outpost to be held as long as possible," he wrote in a 40,000 word summary of Far Eastern operations at the time Japan entered the war.

The Chinese regarded Hong Kong, strategically-placed British colony on the southern Chinese coast, as valuable as a port of access and "withdrawal of the troops in Hong Kong coinciding with the closing of the Burma Road might have had a marked effect on the Chinese determination to fight on."

The dispatch said the arrival of the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Royal Rifles of Canada, a Quebec unit, on Nov. 16 three weeks before the Japanese struck was "of greater value than the figures would indicate," as it permitted adequate manning of "the gin drinkers' line," a defence line which otherwise would have had to be neglected.

The dispatch related how a company of the Winnipeg Grenadiers was sent to reinforce the Kowloon brigade on the mainland but by the morning of Dec 11, three days after the attack began, withdrawal to the island was ordered.

"Counter-attacks on the enemy rear by the Royal Rifles of Canada came to nought and the Winnipeg Grenadiers also were unsuccessful in an effort to retake the Wong Nei Cheong gap."

Begin Big Offensive

ATHENS, Jan. 22 — (AP). — Newspapers reported today a "general offensive" was under way in northern Greece against guerrilla forces. Elements of six Greek divisions were said to be attacking.

The dispatches were credited to military commanders in the field, but there was no immediate official confirmation.

Greek troops were said to have over-run guerrilla positions around Ardhea, eight miles south of the Yugoslav frontier and 60 miles northwest of Salonika. The advices said 35 dead guerrillas were found and 100 prisoners were taken.

Municipal Building Belongs To Queen

LINDSAY, Jan. 22.—(ENS). — Evidence has been brought to light which shows Haliburton county does not own the municipal building at Minden. It along with the land on which it stands was deeded to Queen Victoria.

Members of Haliburton county council were advised of this at the inaugural session when the question of erecting a new building arose. It seems that the building, which was erected in 1862, was deeded to Queen Victoria. County clerk E. Rogers quoted extracts from the minute book of 1879 to prove the ownership of the land and buildings. He pointed out that until the Provincial government has the deeds changed no reconstruction can be undertaken.

Hon. L. M. Frost, present at the meeting, said he would have clerks at Queen's Park unearth the deeds, which have long been forgotten. Reeve Ed Sedgwick was sworn in as Warden, records showing him to be Haliburton county's 74th warden.

Anti-Tank Mine Blast Shakes Wide Area

SAVANNA, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP) —A violent explosion of 150 tons of anti-tank mines in an underground ammunition dump at the United States army's big ordinance depot near here last night shook a wide section of three States and shattered windows in several communities, some 50 miles away. There were no casualties.

Tremors were felt in a 100-mile radius following the blast about 9 p.m. which made a hole 100 feet wide and 50 feet deep.

Col. Eugene Regad, commanding officer of the depot, said no fire followed the explosion. However, other magazines in the immediate area were damaged.

Regad said the cause of the blast had not been determined. In Chicago, army headquarters attributed the blast to the explosion of a 105-millimetre shell in a storage dump which exploded other ammunition nearby.

Britain Upsets Time-Table For Jewish Immigration

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 22—(AP)—Britain's refusal to give the Jews a beach-head in Palestine by Feb. 1 for "substantial immigration" disrupted today the time-table laid down by the United Nations Assembly for the partition of the Holy Land.

Confronted with the British intention to retain "undivided control over the whole of Palestine" until they surrender their mandate, the five-member Palestine partition commission turned to drafting a report to the Security Council recording the first failure in the Assembly partition scheme.

A new complication appeared, meanwhile, in the India-Pakistan dispute. Moslem Pakistan submitted a letter to the Security Council saying that her conflict with Hindu India ha[illegible] a "very acute crisis" and that Pakistan might have to take "military action" if the Security Council does not act quickly.

Secret negotiations between the disputing countries and Fernand Van Langenhove of Belgium, council president, were reported to have broken down yesterday.

One informed source said the Indians felt they had come to Lake Success for Security Council action and not to carry on negotiations which they could conduct at home.

Sir Alexander Cadogan at a secret meeting with the Palestine Commission yesterday, stressed that Britain is willing to co-operate with the UN but that Britain felt an uncontrolled influx of immigrants into Palestine beginning Feb. 1 would jeopar[illegible] expected to be deported

Consular Official's Son Deported By Canada

WINDSOR, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Franca Lancta Mercurio, son of an Italian consular official in Chicago, yesterday was released in $200 bail under an order for deportation to Italy.

Canadian authorities said Mercurio entered Windsor from Detroit Monday by telling them he was a United States citizen. Later, he was arrested and fined $25 for entering Canada illegally.

He was barred from returning to the United States because he lacked a United States visa and was held by Canadian authorities for deportation. Unless the U.S. consulate here issues a visa, Mercurio is expected to be deported

Iraq Cancels Britain's Pact

BAGHDAD, Jan. 22 (Reuters) —The Iraqi cabinet today was expected to resign after yesterday's statement from the royal palace declaring that the Iraqi regent and political leaders had decided that the new Anglo-Iraqi treaty "does not realize the national aims of Iraq."

Political quarters and the press in Baghdad today praised the regent's decision and "his wisdom in using his good offices to prevent civil war and bloodshed."

The royal palace statement issued last night said the regent "promised that there shall be no ratification of any treaty which does not realize the country's rights."

The 20-year treaty, with the right of renegotiation after 15 years, was signed in Portsmouth, England, last Thursday and replaced the 1930 treaty. It has not yet been ratified. It provides for close military and economic co-operation between the two countries in peace and war.

Sayid Salih Jabur, Iraqi premier, who, with Foreign Secretary Bevin, signed the treaty, has been recalled from London and is expected to arrive within two days.

LONDON, Jan. 22 (Reuters)— Prime Minister Sayid Salih Jabur of Iraq declared here today he was confident that the Iraq parliament and people would find that the national aspirations of the country were fully realized in the new Anglo-Iraq treaty.

In a statement following a report from Baghdad that Iraq did not intend to ratify the treaty, the premier said: "On our return to Iraq we shall explain the intentions of the new trea[illegible] spheres of influence or outright

U.S. Hits Propaganda Blow Bares Russian-Nazi Deal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP) —The United States uncorked a major propaganda blow against Russia last night by officially revealing a Soviet offer in 1940 to join the German-Italian-Japanese axis at a price Adolf Hitler refused to pay.

Already the government's information mouthpiece to the world, the "Voice of America" short wave radio, is pouring into Russia and the rest of Europe the factual story told in a fat volume of long-secret German foreign office records suddenly published by the state department.

The book's 362 pages give the word-by-word deals which led to the 1939 friendship treaty as well as the texts of the then top secret additions under which Germany and the Soviet Union carved Poland and northeastern Europe in[illegible] spheres of influence or outright

And it tells how Premier Stalin demanded, without even getting an answer, a free hand in Finland, a military base near the Dardanelles and a dominant voice in the oil-rich Middle East in return for a four-power axis.

Among informed authorities there is no doubt that the personal decision of State Secretary Marshall for publication now was made in the light of the intensified propaganda campaign which the Soviet Union has been waging against the United States.

The American propaganda intent appears plainly to be to counter Russian charges of American "imperialism" and "domination" abroad with evidence to show the kind of game Russia was playing and the expanding ambitions she had in Europe and Asia during the time Stalin was will-

Bavarian Workers Plan 24-Hr. Walkout

MUNICH, Jan. 22 — (AP). — The Bavarian Trade Union Federation called today for a 24-hour walkout of virtually all workers in Bavaria to begin tonight at midnight.

The strike, protesting food shortages, could affect nearly 1,000,000 workers in this American zone state.

About 200,000 workers staged a 24-hour strike yesterday in Nuernberg and Cologne. It was the largest walkout in western Germany since last April.

Raise Fund Of $1,000 For Fire Victims

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 22 — (CP) — A quickly - organized building fund for Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Flowers, whose two baby daughters were burned to death yesterday as fire destroyed their frame house, mounted today to more than $1,000.

The blaze which destroyed the Flower's five-room frame dwelling and caused the death of Marilyn Flowers, two, and her four-months-old sister, Joyce, was believed caused by an overheated wood-burning stove. The children were alone. Mrs. Flowers had gone shopping; the father was at work and three older

Want Canada To Help Finance Aid

Expect Assistance Could Be Given In Credits Or Gifts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP).—New Marshall plan estimates placed before Congress yesterday showed the United States government tentatively figured on Canada and Latin American financing about 22 per cent of their combined food sales to western Europe during the first 15 months. Such assistance could be given through credits, gifts or sales below normal market prices as Canada has done in wheat exports to Britain.

Administration tables brought out that Canada and Latin-American producers are slated to sell western Europe $2,791,500,000 worth of grains, fats and oils, sugar, meat, daairy products, died fruit, rice, coffee and other foods.

Of this amount, the Truman administration estimates Latin America and Canada can finance $617,800,000.

These figures were supplied by Commerce Secretary Averell Harriman to the House Foreign Affairs committee during testimony yesterday.

No Breakdown

They contained, however, no breakdown on how much the individual countries are expected to put up in credits to help Europe.

The administration estimates also showed that Latin America and Canada are tentatively counted on to finance about 15 per cent of western Europe's total food purchases in this hemisphere.

The United States in turn would put up about 76 per cent in credits or gifts to pay Europe's hemisphere bill while European countries themselves would pay the remaining nine per cent out of their own resources.

The table showed that the United States would put up $3,186,-209,000 to help finance western Europe's total food imports of $4,177,800,000.

Latin America and Canada would put up $617,000,000—a little over half for bread grains alone — while western Europe would pay $373,800,000 out of its own pocket.

Group Outlines Plans To Oppose Seaway

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP).—Plans for opposing the St. Lawrence waterway and power project were outlined by a bi-partisan group of senators yesterday at what Senator Henry Cabot (Rep-Mass.) called a "closed door" session.

The controversial issue will reach the debate stage in the senate next Monday.

It was learned that 17 senators attended the session. Lodge said "some senators who are opposed could not attend and others present said they had an open mind on the issue."

Two Masked Bandits Raid Quebec Bank

WRIGHTVILLE, Que., Jan. 22 — (CP) — Two masked bandits, brandishing revolvers, last night held up the Wrightville branch of the Caisse Populaire, community church bank and escaped with $1,885 in an automobile police said probably was driven by an accomplice.

Bank manager Paul Clairoux said there was more than $3,000 in the office at the time of the holdup. The bandits scooped up most of this but dropped a considerable amount in their hurried getaway.

The robbery occurred after the office had closed for the day. Clairoux had gone to a next-door bowling alley to purchase soft-drinks for the staff, leaving unlocked a door through which the pair entered.

When he returned Clairoux was waved to the centre of the floor where the bandits already were holding two clerks, Roger Patry and Marcel Fournal, at bay with their hands above their heads.

Examiner Program Changed To Thursday

Another interesting program has been arranged by Agnes Logan Green, Peterborough's distinguished concert pianist, for presentation by the Examiner, tonight at 9:30 over C H E X. Formerly heard on Friday evenings these Examiner music appreciation programs will henceforth be heard on Thursday evenings.

Cesar Franck's Prelude, Fugue and Variations will be the major work this evening. This fine organ composition has been transcribed for piano by Harold Bauer.

From 17th Century English music Mrs. Green has chosen a short piece, seldom heard, by John Eccles entitled Trumpet Tune.

The young Canadian composer Walter McNutt has written some interesting piano music and from his Suite for Piano Mrs. Green will play Hunt's-Up.

Opening the program is the Sometto del Petrarca, a composition typical of Liszt's more romantic style. Other compositions to be heard are the tuneful Bagatelle in E-flat Major by Beethoven, Debussy's valse La Plusque lente and the Ballade Op. 47 by Chopin.

Sees Power Projects Increasing Population

NORTH BAY, Jan. 22 (CP)—Power development in Northern Ontario will boost the promised population and industrial growth of the Nipissing district, Premier Drew told a luncheon audience yesterday.

Availability of power should enable rapid increase in the size of North Bay, and towns and communities in the area, he said, and in time to come, the lands between Kenora on the west, and Cornwall on the eastern border of the province, would support a population of 25,000,000.

Slashes Two

After arousing the persons upstairs, Mrs. Pytel returned to the kitchen, where she found Szczepanek, his throat slit. He died almost instantly, police said.

Calls Police

Joseph Wiater, who occupies a room on the second floor, said he heard screams from the downstairs apartment in which Szczepanek and Mrs. Pytel lived. He rushed downstairs and asked a telephone operator to summon police.

Mr. Wiater said that as he talked to the operator, Mrs. Pytel ran from the kitchen, carrying a butcher knife which she dropped near the front door.

"Help—he is going to kill me," Mr. Wiater quoted her as saying. With her was the boy. Both victims of the slashings were bleeding profusely.

Mrs. Hilda Foster told of the friction between Szczepanek and his tenants.

She said that last Friday he called at her third-floor flat. He was carrying a hammer and a knife but made no threat, Mrs. Foster told police.

Last Monday, Szczepanek tossed Henry Dynoski's cheque in Dynoski's face and started an argument about having to accept cheques for rent, police were told.

Howe Says Canada Near Top In Production of Houses

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP). — Canada stands well to the fore in production of houses since the end of the war, Trade Minister Howe said in an address to University of Toronto students here last night. The former Reconstruction Minister, defending Government policy, declared that the Dominion had assumed top place in 1947—probably leading the United States—after trailing Sweden in the two years preceding.

He said he was confident that complete figures for the past year would show 80,000 new houses completed in Canada, which was the target set, and some 45,000 under construction, to be carried into the 1948 total.

In an interview, Mr. Howe said the Federal Government would start construction of 4,000 low-rental housing units in the Toronto area one week after the Ontario Government made land available for the project. The rents would range from $27 to $37 a month.

To this, Ontario Planning Minister Dana Porter said that he knew of no provincially-owned land in the Toronto area suitable for such a project. Mr. Porter said the Federal Government had declined a provincial offer to put up half the cost.

No Longer Obstacle

Mr. Howe disclosed the government felt that shortage of materials was no longer a major obstacle in construction of homes. "Today, it is a shortage of skilled labor and in fact, a shortage of labor, that is the limiting factor," he said.

NORTH BAY, Jan. 22 (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario said here last night that the Ontario Government previously has offered to share the financial responsibility for housing, but had been informed by Trade Minister Howe that the Dominion Government did not want the assistance of the province and would do it alone.

relations with the Benelux countries (Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg). We are to begin talks with these countries in close concord with our French Allies.

"Yesterday our representatives in Brussels, The Hague, and Luxembourg were instructed to propose such talks in concord with their French colleague.

"I hope treaties will be signed with the Benelux countries making with our treaty with France an important nucleus in Western Europe.

Other Plans

"We shall have to associate other historic European countries including the New Italy, in this great conception.

"Britain cannot stand outside Europe and regard our problems as quite separate from our European neighbors."

Evolution of the Yalta decisions, Bevin told the House of Commons, "reveals a policy on the part of the Soviet Union to use every means in their power to get Communist control on eastern Europe and, as it now appears, in the west as well."

"We have seen the game played out in Poland, Bulgaria, Hungary and more recently in Romania and, from information in our possession, other attempts may be made elsewhere," he said opening the Commons debate on foreign affairs.

Not Yet Satisfied

"Yet all the evidence is that she is not satisfied with this tremendous expansion.

"It has been quite clear, I think, that the Communist process goes ruthlessly on in each country. It therefore matters little how we temporize and maybe appease, and try to make arrangements."

Bevin said "We are indeed at a critical moment in the organization of the post-war world."

"The decisions now taken, I realize, will be vital to the future peace of the world."

Bevin opened the two-day debate on foreign affairs amid reports that Britain may soon propose a political, economic and miltary alliance with France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. A government source said "There obviously is something in the Anglo-French-Benelux alliance."

Wide Control

Bevin said the issue with Russia was "not simply the organization of Poland or any country," but "the control of eastern Europe by Soviet Russia, whose frontiers have, in fact, been advanced to Stettin, Trieste and the Elbe."

He described affairs in Greece as "a dangerous situation—it is a case of power politics." Bevin accused Russia of a "ruthless attempt constantly maintained to bring that country into the Soviet orbit."

"We have been trying to leave Greece an independent country and get out of it, but we want, also, her northern neighbors and all others to leave her alone and get out of it," Bevin declared.

Bevin said the United Nations have "been flouted by the Balkan neighbors of Greece," who repeatedly have been accused of arming, training and supplying guerrillas fighting Athens government troops.

He said refusal of Soviet satellites to recognize United Nations authority involved "a very serious danger that they and their Soviet mentors may make a great blunder.

Windsor Police Release Mickey's Brother

WINDSOR, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Held for investigation since they were arrested yesterday, Alex McDonald, 28, and James Jamieson, 36, were released from custody today.

However, Jamieson appeared in court on a charge of illegal possession of 100 packages of American cigarets and paid $100 after pleading guilty.

No charge was laid against McDonald, younger brother of Mickey McDonald who escaped from Portsmouth Penitentiary last August with Ulysses Lauzon and Nick Minnelli.

Inspector James Campbell, chief of detectives, said last night the two men were picked up on a routine matter of investigation.

Jamieson (alias Lagard), a Six Nations Indian released from prison a few months ago after 12 years for a West Toronto bank holdup, was reported to have swallowed a piece of paper when police approached him.

Police said they had no indication of what was on the paper although it was obvious he was trying to conceal something.

Two detectives and two police constables took the men into custody yesterday as they sat in a car in downtown Windsor.

Police Chief Claude Renaud said 100 packages of United States cigarets found in the car were not the reason for the arrest but RCMP officials said later they were investigating the possession of the cigarets.

Asked whether the words "Bronx, NY," had been seen on a piece of paper swallowed by Jamieson just before he was arrested, Inspector Campbell said: "I have no knowledge of it."

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Losing trends extended into today's trading on the Stock Exchange as increased volume saw substantial losses in all groups listed. Weakness in industrials was general with steels and papers showing most losses. Mining issues were easy.

Newsprint losses in fractions were numerous with utilities equally weak. Steels saw Algoma down 1½ at 48½, Atlas 2¼ at 10 and other off fractions. Dominion Stores added a fraction among foods while liquors were relatively and oils weak.

Losses in golds included Beaulieu, Campbell, East Amphi, God's Lake, Hollinger, Keno Hill, Kirkland Lake, Madsen, Malartic, O'Brien, Teck Hughes, San Antonio. Base metals were down for East Sullivan, Eureka, Golden Manitou, Nickel, Labrador, Norando, Osisko, Waite Amulet, Sherritt.

George St. United Church Reports 1947 Banner Year

George St. United Church celebrated on Tuesday night its 112th year at a congregational meeting with much evidence of spiritual and material advancement and in many aspects exceeding the banner year of 1946. The reports given by representatives of every organization of the church showed remarkable health and progress under the strong leadership of the minister, Rev. Dr. J. A. Semple assisted by Rev. Dr. J. R. Cooper. The meeting was opened by a devotional period conducted by Rev. Dr. Cooper and supported by Rev. Raycraft. The names of 32 former mebers of the congregation who died during the year were read and their memory given the tribute of silent prayer.

E. L. Sackville presided in the absence of the pastor who was unavoidable detained in Toronto at a meeting of a commitee of the General Council.

Report of the Session was read by P. M. McCarrell, who spoke in appreciative terms of the service given to the church by energetic members of the Session, the various Boards, the Senior, Intermediate and Junior choirs, and its soprano soloist, Mrs. Dorothy Goldie, and the choir leader and organist Charles Allen. He stressed the healthy growth of the congregation during 1947, the membership now standing at 1478. New members totalled 202 compared with 60 added in 1946. Mr. McCarrell said this growth bore testimony to the efforts of Dr. Semple. During the year 102 children were baptized and 60 weddings were solemnized in the church and parsonage.

Strong Cash Balance.

Leo Copp, associate superintendent, reported on the year's success in the Sunday School and gave credit to the splendid staff of teachers and officers. The report of the Women's Association was read by Mrs. Charles Elliott. This organization headed by Mrs. W. K. McGee, president, again made magnificant contributions to the Church. Besides many smaller projects and donations the Women's Association gave $2,251.00 for the provision of twelve new oak doors throughout the church auditorium. A cash balance of $1,229.69 was still remaining. From the Mrs. Micks Memorial Fund a silver tea service, an oak table and two oak chairs were purchased for the church, Mrs. Elliott stated.

Mrs. R. Powell gave the Women's Missionary Society annual statement showing an increase of 64 new members. Hundreds of calls were made by committees of this group to homes and hospitals and to shut-ins of the congregation. Shortly after the meeting opened, Dr. Semple arrived from Toronto and was asked by Mr. E. L. Sackville to take his place as chairman for the remainder of the evening.

The report of the new treasurer, Haig Kelly, was given by E. L. Sackville, owing to the enforced absence of Mr. Kelly, and proved to be one of the most gratifying in the history of George Street Church. The givings by envelopes exceeded 1946 by over $700.00 and the cash surplus for 1947 was in excess of $2,500.00. Gordon C. Miller, chairman of the Board of Stewards, gave his third annual report and spoke with gratitude of the splendid material progress made in the past year despite the closing of the church during the summer months when the new hardwood and oak pews were installed in the auditorium.

These renovations were later referred to in a comprehensive report given by G. D. Carlisle, chairman of the Trustee Board, who pointed out that these valuable additions to the beautification of the church were made possible by the generosity of the late Mr. W. Stabler. Mr. Carlisle, head of the Renovation Committee, gave great praise to Mr. Walter Head and Mr. Malcolm McIntyre for their part in supervising and advising through the extensive project.

Laud Rev. Dr. Semple.

Mr. E. L. Sackville, in proposing a vote of thanks which was seconded by G. D. Carlisle, made complimentary reference to the outstanding leadership given to George Street Church by its minister, Dr. Semple and these sentiments were heartily endorsed by the audience.

In reply Dr. Semple said that he felt great joy and satisfaction in continuing as their leader and in very sincere terms expressed his thanks to all the organizations of the church for their loyal support and to the various officials who head these groups. He was especially grateful to Charles Allen for his energy and complete co-operation in training and leading of the three choirs of the church which means so much for a successful development of the church life.

Brief reports were given by the following:

Pension Fund by Charles Elliott; Missionary and Maintenance Fund, Ross Moore; Benevolent Fund and Victoria University Fund, Lorne Richardson; Young People's Union, Miss May Telford; Junior Church, Charlton McBride; C.G.I.T., Mrs. Leo Copp; Cubs and Scouts, Quirt McKinney; Men's Association, Garnet Dainard; Evening Auxiliary, Mrs. Q. McKinney; "Invicti" Mission Circle, Miss M. Armstrong; Mission Band, Mrs. D. Brown; Baby Band, Mrs. R. Kingdon; Bowling Club, Mrs. Duncan; Choir, A. B. Burrows.

The following were nominated to the various boards for 1948: To the Session—George Munro, B. A. Brown, A. Bacon, A. W. Lean. To Board of Stewards: J. Beatty, G. Hancock, S. Gilmour. To Trustee Board— J. Beatty.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Doxology and prayer by Rev. Fred Horton.

Refreshments were served by the Women's Association under Mrs. G. Munro, social convener.

Half Of Cafes Have No License

OSHAWA, Jan. 22—Over half of Oshawa's 57 restaurants are operating without licenses as the result of failure to comply with municipal health regulations, Dr. A. F. Mackay, medical officer of health, stated today. The city by-law which incorporates regulations of the Provincial Public Health Act for control of eating establishments stipulates that approval of the local health board must precede granting of a license, Dr. Mackay stated.

Following enaction of the by-law last year a complete check-up of Oshawa restaurants was made by the local food and sanitation inspectors under the direct supervision of Dr. Mackay in December. Only 20 were given a clean bill of health at that time and only one more has since complied with regulations.

"The main conditions at fault are the floors in some of these restaurants, washroom facilities, and methods of dishwashing," Dr. Mackay said. Failure on the part of such eating places to institute the required improvements leaves the proprietors wide open to action by the city, he pointed out.

The board of health is forwarding a request to the city council for immediate issuance of a license card that can be prominently displayed in all restaurants that have complied with regulations.

Prince Edward County Ups Road Estimates

PICTON, Jan. 22—Prince Edward County Council in session today increased road expenditure estimates for this year by almost $75,000 in 1947 road expenditures amounted to approximately one hundred thousand dollars.

Road diversions, new machinery, bridges and increased maintenance figures make up the higher costs which may increase the county tax rate by approximately two mills.

"Sooner or later some council has to be courageous enough to spend more money on roads and I say let us start now. Our county roads are deteriorating fast," Reeve Cooper of Picton contended.

FIRST TEA TAXES

The government of Charles I imposed the first tea tax to make up for the declining revenue from beer and wine due to the popularity of tea.

LindsayPlowmen Hear J. A. Carroll

LINDSAY, Jan. 22.—(ENS). — The principal aim of the Provincial Plowmen's Association and its various branches throughout Ontario is to "teach our young men how to adjust, hold and use a plow," J. A. Carroll, secretary-manager of the Association told those present at the annual banquet of the Victoria County Plowmen here last night.

He and the treasurer, Clark Young, were present to give assistance to the local plowmen who are staging the international here this year. He was of the opinion the largest problem in Lindsay would be traffic and this could be eradicated by careful planning. Mr. Carroll stressed the need today of teaching the young men the correct method of plowing. "With fuel expensive and power scarce, implements have to be properly adjusted and sharp to do the tilling at a minimum of expense. Plowing mtaches show the inexperienced just how this can be done," he declared. Speaking of the international match he asked the local organization not to forget the machinery demonstration, an important part of present day matches. He said many farmers come to matches to view the newest in farm machinery and see it demonstrated alone.

The banquet was largely attended by interested parties from Victoria, South and North Ontario, Peterborough and Ontario counties. Among the speakers were the Hon. L. M. Frost, C. W. Hodgson, M.P., 22-year-old J. Cayley, president of the Victoria Association, Warden-elect of Victoria county, A. Neil Wilson, Mayor Chas. Lamb of Lindsay, Richard Butler, D. McQuarrie, Bruce McNevin, John A. Mark, Clark Young and M. H. Winter.

France Hasn't Changed About Devaluing Franc

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(Reuters). — France does not intend to change her proposals for devaluing the franc, on which talks are still continuing between London and Paris, a spokesman of the French Ministry of Finance stated today

The proposals might eventually be 'complemented," however.

British intervention in the proposed devaluation plans was the main preoccupation here today. Official circles reported negotiations were continuing both with London and the international monetary fund in Washington, after yesterday's lightning visit here by Sir Edmund Hall-Patch, head of the economic and financial department of the British foreign office.

Rene Mayer, finance minister, was reported insistent on going ahead with his scheme, on which he believes the whole of his "save-the-franc" plan depends.

Usually well-informed but unofficial quarters said here last night that Britain had offered France a far-reaching custom union, merging the sterling and franc areas, to save the franc without endangering sterling.

The offer was said to have been made by Sir Edmund in his meetings with French cabinet and banking leaders, after which the French inner cabinet held an emergency meeting. No statement was issued.

Britain was reported to oppose any franc devaluation plan which would place sterling on an open market in Paris and undermine the world position of the British currency.

A Threat To Freedom Of The Press

The Toronto Globe and Mail is giving a strong lead to the press of Canada in a protest against a type of legal action which might easily become a threat to the freedom of the press. The point at issue is illustrated by the case of Mr. Jack Cooke, the publisher of New Liberty Magazine, and Mr. Harold Dingman, the Ottawa correspondent of that publication. Mr. Dingman wrote, and Mr. Cooke published, an article which was critical of the system of child adoption which exists in Alberta; the province of Alberta has charged these two men with "conspiracy to publish defamatory libel" and they have been summoned to Alberta for trial; they protested the warrants issued for their arrest, but Mr. Justice Barlow has declared that the Alberta warrants are valid in Ontario, and Cooke and Dingman have gone to Alberta to stand trial.

* * * *

We know nothing about the rights and wrongs of the charge, and it would be improper to discuss it while it is before a court. But we do know that a precedent has been established by dragging a publisher and a writer half-way across the Dominion to answer a charge brought by a province which is not their own. In section 888 of the Canadian Criminal Code there is this provision:

> Every proprietor, publisher, editor or other person charged with the publication in a newspaper of any defamatory libel shall be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished in the Province in which he resides or in which such newspaper is published.

Cooke and Dingman are not charged with defamatory libel, but with conspiracy to publish such a libel—a charge which must be very uncommon. Certainly the law respecting such a charge needs careful investigation and revision if necessary.

* * *

The press does not expect to be exempt from the laws respecting libel, although the existing laws sometimes seem to have been designed for the express purpose of protecting rogues. But the press may very fitly protest against a state of affairs in which publishers can be summoned to any part of the country to answer charges, for such a situation could be abused by persons or governments anxious to muzzle criticism. The emphasis which The Globe and Mail puts on the Cooke-Dingman case is in no sense exaggerated, and we heartily endorse the plea of that newspaper that The Canadian Press and the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association should press for the clarification of the legal point which that case has brought into prominence.

No Amnesty

Upon resigning the Veterans' Affairs portfolio, the Right Honourable Ian Mackenzie made a farewell statement in which he mentioned that the Board of Review would be dissolved, but that its functions would be continued within the Department. One of its functions is to deal with cases of veterans denied gratuities because of dishonourable discharge.

If a person who served in the armed forces was dishonourably discharged he should receive no gratuities or recognition of honourable service unless the stigma of dishonourable discharge is removed from his record. Business firms do not award pensions and bonuses to employees who have been discharged for dishonesty or dereliction of duty, even though the employee may have made but one false step. The kind of false steps that brought service men into ignominy were not peccadillos. The men were dishonourably discharged, cashiered or imprisoned because they menaced the safety of their fellows or blackened the reputation of the service and all Canadians.

There may be veterans who feel that they were unfairly dealt with by the courts martial. Their cases might properly be reviewed (indeed, military law provides that the cases of soldiers under sentence be periodically reviewed) but there should be no post-war sentiment of: "Oh, this fellow deserted or that one thieved; but the war is over. Pardon them: nobody cares now".

After the First German War Canada erred like other countries by granting pardons wholesale. Many were justifiably granted because in that war "shell shock" was improperly understood and the medical services did not have psychiatrists in the field. In the late war, men whose nerves were shattered or who were temperamentally unstable received due consideration. But soldiers in this war remembered the amnesties after the first war; there were more than a few who deliberately refused to fight or who conducted themselves disgracefully in the expectation of prison terms which would keep them safe until the end of hostilities. Then they expected to be pardoned.

General amnesties were instruments of feudal princes whose word was law and whose whims put a man in chains or freed him. Courts martial are courts of law which do not condemn a man out of hand. Through the foibles of sentimental humanitarians the use of general amnesties has improperly been extended to military affairs where they can do great harm to the fabric of a fighting force, particularly since we do not seem yet to have won a war to end all wars. As for awarding gratuities to men whom courts have condemned as being dishonourable—first let the courts be proved to have erred.

The Fasts Of Mahatma Gandhi

Mr. Gandhi has ended his latest fast, and with a considerable degree of success. These fasts of his are mysterious to Western people, but we would be wise to look at them, not as the eccentricities of a foreign leader, but as extraordinary examples of moral suasion. By threatening to fast until death, if needful, Gandhi has stopped bloodshed on a large scale.

India is far away, and we tend to think of Indian losses in a somewhat inhuman way. One day last week there was a raid on a train in the Punjab in which 2,500 Indians were ambushed and 1,650 of them killed. "D-Day" in Normandy did not cost Canada so many men; during the whole course of the Second World War the Canadian Navy lost only 330 more men than were killed in that one raid in the Punjab. And every Indian who died in that raid, we are sure, loved life.

Gandhi has fasted, and a semblance of peace has been restored. The moral power of this man is greater than that of any living person. Is there a religious leader, a philosopher or a ruler in the Western world who could stop bloodshed in such a way—who commands the respect and reverence to do it? No, there is not. We have much to teach the East, but India can offer us lessons which would go far to relieve our poverty of spirit.

The Land Of The Maple

We are surprised that more Canadians do not squawk about the maple leaf being used as a national emblem. The maple tree is indigenous to more states of the American union than to Canadian provinces; it grows naturally in only five provinces, for the "Manitoba" maple is not a sugar maple. Nevertheless, Canadian soldiers from Saskatchewan uncomplainingly wore maple leaves on badges and ribbons, and Albertans sing "The land of the Maple is the land for me" as happily as West Africans in Christian missions sing "From Greenland's icy mountains". The issue of a national flag caused dissension; the maple leaf could split the country.

Arboriculturalists may be the saviours of our national unity, for at the Dominion Experimental Station in Southern Manitoba extra hardy sugar maple seed has produced sturdy trees. This seed is to be distributed throughout the prairies, and even British Columbians may be induced to restock with maple instead of with Douglas fir. Canada may truly become "The Land of the Maple".

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Unions Endorse Sharing of Profits" says a headline. Fine! And what have they got to say about sharing losses?

Indian physicians treat hysterics with a powder made of ground rubies. Many Canadian doctors recommend applying a fur coat to the sufferer.

The Financial Post says editorially: "Screaming about high prices will not help us. Hard work and prayer are the only effective cures". This startling piety is explained in a later paragraph: the Post would not pray for guidance but for good crops. Incidentally, it is a startlingly inexpert statement for alleged experts to make about an acute economic situation.

The Examiner's London Letter

By J. D. CAMBRIDGE

FOR a complete afternoon's frustration, I recommend a tour of London's steamship agencies with intent to reserve passage to Canada or the United States,—or Timbuctoo, for that matter. The procedure is the same in every office. Firstly, a blank denial of anything in the way of ocean transportation. You thereupon patiently explain you do not want the reservation until late summer, and what have they to offer at that time? The next step varies slightly with the office, but usually ends with the clerk producing with a flourish a fine cabin on the good ship "Claustrophobia" at a rate of £100 per person, or $400 at current rate of exchange. You agree that this is a wonderful cabin indeed, but somewhat more than you can pay, say about double. The smile and flourish fade, and he frostily suggests you send in a written application for cabin or tourist class accommodation, adding that all space in these categories is reserved for the next 12, 15, or 18 months, as the case may be.

✧ ✧ ✧

There has been a great deal of complaint on the part of the steamship companies as to the increased costs of ship-building. Last fall a senior member of a Canadian steamship company on visit here declared to the British press that he had come prepared to order several new vessels for his company, but the increased cost made this out of the question at the present time. My sympathies were aroused,—until I happened to see the price list for ocean fares for the summer of 1939. Costs of ship-building may have increased, but scarcely as much as the fares. And the vessels now in operation were built at pre-war prices. For example, here are the present minimum fares of first, cabin, and tourist class of three representative trans-Atlantic lines, with the 1939 prices in brackets. Cunard White Star express service, £91 (£49), £56 (£30), and £41 (£19). C.P.R. Steamships, £60 (£30), and combined cabin and tourist class, £38 (£27-£18). Holland-America Line, £81 (£31), £52 (£26), and £40 (£18). From this, it can be seen that rates have increased from 80% to 120% over pre-war prices, or put another way, the poorest accommodation today costs more than the best of 1939.

✧ ✧ ✧

For that matter, Canadians may congratulate themselves on the fact that for the majority, foreign travel is limited to short visits to the United States. Most are strangers to the vast mass of red tape governing the simplest trip between European countries, — a tangled mass of passports, visas, guarantees, medical certificates, forms to be filled and photos to be submitted. Even our old friends of the South turn a forbidding countenance to the Canadian arriving at their port instead of by family car. For a Canadian to land at New York, he must secure an American visa, submit three photos, a certificate to the effect that he has been vaccinated within the past three years, and supply evidence that his passage to Canada from the American port has been arranged. A hard blow to the Canadian used to the easy border-crossing formalities at Niagara Falls or Ogdensburg. With reservation and other difficulties, it is a wonder anyone travels at all. It is doubtful if travel has been so difficult since the era before steam navigation.

✧ ✧ ✧

Speaking of frustrations, no words on this subject would be complete without a paragraph on the telephones of this country. Here the telephones and telegraphs are a branch of the Post Office system, and my London friends tell me that the system was very efficient before the war. One can only say it is not very efficient today. Several things immediately strike the Canadian fresh from the Bell services of Peterborough. With the exception of railway stations, nearly all public boxes are outside on the streets instead of inside stores, as is customary in Canada. London has dial phones of the cradle type, with the money box in an elaborate arrangement below the phone. This box has two push buttons, labelled "A" and "B". Two large pennies instead of our nickel are used for local calls, and the procedure is to deposit your two pennies in the box, dial the required number, then, when your party answers, button "A" must be pressed before they can hear you. If the number is busy or does not answer, you get your two pennies back by pressing button "B". It is not quite as complicated as it sounds, but more so than we have in Peterborough. The catch of the system is that there always seems to be something wrong with the phone. You dial, and very frequently nothing happens, not a buzz, not a dial tone. After wondering if you forgot to complete your dialling, you hang up, and try again. This may go on for twenty minutes. Sometimes of course the phone is actually out of order, but no sign ever indicates this to the public. Another factor that is intensely irritating is the defacing of the telephone directories, or the complete absence of them. Until recently the London and district directory has been in two sections, but has lately been sub-divided into four, A-E, F-K, L-R, and S-Z. If one directory is missing, it seems to invariably be the one you seek, and frequently all four are missing. I won't even attempt to explain the troubles of making a long distance call, or a request for information. I long for the friendly and efficient Canadian service. Incidentally, like Peterborough, it is almost impossible to get a telephone nowadays, the same story of long waiting lists and shortages of equipment.

✧ ✧ ✧

A more amusing happening of the week in London was the auction Wednesday of articles left on the L.N.E.R. trains last summer. The philosopher can only ponder the list of mentionables and unmentionables sold, and conclude that the capacity of the human mind for forgetting is bottomless. In a country of tight clothes rationing, hats, underwear, suits, dresses, overcoats and rain coats were abandoned by the score and the hundreds. Tools, radios, toys, purses, sporting goods, musical instruments (including a tuba), and books by the thousand, to mention some of the articles, fantastic is the only possible description. At least it made bargains for other people.

✧ ✧ ✧

Last night the Minister of Fuel spoke on the irksome matter of the basic gasoline ration, following Cripps' speech in the Commons yesterday. In basic English, the answer was no basic gasoline in the immediate future, and probably none this year. Plausible arguments were given, the most important being the saving of 40 million U.S. dollars. This will scarcely satisfy many motorists, who claim there are more palatable methods of saving that many dollars. It seems evident that the basic gasoline ban has become the focal point of grievances against government controls and austerity in general, and the agitation against it more emotional than objective. Undoubtedly there are many hardships resulting from the ban, but it does not seem likely they equal the volume of protest. Few places in England are far from good rail or bus services, and special grants are made to those who can show undue hardship resulting from the ban, such as age, infirmity, or remoteness from shopping areas. Like the return of nylons to Canada after the war, the basic gasoline ration has developed a symbolism quite apart from its actual utility.

"EITHER WE BUILD IN IT OR BURY IN IT"

Letter To The Editor

OF WHAT CAN PETERBOROUGH BOAST?

Sir: Much has been written urging more concrete effort on the building of the proposed "Memorial Centre". I add my plea to the ever-increasing volume of "Public Opinion".

Many excuses have been offered concerning the delay, and midst the holacaust of pro and con controversies, the project sinks further and further into the sea of oblivion and obscurity.

During the past year, Mr. Cec. Perdue wrote in his Sports Column to the effect that the lads who were to be found practicing or playing in organized sport—on the hockey rink, the baseball diamond or the gridiron, were rarely to be found in the juvenile delinquent court, or in any entanglement with "John Law".

Regardless of collected monies, this is a city business, and should be an investment in youth—our greatest asset.

Every small rural community has realized this, from almost pioneer days, and has built a rink. We, a flourishing manufacturing city, desiring further manufacturers to enter, and along with them the inevitable flow of workers, still do not even boast an "Open-Air Rink!"

We can boast the largest lift lock in the world, and it affects not one per cent. of our community, but we can boast of little else.

A large number of our houses still have no proper bath, yet we do not even have a community swimming baths.

Whilst overseas, most of the boys of our armed forces were impressed by the fact that almost every community of England had its swimming bath, surrounded by adjoining bath-rooms, where those, unfortunate enough not to have bathing facilities at home, could avail themselves of those, at a very small charge.

Is it we that are behind the times—or they? Our city has still a long way to go.

During the war years we have grown out of all proportion, and our City Fathers still appear to think with small-town minds.

As the smaller adjoining communities have been asborbed, bringing much revenue in taxes, still little seems to have been paid out in civic improvement.

In short, some action must very soon be taken to make this dream of every citizen—namely our "Memorial Centre" an accomplished fact.

A statement should be demanded, as to how much the Memorial Centre Committee has spent, and in what manner. Should present committee be unable to promise more progress than in 1946-1947, they should step aside, and allow a new committee, with higher ideals of citizenship, to take up the plough. Then perhaps with the help of our city council and our interested citizens, this central strut of the housing of organized sport and social life of the city, can be assured.

At last we shall have obtained a fitting and lasting memorial to our boys of the forces, particularly to those who failed to return.

Sincerely yours,
FRANCIS JOHN CHAMBERLAIN.

UNCONSIDERED TRIFLE

The squire's son, who had been away for several weeks, was met at the station by the groom, who looked very miserable.

"Bad news, Joe?" he asked.

"Yes, sir; the magpie's dead."

"What did it die of?"

"Too much horseflesh, sir."

"Where did it get the horseflesh?"

"The carriage horses, sir. They died the night of the fire."

"Gracious! Has there been a fire at the house? When did it happen?"

"The night of the funeral, sir."

"Funeral? Whose funeral?"

"Your mother's, sir. She died from shock when your father died."

"What! My father, too?"

"Yes, sir. The shock of losing all his money killed him."

"Good Heavens!"

"Yes, sir; and the magpie's dead."

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a parable: A sower went out to sow his seed: and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it. And some fell upon a rock; and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it. And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit an hundredfold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

And his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be? And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God. Those by the way side are they that hear; then cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe and be saved. They on the rock are they, which, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe and in time of temptation fall away. And that which fell among thorns are they, which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection.

But that on the good ground are they which in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience. (Luke 8: 4-15.)

Stranded In Cape Town, Africa With A Penny Peterborough Seaman Seeks Official Aid

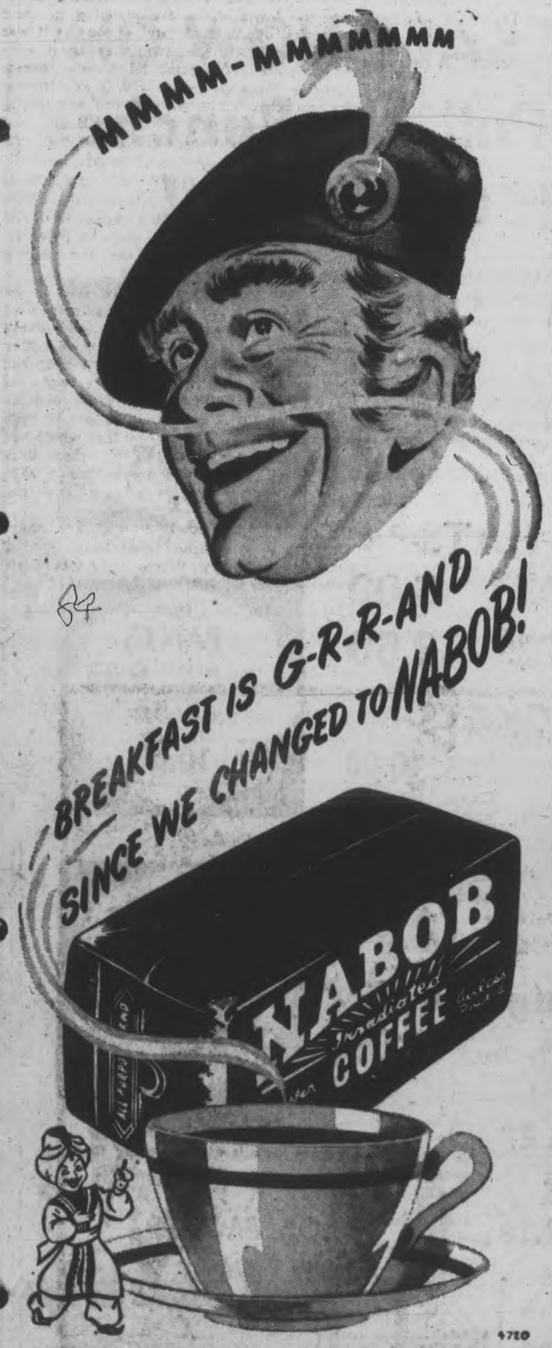
Sailing the ocean blue in order to see the world isn't always the fun it's cracked up to be. Take the case of Patrick Hobbins, an ex-Peterborough youth who was the subject for this story in a South African newspaper last fall.

"Stranded in Cape Town with only a penny, which he says has to last him until he reaches Canada, a 22-year-old Canadian seaman, Patrick Hobbins, is at his wits' end. In the two weeks he has been in Cape Town he has had no meal other than bacon-and-eggs. His young wife in Quebec has received no money since June. He is now living at the Seamen's Club in Strand street.

"Hobbins told a representative of The Argus today that he came from Peterborough, Ontario. He made several voyages between Canada and the Union as a fireman. He was taken off his last ship, the Lake Kamloops, at East London suffering from a stomach disorder. When he was discharged from hospital the shipping company sent him to Cape Town.

"'I was paid off and found myself with only a few shillings and no clothes, for the ship had sailed. With what little money I had I bought clothes and a few necessities.'

"The Canadian High Commissioner's office had told him they would try to get him on the next ship sailing for Canada, the Chandler, due here on Sunday.



"An official of the Canadian High Commissioner's office said today that if Hobbins could not get satisfactory treatment from organizations that helped stranded seamen he could apply to the office and they would look into the matter.

"It is understood that under the Canadian Shipping Act stranded seamen are not entitled to 'subsistence money'. While they are awaiting transport home their accommodation bill is met by their shipping companies.

It is believed that Hobbins is now back with his wife in Quebec after his unusual adventure. He is probably assuring his nautical-minded friends that life in the merchant marine is not all cakes and ale.

Femmes will be a-fussin' and a-feudin' in cage contests Friday p.m. in the YW like this: Nurses vs. CGE at eight and an exhibition at nine betwixt Neill's and Normals. Schedule ends Monday at eight with Nurses playing Normals. Then top trio have a single round-robin semi-final series, with bottom four doing ditto. Top two of the first series have a two-in-three senior final series. Third team of that setup drops back to play for intermediate honors with winner of the second semi-final, two-in-three. Next two of that second series battle it our for junior honors. Got it? Ha, we thought not—it had us walking on our heels all yester aft! Standing is in tonight. Likely other local cage activity this week-end, too.

* * * * * *

A meeting soon, we're told, to go into all angles concerning a secondary rink here. Number of chaps have been working some time on it. One disgruntled guy at the Lindsay jam the other night said: "Let us get a natural-ice rink in Peterborough for next winter and they can shelve the Memorial Centre till the next depression." Another said: "It wouldn't be hard to finance an artificial-ice secondary rink (a smart one, at that) if those who kicked in for a Memorial Centre hockey arena could get their money back and contribute it strictly for a rink." Hmmm. (And doesn't that answer your letter, J.E.S.?) And we note where a large Detroit construction firm has offered to rebuild the burnt-down Kitchener auditorium in three months.

Legion Versus Petes

Legionnaires play the Petes an OHA senior "B" fixture at 8.30 tomorrow (Friday) night in Omemee, and that should pack 'em in again. Some great battles are being put up between these bitter rivals, and Legion claim they were outlucked in their Lindsay loss. "We scored one the referee wouldn't count," they say, "and we were short a man over two periods when Doug Mortimer was hurt." Petes retort they can take Legion anytime. So it adds up to a real sizzling scrap with anything liable to happen. It might be Legion's turn tonight, though the Petes haven't lost a "home" game in three seasons.

* * * * * *

Scribe Mike Rodden of Kingston said the other day: "It was a patched-up lineup that Lorne Cook, in the excusable absence of Manager Haynes, sent into action against the shrewd and veteran Petes. Thereof the 7-0 reverse came as no surprise because it has been written that no team so hastily assembled could hope to beat the Liftlockers on the latter's ice—or probably anywhere else. The two Peterborough teams tangle on Tuesday and Friday and, if they break even, the Belleville Vets could force a three-cornered first place tie, each team having eight points, while the Saints would be mired in the cellar with a lowly two points and hopelessly distanced."

* * * * * *

New Senior "B" Talent

It was noticed in Lindsay on Tuesday that three ex-juniors, Freddy Mortimer of Petes, and Bill Hicks and Al Burns of Legion, held their own with veterans pretty well throughout. What they lacked in experience they made up in stamina and hustle. In fact, Mortimer didn't mind mixing with Godfrey nor did Hicks hesitate in throwing punches at Tompkins. You'd think these kids never heard of the veteran stars. That is as it should be—these youths are really not ex-juniors but are now senior "B' puckists. It's all in the state of mind. They have youth on their side and that's worth plenty. You'll be hearing plenty of this trio in hockey from here on in.

Some hefty scoring in some of the Trent Valley League hockey tussles lately. Campbellford took Tweed into camp last gloaming riding on the stronger side of a 15-10 count. And Norwood were hotter than chili con carne on their own ice to whip Madoc 15-3. By the way, something will have to give when Marmora invades Norwood this Friday as the Marmora men are undefeated to date whilst the Norwood guys haven't lost a home tilt this season. Other TVL games tomorrow night are: Stirling at Frankford, Campbellford at Madoc, Warkworth at Lakefield, and Hastings at Tweed. Lot of district interest in this loop and the games draw well.

Mask Mauls Our John

A goodly gallery along the Rue Brock last p.m. saw the Mask—257 pounds of youthful and villainous muscle—get the main mat decision o'er John Katan. The latter was so upset at getting a hand ('twas a case of two villains facing each other) that he didn't get going in time. Though he lost a tough fall at the finish, after apparently winning with a surprise move. Any unwary fan who got in his roaring way as he chased ye ref up the stairs will agree that Katan is tougher to take than a cut in pay. Yet the Mask took him and it looks like they'll have to call in the Whip to halt this husky's winning streak. Jack Moore outlucked Ken Kenneth to grab the semi-final, and Don McIntyre went to a prelim draw with Doc Ed Meske.

Masked Marvel Flops Katan In Main Tussle On Mat Card

The Masked Marvel pulled a marvellous masked fall on John Katan to take the deciding round last night in the main mat melee at the Brock Arena before a good-sized crowd. The 257-pound Mask was holding Katan, scaling 245, in a full nelson when John jumped into the ropes and came back on the Mask to flatten him. But the Marvel shifted Katan ahead—also on his back—and lifted one shoulder so Referee Cliff Fox had to count out Katan.

The fall was both confusing to the fans and unpopular with them, and most unpopular with Katan. He raced after the referee and chased him upstairs threatening mayhem—but he was held away till he cooled off. He had won the second fall in 12 minutes with a hard "unconscious chinlock," after smashing the Mask around and nearly uncovering his face. He also threw the referee once in a temper. The powerful Marvel had started working on his right leg and getting in a lot of illegal stuff, but John caught up with him.

Mask Wins

The first fall went in 18 minutes to the mystery man when the referee awarded it to him after a punishing leglock had Katan about helpless. The crowd cheered John at the start and this unexpected support unnerved him and he couldn't get going for a space. But the strong and youthful Mask got underway fast and did plenty. The referee, too, was so used to warning the usual villainous Katan that he kept warning him even when the Marvel was getting away almost with murder. They were both strong and did some hard straight grappling at the start, later opening it up.

Big Jack Moore, 240, won the prelim in 27 minutes from Ken Kenneth, at 232, when he got back in the ring in time—and Ken was half a second late—with both out of the ring and fighting furiously in the crowd. The Californian was unpopular and got away with a lot of rough stuff, but he was strong, too, and ring-wise. Kenneth was the plugger and, after taking a beating for a time, roughed it up plenty, also, to make it a rousing struggle all the way. The New Zealander was popular but Moore was just as solid and they hammered each other all over the place for close to half an hour before Ken lost the close count.

Goes To Draw

Don McIntyre, weighing 224, and Dr. Ed Meske, at 226, went to a 30-minute draw in a lively prelim. While Don wasn't downright dirty, he played it a bit rough in spots and the crowd went for the better known Doc in this go. They opened fast but later slowed down with Don pinning his hopes on a stiff hammerlock hold for some 10 minutes. The Doc used a cartwheel several times and they both used it together for a rocking-chair effect. The ref broke it up and they warmed up near the finish of the tussle.

Border League Will Consider Its Expansion

OGDENSBURG, N.Y., Jan. 22—(CP).—Directors of the Class C Border Baseball League will meet Sunday in Watertown, N.Y., to elect officers for the coming year and consider expansion of the circuit from six to eight clubs.

League president John G. Ward of Ogdensburg, who has served in that office since organization of the leagues two years ago, confirmed today reports that Plattsburgh and Oswego, both in New York, would apply for franchises.

Current members of circuit are Auburn, Geneva, Ogdensburg, and Watertown in New York and two Ontario teams, Kingston and Ottawa. Prospects of addition of Peterborough and Belleville, are slight. Belleville has been unable to make arrangements for necessary park improvements.

Sunday's session, the annual business meeting of the loop, will include setting of opening and closing schedule date and revision of umpire pay scales.

Three clubs have affiliated with major league teams since the close of the 1947 season—Ogdensburg wnth the New York Giants, Auburn with the Boston Red Sox and Kingston with the Boston Braves. Watertown signed an agreement with the Syracuse team of the International League, but Geneva and Ottawa remained independent.

Bruins Edge Leafs 2-1 As Old Boston Jinx Works

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs today are again sharing top rung in the National Hockey League standing with New York Rangers third. And another change has Boston in fourth spot instead of Montreal, with the Canadiens down again in fifth place. While the old Boston jinx was working again last night against Toronto, Detroit managed to edge out a victory over New York, and the rejuvenated Chicago squad scored their first victory of the season over Montreal.

At Boston Don Gallinger scored both goals for the Bruins in the 2-1 triumph over the Leafs whose only goal-getter was Captain Syl Apps. At New York the Rangers' late rally fell short and Wings won by 4-3. At Chicago the Hawks ran up a 2-0 lead and finished on top by 3-1.

It was really a goalies' night as the teams stuck strictly to business, with only a little roughing in the game at Boston and one minor fight at Chicago.

Couldn't Make It.

Toronto Maple Leafs still have not beaten the Bruins on Boston ice since March, 1946. They started out in determined fashion last night, but Frankie Brimsek in the Bruin cage was at his best. The Leafs got the first goal, with Apps scoring in the second period on Jimmy Thomson's rebound, while Pete Babando of Boston was in the cooler.

Babanda got a second penalty for roughing with defenceman Bill Barilko, who was also sent off, before Gallinger evened the count in the last minute of the second period. Gallinger got the winning goal on the rebound of Milt Schmidt's long shot in the third period.

The goalies starred at New York, where Sugar Jim Henry was finally yanked out as the Rangers drove for a tie in the closing minute. Phil Watson scored for Rangers in the first period, and in the second Ted Lindsay got two for Detroit before Ed Slowinski's first goal tied it at 2-2.

In the third period, Bill Quackenbush and Jim Conacher made it 4-2 for Detroit. Slowinski got his second goal with a minute and 10 seconds left.

Fine aBttle.

At Chicago a crowd of 16,612 turned out to see the Hawks battle the Canadiens, who had won seven and tied one of the previous eight against Chicago. Still going great guns under new Coach Charlie Conacher, the Hawks ran up a 2-0 first period lead on goals by Bud Poile and Metro Prystai. Billy Reay got one back in the second, but Poile again was the only scorer in the third period. The Hawks attack was shown by 27 saves by Bill Durnan in the Canadian cage, while Francis in the Chicago net had only 19 stops.

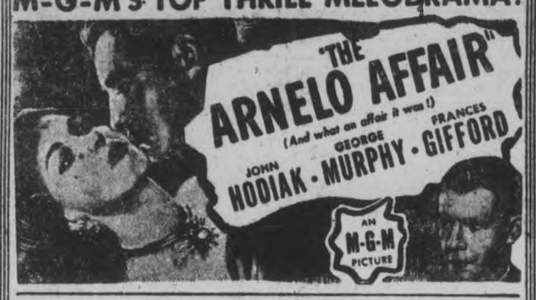
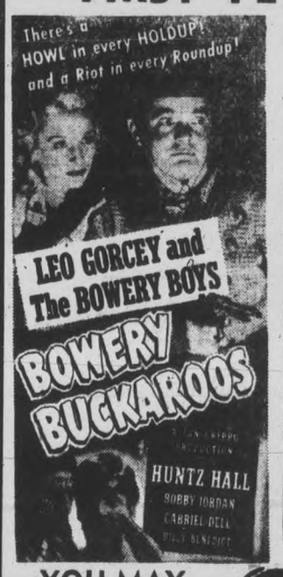
Oshawa Qualifies For Playoffs

QUEBEC, Jan. 22.—(CP).—Unbeaten rinks in Quebec province's international bonspiel had been reduced to four as interest heightened in matches scheduled for today among 16 contenders for the Lieutenant-Governor's trophy and international title. Eight rinks were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs yesterday.



The sixth and seventh matches also were on tap in the round-robin series between 10 district rinks for the provincial title.

The unbeaten rinks in international play are those skipped by E. W. Staples of Halifax, Wilfrid Samson, Liberal Member for Quebec West in the Legislature, C. A. Ott of Outremont, Que., and M. M. Stonehouse of Quebec, who won five matches in advancing to the playoffs for the Lieutenant-Governor's trophy and the semi-finals in the grand aggregate.



Walter Polski, Virginia, Minn., W. L. Hallett of St. John's, Nfld., and W. B. White, whose lead is Mayor Frank McCallum of Oshawa, dropped initial starts but later found the range to qualify for the playoffs while advancing to the semi-finals in the Val d'Or Golden Valley trophy competition.

In today's play the Oshawa rink is due to come up against the colorul Polski rink, who play the fast, western style of game.

Bengals Barely Eke Out Win Over Stratford

By The Canadian Press.

The opposition is beginning to turn the screws in their squeeze-play against the Hamilton Tigers as the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A race nears the home stretch but the perennial league leaders are showing their well-tested class.

The Bengals felt the first pressure when they come from behind to gain a 4-2 decision over Punch Scherer's third-place Stratford Indians a Hamilton last night. Tigers have 41 points, four ahead of Toronto Marlboros in second position.

In the junior loop Windsor Spitfires on the top rung had the same difficulty when they met Hap Emms' Barrie Flyers. Flyers led for the first 56 minutes of play before Windsor eked out a 6-4 win over the third-place Flyers.

Stratford Kroehlers strengthened their hold on the fifth rung when they defeated Bill Sherry's Guelph Biltmores 5-2 at Stratford in the other junior tilt. Guelph remains in eighth spot.

Weakened Front.

With Johnny Conick on the injured list, Tigers presented a weakened front at Hamilton. They trailed through the first period but evened the score in the second session. It took a third-period three-goal rally to put them on their feet.

Swat Mason and Clarence Shillington both tallied twice for Hamilton, while Killer Cain and Bill Woodward scored for the Indians.

Bert Giesebrecht with four goals strengthened Windsor's league lead by pacing the attack for Spitfires' 23rd win in 26 tries, at Barrie.

Max Quackenbush and Jimmy Uniac were Windsor's other scorers. Barrie goals were tallied by Rusty Aikin, George Ford, Gil St. Pierre, and Frenchy Mayer.

Stratford's game was a listless affair and the Kroehlers also required a third-frame three-goal spurt for their win. It was their 14th victory in 27 starts.

George Armstrong led Stratford marksmen with three goals, while Pierre Cadieux and Dinny Flanagan got one each. Guelph snipers were Tatter McClellan and George Ferguson.

However, Doran put the game on ice for Belleville when he scored on a pass from Carey. Doran led the attack for the winners with two markers, while Barrett, Green and Strahan notched one apiece. Tufts scored all three Madoc counters.

Charges Fly At Annual Boxing Dinner

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — (AP). — Boxing's dirty linen flaps from a front window today with District Attorney Frank Hogan of New York charging the sport is corrupted by "criminal elements" and Commissioner Eddie Eagan asking court proof of any crimes in the form of indictments.

After the public servants traded verbal blasts in an unscheduled bout at last night's annual dinner of the New York Boxing Writers' Association, acting promoter Sol Strauss of the 20 Century Sporting Club rushed to the defence with an impromptu plea.

"District attorney after district attorney has investigated boxing," said Strauss, whose thin voice cracked with emotion.

"What did they find? Nothing. Not a think. Every legislator wants to get his name in the paper and asks for an investigation. I tell you we are just as good as basketball, baseball, football or any other sport."

Both Hogan and Eagan had plenty to say about boxing in general in their first open clash during the District Attorney's investigation of the sport that has been continuing since the fall of 1946.

"We have been attempting to expose some of the rottenness of boxing," Hogan claimed. "The deeper we dig the more corruption we find. There's no reason to believe it has reached the roots of the sport. The roots are too solidly planted. But if the poison is not to spread, a surgical operation is imperative."

He insisted that no intelligent person covering boxing six months "could fail to hear and be aware of this control by gambling elements."

Hornets Whip Bears 7-5

By The Canadian Press

Pittsburgh Hornets and Buffalo Bisons continued their fight for the leadership of the western division of the American Hockey league, both coming out on top last night to leave Hornets two points in the lead.

Playing without their star centre Johnny O'Flaherty, Pittsburgh knocked off Hershey Bears 7-5 while Bisons edged the eastern leaders, Providence Reds 2-1.

Springfield Indians edged Washington 4-3 and Cleveland tied Philadelphia 6-6 to round out the four games played.

Bill Benson paced the Hornet scorers, flipping in two goals while one each went to Fleming Mackell, Bob Dawes, Pete Langelle, Jack Hamilton and Armand Lemieux. Penti Lund, Mark Marquess, Paul Ronty, Marion and Johnny Pierson hit the mark once each for Bears.

Keene Victors 7-2

NORWOOD, Jan. 27 — (ENS). — In a clean game on Norwood ice, Keene, back in their old form, and with Mackness on the forward line, took Havelock 7-2, in a real hockey display. Houle of Keene opened the scoring late in the first period, they found Hill, Havelock net minder, hard to beat. Havelock tied it with but 30 second to go, to end the first period 1-1.

Mackness scored next with Nobes of Havelock tying it up again three minutes later. Mackness banged one home, in the last two minutes of play on a pass from Kempt, who shot it out from the side while on his knees.

Second period ending 3-2 for Keene.

In the third, Keene marked up four, in the last 10 minutes of play by Mackness Kempt, Houle, and Stack; assisting on three were J. McCarthy, Mackness, Stock.

Lineup Keen—Goal, Simpson; defence, Anderson, Adamson; centre, Mackness; wings, Kempt, Whalen. Alternates, Stock, Houle, Musgrave, Thompson, Joe McCarthy.

Havelock—Goal, D. Hill; defence, Hermans, Green; centre, T. Watson; wings, Forrest, J. McMullen. Alternates, G. Brown, W Nobes, W. Seeney, J. Patterson, B. Wight, J. Anderson.

Here and There In Sport

The RCAF Flyers lost a 5-3 decision to Le Racing Club de Paris last night but Canada's Olympic hockey stock took an upward turn in the process.

Aside from the first half of the opening period, the Flyers more than held their own against the best European team and on the play should at least have earned a draw.

James Buchanan of Montreal, member of the rules committee of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, has been appointed to a similar post in the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrew's, Scotland. He is the first RCGA official appointed to the important rules committee of the world-famous Scottish club.

In line with an outbreak of rough play and injuries sweeping hockey, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association yesterday dispatched a stern memorandum to all officials and teams, rapping a slackness in rules enforcement . . "The game is played for fun."

Gordie Drillon, one-time top line performer with Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, has returned to his junior-days stamping grounds to play with Moncton Hawks in the Maritime senior league. Several weeks ago he announced his retirement.

List Prospects For The Olympic Winter Games

By JACK SULLIVAN

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 22 — (CP). — With the Olympic Winter Games a week away, here are the likely prospects in the various events:

Ladies' singles figure-skating—on her recent showing at Prague, where she retained her European titl, it should be Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa by a country mile, with Gretchen Merrill of Boston, United States champion, and Eva Pawlik, Austrian champion, providing the closest competition.

Men's singles figure-skating — a toss-up between Dick Button of Englewood, N.J. and Hans Gerschwiler of Switzerland, who engaged in a terrific duel at Prague for the European title.

Pairs figure-skating—Eva Kekessy and Ede Kiraly of Hungary. Experts don't believe that Canada's Suzanne Morrow and Walter Distelmeyer, both of Toronto are likely to come near the top.

Hockey—Czechoslovakia is favored, with Sweden and Switzerland as runners-up. The R.C.A.F Flyers, Canada's entry, are counted out by the guessers.

Speed-skating — Norway with Finland and the United States co-favorites for second place.

Skiing—In the jumping, cross-country and Nordic combined skiing, Norway and Sweden are favored for the top spots.

The men's and women's slaloms figure as a fight among France, Czechoslovakia and Italy, but the daring Montreal twins, Rhona and Rhoda Wurtele, might spring a surprise.

County Council Has Deficit; Down $21,642

Resumption of the County Council session Wednesday afternoon started on a sombre note when the County Treasurer in reading the financial report ending December 31, 1947, reported a deficit of $21,642.00.

Total revenue during the year stood at $273,339.64, while the total expenditure was $294,981.64. Starting with a surplus on January 1, 1947, the main items of revenue were county rates of $122,422.75; and roads and bridges at $115,143.84. Revenue received from Administration of Justice, City of Peterborough was $11,018.52, while the expenditures of same for the year were $24,558.34. Expenditure on Road and Bridges last year was $177,903.26. It was revealed that education and child welfare costs were considerably increased in 1947

Considerably more had been expended on roads and bridges than was received, but this was due to equipment that had been purchased during the year.

While the finance committee was in session, N. Wilson and P. Pearson stressed that a grant for the Galway and Somerville Agricultural Fair be increased $50, making the grant $200. This was approved, and also that a similar increase of $50 be made to Apsley Agricultural Fair, giving a total grant to Apsley of $200.

Norwood and Lakefield will each receive grants of $300.

Mayor W. G. Ovens attended the session and tendered his congratulations to the newly-elected Warden and to council member. He assured them they would be given every co-operation from the City Council and expressed the hope that both councils would again work in harmony as had been the case for so many years. Speaking on the increased cost in construction of the Civic Hospital, Mayor Ovens hoped the County Council would be as generous as possible.

Reeve M. Johnston moved that the clerk make copies of the minutes and reports after each Council session; that 100 copies of the Auditor's report be printed; that 50 copies of the report be held until after the last session in the year, when all minutes would be combined in the report. This carried.

The Council decided that a grant of $100 be made to the Peterborough Fish and Game Association, as was done last year.

James Gifford and the Warden were elected to attend the convention of the Ontario Education Association.

A grant of $100 will be made to the City Council of Peterborough towards the upkeep of Victoria Park, and a grant of $250 will be made to the Apsley Outpost Red Cross Hospital. The Council also passed a resolution that they would pay the expenses for trucking trees for reforestation purposes in the county.

The Council also proposed that the treasurer pay the Peterborough Board of Education the sum of $200 at the end of each month from January to June on account of costs of county pupils.

It was also decided that yearly retainer fee of $50 charged by the village of Lakefield to make available the fire fighting equipment at the Old People's Home be paid and that the county sign an agreement as present by the village. The question of the council investigating the possibilities of making ample water available for fire protection at the Old People's Home was discussed and it was decided that the Old People's Home Board and Property Committee should get estimates of a suitable tank for water storage and submit it to the council at the March session.

Up Expenses One Dollar.

A grant of $25 was passed for the District Women's Institute of Peterborough County. The Council also decided that the expenses of the Clerk and the Engineer be paid for attendance at the Good Roads Convention, and that the members of the Surburban Area Committee receive the same remuneration as is paid the Council for their attendance. This brought up the question of an increase in the fees paid to the committee. Mr. McIlmoyle moved that the fees of $4 per day be increased to $5 and that all chairmen of committees attending to business of such committees when the full committee is not called in, shall also receive the day's fee. This was seconded by W. C. Grant, and carried.

W. E. Griffith, chairman of the legal and legislative committee, then took the chair. A letter from the Ontario Good Roads Association relative to the closing of gas stations on a Sunday and thereby causing a hardship to motorists, was read. It was suggested by W. C. Grant that the opening of gas stations on Sunday also caused a hardship to gas station operators, in as much that it meant their working the clock round. It was felt that further discussion should be given to the matter. The letter was received and put aside for further discussion.

G. McIlmoyle moved that the sentiments in a letter from the Peterborough Fish and Game Association be approved. The letter requested action by the Peterborough County Council in the matter of supporting their petition to the Ontario Government that there should not be an open season for beaver in this district this year.

The Christian Social Council of Canada petitioned the council in a recent letter requesting their support in the question of fighting against the permitting of sweepstakes for hospitals. The letter was based on moral and economic grounds. J. Griffith moved that the letter be received.

Mr. Davis, whose home was in Toronto, was fatally injured on No. 2 highway near here Sept. 25, 1946, when the transport truck he was driving crashed off the pavement, overturned and struck a tree.

Mrs. Davis claimed the accident happened when her husband swerved to avoid collision with Mr. Running's automobile which she contended was being driven negligently.

People In U.S. Ready To Send Food Boxes To 'Hungry' Canadians

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Scare stories about Ottawa's austerity program have convinced thousands of Americans that Canada is starving, it was charged Wednesday by two spokesmen for the tourist business.

Tom C. McCall, Ontario deputy travel minister, and Henry Heineman, president of the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association, declared the 1948 tourist trade was seriously threatened.

Mr. McCall loosed his blast against Ottawa at an Optimists' Club luncheon, while Mr. Heineman levelled much the same criticism in a speech before the Ontario Hotel Association convention.

The provincial official laid part of the blame on Canadian customs officials. Formerly models of propriety, they have gone hard-boiled and now put visitors through intensive examinations. "Then we have new and officious customs officers who seem to go out of their way to antagonize visitors," Mr. McCall said.

Word of this naturally got back to the United States and dissuaded others from visiting Canada, he said.

The statement that Canadians would not be allowed to travel in the United States and that sweeping restrictions would be made on imports from that country was misinterpreted in the worst possible way, he said.

Under Misapprehension

"Our friends across the border are now under the misapprehension that we are suffering shortages of food, gas and other essentials associated with travelling in this country," Mr. McCall continued. "Because of our close connection with Britain, the Americans have come to believe that we are in as bad a plight as the English and they will face rationing if they come to this country."

"Had the Federal Government taken the trouble to explain clearly to the United States people the situation and stressed there would be no obstacles to their coming to Canada for a holiday, it would have helped the provinces immeasurably."

In 1946, it was estimated the tourist business amounted to $212,000,000, and visitors to Ontario contributed 60 per cent of this.

Mr. McCall suggested that individuals should write to relatives and friends in the United States and set them right on conditions here. Those who cater to tourists should impress upon employees the necessity of being courteous at all times.

Wrong Idea

The general misunderstanding about the restrictions of Canada's austerity program and "this immigration nonsense" at the Canada-United States border are preventing "many thousands" of the United States tourists from planning Canadian vacations this year, Mr. Heineman charged.

"I have just completed a tour of the States to ask sports writers all over to clear up the general misunderstanding among Americans about this business," he declared, and then gave some examples of what United States tourists believed.

"They honestly believe that Canada hasn't enough to eat; they believe they can't cross the border to spend a vacation here: and thousands of them are cancelling reservations for tours in Canada because they believe things are so bad here that they don't want to steal the food from the mouths of Canadians. Some of them are even preparing to send food parcels to 'the poor hungry Canadians' just as they do to Britain."

Mr. Heineman warned that "if this goes on much longer" along with this "immigration nonsense" the tourist business in Canada will be seriously threatened. He urged the hotel association and the representatives of other such organizations attending the convention to co-operate in combatting this "threat."

LONDON, Jan. 22 (Reuters).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King paid tribute today to the late Duncan Campbell Scott, Canada's "Poet of the Indians," in a message read at a memorial service at St. Martins-In-the-Fields in Trafalgar Square.

"In the passing of Duncan Campbell Scott Canada has lost a fine public servant," the Prime Minister's message said, "and Canadian literature one who had adorned its pages, both poetry and prose.

"Much of his work, we believe will find an enduring place in the vaster field of English literature. For all who love nature he has mirrored the Canadian scene in its varying aspects of tender loveliness and rugged beauty."

New 3c Gas Tax To County Roads Frost Declares

LINDSAY, Jan. 23.—(ENS). — Victoria county money bylaws covering road expenditures have nearly doubled from 1944 to 1947 and much of the province's share now comes from the three-cent gasoline tax which recently reverted to the province, Provincial Treasurer L. M. Frost told county council here yesterday.

The three-cent tax had reverted the province following the Dominion-Provincial conference. He said that all the tax and more was passed on to the municipalities to enable them to do snowplowing.

Bylaws covering road expenditures in 1944 passed by the county council totalled $90,000, according to Mr. Frost and $95,000 for the townships. In 1947 the totals had risen to $145,000 and $199,976 respectively.

Mr. Frost declared, "If the old system were reverted to municipalities in the county, snowplowing and other road work could not be done without increased burdens of taxation on the shoulders of ratepayers."

FAMOUS HONEYMOON SIGHT—Old man winter sent his youngster Jack Frost on a spree and the result was a severe drop in temperature. The frost, accompanied by snowstorms and sleet in some sections of the country, created havoc in communities already hard hit by the fuel shortage. However, Niagara Falls (pictured above) makes a very picturesque scene as snow and ice cloaks the honeymooners' shrine. This view, looks upon Luna island in the background.

Denies Seaway Opposition Less

SIEGNIORY CLUB, Que., Jan. 22.—(CP).—Gilbert R. Johnson of Cleveland, Ohio, counsel for the Lake Carriers Association of the United States, denied last night he had said that oppositon to the St. Lawrence seaway project was diminishing in Canada the U.S.

Mr. Johnson, here to attend the annual convention of the Dominion Marine Association was quoted to this effect by the Canadian Press Tuesday. He also was quoted as saying the "feeling is growing everywhere that we need" the waterway, and he said last night he had not made this statement.

The Association counsel said he was not convinced that the seaway would be of national or international benefit and said that the tolls feature, which has been embodied in pending U.S. legislation, if carried out would constitute a threat to the system of inland waterways of both countries.

Majority Of Teachers Untrained Munroe Warns

OTTAWA, Jan. 22—Despite the fact that "there never was a time when teachers required greater skill and knowledge" one person in eight employed in teaching in Canada today "has had little or no training," David Munroe, president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, said in an address.

One of the most important effects of the war on Canada, he said, was the alarming teacher shortage situation.

"In 1939 practically all the classrooms in the country were supervised by qualified teachers," he said. "The extent of their academic and professional training was not what we would have liked it to be and the salaries they were paid were miserly to a degree. Yet, within these reservations, they were teachers. Nine years later the situation is much worse. Many of our colleagues left the class-room to play an heroic part as members of the armed forces and very few have returned to teaching. Others entered more remunerative occupations in industry and commerce. As a result of these losses and as a result of the smaller number of candidates entering training schools and colleges, about 12 per cent of the class-rooms of this country are supervised by persons without professional qualifications . . . it is almost impossible to exaggerate the civil effects of this crisis on Canadian life."

Since teacher shortage was a national problem, the Canadian public should join with the Canadian Teachers' Federation "to improve conditions to the point where they will attract and hold good teachers," Mr. Munroe continued.

"The remedy rests with us all," he said. "The parent must eschew pettiness; the man of business must cease to scorn those who put service before profit; the university must accord greater prestige to its co-worker in the school; and the teacher himself must show an increased measure of pride in his calling."

May Be Changes On People's Railway Now

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Jan. 22 (CP).—Does a passenger tip as of yore the porters of a national railway system, his fellow-proprietors?

Will engines roar across the countryside gay in green, maroon, chocolate and cream and bright oak colors or will they drop to a drab, uncompetitive composite color suitable for railways under one command?

What will new uniforms be like? Will engineers be clad like airline captains and wear their medals?

Will waiting rooms have carpets and easy chairs, fires in cold weather and will refreshment room tea continue to be served?

Britain's railways now belong to the people, the transfer on January 1 accompanied by a burst of sentiment from those who like railways and their traditions and an even livelier burst of hopefulness from those who hope the government will make comfortable trains run on time.

Keeps Quiet

The man in the best position to know—Sir Eustache Missenden, chairman of British Railways—has not revealed the working secrets of the national scheme's future.

Sir Eustache knows all about the railway business and the question is whether the government can afford to let him go ahead with whatever improvements he plans in face of Britain's economic trials.

He started work as a boy clerk for 2s. 6d. (50 cents) weekly. He studied locomotive engineering at night school and when only 20 years was superintendent of the old Southern-Eastern and Chatham line. Ten years after he became a boy clerk he had been successively porter, signalman, stationmaster, inspector and traffic manager.

He keeps in touch with conditions by taking periodical busman's holidays when he travels on a train as a third-class passenger, noting everything and overhearing what passengers and staff have to say.

H. R. Scott Plans To Address Sportsmen

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 22. — When the "Sportsman's Parliament," the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, opens its annual convention here, February 2, Lands and Forests Minister Harold R. Scott is expected to explain the department's plans for administration and conservation of the province's natural resources in some detail.

"We want to tell the sportsmen of Ontario exactly how we are doing and what we hope to do," Mr. Scott declares. "We are taking the long term view of our fish and game resources patriculariy, and we want to explain why certain measures have already been inaugurated and why others will be as soon as possible."

Mr. Scott, it is understood, will "break down" the Department's finances to show how much goes into propogation; enforcement of regulations; education and other phases of administration. Also scheduled to appear at the annual dinner is Deputy Minister Frank A. MacDougall, Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the Fish and Wildlife Division, and other senior officials of the department.

ROYAL WATER BOY — Be he a king or just plain Mr. Smith when a motor car overheats and needs attention, it just doesn't care who caters to it, so long as it gets the proper care. His Royal Highness Prince Peter of Greece, in the U.S. on a speaking tour, emerged from the Greek orthodox church in New York to find his engine overheated and requiring water. The prince is pictured with a small can pouring the water into his specially-built U.S. motor car which he brought with him from Greece.

CALGARY, Jan. 22—(CP)—The ice-jammed Bow River overflowed its banks along Memorial Drive in East Calgary to-day, forcing three families to leave homes and flooding the basements of several other dwellings.

No Sugar Subsidy

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said today he had told a delegation of sugar beet growers the government would not subsidize sugar beet production in Canada. The minister also assured the delegation there would be no subsidies on cane sugar either.

Trappers Invade The Pas For Festival

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 22 (CP).—With the main streets "dressed up" for the occasion, this town of 3,000 population bore a holiday atmosphere to-day for the start of the three-day Northern Manitoba Trappers' Festival.

Spruce trees and other decorations have been set up along the main thoroughfares and a large "court" built of spruce has been erected at the entrance to the community building for the crowning of the Festival Queen on Saturday.

Everybody has joined in the festival spirit. Trappers walked around town, into restaurants and other stores, wearing beaded parkas and colored mukluks trimmed with fur and beads.

From now until Saturday night there will be something doing all the time.

A hockey game officially opens the festival, after which trappers and there friends here will get together at a "stag" in the Elks Hall. Also scheduled for to-night is the dinner—at which beaver tail soup is to be a menu feature.

Friday's parade will be one of the festival highlights. Various forms of northern transportation will be included in the parade, and one float is to carry a caribou, killed and then frozen solid into an upright position.

Entrants for Saturday's "Beauty Queen" contest have been received from various Northern Manitoba points and the "Queen" will receive a trip to Chicago and a fur coat.

500-YEAR-OLD COLLEGE

The University of Copenhagen is about 500 years old, and until 1933 when the University of Aarhus was built, was Denmark's only university.

A TINY TOT GAVE THE ALARM—Yvonne Joubinville, 3½, whose cries for a drink of water at 3 a.m. awoke her grandmother who discovered the fire which destroyed a tenement house near Montreal with loss of three lives, rests in the arms of her grandfather, William Pelletier. He caught eight people as they jumped from the second story window of the blazing house.

Safety Rules Held Essential To Avoid Fire Losses In Home

About a quarter of the fires in Canada are caused by improper handling or maintaining of heating equipment and defective stoves, furnaces, boilers and smoke pipes are listed as the commonest causes.

The danger of fire from overheated stove pipes is particularly great in frame houses and hot ashes or coals from an open fire, as well as sparks on the roof, are other common dangers the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating pointed out Saturday.

Telling of casualties in rural districts, hampered by a lack of proper fire-fighting equipment, institute officials said that more children died in farm fires than men and women.

"This is partly because most fires are apt to occur after the children's bedtime," they said. "As infants frequently occupy the top floor they are trapped if fire breaks out. Last year 20 children died through being trappepd in burning homes."

Another great danger to children, they said, was from playing near a furance or stove. Twelve children died in 1946 when their clothing became ignited by a hot stove or furnace.

A third menace to life was the careless use of gasoline or kerosene. Last year 10 persons died, of which six were children, when fuel for stoves, lamps and torches caught fire prematurely.

An even greater threat to life was the use of gasoline or kerosene to kindle a fire. Twenty-nine persons were killed last year from accidents while lighting a fire in the grate or stove. Of these 14 were children.

The Institute offers the following suggestions to homeowners to assist them in protecting their family and property from the danger of fires:

Stoves should never be lit with gasoline or kerosene.

The wall and floor around a stove or furnace should be well protected, and the stove should be a safe distance from the nearest wall, even when protected by sheet metal or other insulation. The walls and ceiling should be well protected against the heat from smoke pipes. Any sign of scorching on the wall was a danger signal.

When coal was used in a stove, a flash back as the door was opened should be kept in mind. Institute officials pointed out that if insufficient air entered the drafts, the gases from the heated coal would not be completely burned. A sudden inflow of air as the door was opened would then cause a slight explosion and flames would shoot out through the open door.

"It is wise to make a practice of standing to one side as you open the door," they advised.

To avoid the danger of coal gas, homeowner were warned to make sure that all smoke pipe connections were tight and that the stove doors fitted properly. In addition, when adding coal, it was advisable to avoid completely covering the live coals. A small "red spot" would serve to ignite the coal gases as they are formed and accumulated in the body of the stove.

The Institute pointed out that with furnaces, homeowners should keep in mind the same precautions. The chimney should be kept in good condition and all doors and smoke pipe connections should fit tightly.

EYES WIN—This photograph of movie actress Hazel Brooks walked off with the first prize award of the International Society of Photographic Arts in Los Angeles. Durward Graybill, who submitted the picture, went to great trouble to pose Miss Brooks seductively in ostrich feathers. But the expression in her eyes, according to the judges, was what won the prize. The winning picture and 119 others in the competition will be given public exhibition abroad.

Trapping Zones Newest Plan To Build Yield

TORONTO, Jan. 22. — With the beaver trapping season now open in northern parts of the province, greater fur production this year and in years to come is expected as a result of a new method of zoning the province for trapping purposes. Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, director of the Fish and Wildlife Division, Department of Lands and Forests, says that with zoning it will be possible to manage production so that the best return will be obtained from the available wild life.

Previously, zoning had been attempted in some areas on a township basis, but it was found that rivers would cut through these boundaries and thus interfere with the natural course of a trapline.

Members of the Ontario Trappers Association conferred with departmental officials and the various zones were set up through mutual agreement. Only one trapper will be allowed to work each zone; a yearly licence will be issued to the trapper and his zone will be described and registered by Order-in-Council similar to that of Grown game preserves.

"If a trapper is conscientious in his care of his area and develops its fur resources, he can expect to have his licence renewed without difficulty," Dr. Harkness explained. "This will give him some incentive to build up his potential in order to get the greatest annual return without cutting in on his basic reserves. By taking off only his surplus crop annually, the trapper becomes in effect a fur management agent in co-operation with our overseer staff."

LORD ALEXANDER'S SON — Hon. Shane Alexander, left, eldest son of the Governor-General of Canada, was photographed as he passed through Montreal on his way to England to return to school after spending the holidays at Rideau Hall, Ottawa. With him was his younger brother, Brian—after seeing Shane safely aboard a BOAC plane Brian returned to Ottawa with his governess, Miss M. Turner.

MORE ABOUT—

Warns Farmers

"We don't appreciate the rapid changes which have been occurring in agriculture," Mr. McKinney said. "It is easy to look back and see some of them of the last 25 years, but the changes since 1939 have been more rapid and affect us more sharply than those of the previous 20 years. The tempo of change in our industry has been at a higher rate, and we should strive to recognize them and adjust ourselves to them."

Mr. McKinney mentioned common illustrations of his general assertion the revolution in transportation. "We have put our whole transportation system on rubber. As farmers we are thereby able to distribute our products farther and in larger quantities. That applies also to the competition we meet from other farmers."

Big Investment

In regard to the mechanization of agriculture, Mr. McKinney said the capital investment in farm machines was almost equal to the total investment in livestock. "But we are not producing any more grain, and we have no more acres under cultivation than we had in 1910."

There had also been great changes in the standard of living. "We are living better or at least more expensively than we ever did. Our homes are better equipped. We have altered our ways in marketing. I remember that my mother never thought of bringing home less than 100 pounds of sugar at a time. Farmers to-day are not buying in quantity. In my home we have not seen more than 10 pounds of sugar at once in a long time. Of course, wartime restrictions had much to do with that.

"These few examples signify the changes that are taking place in our method of living. And we are increasing our cost of doing business, stretching out the spreads between producer and consumer values. We don't store food stuffs as farmers used to do even 25 and 30 years ago. We depend upon commercial stores, and we are prepared to pay the added price for getting fruits and vegetables fresh all the time. We like goods in attractive packages, and by the way we are using a tremendous quantity of seasonal fruits and vegetables.."

Imports of fruits in 1939 amounted to $16,300,000 and fresh vegetables $5,700,000, a total of about $22,000,000, but in 1946 our imports for fruits and vegetables were valued at $90,000,000, or four times as much as in 1939. "I feel sure that our imports for 1947 were still higher. That means we imported in fresh fruits and vegetables more than $8 worth for every man, woman and child in Canada. We have become so acustomed to these products that when certain lines are curtailed we think we have been hard hit."

These changes were associated with better living with the having of a little more money than we had, and with the increased spread between prices of the producer and consumer.

Mr. McKinney posed the question: where does the consumer's dollar go? Are prices out of reason? Adopting prices during the five-year period 1910–14 as basic, and referring to them as index figures from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Mr. McKinney said that in 25 years, to the period 1935-39, factory wages advanced 100 per cent to the figure 200; farm wages 18 per cent to the figure 118; and the value of all crops 7 per cent to 107.

Wage Index Up

By Sept. 1947, the factory wage index was up 453 (4½ times from the 100 index level); farm wages to 416; and the value of all farm crops to 289 in the index.

The cost of doing business on the farm represented by labor and goods and services, which must be bought and paid for, had advanced 4½ times from the levels of 1910–14, and during the same time the value of all farm products had gone up 2.9 times.

During the war the market absorbed everything farmers could produce, the cost of selling was less than in normal times and there was no disturbing surplus to affect values. "Probably we had a little higher prosperity in relation to prices we got for farm products. I suspect that was more pronounced in regard to some producers than others."

Mr. McKinney said that some farmers operated more efficiently than others, and thereby more cheaply than those who were not so fortunat. For that reason there had not been uniform prosperity in the industry.

As to the percentage of the consumer's dollar returning to the farmer for the food he produced, Mr. McKinney quoted figures which he said he had prepared a few days ago. During the 1910–14 period the family of three spent approximately $281 in food for which the farmer received $128 or 46 per cent. In 1939, the same basic family spent $316, and the farmer got back $122 or $6 less, of that increase. The farmer's percentage was 46 per cent in 1914 and 38 per cent in 1939.

Increased in War

"I could not get figures for the war years, but the retail spreads on most goods increased during the war. Wartime Prices and Trade Board permitted a larger mark-up than was customary for the trade to take, and I suspect that when controls were taken off, the mark-up remained higher than it would be normally."

The spread in the price of whole milk was 57.7 per cent of the consumer's dollar; cheese 60 per cent; butter 70 per cent; fruit and vegetables 36 per cent. and processed fruit and vegetables 87 per cent. In the latter case of canned goods about 13 per cent of the consumer dollar went to the producer of those canned goods.

Mr. McKinney "broke down" the consumer dollar for fruit and vegetables. The producer received 35 per cent, the country shipper 4 per cent, the broker 1.5 percent, transportation cost 19 percent, the wholesale trade 9 percent, and the retail trade 30.5 percent.

"It costs seven-eighths as much to sell those goods in the retail stores as it does to produce them," Mr. McKinney asserted, as he compared the 35 per cent the producer received and the 30½ percent that went to the retailer. At that rate, "we have built up a system of marketing that is top heavy. All consumers must assume much of the responsibility for that condition because of the special services and the fancy packaging we demand. If we must have that kind of service, especially in packaging, and support the advertising campaigns of the national brands, we'll probably have to pay for them. I submit that the only way to reduce those spreads is to discover a more efficient method of distribution, even if we have to take over some of the function of the trade in storing, selling and retailing."

Marketing Research

Mr. McKinney suggested that something should be done in marketing research "so that we can find out accurately how much it costs to put quality produce on the consumer's table. The US Department of Agriculture in Washington instituted 18 months ago a marketing research in an effort to overcome excessive spreads that have been developing in regard to consumer goods. Our government has done an efficient job in helping production through its agricultural representative service and other aids. I think they should set up another branch to assist us in marketing, especially in trying to discover means by which we can short-circuit some of the costs by providing us with correct data for negotiation with canners and other branches of the trade."

NEW APPOINTMENT—Air Commodore R. C. Ripley of Ottawa, whose appointment as Assistant Chief of the Air Staff is announced by Defense Minister Brooke Claxton.

The need of producers, Mr. McKinney said, was top quality of products at the cheapest price. Even slight reduction in price tended to expand the consuming market.

Discussing export markets for some of the products of this country, Mr. McKinney said, "we will always have surplus production, which in turn has an effect of depressing the domestic market. That is why our farmers are interested in trying to secure foreign outlets for their products."

Farmers worked to help win the war, Mr. McKinney said, and the idea of British contract prices was continued partly in the hope and assurance of securing that market for a considerable number of years. There was the expectation that two or three years hence Canadian producers would receive more than the world prices, in the prospect of their decline.

Believes It Fallacy

"Expressing only my own opinion, I am inclined to think that it is a fallacy, because the Englishman is the greatest trader in the world. His record of the last 100 years proves that. I doubt that he would pay one farthing more than the price at which he can get goods anywhere else. That is why I am inclined to doubt that the British market is as stable as we think it is."

Britain had recently made a trade agreement with Russia for 750,000 tons of feed grain, Mr. McKinney said. "The British policy was directed toward obtaining a maximum of foodstuffs. When James Turner was here last year he said that if she could get supplies of feed grain she would be in a better position of feeding hogs and poultry than importing them from the dollar countries. So, I think the time may be close to look the situation in the face. I may be wrong, but, if so, there is no harm in looking into it."

Mr. McKinney suggested that farm organizations might give thought to the possibility of opening the United States market for Canadian foodstuffs, especially meat. "It might prove as stable as the market we now have in Britain."

The economy of Canada was closely linked with that of the USA, and it might be well, not simply because of present prices, to seek trade outlets to the south.

"Our commodity groups, the hog producers, cheese producers and others have been doing a good job. They have put dollars in our pockets, but the job facing them in the next five years will be greater than in the past. Agriculture will have to fight for its rights, as other groups have done, and probably in competition with them. I hope that our farmers will support their organizations. We know what they have done, and they can continue to do the job for you in years to come."

The exact diagnosis of the malady is not known. She had been in Civic Hospital for about a week and went to Toronto on Tuesday by ambulance accompanied by her mother.

DO NOT SELL BY TELEPHONE

The Advisory Board of the Peterborough City and County branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind have stated that the Institute does not solicit orders by phone for the sale of its products. The board cautions that unless the articles bear the trademark of Blindcraft products, they are not manufactured by the C.N.I.B. The explanation was issued following reports that such a campaign of selling by telephone was being carried out in Peterborough at the present time.

20 YEAR DEBENTURES

Ontario Municipal Board has informed the council that the term of the $115,000 Utilities debentures issue cannot be for 30 years as desired by the Commission. "The Board cannot approve longer than 20 years" was the substance of the letter. Utilities Commission contends that the new force water main that is to be resumed in laying this year has a long life, that it is intended to serve people of the future as well as those of today. For that reason they proposed 30 years. Most of the council's issues have been cut to 15 years.

"EXCELLENT WORK"

In acknowledging the council's letter of appreciation of his service as an original member of the city's Recreation Commission last year, Mr. Robertson Davies wrote that he had been interested particularly in the possibility of promoting drama as one of the public activities of the Commission. In the meantime a Little Theatre group was organized in the city, and he believed he could do more to promote drama in Peterborough through that agency, and had given up a number of jobs to obtain the time required. Mr. Davies said he considered the Recreation Commission was doing excellent work.

Salesmen Hear Splendid Address

Described as one of the finest addresses heard in months by the local Sales and Ad. Club, a six-point summary of sales technique was presented by Frank W. Lovejoy, Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., New York, at the Kawartha Club this week.

With President Ted Weir in the chair, the club heard Mr. Lovejoy make these points as necessary for the mastery of salesmanship. One: Don't talk too much; give the customer a chance to talk and give his point of view. Two: Never assume an argumentative manner; a salesman, more than anyone else, never wins an argument. Three: Inquire first and express yourself afterwards; determine what the prospective buyer wants and then decide how your product will best suit his requirements. Four: Be sure that the buyer understands that you understand his objective. Fife: Stick to one key issue; complete one selling point before passing on to something else. Six: Use the word "why?" after any objection; if the customer doesn't like your product the onus is on him to prove his point.

The speaker was introduced to the Sales and Ad. Club, about 75 in number, by Wilson Gemmel, and was thanked by Andy Rutter.

Winner of the booster prize was Bill Nash. In the belief that a Canadian processed ham would be appreciated in the United States, Mr. Lovejoy was presented with one to take home.

Record Crowd 1,821 Attend Hockey Match

LINDSAY, Jan. 22 — A paid attendance record of 1,821 fans for the Lindsay Arena was established Tuesday night in a league game between the Petes and the Legion, two rival OHA senior "B" entries from Peterborough.

A special train from Peterborough brought the majority of the Pete fans here. More than 100 fans were turned away. Many of the younger customers were clinging to the rafters.

The previous record was established in 1934, when the arena was opened. The attendance was slightly over 1,500 then when the Toronto Maple Leafs played an exhibition game.

There's 5 Mondays in Week At Huge Hospital Laundry

Mondays are washdays the world over but at St. Joseph's Hospital there are five Monday-washdays in every week at the largest and most modern laundry in the city operated by the Sisters of St. Joseph. In their new power-house building they supervise the washing, drying, ironing and repairing of more than one and one-quarter tons of dry wash each washday. They not only have the latest machines to help them but the knowledge of years of experience behind them. As their institution has grown so have their laundry problems and it is a far cry from the old hand method of open laundry tubs and scrub board and drying the washings in the open. It is now a science comprising knowledge of water and steam pressures and electrically driven machines of a massive and complex nature.

Portable bins of soiled articles come into the large room for sorting and are loaded into the massive cylindrical washer, 260 pounds at a time. The first rinse is called the "break" and after a few minutes of agitation the tank is flushed and clean water added together with powdered soap and disinfectant. There are four more rinses for each batch before it passes inspection. The drying is done in centrifugal machines that whirl the clean wet laundry into an almost-dry state. One machine takes towels and small pieces and the other dries the balance of the variety offered.

Ironing such quantities of washings would take an army of women equipped with the traditional hand irons but most of it is done at St. Joseph's by two women who operate a huge rotary ironer with rolls about 15 feet long. The more pernickety pieces still require a certain amount of hand work, surplices, special uniforms and the like. There is a modern dry cleaner's steam press and a few elctrical irons brought into use at this stage. In a small ante-room one Sister does patching and repairing of all kinds on electric sewing machines and judging by the piled baskets of waiting work, she is a very busy person indeed.

All sorts of articles "come out of the wash," bedding, towels, nurses' and sisters' uniforms and from nursery about 155 diapers per day. These large washings do not include anything from the House of Providence next door. They do their own and they are very capable "laundresses."

Mumps Declining, 337 Cases Last Month

Milk Supply In City Rated 100 Per Cent Grade A

Indication that the number of mumps and chickenpox cases were being reduced to average incidence, and report that Peterborough would be justified in describing its milk supply as "100 per cent clean, Grade-A milk" were two of the salient points of the December Board of Health meeting held in the City Hall on Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, gave the figures for communicable diseases in December: Mumps 337, chickenpox 136, measles 3, and whooping-cough 2. Referring to the first two figures he said they were approximately the same as November, but "it can be definitely stated that these contagions are decreasing."

In a written statement, Sanitary Inspector R. M. MacPherson said milk was properly and adequately pasteurized. Butterfats were all above the legal minimum of 3.25.

"The raw milk supply was examined by Dr. Worton for visible dirt and keeping quality," he said. "The results were actually a little short of amazing. Of the 47,360 pounds examined, just 40 pounds were rejected on the basis of sediment. All specimens except one were Grade A on the basis of bacterial count. One would be quite justified in considering our raw milk supply at present to be 100 per cent clean, Grade A milk."

He said it was a good example of dairy farm operators maintaining good sanitary standards; and as clean milk could not be produced in unsanitary surroundings, he praised the condition of dairy farms. He attributed this to "the co-operative spirit developed between your veterinary inspector, the primary producer himself, and the management and staff of the pasteurizing plant."

Citing still incomplete figures for the year 1947, Dr. Kelly said that total attendance at Child Hygiene Clinics had more than doubled from 1,879 in 1943 to 3,952 in 1947. It is believed that 1947 will show a slight increase in the birth-rate, and the death-rate will be about constant. The infant mortality rate is expected to be a bit higher than in 1946, which has been described as exceptionally low. It will be lower than 1945, however.

Financed by the County Tuberculosis Association and begun in December both hospitals are giving a bi-monthly chest X-ray free of charge for those recommended by their family physician Already two groups of 21 and 39 at Civic, and one of 22 at St. Joseph's have been X-rayed.

Activities of the Department were said to have increased greatly during the year. Two handicaps were mentioned by Dr. Kelly: 1, the lack of personnel; and 2, overcrowded office accommodation. It was claimed that these conditions made it impossible to carry out the Department's work satisfactorily during the coming year.

It was agreed that Mr. MacPherson should have leave of absence to attend a pest control conference for three days in mid-February.

Again installed as chairman of the Board of Health, James Dutton, Sr., thanked the members for their support, and said he believed the board had performed a store of service in the past that would be continued in the future.

Present at the meeting were: Chairman James Dutton, Mayor W. G. Ovens, Sanitary Inspector R. M. MacPherson, City Solicitor Wilfrid F. Huycke, Alderman Grant Miller, Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, and Miss Gene Clark.

Questions Law Governing Child Adoption

Adequacy of present legislation which requires boarding homes for children under three to be registered with, and approved by, the Medical Officer of Health, but leaves unaffected the status of children over three, was questioned by Miss Rachael Young, Superintendent Children's Aid Society, at the December meeting of that body held Tuesday in the City Hall.

Miss Young said: "Is more adequate legislation for the protection of these children necessary? I would refer you to the Maternity Boarding Houses Act which gives a degree of protection to children under the age of three years; but I believe it would be correct to say that there are a great number of people who are boarding children without the knowledge of the Medical Officer of Health or the Children's Aid Society."

False statements to the effect thta adoption through the Children's Aid Society was a costly procedure were being circulated she said; and this contributed to the increasing number of private placements. Unmarried mothers were being particularly victimized by this story.

By the end of the month she said there were seven children in the shelter, 53 in boarding homes, 60 in adoption probation homes, two, in wage homes, 21 in free homes and nine in institutions such as Ontario Hospital.

The number in adoption probation homes was most gratifying, she said. A permanent home was valuable from the standpoint of the child's security; and she stated that if all these children had been made wards the cost to the municipality would be $22,710 a year.

42 Unmarried Cases

Some 146 children came under the care of the Children's Aid during the month; 42 unmarried parent cases were dealt with; 527 visits were made; and there were 111 office interviews.

Eighteen families were investigated: two regarding Family Allowance; two for Dept. Veterans' Affairs; remainder included problems of child delinquency, separation, inadequate arrangements for children, quarreling, and infidelity. Attention was drawn through personal application, other clients, family court, police, relatives, and board members.

Mrs. Keith Lech, convener of the sewing committee, repoeted a very busy month at the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society. Mr. T. T. Rodger presided. Ninety-six articles were mended or made during the month by Mrs. H. G. McGinnis, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. C. Batchelor, Mrs. R. G. Maniece, Mrs. C. Larson, Mrs. E. Oxley, Mrs. A. Greystock, Mrs. W. Wiltshire, Mrs. R. Krant, Mrs. A. Martin, Mrs. F. Horton, Mrs. F. Watson, Mrs. E. E. Lee, Mrs. W. Dale and Mrs. Keith Lech.

Donations were received from: Mrs. Greystock, Mrs. T. W. H. Young, Mrs. W. Belleghem, Mrs. Keith Lech, Mrs. L. Clysdale, Mrs. L. L. Maguire, Mrs. S. Martin, Welfare League, Mrs. W. McColl, Miss L. Walsh. Mr. Cherney, Mrs. E. E. Lee, Mrs. S. Northrop, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mrs. J. Osborne and Mrs. J. Wharry.

The report of the Shelter committee was given by Mrs. James Wharry, who commented on the splendid response of the community at the Christmas season.

Mr. Fred Ash, convener of the property committee, gave a detailed report in regard to the needs for the Shelter and referred to the good services of the Matron and caretaker.

The report of the finance committee was presented by Mr. J. McKerchar.

Mrs. L. L. Maguire told about the party given by the board of directors at the Shelter at Christmas. Mrs. F. Lynch reported on the establishment of the Visiting Homemakers and Mrs. J. H. Vernor reported for the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund.

PLUGGED CHIMNEY CAUSES ALARM

A plugged chimney that caused the smoke to reverse and flood the house resulted in an alarm being sent to the Fire Dept. Wednesday from the home of Ivan Tighe, 315 Bethune St. Firemen cleared away the obstruction, restoring normal draught.

Given 4 Months

Twenty-one-year-old Harold Dunk, 125 Lock St., was sentenced to four months definite and two months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory when he appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp in court this morning. The youth pleaded guilty to the charge, of stealing two fog lamps.

Det.-Sgt. John Stevenson, who investigated, stated that the accused had led him to the place where the lamps had been hidden in a snowbank about 100 feet from the vehicle from which they had been stolen.

The accused offered no defence and said nothing on his own behalf.

Smith 20 Acres Taken Over On January 1st

The city acquired a potential $18,000 a year in taxes by the assessment January 1 last of the block of Smith township property, 20 acres in all, the most of which comprises the Brookdale subdivision.

Reference to the acquisition of this area was made by Assessment Commissioner Bert C. Graham in a note to the city council Monday night. He gave the information that the present assessment of the land is $17,580, and buildings $11,375; total $28,955.

Smith township co-operated in the transfer which was confirmed in authority by the order of the Ontario Municipal Board taking effect on New Year's Day. This block extends from Chemong Road to Donegal St. and the Park Hill wartime housing community. It also lies south of Wolsley St. to the rear of the lots on the north side of Victoria Ave. Part of the new area went along with annexation chiefly for the convenience of giving uniformity of outline to the Smith boundary. The present population is confined to that area.

Sands and Bateman are building 52 houses of 15 different types and designs. The frames are now being raised on 27 completed basements. Fourteen of the houses have already been sold.

Brookdale subdivision when completed will probably represent assessment of $450,000 when the 52 houses are completed with their landscaping, and are occupied by famliies. At a tax rate of 40 miles, merely as an easy figure, the annual tax collection from Brookdale would be approximately $18,000 with the rest of the area filling that amount.

Hope To Change England's Witchcraft Law

By JACK McCOOK

LONDON, Jan. 22 — (CP). — If a group of Commons members have their way, every hazard will be removed from the dark path of those who are—or pretend to be—witches.

Home Secretary Chuter Ede now must ponder the argument that intelligent Britons no longer need protection from witches, wizards, sorcerers, spey-wives or other agents of the evil one.

Ede may decide that the present law, with its safeguards against would-be profiteers from black magic, is good enough. The existing witchcraft act, dated 1735, eliminated a statute "against conjuration, witchcraft and dealing with evil and wicked spirits." The former statute permitted witch-hunts, with torture for those who fell under community suspicion.

Still Punishable

The witchcraft act abolished proceedings against those who posed as witches but retained provisions for punishing persons pretending to dark arts and powers "whereby ignorant persons are frequently deluded and defrauded." The group of members thinks this last no longer necessary.

The members recommended that the vagrance act also be overhauled. This act specifies those who may be considered rogues and vagabonds and classifies among this sinister company those "pretending or professing to tell fortunes, or using any subtle craft, means or device by palmistry or otherwise, to device or impose on any of His Majesty's subjects."

They would have the home secretary revise vagrancy legislation so that fortune-tellers would be in trouble only if it could be proved they practised their arts with "intent to defraud."

Whatever the risks to those who oppose changes in the legislation, the Commons group is fairly certain that no wrinkled dames will harm its members through modelling them in wax figures to be pierced with sharp pins and melted in slow fires.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

Ice-Cutters To Start Monday

Next Monday will see the start of the ice-cutting season for the city ice companies who use "nature's own" for delivery during the summer.

About 30 men will be employed for the three or four weeks' period of the job. Ice surfaces have already been scraped, ready for the mechanical saws which will cut squares in the ice. Pulled up on horse- or mechanically-powered skidways, the "lines" of ice fall into neat cakes, ranging in weight from 200 to 250 pounds.

The companies estimate this year's "harvest" will bring in about 50,000 of the chilly cakes, an increase of more than 25 per cent over the 1947 season take. Sales could have been much higher if the ice were available at the peak, it was reported. One company official said that the main source of difficulty with his company was lack of space in which to store the bulky stuff.

All were agreed that the winter weather to date had been ideal for good ice formation. Depth "soundings" indicate an average depth of 15 or 16 inches—the best possible size; and all good blue ice.

Thinks Canada Very Fortunate Says President

By The Canadian Press

Canadians have their share of worries, but they are also reminded every now and then that they are still, along with the United States, about the most fortunate people in the world.

F. H. Marsh, president of the Bank of Toronto, commented yesterday at the bank's annual meeting:

"When we compare the bleak and austere conditions in Britain, and the chaos on the continent of Europe with our position at home, we must realize that we enjoy an unusually favored place in the world's economy." He added that "our chief current danger is that of being swept along with the present inflationary trend."

Taking a look at Canada's dependence on exports, Mr. Marsh said present international trade difficulties present a challenge to Canadian businessmen.

"New avenues for export must be explored to a much greater extent than before the war and preferably to countries whose currencies are convertible into dollars."

On the subject of exports, work proceeds on the great show window of her goods which Canada is preparing for the two weeks May 31-June 12 when the Canadian international trade fair will be held in Toronto.

BARBARA ANN ADDS BEAUTY AWARD—Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott, world and European champion figure-skater, shown at Winter stadium, Prague, Switzerland, after defending her title, added to her triumphs this week when she won the "Miss Belvedere" honor in a fashion parade at the hotel of that name. Sees Partition Uniting Ranks Of Arabs

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT

DAMASCUS, Syria, Jan. 22. — Fawzi El Kawukji, commander in chief of the Arab "People's Army for liberation of Palestine," forming in Syria, said today that he was glad of partition because "that is one issue that will oblige Arab states to put aside their differences and will prepare the way for a greater Arab nation."

If the United States tries to enforce partition with troops, he declared, "we will take our allies where we find them, even though it be the devil." By the devil he conceded he meant the Soviet Union. Being convinced that the United States was the country most likely to enforce the partition he did not explain what the Arabs would do if the Soviet Union sent troops to Palestine.

In Germany Since '41.

It was the sort of threat that is often heard these days in Germany from where Kawukji returned only at the beginning of last year. He had been there since 1941, when, participating in the abortive Rashid Ali revolt in Iraq, he was wounded by machine gun fire from a British aircraft and was flown from Vichy-held Syria to Germany for treatment. In Germany he found a German wife. He now lives with her and a son in a bungalow one block from the United States legation here.

"I have been fighting revolutions all my life," he said, "against the French in Syria and the British in Palestine. In partition we have an issue that will keep the Arabs fighting to the end, if it takes 100 years.

Kawukji, in gray flannels, a well-tailored brown herringbone tweed coat, and crocodile leather shoes sat in an armchair at the end of the rectangular room like a potentate. A succession of uniformed soldiers and officers entered, reported, and received brief, crisp orders. A Bedouin sheik in a camel hair cloak and flowing headdress conversed uneasily in the presence of foreigners, then leaning forward, whispered at length in Kawukji's ear.

Asked why he did not wear a uniform, Kawukji waved toward a picture of himself in Arab robes on a white horse. "That is my uniform," he said. But he looks less like an Arab than a German. Of medium height and powerfully built, his manner is abrupt and decisive. He has bluish-green eyes, rather heavy features and a small head set on a thick muscular neck. At all times he holds himself erect stiffly.

We talked German, which is the language he prefers. He became fluent when, in the Turkish army during the First World War, he made friends with German officers attached to it. Unlike many Arabs he stuck to the Turkish army until the end of the war "because I had no confidence in British promises." He boasted that he fought personally against Lawrence of Arabia.

Kawukji said he would take active command of his men, more than 2,000 of whom already have gone into Palestine, "when the time is ripe. Trans-Jordan's Arab legion, he anticipated, would help in the fight against the Jewish state after the British had withdrawn.

When the Arabs have won, he said, only those Jews who were in Palestine before 1918 will be allowed to remain.

Cat Not Sleeping

"The cat and the mouse cannot live together," he commented. "In this case the mouse thought the cat was not paying attention and tried to grab something. But it made a mistake. The cat was not sleeping.

"This has happened before, several thousand years ago, and always we have thrown the Jews back."

Kawukji complained he did not like the Jewish method of fighting with bombs "sent in a suitcase with an old man or boy, but since they fight that way we will too; and more and better."

"Arabs," he went on, "fight because they like to fight. Time and distance mean nothing to them. They come from the ends of the Arab world to fight under me because their fathers fought under my command. They would be insulted if I did not accept them."

He said he had many letters from non-Arabic countries from men willing to join his forces, "but I have no confidence—they might be Jews."

Declining a proposal to visit his forces, he parried: "You may see them in Palestine."

Scant seconds after the disastrous collision of the ships Translake and Milverton on the St. Lawrence River, a tremendous explosion occurred. Flaming oil from the tanker, Translake, was sprayed off the Milverton which was carrying a cargo of coal. The Milverton began to drift helplessly downstream. When Clare Van Allen heard the explosion, he acted fast. His own boat could not be easily launched so he loaded an outboard motor in his truck and drove East, chasing the Milverton. Finally he reached a point opposite the spot where the helpless ship was grounded on a sandbar. He found a two-seated skiff at a tourist camp, attached his outboard and set out for the stove-hot Milverton. As the first injured men were helped into the skiff, he heard that an explosion was imminent, but in spite of the great danger, he persevered . . . made three trips between ship and shore and rescued ten men. As a tribute to his magnificent courage . . . the DOW AWARD, including a $100 Canada Savings Bond, is being presented to Arnold Clare Van Allen of Iroquois, Ontario. The DOW AWARD, presented from time to time to a Canadian hero or heroine for outstanding bravery, is sponsored by DOW BREWERY Montreal

6-Point Plan For World Peace

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP) —Asserting that America "must try to wage a peace and win it without going to war," Representative Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota yesterday presented a program that he said could secure peace in America and in the world.

Mr. Mundt outlined his six-point program as discussion leader of a round-table of members of Congress at the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defence in which 35 patriotic organizations are participating and today's attendance was 800. The American Legion Auxiliary is the host organization.

The program stressed these points:

1. Get behind the European Recovery Program "in our own self-interest."
2. Revamp the United Nations Organization so it "can stand up against communism."
3. Strengthen the "Voice of America" information program.
4. Abandon the "so-called Morgenthau plan" and "Potsdam theory" in the administration and rehabilitation of Germany; see that the Ruhr mines are used to produce for the benefit of the friends of democracy in Europe.
5. Tighten up against communism at home and adopt a "realistic" attitude toward Russia.
6. Strength national defence.

Doll-Sized Hats In Paris

PARIS, Jan. 21—A return to the doll's hat of 1940, tiny tambourines and tricornes, cascades of straw spaghetti and nose veils of mesh so heavy that they are virtually domino masks are some of the highlights of Albouy's fascinating collection, the first of the Paris milliners to be opened officially.

The delicacy of nature or pink baku, fine fancy-weave nature paillasson and plain or plaid pastel failles are most appropriate to the size of these hats, worn straight or on one side.

Down one side of the tambourines cascade large roses glimpsed through narrow streamers of straw, which Albouy calls spaghetti and looks like it.

A tiny bow perches on each side angle of the tricornes, and from one bow to the other stretches a heavy black nose veil that masks the brow and eyes.

Some veils are bird cage. Especially lovely is one sprinkled with mother-of-pearl sequins. Original is veiling attached to a quill that pierces a honey felt pillbox horizontally across the front.

Another group of small hats show are diadems that leave the back of the head uncovered. From the front, where they are adorned by a modest tuft of flowers and feathers, they look like charming little Victorian bonnets.

Among the larger hats, the side width, popular last summer, takes on a new look. Instead of being flat and elliptical, those with turned-up brims are boat shaped. Dashing bicorne berets of faille stretched over buckram are narrow across the top from one side angle to the other and have an edge four inches thick. Some are in one tone of faille, soft blue or dove gray, other in two tones, such as a wide edge of violet and the top in green.

REJECT LPP SUPPORT

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP) — The Ontario CCF party's provincial executive, in a statement issued last night following a meeting, said it would reject any offer of support from the Labor-Progressive Party. "The CCF will reject support from the Communist party and will not collaborate with them or make any electoral arrangements of any sort with them," the statement said.

VICTORIAN INFLUENCE STRONG — "Something old plus something new" seems to be the key-note for fashion this spring. A style from years back is renewed in Herbert Sondheim's afternoon dress (left) where a black wool middy tops an all-round pleated skirt of shocking pink jersey sprinkled with black polka dots. The matching scarf can also be worn as a turban. A not-new daytime dress (right) is touched with originality by a brilliant dog-scarf draped from shoulders to hip and fastened by an unusual belt and costume jewelry. Adele Simpson brings the Victorian influence into her modern spring evening gown (centre) of polished brown taffeta whose smoothly-fitted bodice is edged with a giant cluster of ruffles emphasizing a tiny waist and bare shoulders. A ruffled flounce reaches to the ankles in front graduating into a floor-sweeping "dust catcher" at the back. These models were shown in New York at spring-summer openings.

The situation remains tense in the Cook Islands with rival organizations striving for labor control and it is likely that the New Zealand government will have to make a detailed investigation of the situation shortly.

In yet another island group, the Crown colony of Fiji, a difficult situation has been created by the increased demands of the Indian community. Indians control most of the business and industry of the colony, although the largest undertakings are still European-owned. The native Fijians remain for the most part small village agriculturists and their leaders are fighting against the inroads of the Indians—who came to the islands years ago as indentured laborers—into all lucrative callings and also into official posts.

South Sea Isles Not the Same As Before War

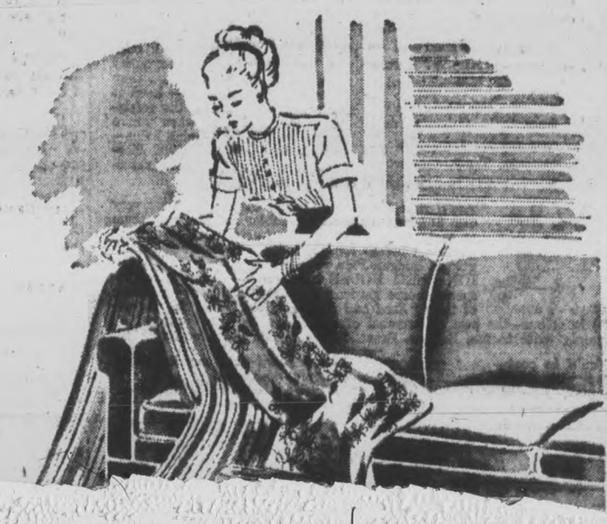
By JOHN C. GRAHAM,
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Jan. 22 (CP) —Troops who served in the Pacific theatre during the war made a thorough job of debunking the fable that all South Sea islands are tropical paradises filled with lovely girls like Dorothy Lamour. The war itself has left many of the islands even less idyllic than before.

The Solomons, where the Japanese advance was finally checked and which saw some of the most bitter fighting of the war, have been disturbed by the formation of a native secret society known as the Marching Rule. This has been translated by some politically-minded enthusiasts as the Marxian law, but it has in reality nothing whatever to do with Marx.

Basically it seems to have obscure nationalist objects, aiming at native rule of the islands, but its immediate objective has been the securing of higher rates of pay on plantations, arising from the liberal wages paid by American forces for labor. The Marching Rule demanded $38 a month instead of the $6.50 plus rations paid on plantations.

Planters became uneasy as labor became more and more scarce and word filtered through from the interior that the Marching Rule had set up its own courts. Several larger gatherings of natives were held including one of 7,000 natives at Malaita. Eventually several of the leaders of the Marching Rule were arrested without violence, although visits by several warships at the same time may have had an influence. For the present, overt action has died down but labor remains scarce.



Labor troubles have been disturbing another South Pacific group—the Cook Islands which form an integral part of New Zealand. Trade unionism has recently been introduced to the group from New Zealand and visits have been paid by several union officials. Strikes have occurred in several of the islands, chiefly on the waterfront.

Chaining Alleged

A clash between members of two rival organizations at Manihiki led to an allegation by H. Barnes, president of the New Zealand Waterside Workers' Union, which supports one of the organizations, that 14 workers were arrested and taken in chains to the courthouse.

New Zealand Prime Minister Peter Fraser declared that the facts as stated by Barnes were distorted. He said members of one organization improperly attempted to control engagement of waterfront labor, leading to a fight with other workers. The acting resident agent, with police help arrested 14 of the assailants. One was handcuffed to a post, one was tied with twine to a post and 12

Good Meat Loaf Challenge To the Enterprising Cook

The new series of articles details and variations of one common dish each week commences today.

A reader who worte thanking me for the tea-biscuit instructions wants a recipe for a good meat loaf that will slice nicely when cold. She also wants to know what to serve with meat loaf both hot and cold. So that will be our topic today.

This is particularly timely with the price of hamburg varying between 25 and 35 cents a pound.

A good meat loaf is not an easy thing to make. It is difficult to achieve that texture between stodginess and crumbliness that will permit of slicing without being "solid" or, falling apart.

Emem's Meat Loaf

Have the butcher grind chuck or shank beef with ¼-pound suet until there is 2¼ pounds. To this add 1 onion minced very finely, 2 cups soft breadcrumbs, 3 teaspoons salt, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon bottled horseradish, ½ to 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ½ cup condensed mushrooom soup, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce. (The mushroom soup may be omitted and replaced with ¼ cup each tomato catsup and tomato juice.) Mix all of these ingredients and press into oiled loaf pan. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. This amount serves eight adequately.

I like a creamed vegetable with meat loaf and I am going to surprise you with what I did:

Macedoine of Creamed Vegetables

Boil together in boiling salted water 3 small white turnips, about 2 slices from a large yellow turnip, 4 outer stalks of celery cut in 2-inch lengths, about 3 medium carrots. When tender cut the root vegetables into about 1-inch cubes.

Make a cream sauce of 1½ cups hot milk stirred into 3 tablespons melted butter blended with 3 tablespoons flour. Add about ½ teaspoon salt. To this add the drained cooked vegetables plus 2-3 cup drained canned peas (or green beans). Reheat and serve sprinkled with a little parsley if you have it.

My likes and dislikes are not orthodox for I would serve either baked or scalloped potatoes with cold sliced meat loaf and something like fried parsnips or braised kernel corn.

Meat Loaf Varfations

(1) Soft or 'Spoon" Meat Loaf: To the above recipe for meat loaf add anther ½ cup condensed mushroom soup, and pour a little of it over the top of the loaf when baking. Bake at lower temperature—about 350 deg. Fahr. for 1¼ hours.

(2) Instead of using all beef and suet, use 1½ pounds beef and ½-pound sausage meat or ground shoulder pork.

(3) Instead of using 2 cups soft bread crumbs, use 1 cup soft breadcrumbs and 1 cup cold mashed potatoes, or mashed sweet potatoes.

(4)—Steamed Meat Loaves are a novelty because they may be made ahead of time and reheated: Have the butcher put through his food chopper, ¾-pound veal, ¼-pound lean pork from shank, ½-pound smoke ham or bacon from the "heel". Add 1 beaten egg, 1 teaspon salt, 1¼ cups milk, and 1 tablesopon lemon juice. Put in greased covered tins and steam 3 hours with water coming ¾ way up sides of tins. Let stand 5 minutes before tipping out and serve with tomato sauce and creamed cauliflower or cabbage.

IF BABY IS CROSS FIND OUT WHY

HEALTHY BABIES are not cross. Your baby should not be cross. If he is, then something in his little system is "out of order." Probably Baby's Own Tablets can promptly "put it right." Mrs. H——, of Fenelon Falls, had the experience. She writes: "My little girl was irritable, feverish and sometimes sick at her stomach—what a relief it was, after giving her Baby's Own Tablets, to see how much better she was."

Sweet-tasting—easily crushed to a powder, if desired. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Promptly effective in simple fevers, constipation, teething troubles, upset stomach and other minor ills.

Never be without a full box of Baby's Own Tablets. Sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

Slim Silhouette Popular For California Spring Wear

CULVER CITY, Jan. 22—Irene, well known California designer, has just presented her first collection in her own establishment. While she is working independently in her own business she will continue to design for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, with whom she has been associated for some years.

Regarding her collection, she said: "This silhouette for spring is the slimmest in years. Out of overdone fullness has emerged a lady of quality and elegance. Skirts are so slim and long and shoulders so proudly normal that they will take a bit of wearing. Figures must be kept as never before. It is not a casual look nor an easy one. It is a well-bred season which can never be reached by extremities of fashion."

This attitude is clearly defined in the 50 costumes presented where restrained drapes, slim skirts and hemlines are of major importance. Suits, a great forte with her, are made of exclusive woollens for day and stressed importantly for dinner and theatre wear in luxury silks in new uneven lengths. In these latter, jackets or stole scarves when removed reveal decollette bodices upheld by shoestring shoulder strapes.

Suits are flat in back with varied front interpretations of restained hip fullness, hemlines shorter than in back, intriguing necklines which use pique in flattering feminine collars above high-buttoned jackets.

Lapels and wide collars are noticeably wider and in one instance double, the inner collar up softly around the throat. Woollen suit shoulders have slight pads and slim sleeves cut almost to the knuckle, slit on the outside seam and turned back making degage cuffs. Jackets are about three inches below the wrist.

Suit skirts for day are midway to the ankle and so narrow that slashes front, back or sides are necessary. Hip interest is manifest in jackets which have small pleats, inverted godets and slight gathers placed in front of the hipbone to maintain a slim-looking silhouette, points and cut-outs revealing the blouse. The unflared box jacket is shown in black wool with black and white checked shawl collar mated with a checked vest and white crepe blouse. An afternoon version of this theme has a high swirled collar, buttons across the chest, like a square yoke, and is cut away in front over a pink-tucked white blouse.

Soft dresses employ subdued prints, soft colors and new polka dot arrangements. These dresses also subscribe to straight backs with front or side controlled draping and hems that reach the ankle in black and are about six inches shorter in front.

The diagonal line is apparent achieving this silhouette that shows ankles to the best advantage. Tunic length peplums in shallow knife pleats all around are an exception to the uneven look shoulders are unpadded and the brief shouldercap sleeve is a favorite especially with low wide necks and shallow bertha collars

Hello Folks!

"An important part of my diet ever since my first bottle has been Crown Brand Corn Syrup. Now, that may be all right for a little character like myself, but let me tell you, these grown-ups sure are lucky what with Mom serving them Crown Brand Corn Syrup with so many of their dishes. And she uses it in her baking, too, as a sweetener. I can hardly wait until I'm old enough to have some hot waffles or pancakes smothered with delicious Crown Brand. If it's as good as it is in my cereal—mmmmm!"

For years doctors have recommended the use of Crown Brand Corn Syrup as a satisfactory carbohydrate acting as a milk modifier for bottle-fed infants.
